Most County Farms Set Aside Acreage

About 78 per cent of the eligible farms in Minnesota are enrolled in the 1971 set aside program for feed grain. In the state 98,600 farms are signed. Pennington county has about 90 per cent participation, according to Wallace Sparby, ASCS office manager.

Over 6.7 million acres of corn base acreage or 90 per cent of the state's total eligible corn base of 7.4 million acres are on signed farms. The total state feed grain base includes the corn base and about 4,000 acres of grain sorghum base acres.

Feed grain set aside acreage on enrolled Minnesota farms total over 1.3 million acres.

For the 1971 wheat program, 89 per cent of the eligible farms are enrolled having 92 per cent of the state's eligible wheat allotment acres.

Total farms enrolled in the 1971 wheat program is 42,700. These farms have allotments of 326,300 acres with 245,280 acres of set aside.

"A major reason for the active participation by Minnesota farmers this year is the new decision-making freedom offered farmers in the 1971 set aside programs," said Alvin Payne, chairman of the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

"Under the new law, a farmer sets aside his share of the national land diversion required to prevent overproduction, after which he can plant his remaining acres to almost any crops he chooses. I might point out that this concept requires the U.S. department of agriculture to come to a decision each year as to the amount of set-aside needed in the interest of national acreage adjustment for each crop," he said.

The ASC committee chairman commented that these national decisions are very important to farmers and, once made, are not easily reversed. Because they are such momentous decisions, he said, recent remarks by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence O. Palmby were most interesting since they told of the background for the USDA farm program decisions.

Mr Palmby said:

"In considering set-aside percentages for 1971 crops, we had to take into account the need for adequate supplies of wheat, feed grains, and cotton—and of those other commodities such as soybeans which would be affected less directly. At the same time, we wanted to protect the market penetration that we have achieved for our major export crops.

"We wished moreover to avoid creating a serious oversupply of any major crop—a situation that would depress prices and create expensive problems of surplus management and disposition.

"These various factors were particularly difficult to judge in light of the southern corn leaf blight, and the uncertainty that this fungus has introduced into American agriculture. Nevertheless, we issued last December 8 a tentative announcement of set-asides for wheat, feed grains, and upland cotton. These were based on preliminary estimates of acreage required to meet domestic and export needs.

"Following this, the department conducted a preliminary survey of planting intentions in late January. With this report in hand, we determined that our preliminary estimates seemed to be satisfactory.

"The set-asides announced were 20 per cent for feed grain and upland cotton and 75 per cent for wheat.

"The set-aside programs are in line with administration policy of expanding the use of farm commodities—as the best and most profitable means of dealing with our ability to overproduce. They are consistent with decisions made the past two years to move commodities into market rather than into government hands.

All of the major grain crops, plus soybeans and cotton, are benefitting from this policy. In soybeans, for example, we harvested 42.4 million acres in 1970 and expect to disappear the harvest of 48.3 million acres—a difference of 5.9 million acres in favor of use. In corn, we harvested 57.4 million acres and [illegible] to utilize at home and abroad the production of 62.5 million acres.

"If you total wheat, cotton, soybeans, and the four major feed grains, you will find that the total expected disappearance exceeds the harvest by some 21 to 22 million acres. It is true that lower corn yields contributed to the increased acreage use figure. But in general the increased disappearance is a measure of acreage adjustment accomplished, and income returned to farmers. This is a contribution to current farmer income—as opposed to the borrowing against future income which occurs when overproduction results in expanded government takeovers.

Men's Softball Meeting Wed.

An organizational meeting night has been set for Wednesday, May 12, at 8 p.m. in the office of the Park and Recreation Dept., in the City Auditorium. All men interested in Slow-Pitch softball are urged to attend.

Pitch, Hit, And Throw Contests Begin May 22

[illegible] portunity coming up for them in this area, with the Pitch, Hit and Throw competition slated to begin on May 22.

Pitch, Hit and Throw is a series of eliminations culminating in a trip to the 1971 major league All-Star Game in Detroit, July 13!

Registrations are going on right now, with blanks available at most area schools, Metropolitan Stadium and any of the many Phillips '66' stations throughout the Upper Midwest. The completed registration blanks should then be turned in at a Phillips '66' station, with entrants to be accompanied by a parent or guardian. At that time, each entrant will receive the special PH & T Tips booklet and information on where preliminary competition will be held in his area.

Finalists of the six-state area in the north central part of the country will compete for the right to make the trip to the national finals at the All-Star Game by means of the area finals to be held at Metropolitan Stadium on Sunday, June 27, prior to the Twins-Milwaukee Doubleheader here that day.

In Pitch, Hit and Throw, which has the official sanction of baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, boys compete against others of the same age (ages determined as of August 1) in pitching, hitting and throwing (for accuracy rather than distance).

All participants will receive jacket patches carrying the Pitch, Hit and Throw emblem. Winners and runners-up in the local, district and division competition will receive plaques, as well. National winners and runners-up, besides getting the trip to the finals at the All-Star Game, will receive beautiful trophies, and their parents will get to accompany them to the All-Star Game!

In 1970, first year of Pitch, Hit and Throw competition, over 250,000 boys competed, with that number expected to double in 1971.

Dr. James Leigh, University of North Dakota hockey team physician, played the ice sport at UND while an undergraduate in 1945-46.

WITH WIGS REMOVED, the Cub Scouts of Winnipeg's Seven Oaks unit looked much more like little boys than fashion models. The fashion shows staged by the Cubs drew snickers, giggles, chortles and guffaws from the crowd attending the Boy Scout exposition at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls Sunday.

Boating Advice Given To Anglers

With thousands of Minnesota anglers getting ready to open the summer fishing season on May 15, Bill Severson, outdoor safety specialist with the Department of Natural Resources, outlined today some of the boat safety problems encountered by fishermen.

Pointing out that boating accidents have doubled during the past six years, Severson said that capsizing, sinking and falling overboard lead the list of accidents and that fishermen are particularly vulnerable to these causes.

He offered anglers the following safety tips:

(1) It's a long fishing season; stay off the lake in bad weather.

(2) Have a life vest or buoyant cushion for each passenger.

(3) Don't over load or overpower the boat.

(4) Small boats on large lakes spell trouble.

(5) Make sure boat is in seaworthy shape, check for loose rivets, rotten wood and fractured fiberglass.

(6) Beware of submerged rocks and other obstacles in unfamiliar waters.

(7) Avoid standing up to net or land fish, it isn't necessary.

(8) The anchor should be pulled in from a sitting position.

Severson added that many walleye anglers like to fish at night and will be out on the water when the season opens at midnight May 15.

"Night fishing presents special hazards such as collisions, running aground and inability to see oncoming weather fronts," he said.

"Extra care is needed, including the use of lights to warn others of your presence on the water."

Prowlers Rally For Wins At Warroad & Roseau

Sophomore Tom Hanson's bat and a couple of fine pitching performances by Brian Peterson and Pete Sullivan led the Prowler baseball team to a sweep of a Saturday split double header at Warroad and Roseau.

The two victories on Saturday plus a 3-0 blanking of Fosston last Wednesday gives the Lincoln nine a 5-2 record for the year with their next action scheduled for tomorrow night (Tuesday) at Crookston.

Hanson, playing second base at Warroad and in the outfield at Roseau, collected six hits out of eight appearances at the plate to lead the Prowlers who had to battle back in both games to win in extra innings.

The Prowlers defeated a strong Roseau club 4-3 in eight innings after a 3-2 win over Warroad, also in eight innings.

Ralph Skay's club received two complete game performances by sophomore left hander Pete Sullivan against Roseau and by senior right hander Brian Peterson against the Warriors, who were ranked number twenty in the first poll of the season.

In Saturday's first game at Warroad hard throwing right hander Alan Hangsleben made it look like it was going to be a long afternoon for the Prowlers as he struck out the side while the Warriors jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on three hits, one by Hangsleben.

The Prowlers came back to tie the contest one-all in the top of the second inning with a full-count walk to third baseman Dale Hanson and Tom Hanson's first hit, a hard single into centerfield putting runners on first and third with no outs.

Mike Hamerlinck, senior first baseman, fouled out before Tom Hanson stole second and Dale Hanson scored from third when the throw to second base went into the outfield.

Warroad went back in front 2-1 in the bottom of the third before the Prowlers managed to tie the contest 2-2 in their half of the fourth when Tom Hanson doubled and scored on an error when the Warriors tried to tag Hanson at third on a ball hit by Hamerlinck.

The Prowlers' Brian Peterson faced just fifteen Warroad batters in the final five innings, giving up one hit and retiring the side in order in the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth while the Prowlers erased the only Warroad baserunner on a double play.

The Prowlers had baserunners almost every inning before they cashed in their chips in the eighth with a walk to Dale Hanson and a sacrifice bunt by Tom Hanson. Hamerlinck stroked a hard single into left field to score Hanson from second base for a 3-2 Prowler lead as Peterson retired the Warriors on two ground balls and a line drive to second to end the game.

Each team collected six hits but the Warriors were guilty of three errors while the Prowlers played perfect defensive ball.

Tom Hanson was again the batting hero in the second game at Roseau with a four for five performance as the Prowlers came back to score two runs with two outs in the seventh inning to tie the game.

With Roseau in front 3-1 and two outs, the Prowlers had runners on second and third in the seventh, Pete Sullivan singled to left to score Brian Peterson and Rob Almquist singled to left-center to drive in the singling Mike Hamerlinck from third to tie the game at 3-3.

The Prowlers ended the game with a short to second to first double play against the Rams.

Thief River Falls got off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Tom Hanson's lead-off single, a wild pitch and an error at short. The Rams went in front 2-1 in the third inning and 3-1 in the bottom of the fourth off Sullivan before the Prowlers got to righthander Tim Delmore in the seventh and eighth innings.

The Prowlers collected twelve hits off Delmore, including a three for three performance by Mike Hamerlinck while the Rams managed to poke eight hits off Sullivan.

Junior righthander Mike Hamilton checked Fosston on just three hits Wednesday as the Prowlers blanked the Greyhounds 3-0. Hamilton went the full seven innings and struck out nine while walking just three batters.

Hamilton also led the Prowler offensive attack with a two for three performance at the plate while sophomore catcher Oedean Peterson supplied two hits out of four trips to the plate.

The Prowlers scored once in the fourth, sixth and seventh inning for their three runs. Thief River Falls had several opportunities to break the game open in the top of the seventh inning but failed to capitalize and settled for one run.

Each team committed one error during the game which was postponed from Tuesday to Wednesday afternoon because of wet grounds at Fosston.

The Prowlers will host Warroad in a 5 p.m. game Wednesday evening on the fairgrounds diamond in their next home action.

A scheduled game against the Bemidji Lumberjacks was called off Friday because of rain and wet grounds at the Prowlers' ball park and has been re-scheduled as part of a doubleheader at Thief River Falls Thursday, May 13, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

TRF Thinclads Set Season Highs Sat.

Three individuals and a relay team recorded their best performances of the season Saturday for the Lincoln high school track squad in the Beaver Relays at Bemidji as the Prowlers scored 11 points in the large field.

International Falls won the team title with 38½ points while Crookston finished a close second with 36½ and Moorhead was third.

The Prowlers' sprint medley relay team of Rob Swenson, Markoe Hanson, Mike Fitzgerald and Don Reierson set a new school record with a time of 3:46, good for third place in the meet. The old record of 3:56.5 was set last season.

Swenson raced to his best time of the year in the 100-yard dash with a 10.6 clocking. The junior speedster finished fifth in the meet.

Milers Kim Murphy and Greg Bulger each ran their fastest mile of the season Saturday with Murphy finished with a 4:40 and second place while Bulger ran a 4:48, good for fifth place.

Sophomore Jon Wangberg was timed at 16.5 in the 120-yard high hurdles to finish in fourth place to round out the Prowler scoring.

The Prowlers will take part in the Northwest Conference meet tomorrow (Tuesday) at East Grand Forks with Bemidji, Crookston, Roseau, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls taking part.

Prowler coach Jim Sims rates the Pirates as the conference favorite with their strong showing at Bemidji last week. The Prowlers will be without the services of a number of performers and are keeping their fingers crossed that sophomore sprinter Markoe Hanson will be recovered from a leg injury which hampered his performance at Bemidji.

The Northwest meet will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue all day.

Netmen Hand Pirates 7-2 Setback

Lincoln high school tennis fortunes continued to look bright last week as the Prowler netters dropped district 31 foe Crookston 7-2 on the Lincoln courts Friday afternoon.

Crookston's Bob Menzhuber accounted for his team's only points of the match in the number one singles with 6-0 and 6-4 games over the Prowlers' Gordy Prichard.

Mark Liden defeated Brandt Reichert 7-5 and 6-1 in the number two singles while Tom Nepper downed Mike Wilkens of Crookston in three sets, 3-6, 6-4 and 6-2.

Mark Thyren and Stuart Waltonen defeated Mark LaPlante and Pat Shanahan 6-4, 6-4 in the doubles match for the Prowlers.

In exhibition matches, the Prowlers' Greg Knutson and Gordy DeLap defeated Dillenburg and Krogstad of Crookston 6-1 and 6-1 while Lincoln's Jeff Wendt dropped Dahlberg 6-4 and 6-1 and Scott Stuart downed Crookston's Wickow in three sets, 2-6, 6-2 and 6-0 in singles action.

The Prowlers travel to Grand Forks Red River today (Monday) and to East Grand Forks Thursday while the B squad will see action at home against Mahnomen on Wednesday beginning at 3 p.m.

Jay Gustafson, University of North Dakota quarterback, is the son of former Nodak grid letterman Jim Gustafson, head football coach at Albert Lea, Minn., high school.

Fishing Season Opener Is May 15

Minnesota's summer fishing season for walleyes, northerns and muskellunge on inland and Minnesota-Canada boundary waters opens May 15, the Department of Natural Resources reminded today.

The Department noted that some "hot spots" which usually produce good fishing will be closed when the season opens Saturday to protect concentrations of spawning walleyes.

The opening will be delayed until May 22 in the Sea Gull River, Cook county from Gull Lake to the upper border falls and the Cross River from Gunflint Lake to the Gunflint Trail.

The opening will be delayed until May 29 in Black Bay of Rainy Lake in St. Louis and Koochiching counties, south of a line between Four Winds Resort on the west side of the Bay and Perry point on the east, also all of the Rat Root River and Rat Root Lake in Koochiching county from Highway 53 at Ericsburg to Black Bay.

Although the bass season will not open state wide until May 29, a portion of Northeastern Minnesota will be opening May 15. The area open is described in the fishing synopsis on page 17.

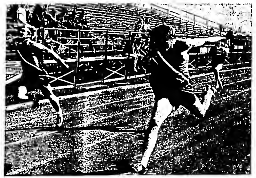
Limits remain much the same as recent previous years: northern pike-3, walleye-6, muskellunge-1, bass-6.

Trail Sponsors Soap Box Derby On July Fourth

Trail community club will again sponsor a soap box derby in conjunction with community Fourth of July celebrations this year, according to Albert Aaknes, who will be in charge. Information or kits to build the cars can be obtained from him.

Entry rules are that wheels are not to be over 12 inches in diameter; there must be a floor in the car; brothers and sister can ride the same car; classes will be from four to nine years old and from nine to 14 years old; winners will be judged by speed, and only children of the owner will be eligible for prizes.

Other events of the day will include a kiddie parade, street games, a bowery dance and a large display of fireworks.



SOPHOMORE SPRINTER Markoe Hanson stretches as he crosses the finish line ahead of teammate Rob Swenson in Thursday's dual track meet against Roseau on the Prowler athletic field. Hanson was again a double winner in the 100 and 220-yard dashes to score ten of the Prowlers' 105 points. Best times turned in by Hanson this season include a 10.4 clocking in the 105 and a 22.5 for the 220. Next action for the Prowler trackmen will be tomorrow (Tuesday) when the Northwest Conference meet will be held at East Grand Forks.

Trap Club Opens Season Tonight

Thief River Trap Club will begin league shooting tonight (Monday) at the club's shooting range beginning at 5:30 p.m.

TRF Hosts Junior Bowling Tourney

Thief River Falls junior bowling tournament received 96 entries for their recent tourney at Family Bowl with teams from Warren, Thief River Falls, Crookston and Bemidji taking part.

Rick Kalinoski and Jon Mostrom of Thief River Falls placed first and second in the boy's senior division with Kalinoski rolling a 629 series and Mostrom a 603. Chris Dgaard of Crookston was third in the senior division with a 509 series.

Doug Bergman of Thief River Falls was the top bowler in the boy's junior division with a 565. John Heinen of Crookston rolled a 545 to finish second and Bill Evenson of Thief River Falls bowled a 556 series for third.

In the boy's bantam division Chuck White of Thief River Falls rolled a 647 for first place while Jim White, also of Thief River Falls, scored a 545 and Kent Bahr of Bemidji rolled a 510.

Cathy Miller and Patsy Brule of Crookston rolled a 539 and 531 to finish first and second in the girl's senior division. Joy Aasgne of Thief River Falls was the number one junior division girl with a 598 series.

Joleen DuChamp and Lori Bjorgaard of Thief River Falls placed first and third in the girl's bantam competition with series scores of 568 and 500.

MCC Nordics Drop Roseau Rams 5-2

Newfolden scored three runs in the top of the ninth inning Saturday to drop the Roseau Rams 5-2 and up their season record to 6-1.

Ron Voth walked to start out the ninth inning for the Nordics and went to second on a passed ball while Bruce Ueland also walked. The Nordic's third batter, Dave Halverson, bunted and the throw to third went wide and into left field scoring Voth from second.

Byron Stokke's sacrifice fly scored Ueland and Tom McCauley grounded to the pitcher but a run scored for the 5-2 lead.

Winning pitcher Marlin Bjornrud retired the Rams in order in the ninth.

The Nordics clobbered Strandquist 31-3 Wednesday behind Bjornrud's three-hit pitching and the Nordic's 19-hit attack. Strandquist committed 12 errors in the ball game.

The Nordics split a double header with Argyle Thursday afternoon at the Eagles home field, winning the first game 16-3 but losing the second contest 5-0.

Donovan Nelson picked up the win in the first game for the Nordics with a three-hitter with McCauley losing the second game although he gave up just four hits.

Next action for the Nordics will be at Argyle on Friday, May 7.

Anglers Warned On BWCA Rules

With the start of the summer fishing season set for May 15, Minnesota anglers were reminded today of the new regulations in effect within the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

Donald Fultz, director of enforcement for the Department of Natural Resources, said the ban on possession of nonburnable food and beverage containers went into effect May 1.

Fultz also pointed out that the ban on storage of boats, motors and equipment within the BWCA goes into effect on state lands May 15.

Fultz said the regulations in effect on state lands conform with those in force on federal lands within the area.

PLAY BY PLAY ON SPORTS

with Mike Lundgren

Lincoln high school senior Dale Hanson has informed Northland state junior college basketball coach Chet Engelman he intends to enroll at Northland next year and will compete on the school's basketball team.

Engelman plans to use the 6-4 cager at a guard position next winter. Hanson played up front as a forward last season with the Prowlers.

Hanson averaged 19.6 points per game for Whitey Olson's Prowlers in 1971 while being named to the Big Five All-Conference squad. In 18 games last year Hanson scored 352 points, averaged 11.1 rebounds per game and shot 50.8 per cent from the field.

Joining Hanson at Northland next season will be Stan Leach of East Grand Forks. Leach saw extensive starting duty with last year's class A consolation winner after Kurt Knoff was injured early in the season. Leach scored 139 points in 18 games for the Green Wave in 1971.

The Northland basketball team won just three games in the 1971 season.

Sheldon Joppru and Dana Stromberg, 1969 graduates of Lincoln high school, were both listed as starting split ends for the annual University of North Dakota intra-squad game played last Saturday in Grand Forks.

Joppru, a starter last season as a sophomore, was the wide receiver for the green, or starting, offensive squad while Stromberg was the number one receiver for the whites.

Jim Sims' Lincoln high school track squad was dealt a couple of severe blows last week when they lost Jeff Rhoden and Paul Battleson.

Battleson, the team's captain, is suffering from bronchitis and his return in time for the District 31 meet at the University of North Dakota track May 22 is doubtful. The junior was used in the relay events and was the squad's top 880 performer, having turned in the region's top time of 2:04.3 in the event this season.

Rhoden was the team's number one high jumper as a sophomore until he was involved in an auto accident last week.

Simas plans to do some juggling with his line-up in hopes of staying with the Crookston Pirates who look to be the favorite in the district at this time.

The Prowlers will run in the Northwest Conference meet with Bemidji, Crookston, Roseau and East Grand Forks tomorrow (Tuesday) at "East Side" and will run against East Grand Forks and Crookston in a triangular at East Grand Forks on Thursday. On Tuesday, May 18, the Prowlers will compete in the Dragon Outdoor meet at Moorhead before running for district honors on the 22nd. The region eight meet will be held the following Saturday, May 29, at Bemidji.

Thief River Falls will host a pre-season football jamboree involving four teams next season.

Fosston, Warren, Fargo North and the Prowlers will play one series of offensive plays against each other on the Prowler athletic field August 28, 1971.

The jamboree will be one week before the Prowlers will open their 1971 gridiron season at Dilworth.

Football coach Jim Sims is working to get Fargo North on the Prowlers' schedule on a home-and-home basis for 1972 and 1973.

North will schedule the Prowlers if the Bruins fail to get Moorhead on their schedule while Moorhead will schedule the Bruines only if they can't schedule Edina.

If the Prowlers played North it would present a schedule of Dilworth, Detroit Lakes, Fargo North, Bemidji, East Grand Forks, Park Rapids, Roseau and Crookston, with a possible play-off game against the winner of the Heart O' Lakes conference champion.

Prowlers Club Ram Trackmen

Thief River Falls completely dominated the running events Thursday afternoon against the Roseau Rams to buy the visitors 105-27 in a dual track meet on the Prowler athletic field.

The Rams managed to place just one individual in the running events, two miler Jeff Larson, to score only five points while the Prowlers rolled up 82 points in the first eleven heats.

Roseau's Don Olson placed first in the high jump and pole vault and second in the long jump to up the Rams total points to 27.

Junior Rande Smith of the Prowlers was the meet's high point individual with three first place finishes for 15 points. Jon Wangberg and Markoe Hanson, a pair of sophomores, each collected two first place finishes for the Prowlers.

Smith placed first in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:12.7, first in the shot with a heave of 42' 8½", and first in the long jump with a leap of 18' 6".

How to enjoy the natural wonders of the Great Outdoors now implies the need to know how to conserve them. This Special Section is dedicated to helping you do both.

Recreational Vehicles Offer Family Wide Choice

Photo Inventory

Before setting forth on your camping trip, assemble all your gear for a picture. A photo inventory won't stop you from losing something, but it's a good way not to leave things behind when you move on. Simply check the photo to see if you have everything. A photo inventory can also come in handy when filing an insurance claim for lost or stolen equipment.

The Extra Picture

A photo represents a frozen moment in time. If something is worth one click of a Kodak Instamatic camera, it's worth two. Be on the safe side. Remember, nothing is easier to take than that extra picture, yet nothing is harder to replace.

No matter what the size of your family, whether you're a weekend camper, a hunter, fisherman, or plan an extended vacation in the Great Outdoors, International Harvester offers a recreational vehicle especially for you.

Today's Scout All-Wheel Drive sport/utility vehicles, camper pickups, trailer-towing Travelall Wagons, and motor homes will get you there in the style you choose.

International Harvester is one of the foremost motor vehicle manufacturers for the recreational market. Based on years of experience in providing families with recreational vehicles, IH offers the following guide to selecting the vehicle that's right you:

For the small family, the limited budget, or the short stay in the Great Outdoors, choose a pickup such as the 1110, fitted with a "shell" or "poncho" top consisting of a simple weatherproof cover over the pickup bed.

Sleeps Six

For heavier duty, or for carrying a full-scale camper insert that can sleep six with kitchen and bathroom facilities, choose a heavier-rated pickup such as the 1210 with camper package.

For trailering with one of today's big, roomy travel trailers, IH recommends the 1210 Travelall wagon, which offers seating for six or nine, plenty of space for carrying outboard motors and other gear that you might not want in your trailer, and when equipped with IH's trailer-towing package has the unique ability to tow up to five tons of trailer.

For those who desire a touch of luxury, both pickups and Travelalls can be selected with passenger-car comfort features such as bucket seats, carpeting, AM-FM radio, air conditioning, and color-coordinated interiors.

Pickups and Travelalls also offer power brakes and steering, and automatic transmissions especially designed for camper and trailer use.

All Wheel Drive

All-Wheel drive is available in pickups and Travelalls for the family that wants to reach off-road spots.

Also offered with All-Wheel drive is IH's famous Scout 100" wheelbase go-anywhere vehicle. When so equipped, the Scout can pull a pop-up or tent trailer, and carry a hunting or fishing party, while exploring terrain far off the beaten path. Roof luggage racks, hard or soft tops, bucket seat, carpeting, AM-FM radios, automatic transmission, three engine choices, mechanical or electric winches, and a host of other choices make a vehicle such as the Scout an extremely versatile recreational vehicle for the small group.

The ultimate in self-contained luxury recreation is the motor home. Manufactured by many builders, motor homes in a variety of sizes and interior features are becoming increasingly popular with families that enjoy extended travel.

Control Patio Climate

Modern gas infrared heaters now make it possible to control the climate on your patio!

The heaters, which operate by imitating the sun, transmit a special infrared heat wave. The wave passes directly through the air without warming it; however, once it comes into contact with a solid object, that object is warmed.

Since the air around a patio and pool doesn't absorb the heat and let it drift away, it isn't necessary to warm large open spaces at high costs. In fact, depending on local gas rates, it generally costs between 2c - 4c an hour to operate a gas patio heater.

According to the American Gas Association, infrared gas heaters operate effectively even in freezing temperatures. They come in a variety of styles, and may be mounted on a post, wall, ceiling or roof. The most popular style, A.G.A. reports, is a combination infrared heater and gaslight.

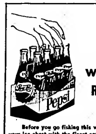
Usually, a minimum of two patio heaters are installed, so that people are bracketed between them. When the heaters are stationary, they are supplied by natural gas extended from the house. Portable gas heaters, operating on LP gas, are also available.

AERIAL HIGHWAY

With the sophistication of the modern "aerial highway" system, navigation — getting from here to there — has become a simple matter for everyone who flies.

HOW ABOUT THIS!

Did you know that it would take you about 95 years to visit all of our National Forests and enjoy their recreation opportunities, natural wonders, scenery and historical sites? And that's even if you spent the entire year camping, staying at each campground just for a week!



FILL YOUR COOLER WITH COOL REFRESHMENT

World's Largest Fishing Contest Offers Prizes

New incentives—34 new incentives—have been added to the 19th Annual World's Largest Fishing Contest sponsored by the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press newspapers. They are the two additional weekly Sweepstakes prizes any size fish can win.

The regular weekly Sweepstakes prizes (with an average value of $200 each) are 7½ hp Mercury outboard motors, Aluma Craft fishing boats and canoes, four Northernaire Floating Lodge vacations for four people each and Spartan 500 trailers.

This year two more lucky fishermen, women or children will be Sweepstakes prize winners each week. The prizes will be Vexilar electronic Fish Scout depth finders. And any size fish, regardless of size, is eligible to win these extra two-a-week Sweepstakes prizes.

With the addition of these 34 new needle-reading sonar units, the prize money in this year's Contest reaches a new all-time high of more than $22,000 in prizes.

More than four-and-one-half thousand dollars worth of Mercury outboard motors (11 in all) lead the list of prizes. The largest single prize worth over $1,000.00, is the complete fishermen's package including a 20 hp Mercury and a year's supply of Kiekhaefer Quicksilver Formula 50 motor oil, an Aluma Craft 14 foot F-7 fishing boat and a Spartan 800 trailer. Every fish entered in the Contest will be eligible for that prize in the final Sweepstakes drawing.

Two other complete fisherman's packages in the Sweepstakes drawings - a 7½ hp Mercury and a year's supply of Kiekhaefer Quicksilver Formula 50 motor oil, a 12-foot Aluma Craft EZ fishing boat and a Spartan 500 trailer will be the regular 15th and 16th weeks prizes.

As in past years, a first prize muskie package and first, second and third prize packages for northern, walleye, crappie, sunfish and bass, plus two honorable mentions, will be awarded each of the seventeen weeks. The Contest opens Saturday, May 15, and closes midnight Sunday, September 12.

These weekly prizes will consist of True Temper Uni Spin rod and reel combination, Gapen Tackle Company fillet knives and lures, Johnson rods and reels, Roger Preuss Wildlife of America prints, Grip-O-Anchors, Water Gremlin Sinker selections, Perrine automatic fly reels and other Perrine products, Mille Lacs "Little Joe" tackle, Wisconsin Indian Head Country Vacation Guides, Newlon Lines, Minnesota Outdoors Vacation and Travel Guides and dozens of Cisco Kid lures.

In addition to the $22,000 in merchandise to be given away, more than four hundred and seventy-five fishermen will receive personalized, hand-lettered Champion Award certificates bordered in gold, suitable for framing. A like number of resorts, bait shops, boat landings and sport shops will receive similar Big Fish Headquarters certificates.

Official entry blanks—which must be used—list all the rules on the back of each blank. They may be obtained at most resorts, sport shops, boat liveries and bait shops.

To be eligible, fish must be legally caught in Minnesota, its boundary waters, or any of the 23 western Wisconsin counties listed on the back of each entry PLUS Price county, Wisconsin, which was added to the area this year but inadvertently left off the blank.

Judges of the Contest recommend that fishermen get their entry blanks before they go fishing. The blanks must be filled out completely and double checked by the entrant and both witnesses to the weighing and measuring of the fish. Any omissions will disqualify the entry.

Individuals may enter as often as they wish, but only one entry per fish. No more than one member of an immediate family will be eligible for a weekly merchandise prize.

Hunting Handbook Is Now Available

The "Winchester Hunter's Handbook, 1970-71" is currently available from Winchester Press, 460 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. This informative 192-page book contains a wealth of useful ballistic and shooting data, including material on shotshell, rim fire and center fire ballistics, specifications on chokes, scopes and shot sizes, range tables for sighting in, cartridge recommendations for various game and a glossary of shooting terms, plus hunting information and game regulations for 50 states and Canada. Single copies are $1.95 and copies in quantity are available at discount rates.

Campers Can Show Way to Keep Land Beautiful

They Must Take Lead, Says Expert Offering Advice On How To Help Conserve Nature's Gifts

Ask any camper — camping is the finest kind of outdoor fun. To think it might be threatened by careless use of our environment is a sobering thought. Will our children have to forego the shimmering beauty of the desert, the peace and solitude of a mountain pass, the discovery of an isolated stretch of beach? Or will they be preserved and kept intact for future generations to enjoy?

"The answer depends in part on today's campers," according to Jack Hamilton, camping expert at the Thermos Division of King-Seeley Thermos Co., the company whose vacuumware and outdoor living products are so familiar to those who relish the great outdoors.

"Although government and private industry are taking corrective measures to rectify our environmental oversights, the task should be a personal one to assure real success. Each one of us should be committed actively to curing the ills of our littered, polluted and scarred land.

"Campers have a special stake in keeping America beautiful. They know its recreational potential and, as concerned citizens, they can help assure that this heritage will not be forfeited.

"Individually and collectively, they can lead the way in changing careless attitudes about littering and pollution. If every camper set a good example, the result could be an unspoiled countryside instead of a desecrated landscape."

A good start on environmental concern is the journey to camp. The evils of being a litterbug should be stressed to children. This might take the form of a game for youngsters — drawing their version of a litterbug to keep them occupied en route.

Grownups, too, should be reminded that a litterbag in the car is the place to stash empty beverage containers, cigarette stubs and wrappings, etc. rather than leaving a wake of trash along the roadside.

Once at your destination, be considerate of your neighbors if you've chosen a public campground. Keep your conversation low and your radio turned down after bedtime. Arrange your camp lanterns so they don't shine into neighboring tents or invade the privacy of others.

To avoid being a litterbug, the scourge of the camping world, knowing campers set up their own convenient receptacle by supporting a plastic trash can liner on four forked sticks driven into the ground, to provide support for the cross bars.

Dispose of it at the designated trash area if you're in a developed campground. Otherwise, leash it above ground at night so animals won't be attracted to it. When you leave the campsite, take it with you and dispose of it at home.

As any husband knows, the lady of the house — or in this case, the tent — brings along everything but the kitchen sink on a camping trip. So what about dishwashing in camp? Unwashed dishes and vestiges of food from the last meal are telling signs of a sloppy camper.

You'll find it's time-saving and less of a chore if you heat the water for dishwashing while the family sits down to eat. Then you can tackle the dishes as soon as the meal is over without missing out on any of the fun. Wiping greasy plates and pans with paper towels before washing simplifies cleaning up.

If you've strung any ropes around the camp for washlines, etc., remove them before you strike camp. Leave any wilderness campsite just as natural as possible so the next camper may enjoy it as much as you did.

Slow Down and Live

Campers have a special stake in our country's beauty. They know its recreational potential and can do much to cure the ills of our abused land, especially littering. To keep your own campsite in apple-pie order, you might set up a trash receptacle by driving four forked sticks in square formation. For crossbars, place four sticks in "forks." Support plastic trash liner on frame.

Anglers Over 70 May Buy License For Lifetine

Minnesota anglers 70 years of age or older may purchase a permanent angling license which need never be renewed, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor. The license may be purchased for the regular $4 individual angling license fee from the county auditor's office or the Coast-to-Coast store in Thief River Falls.

Rodekuhr said that persons purchasing the permanent license will be issued a receipt which they can use as a license until they receive their permanent plastic license from the state department of natural resources.

Resident angling license fees this year are $4 for individual, $6 for husband and wife combination. Non-resident fees are $6.50 for individual season license, $3 for individual three-day license and $10 for husband and wife combination season license.

Tents Pop Into Shape

Setting up camp is easy if you have a Thermos Pop-Tent, one of the wonderfully convenient tents that's ready to occupy within two or three minutes after arrival at the campsite. It literally pops into shape and comes in two sizes. The smaller tent is seven feet in diameter and sleeps two. The larger 9-foot model accommodates four.

Large families and campers who like spacious living quarters will find the Prairie Schooner very appealing.

Shaped like the top of a covered wagon from which it got its name, this handsome tent also comes in two sizes.

Take your time, be a little late. It's better than not getting there.

Good Boating Starts With Tip-Top Engine

To a boat owner who has planned an afternoon of water skiing or a fishing trip, there can be nothing more frustrating than a balky outboard engine.

Most outboard owners keep their engines in top tune by following the maintenance recommendations clearly specified in the owners manual. However, the few owners who do experience engine trouble can usually blame no one but themselves. According to marina operators and service technicians most outboard trouble can be traced to owner neglect.

To insure trouble-free boating, here's a checklist prepared by specialists at Champion Spark Plug Company.

- Periodically check the spark plugs. If they are basically in sound condition, clean and regap them. If they are worn, replace them. It is also a good idea to keep an extra set of plugs on board for emergencies. And don't forget a plug wrench.
- Breaker points should be checked at the same time as the plugs. Make sure they are in good condition and that the gap is adjusted to specifications.
- Ignition wiring that is cracked or broken is another source of trouble. Check the wiring for these troublemakers and also make sure all connections are tight.
- Proper spark timing is a must if the engine is to run efficiently. Check the set against the recommendation in the owners manual.
- The fuel system is another critical area. Make sure all components are clean and in good working order. Replace filters before they become clogged. And accurately measure the gasoline/oil mixture whenever filling the tank. Too little oil can cause overheating, detonation and accelerated wear, while too much oil can result in fouled plugs, loss of power and hard starting.
- Check the gearcase for proper lubricant level.

If you are the owner of a brand new outboard, remember that the breaking-in period is important. Run the engine at about half throttle for the first hour. Every few minutes during this period, open the throttle slowly to full, hold it there for a minute or so, then throttle back to half.

By keeping an eye on that engine, you can eliminate a lot of needless headaches. But no matter how conscientious an owner may be about maintenance, he may experience hard starting at times, due to overchoking. One cause of this malady is when the engine is tilted up for trailering or launching.

Extra fuel may enter the carburetor, so it is a good idea to disconnect the fuel line whenever the engine is not in use. Overchoking can also result when the fuel tank is exposed to the blistering sun which can build up enough pressure in the tank to override the float needle.

By following these suggestions you'll not only have quick starts and smooth running this season, but for many seasons to come.

There's a good chance that if you are reading this you were one of the 44 million who went boating in 1970.

If not, and you're feeling the urge, here, starting at the left, is help in how to join in what the industry calls "the nation's top family sport."

Boating is a big boost to the national economy with nearly 3.5 billion dollars circulating around it.

Participation of retired folks was up 13.3 percent in 1970. Greatest increase came from the middle-aged group —the family group—reports Johnson Motors News Service, a department of the company that makes the Sea Horse line of outboards.

Modern Outboard Motor 'Paragon Of Efficiency' in Pollution Battle

At least two of the major manufacturers of outboard motors are making significant contributions to reducing air and water pollution.

At a recent seminar for the country's top boating writers, it was shown that the modern outboard motor is the paragon of internal combustion efficiency—which means clean exhaust.

Emissions from a Johnson 50 horsepower outboard, as monitored during a one-mile pollution test, amounted to two ounces. That's four tablespoons in a housewife's terminology. To a bartender, it's a shot of booze.

Evidence that outboard motor makers are involved in the environmental fight is shown by appointment this past year of Howard Larson, Outboard Marine Corporation Vice President for Environmental Affairs. OMC is the parent company to the Johnson Motors Division of Waukegan, Illinois.

To find out why fishing is such a fascinating sport, all you have to do is try it.

Fishing—A Sport Everyone Can Enjoy Always

Glen Tredt, of Mankato, Minn., hangs on as a big northern pike leaps furiously at boat-side. Many trophy fish are lost when they make last-minute leaps and lunges just before landing.

Even Blind Inventor of Spin Casting Reel Continues to Be an Active Enthusiastic Angler

Fishing has become so popular today that it is said to be the favorite recreational pastime of some 50,000,000 Americans. Small wonder!

Fishing in both fresh water and salt, for large fish and small, is something everyone can do. Men, women, boys and girls of all ages fish and enjoy it. Strong and healthy people fish, and so do those weak and ill. Rich people fish, and so do the poor. Fishing is for everyone!

Certainly some of the great appeal of fishing is that it can be pursued and enjoyed at any age. One can start fishing shortly after leaving the cradle, and enjoy it throughout life — right up to that moment when the Greatest Fisherman of all beckons.

Many invalid and crippled persons fish successfully, as do some who are blind. Lloyd Johnson, of Mankato, Minn., inventor of the spin-cast reel and Board Chairman of Johnson Reels Co., goes fishing almost every day of the season. He is blind.

"I can't see the fish that I catch," Johnson said recently, "but still I get a big thrill out of fishing. I enjoy the excitement of the bite — wondering what kind of fish I've got and how big it is — and I can feel the fight the fish puts up in the bend of the rod.

"I hear the line sawing through the guides, and that breathtaking splash when the fish leaps.

"And when at last I've got the fish in, and I hold him in my hands, I can 'see' and admire him in my mind's eye. Finally, I enjoy eating fresh-caught fish as much as anyone."

Lucky the fisherman who has a rugged, unbreakable, all-stainless Thermos vacuum bottle for refreshing beverages. For welcome variety, fill vacuum bottle with hot water and pack a supply of instant coffee, tea, hot chocolate or bouillon.

Fishing Can Be Easy or Rigorous

Fishing can be easy.

For the angler who doesn't want to exert himself too much, or for reasons of health must take it easy, there is stillfishing from banks, bridges, piers and breakwaters. He may also stillfish from an anchored or drifting boat, or fish by trolling. In any case all the fisherman need do is hold his rod and wait for a fish to strike.

Fishing can be rigorous

Some fishermen arise long before daybreak and, perhaps, drive a couple hundred miles to a turbulent trout stream. They then spend 10 or 12 hours wading rough water, fighting slippery rocks and sinking mud, and then, worn and weary, drive those same "couple hundred" miles back home.

Still other anglers are willing to fight frantic seas for a day's offshore fishing, and others will tramp swamps and climb mountains for a day of good fishing. Fishing can be about as rugged a sport as one wants to make it, and there are millions of fishermen who like it just that way.

LET HIM GO

When a fish wants to make a run, give him line and let him go. Be certain that the drag on the reel is set properly, then let the fish take line against the tension of the drag. Never try to stop a fish's determined run because the line may break or the hooks pull out.

SAD YARN

Probably more fish are lost while trying to land them than at any other time.

Some Kind of Fishing for Everyone

Fishing can be difficult or simple, it can be exciting or ordinary. It can be easy or rigorous, and it can be cheap or expensive.

For the inquisitive, studious, demanding, perfectionist-type angler there is fly fishing for hard-to-catch brown trout in swift flowing, crystal clear streams.

Such fishing demands not only that the fisherman be a skilled caster, but he must be at least an amateur entomologist knowledgeable of the insects trout feed on, otherwise his selection of artificial flies will be wrong.

For the angler who wants his fishing to be utterly relaxing, requiring little if any application, there's fishing for panfish such as bluegills and crappies or, still better, bank fishing for carp or catfish.

Such fishing does not take much skill — and about all the fisherman need do is dunk his bait in the water. The fish will come, and chances are they'll take the hook.

The fisherman who wants exciting angling — lots of action, with high-jumping, long-running, tough-fighting fish — can find it with tarpon or snook, sailfish or marlin, bonefish or bass. The fisherman who wants "contemplative" angling — with no wild excitement to shatter his daydreaming — can find it with white bass, walleyes, crappies, bluegills, carp, catfish, bullheads and, in salt water, bottom fish such as sea bass and porgies, snappers and grouper.

Hunting-Fishing Trips Are Outdoorsmen's Ideal

Combining Both Gives Maximum Enjoyment

When packing for a hunting trip, most experienced outdoorsmen make a check list to ensure that they are bringing along everything they need for a successful and enjoyable outing. The list usually includes a complete line of camping equipment, outdoor clothing and, of course, their favorite firearms. But, is it complete? Not quite. The smart outdoorsman will also be sure to include his fishing tackle.

Many sportsmen are of the opinion that hunting and fishing are separate seasonal sports and mistakenly store away their fishing gear once the hunting season opens. By doing so, they deprive themselves of the opportunity to get the maximum outdoor enjoyment from their hunting expeditions.

Fine for Fishing

Whatever type of game the hunter is after, chances are his campsite will be pitched on or near water — a stream, river or lake — that will afford fine fishing facilities. And in the fall, when the hunting season begins, weather conditions are often more ideal for fishing than they are during the hot summer months. The cooler, more invigorating water causes the fish to move around more actively and, during this period, they generally feed heavily in preparation for the coming winter.

These conditions are especially suitable to big game hunters who usually limit their hunting to the early morning and late afternoon hours. The "big sky" country, where the deer and the antelope play, is fraught with rivers and streams that are laden with a wide variety of fish. And the best time for taking these fish is during the midday hours when the gunners are relaxing at campsite between their morning and afternoon outings.

Upland Hunters, Too

But, even the upland hunter who spends most of his day out to the field has many opportunities to take advantage of the fishing facilities in his area. After bagging his game and returning to campsite, he can find few better ways of relaxing than testing the local trout fishing with his favorite flyrod.

So, when the next hunting season opens, pack that fishing gear to your hunting bag instead of in the attic.

This big game hunter, having already gotten his trophy, snags a brook trout as his partner returns to camp.

Upland hunters, too, can enjoy a few hours of fishing after coming in from their day in the fields.

Gas Grill Easy To Use and Keep Clean

One of the best things about a modern gas grill, the American Gas Association reports, is that it practically takes care of itself.

To keep your grill clean and sparkling, after each use leave the top open and turn the control to "high" for about 15 minutes to burn the grease drippings from the briquettes.

Clean the grid or rack with hot, sudsy water and rinse it while it is still warm from use. After several uses, turn the briquettes over, and clean the inside of the grill as needed.

This family has discovered how to stretch their vacation time and their dollars. They have created a private vacationland right in their own backyard — and equipped it with a modern gas grill, gas patio heaters and gaslights. Now their vacation fun in the great outdoors lasts most of the year.

Make Vacation Last Longer

Want to make your vacation last longer and cost less this year? You can do it by creating an original outdoor cafe — right in your own back yard.

All it takes to design and equip your cafe is a little imagination, some furnishinge and decorations, and a gas grill for outdoor cooking at its best. You might also want to add the extra touchee of gaslights and gas infrared heaters to make your special part of the great outdoors more enjoyable.

Then, when decorations are complete, why not invite some friends to join you in your outdoor cafe?

Let's Give a Party

For a change of pace, try a Western theme at your next party, and return your guests to the romance of the Western cowboy cooking his meals outdoors. Keep the dress casual, the decorations rustic and the food simple but delicious.

For dress, you might suggest jeans and a comfortable shirt for all. The children will really get into the swing of things if you give them a cowboy hat to wear, and everyone will smile nostalgically if their beverages are served in a tin cup.

Set your table simply. A checkered tablecloth, some colorful napkins, paper or plastic plates; tin cups and wooden serving bowls will all help recreate the days of the old West.

When you are ready to start cooking on your gas grill, all you have to do is turn it on. Since the grill cooks with even, infrared heat, 10 minutes is all the time needed to warm it up.

The delicious smoky flavor that adds so much to outdoor cooking comes from meat drippings as they fall on the permanent briquettes in your gas grill. All you have to do is turn the meat!

For Guaranteed Success

To insure the success of your party, the American Gas Association offers these hints.

Keep it simple — the meat you serve is your main attraction, so limit the other courses and make them easy to prepare.

Plan ahead — and when you do, remember that outdoor dining seems to increase an appetite; be sure you have plenty for all.

Start early — do as much as you c[illegible] before your guests arrive[illegible] way, you'll be free to join in the merriment.

Check your basic equipment — have plenty of the everyday things such as salt, pepper, seasoning, carving knife, cooking utensils, ice, foil, and paper towels.

Gaslights Add Elegance to Patio Living

Think back for a moment to the days when the West was a wild and beautiful land of adventure and excitement — when homes were romantically lit by gaslamps, and men and women walked the streets of their towns with gaslights gently casting a warm and comfortable glow. Times were rough and rugged, but there's no denying that life in those days had an elegance and excitement that's hard to match.

Today, in your own home, you can recreate the best features of these bygone days. You can turn your backyard patio into a Western vacation wonderland which lets you enjoy the great outdoors as it used to be. And, you can do it very inexpensively!

The secret lies in using modern conveniences to create the right mood. No matter what size or shape backyard you have, picture it as it might have looked in the West 100 years ago. Your furniture would have been rustic — a wooden table and chairs or benches — a simple table setting.

And don't overlook the importance of lighting. Try gaslights, styled in rustic early American designs, to recreate the romantic feeling of the past. Let them softly and subtly light your patio just as they would have done when the West was an untamed frontier. If you place one gaslight near your gas grill, and one near your table, you'll find that your patio is gently lit with a romantic elegance reminiscent of early America.

Outdoor Women Lead The Beautiful Life

Outdoor recreation has become as much a woman's activity as a man's. Fishing or hunting trips mean family fun, with Mom playing a key role.

Whether it's guiding the journey from the road map enroute to the campsite or packing fresh caught fish on ice just before heading home, women have become a part of the recreational world.

Where women go, so does make-up. Out of doors, cosmetics take on new importance. They do much more than keep a woman looking her best. They protect skin and face from prolonged exposure to sun, wind, and dampness.

Beauty counselors suggest that make-up requirements be kept to a minimum on a camping trip. However, the campsite make-up kit should have the important basics on hand. Essentials should include, a cleanser, refresher, lubricant and astringent and particular items to suit the individual woman.

Plan the make-up kit before heading campward. Pay particular attention to the area you are headed and take along items that will suit the locale. Desert areas, for example, may require lubricants, while damp areas near seashores or forests will mean an astringent to balance the effects of nature on skin.

Storage for cosmetics is as important as the make-up itself. Many creams and lotions are stored in glass bottles or jars. The rough and tumble of backwoods roads invites trouble in the form of a broken glass container . . . and the loss of an important cosmetic for several days.

Sturdy plastic containers, like Tupperware, provide an ideal solution to cosmetic storage problems. They are rugged enough to stand up to outdoor living and have the special qualities demanded to store make-up.

Air tight containers come in all sizes and shapes for storing make-up items. Tupperware's Marge Feagan says, "Plastic Midgets are ideal for cosmetics. They are small enough to fit into other containers . . . they are air-tight, tough and have see-through seals to pick out what you need at a glance. They keep humidity out of dry powders effectively, dust out of creams and are lightweight for ease in carrying around."

INSTANT BREAKFAST

Mix your pancakes at home and take them along in plastic storage containers. At the campsite, simply pour them onto the sizzling griddle and your breakfast is ready in an instant.

"Backpacking," a U.S. Forest Service Publication, is an excellent guide for the adventurer seeking freedom found in no other type of wilderness travel. The 25-cent, 28-page pamphlet tells you the areas to visit, how to travel, the equipment to take, what to wear, and gives you tips on packing, sanitation, making camp and the

OUTDOOR PROTECTION

Outdoor utility items . . . from shotgun shells to fishing equipment, are always in need of protection from dampness. Plastic storage containers provide a practical answer to a wide variety of utility needs. Seal-tight Tupperware Square Rounds are ideal for keeping dampness . . . and rust . . . away from outdoor gear.

How to Hook, Play, Land Fish

There's more to catching fish than merely getting bites, or strikes. The fish must be hooked right, played right, and, finally, landed right.

The first step to hooking a fish properly is being sure the hook is needle-sharp. Always sharpen hooks carefully before fishing, using a hone or small file. Files are best for sharpening large hooks, such as those used in muskie and saltwater fishing, and hones are best for pointing up small hooks.

In sharpening hooks stroke the file or hone from the barb to the point of the hook, and never stroke from the hook point back towards the barb. Some fishermen mistakenly hone hooks that way, but doing it against the point actually dulls rather than sharpens a hook.

Actually, it isn't easy to hook fish. A fish is seldom hooked solidly unless the angler "sets" the hooks fast and HARD!

Keep your rod tip low and close to the water. When a fish hits, strike back, to "set" the hooks, by whipping the rod sharply upwards. Be careful to keep slack out of the line as much as possible. The more line out, incidentally, the more difficult it is to sink the hooks into a fish's jaw.

Hit back at a striking fish just as hard as you can. The rod and the line will take up much of the shock, and nothing will break.

With certain species of fish it's well to "set" the hooks — that is, "strike" the fish — several times, not just once.

When fighting or "playing" a hooked fish the rod should be held almost vertically most of the time. The rod should be kept in good "bend" so that the fish fights against the natural flex and action of the rod.

Never try to bring a fish to simply by reeling. Instead, use the "pump and reel" system. This way line is recovered, and the fish brought to the angler, by lowering of the rod then raising it in a "pumping" manner.

Always keep a tight line when playing a fish, except when a fish jumps. A fish leaping then falling back and striking a tight line is almost sure to be lost, Tom McNally, internationally famous angler and Angling Consultant to Johnson Reels Co, explains why:

"When a good fish leaps into the air then falls back onto a line that's tight, either the line will be snapped or the hooks pulled out of the fish. When a fish jumps, the skilled angler quickly lowers his rod tip, which puts slack into the line."

Play a fish out completely before striving to land it. A fish is "played out," exhausted, when he rolls over on his side and swims feebly, if at all. Then is the time to land a fish.

Stowaway First Aid

Great adventures out of doors vary for everyone who journeys to the woods and campsites of America. The adventure can range from a leaping, fighting bass to a glimpse of a rare bird seen only by a handful.

Or, the experience can be the sunburned nose, dry chapped lips, and aching cracked hands that sometimes go with the pursuit of adventure.

Going outdoors means having the right precautions to keep comfortable. Even with imaginative planning and the right equipment, you may not completely avoid trouble areas like mosquitoes, red ant bites, or sore muscles. But planning and equipment can go a long way toward easing the discomfort campers encounter.

Sunburn is always a threat. Bring along plenty of lotion, especially for those who are not used to prolonged exposure to the sun. The time to use the lotion is before soaking in those sunny rays!

Almost as important as lotion is shade. A tent or umbrella is great for shelter from the sun.

Should sunburn occur, first aid in the form of an ointment or cream should be available to relieve the pain. Sprays also are handy for wiping out the burning sensation that sunburn brings along with the familiar redness.

Dry lips and hands have plenty of preventatives. Lip balms and sticks are veritable necessities in keeping sun and wind from turning lips dry and cracked. Hand lotion can restore moisture to skin and keep hands ready and willing to keep on with the tasks around the campsite.

Rugged plastic containers like this Stow-N-Go by Tupperware, protect delicate camping equipment, like a Kodak Instamatic camera and film, from the outdoor elements.

Plan ahead on minor medical needs. Take them with you, sealed, ready for instant use.

Weather Near Or Far Away? Radios Keep You Tuned In

Keeping ahead of the whims of "Mother Nature" may make the difference between fun in the sun or a soggy sandwich on your outings.

The National Weather Service has now expanded its operations throughout the nation to bring you 24-hour, year-around weather data to most major cities.

Reception for VHF weather stations comes to a variety of radio models made for the weekend outdoorsman as well as the fully outrigged explorer. Radios like Zenith's Royal 86J Weather Command includes the fixed weather band as well as FM/AM. Then there's the famous Trans-Oceanic Royal 7000 with plug-to weather crystals and 10 land-hopping radio bands.

VHF radios have provided aviators, sailors, campers and fishermen with all the necessary information they need on wind, water conditions, temperatures, visibility, precipitation and most important, incoming weather conditions.

The National Weather Service lists the following stations on the air at the common 162.55 MHz. frequency:

Akron, Atlantic City, Boston, Brownsville, Buffalo, Chicago, Charleston, Corpus Christi, Galveston, Honolulu, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Lake Charles, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Norfolk, Portland (Maine), Portland (Oregon), Sandusky, San Francisco, Seattle, St. Louis, Tampa, and Washington, D.C.

Stations on 162.40 MHz. are Cleveland and New London (Connecticut). Baton Rouge is at 162.45 MHz.

New stations coming on the air this spring on 162.55 MHz. will include: Dallas, Detroit, Erie (Pa), Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Mobile, Monterey, Savannah, San Diego, Sacramento, Wichita, and Wilmington, N.C. The weather service says there are more cities planned for constant weather reports in the future.

Reception distance for most of these stations, depending on individual broadcast equipment and receivers, is up to 40 miles.

Each of the stations, except Baton Rouge, features tone alert capabilities. When a warning of hazardous weather is issued by the Weather Bureau which affects any portion of the station listening area, a tone is transmitted. This assures a positive notice of warning to schools, hospitals, civil disaster agencies, and outdoorsmen who have the VHF weather band receiver.

There's no guesswork in locating a weather broadcast when you're equipped with a fixed crystal weather radio in the outdoors—simply turn the set on. This Weather Command receiver by Zenith also has FM/AM. There are now 41 weather stations broadcasting weather reports.

Be Sure Your Ignition Is In Best of Condition

Of all the woes that lurk in neglect for the motorist on vacation, ignition problems top the list, according to a study made by the Missouri Auto Club, of 1,603 cars.

A break-down of the study reveals these as the most critical faults:

1. IGNITION — 1,500 defects or .94 per car.
2. FRONT END — 1,450 defects or .90 per car.
3. BRAKES — 1,354 defects or .85 per car.
4. HEADLIGHTS — 1,055 defects or .66 per car.
5. TIRES — 922 defects or .58 per car.
6. STEERING LINKAGE — 402 defects or .25 per car.

Evidence from the extensive diagnostic checks as recorded above give strong proof that every car has at least one major fault . . . a fault that is probably in your car . . . a fault that should be corrected before any vacation trip.

Low Water Level To Mark Opener

Fish are expected to be out of the Tamarac river at Waskish and back in Upper Red Lake, ice went out nearly a week ago at Lake of the Woods; lower water levels than usual are noted at nearly all the major fishing points in this area; hope springs eternal for a good fishing season from opening day throughout the summer.

Such is the synopsis of information received in several contacts made into last week for the benefit of local anglers awaiting the season opener on Saturday.

Bud Swanson of Springsteel Island resort was a little concerned about the low water level of Lake of the Woods, although he said there would be no difficulty in navigating the channel at the resort. With ice in the lake going out relatively early in comparison with past years, opening day fishing can be expected to be good. Weather during the week before the opener will be a factor, as well as weather on the weekend.

Over at the Rainy river area around Wheeler's Point and Morris Point, low water conditions are also noted. Mrs. Duane Borg of Gearhart's resort reports that ice went out of the Rainy river at her resort on April 12. A few openings for cabins remain for the opening weekend in the area, but the influx of fishermen without advance registration is expected to fill these openings quickly.

More than 30 launches operate out of the Wheelers Point and Morris Point areas and all resorts offer small boat rentals. Winter fishing was reportedly good in the area and low water usually means good fishing if the weather will cooperate.

Vic Duick of Duick's Cyrus camp noted that spearing for northerns in Bostic bay was "terrific" early in the winter and that there are still lunkers around for those who want to fish for them. The bay offers protection in case of a windy weekend, and nearby Zippel bay is also a place to fish in windy weather.

Generally low water aided the Minnesota department of natural resources fisheries personnel at the Tamarac river at Waskish this year. Because the river flow was not exceptionally strong the crew was able to net the entire width of the river starting April 22. Nets were taken out of the river on Friday after a try for spawning suckers, according to Howard Latvala, fishery manager. Suckers are stripped to provide forage in musky lakes.

Latvala said the walleye spawning run at Waskish was in excess of 100,000 fish this year, and teemed the run about average. The fishery was able to collect about 65 million eggs, he said, which are being cared for at the hatchery and are expected to hatch about May 20. A percentage of the fry hatched will be returned to Upper Red Lake when about two days old. Last year about two million fry were released into the lake.

The fishery manager also said that measurements and scale samples were taken to compare with prior years and determine if the average size of walleye has increased as some people believe. No information is available at this time.

During the run the fisheries personnel trapped and released two northerns weighing about 20 pounds, one of which was taped at 43½ inches long. The largest walleyes were about eight pounds with several six-pound fish also noted.

Latvala said that the fishery building will be open during the first few days of the season while personnel are taking care of the hatching process. He invited persons interested to stop and view the operation.

There is no indication whether low water will mean better or poorer fishing at Red Lake, since even the old-timers of the area disagree about this, Latvala said. But the walleyes should be back in the lake and somewhat scattered by the opening on May 15, and it will be the job of the fishermen to find and catch them.

While the majority of walleye-seekers will ply the waters of Upper Red Lake or the popular spots at Lake of the Woods, others will try their favorite sites on smaller waters—including the Red lake river in Thief River Falls. Tailwaters below the municipal power plant dam provide a popular site for fishermen of all ages. Reports are that persons fishing for suckers and other legal species in the past couple of weeks have caught and released a number of walleyes and northerns as well.

Mrs. Berg of Gearhart's probably summed up the uncertainty of opening weekend but the optimism of fishermen best when she said: "The fishing is always good, but the catching is sometimes a little more difficult."

Famed angler, Tom McNally, well-known outdoor writer and angling consultant to Johnson Reels Co., shows the proper way to hand-land a largemouth bass. All fish must be hooked correctly and played properly before such satisfying moments as this are realized.

Classrooms Lease Approved By Board

Approval of contracts for 10 teachers, purchase of a lot for a vocational school carpentry project, acceptance of a lease for temporary classrooms and notation on voting for the St. Hilaire school district occupied the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening in the Lincoln high school library.

Proposal of Home Lumber company was accepted for the lease of portable classrooms at a cost of $1,074 per month for 60 months. Board action is contingent upon clearance through the state department of education and the completion of an acceptable lease agreement.

Supt. L. M. Johnson noted that voters in the St. Hilaire school district, which will be attached to the Thief River Falls school district on July 1, will be allowed to vote in the District 564 election on May 18. State law signed by Gov. Wendell Anderson permits such voting and Supt. Johnson added that St. Hilaire voters can offer a write-in candidate for the election if they prefer to do so. Election will be held Tuesday, May 18, from 4 to 9 p.m. in the cafeteria at Lincoln high school.

Teacher contracts were approved for the following:

Kenneth Fletcher will teach special education (educable mentally retarded) at Franklin junior high school. His home town is Minot, N. D., and he is a graduate of Minot state college.

Michael Chimonte, special education (educable mentally retarded) at Franklin junior high school, is a native of Nashwauk and a graduate of Bemidji state college.

Nancy Yeunggren, special education (trainable mentally retarded) at Knox elementary school, is a graduate of Bemidji state college and lists her home town as Hallock.

Judy O'Dair, Robbinsdale, is a graduate of St. Cloud state college and will teach eighth grade English at Franklin junior high school.

Margaret Aas, Pelican Rapids, will also teach eighth grade English at Franklin junior high school and is a graduate of Moorhead state college.

Marcheta Cummings, Thief River Falls, will instruct in cosmetology on a part-time basis for high school students in the vocational-technical school.

Tom Tapper of Hutchinson, a graduate of Mankato state college, will teach junior high school mathematics and coach junior high school basketball.

Susan Emerson of Wilverton, graduate of Concordia college, will teach second grade at Mark Twain and previously taught at Fridley.

Nancy Peterson, Minneapolis, graduate of Augsburg college, will teach art in the junior high school.

Loyell Dyrud, originally from Thief River Falls, is a graduate of Augsburg college with a BA degree and the University of North Dakota with an MA degree. He will teach English and speech at Lincoln high school.

Arnt Aune, director of the area vocational-technical school, reported on three lots which had been selected for proposal to the board for the next year' building project for the school's carpentry class. The board selected a lot in the Green Acres addition at a purchase price of $2,000.

The board also approved a resolution requesting the school's acquisition of a military surplus jet plane for the aviation mechanics classes. The plane will be made available to the school without cost, except for operational cost while being flown here and return of the flight personnel to point of origin of the plane.

Neil Taverna, junior high school principal, reported on planned closing of the swimming pool for summer repairs from August 9 to 27. This will be upon conclusion of summer swimming instruction and prior to opening of school in the fall.

Vat Installed At Cheese Factory

Another stainless steel vat was last Thursday installed at the Brooks cheese factory to increase the quantity of milk the factory is able to process. The factory processes approximately 24,000 pounds of milk per day to make 90,000 lbs of cheese per week.

The Brooks cheese factory was started in 1926 by A. J. Parenteau and is now operated by Aurel and Marc Parenteau.

A QUICK DRAW ROBOT named Irving won a championship in the electricity division of the Northern Industrial Arts fair in Bemidji for Brian Scholin of Thief River Falls. A foot switch activates a timer causing the robot's eyes to light up—the signal to draw against him. If the bullet hits Irving's vital area target, the elapsed time is recorded on the meter. If the opponent is too slow on the draw, Irving beats him with a draw of his own.

GRAND CHAMPION in the ninth grade woodworking division of the Northern Industrial Arts fair in Bemidji Saturday was this desk made by Vince Miramontes of Thief River Falls. The fair was held at Bemidji state college. Other junior and senior high school winners from Thief River Falls are also pictured in today's issue of the Times.

Students Given Awards At Fair

Industrial arts students at Lincoln senior high school and Franklin junior high school won a number of top awards Saturday at the Northern Industrial Arts fair held at Bemidji state college.

Senior high school division championships were won by Steve Sandahl, Larry Roisland, Wayne Tripp, Brian Scholin, Mark Metusalem, Diane Keefe, Lucille Hulst, Don Fearn and Todd Adams. Junior high school champion was Vince Miramontes.

Instructors in the senior high school are Richard Kotschevar, Lambert Brunkhorst, Ken Johnson and Allen Aaseby while junior high school instructors are Larry Golden and Jack McDermid.

First places in senior high school competition were won by Wayne Kronberger, metals; Jerry LaCoe, machine shop and foundry; Don Fearn, electronics; Julie Almquist, open class, industrial arts and metals; Sue Jorde, open class; Debra Boyer, open class; Jan Joppru, open class; Margret Fanfulik, open class and special.

Second places went to Mark Olson, metals, and Shirley Page, open class; while third places went to Mike Protz in plastics and

LHS Students Collect Trash In Sunday Pick-up

Approximately 60 senior high school students collected 75 bags of trash in a clean-up campaign Sunday afternoon in Thief River Falls, according to Chris Ballas, assistant principal at Lincoln senior high school.

Areas covered in the trash collection were the Lincoln high school grounds and practice field, football field and Valley Home for the Aged, city parking lots, Riverside park, fairgrounds and curling club and arena sites.

Following the trash pick-up, the students were treated to hotdogs, soft drinks and potato chips in the school cafeteria at 5 p.m. Refreshments and music for dancing were provided by contributions from the Lions and Rotary clubs and American Legion Post 117.

LHS Vocalists And Musicians Win Top Awards

Several vocalists and musicians from Lincoln high school received superior ratings at the district contest held Friday at Crookston central high school.

Chris and Terri Cuppett each received superior ratings for vocal solos and combined to receive a superior rating for a vocal duet. A girls' ensemble comprised of Cindy Nesland, Janice Buroker, Chris and Terri Cuppett, Valerie Hanson, Cheri Ripley, Alice Sorenson and Ruth Hammer also gained a top rating, according to David Morken, vocal music instructor.

Winning superior ratings from James Solsten's orchestra was a violin duet composed of Susan Johnson and Craig Knutson, and a string quartet including Brian Larson and James Aune, violins; Paula Mickelson, viola; and Lynn Finstad, cello.

Soil Stewardship Week Planned For May 16 to 23

Soil Stewardship Week, nationwide observance which places emphasis on man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water and other related resources, will be observed locally May 16-23, according to Garfield Iverson, chairman of the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation district.

"The World and They That Dwell Therein," the theme of this year's observance, underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in fulfilling his or her role as caretaker of the realm. The Pennington conservation district and some 3,000 companion districts throughout the nation, along with their state and national associations, are sponsoring the event for the 17th consecutive year.

The Pennington conservation district has distributed, to churches which requested them, bulletins and inserts and booklets created particularly for this year's observance.

The materials were prepared by the National Association of Conservation districts.

Phone Company Builds Addition To Plant Here

Northwestern Bell Telephone company is constructing an addition to the rear of its building at 403 LaBree av. N.

Total cost of the building addition and the equipment to be added is approximately $430,000.

D. L. Lindquist, local manager, said that the contract for the building addition had been awarded to the Twin City Construction company of Fargo, N. D. Construction started April 26 and is expected to be completed late this year.

The building addition will be 58 by 100 feet and will be so constructed that a second floor may be added at a later date if additional space is needed.

When completed, Western Electric company technicians will install additional dial switching and associated equipment to meet the communications needs of the Thief River Falls area, Lindquist said.

Taxpayer Group Airs Aspects Of Shopping Center

Further study of various aspects of a shopping center for the Thief River Falls community was deemed advisable by directors of the Northwest Taxpayers association as a result of a meeting held Monday evening, according to Les Sabo, president of the organization.

Members of the association's board, together with Mayor A. E. Jacobson and members of the Thief River Falls city council, are planning a trip to Devils Lake, N.D., to meet with residents of that community as part of the study. The developer who is proposing a shopping center for Thief River Falls has built a similar center at Devils Lake.

Sabo took exception to quotes attributed to him when he attended the dinner meeting which the city council had with the developers last week. The Times story quoted Sabo as stating that his group would generally be in favor of building the center and that he thought there would be little opposition. The chairman emphasized that he could not speak for the directors or the association, and that any recommendations or opinions from the group would have to be the result of board action.

"We want to take a close look at the costs, investments, tax revenue and other considerations involved before we make a board recommendation," Sabo told the Times after Monday night's meeting. "The planned trip to Devils Lake will be part of that study."

Lincoln Vocal Concert May 24

Spring concert of the Lincoln senior high school choir and the Lincoln Singers will be held Monday, May 24, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The vocal groups are under the direction of David Morken.

City Council Talks On Shopping Center

Heavily loaded business agenda and problems of the proposed new shopping center for Thief River Falls kept the city council in session for just over four hours Tuesday night.

Results of a Monday night meeting of the city tax and assessment committee, city clerk and engineer, were presented to the full council.

Although no final decision was made, it was decided that another meeting will be held next Tuesday night, a meeting that council attorney Robert Wurst called "a critical meeting—the one that will make or break the development proposal".

According to the study prepared by the city tax and assessment committee, total cost to the city for sewer and water services up to the boundary line of the property which developer Cowgill wishes to acquire would be $50,800, with $29,500 in sewer costs and $21,300 in water costs.

Future sewer connection charges on 800 feet of the Stenberg property and 1,200 feet of the Olson-Reese property at a cost of $8 per foot would total $16,000. This would be recovered upon future development. For the present the cost would be borne by the city.

(Costs of sewer and water service on the development land itself would, of course, be paid by the developer. The council is satisfied that whatever amount the city spends on the development will ultimately be recovered.)

The remaining $13,500 in future sewer connection charges would be split equally at $6,750 between Cowgill and the owner of the remaining abutting property.

For water costs, 540 feet of water line fronting north of the remaining abutting property at a cost of $4.80 per foot would cost other property owners $2,600. For water on the abutting property and so the property Cowgill wishes to purchase, the price would be $9,300 for each parcel.

In considering income from the property if development of the shopping center is approved, it was noted that $61,000 in taxes would be generated each year for each $1 million dollars worth of buildings in the center, based on current tax rates. The city would also net an estimated $8,000 per year in furnishing electricity to the center.

The council also apparently plans to annex the entire 105-acre site Cowgill wants to buy, rather than just the 23 acres which the proposed shopping center would initially require.

Cowgill called the city council offices at about 10 p.m. during the session to inquire on the council's discussion of the center. After speaking with several council members and city manager Bill Fahey, he expressed his satisfaction with the terms the council offered, thus setting the stage for the nearly final discussion meeting next Tuesday night.

Adjustment Panel Member Refuses Progress Views

Attorney Jaroslav Kruta of Red Lake Falls, court-appointed member of an adjustment panel reviewing faculty salaries for Thief River Falls, refused comment today in regard to the progress of the adjustment panel in reaching agreement.

Contacted by telephone by the Times, Kruta said he was sorry that he could not give further information, but that he could give no report on consensus until a statement of agreement was signed by all parties. Serving with Kruta on the committee are A. J. Kramer of Roseau, appointed by the Thief River Falls teachers' negotiating council, and S. O. Johnson of Fosston, appointed by the board of education.

The adjustment panel was requested by the teachers' council in accordance with state law when agreement could not be reached through negotiations with the board of education. Kruta told the Times that a report of the panel's findings will be submitted to the board of education and teachers' council as soon as agreement is reached—or as soon as the members agree that they can not reach a consensus of opinion. He would not indicate when that might be.

Ambulance Service Summarized

Ambulance service operated by Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls with financial support received through an allocation by the Pennington county board of commissioners has made a total of 934 trips since service was started on July 11, 1969.

Ambulance service is being featured this year as American Hospital Week is noted in Thief River Falls. Elementary school classes visiting the hospital are being shown how the ambulance service operates as well as parts of the interior of the hospital.

Statistics provided by Les Vigness, who directs the ambulance service with Frank Harger and Vance Newbury, show that the two ambulances operated by the hospital made 544 trips during the first year of operation and 390 trips during the period from Aug. 1, 1970 through May 8 of this year.

First year figures indicate 234 routine calls, 46 calls indicating immediate attention required and 264 emergency calls. Emergency calls included 49 motor vehicle accidents, two snowmobile accidents, 62 heart attacks, 18 strokes and 56 falls.

During the Aug. 2, 1970 to April 10, 1971 period, there were 154 routine calls, 31 immediate calls and 156 emergency calls for a total of 341. The next 28-day period had 49 calls for a total to May 8 of 390. The August through April total included 23 vehicle accidents, five snowmobile accidents, 36 heart attacks, eight strokes and 23 falls.

Vigness said that ambulance operation is divided into 28-day periods, and that the fewest calls during a 28-day period has been 27. Greatest number of calls during a 28-day period was 51. It is not infrequent, however, when both ambulances will be required at the same time for different calls. Only twice since July of 1969 have both ambulances been required for the same call.

Manning the ambulances as orderlies are Roger Braaton, Bob Ovsak, Arlan Erickson, Kent Hanson, Tom Albaugh and Fred Brodin. Orderlies are given Red Cross first aid training plus 15 hours of instruction from the Professional Rescue Instructors of Minnesota (PRIM). Continued training is also given with the service's procedures under supervision and review by two members of the hospital medical staff.

Both ambulances are radio equipped and a central radio receiver-transmitter is located at the hospital. As the ambulances are returning to the hospital from

Judy Aandal-Bruce Machal Marriage Vows Spoken

Miss Judy Kathleen Aandal of Goodridge and Bruce Alan Machal of East Grand Forks exchanged marriage vows on Sunday, April 17, at 2 p.m. at the Silver Creek Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls. Rev. Richard Sorenson officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 275 relatives and friends. His devotional meditation was based on Psalm 67.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs Raymond Aandal of Goodridge and Mr. and Mrs Albert Machal of East Grand Forks.

For the ceremony, two potted pink azalea plants, which were later presented to the mothers, graced the altar. Greenery, tied with blue bows, marked the pews. Lighting the chancel were blue tapers in branch candelabra.

Mrs. David Schwartz presided at the organ. For the processional, she played Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and Jeremiah Clark's "Trumpet Voluntary". "Trumpet Air", composed by Henry Purcell, was the recessional. Serving as soloist was a friend of the bride, Mrs. Daryl Augustine of Minneapolis. She sang "Song of Ruth" before the bridal party assembled at the altar, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt in prayer. The guests participated in the ceremony by singing the hymn, "Lord Who At Cana's Wedding Feast."

Serving as acolytes were Donald and Daniel Aandal, brothers of the bride.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white bridal satin, styled in empire fashion with an A-line skirt. Venice lace accented the high stand-up neckline and formed the bishop sleeves secured by covered miniature buttons. Miniature buttons also cascaded down the front of the gown, accented by rows of wide lace trim. Matching lace encircled the full, chapel length mantilla held by a wide bow edged with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, complemented by white gardenias and stephanotis. The gown, veil and headpiece were made by the mother of the bride.

Holly Flowe and Debbie Folkedahl were the bride's personal attendants.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Gloria Skreiand of Grand Forks, N.D., friend of the bride. Other attendants were Lorine Aandal of Thief River Falls, sister-in-law of the bride; Loree Machal of East Grand Forks, sister of the groom, and Jackie Nelson of Thief River Falls, friend of the bride. They were attired in identical, light blue, double knit, floor-length gowns styled with short puffy sleeves. Daisy trim, in blue and green, accented the collars and high-rise waistlines. Their sheer veils were held by pillbox headpieces of blue nylon net braided in diamond pattern, and complemented by blue-green daisy trim. To complete their attire, they wore blue shoes, white gloves and each carried a long-stemmed, blue-tinted chrysanthemum with white ribbon streamers. Their earrings were gifts from the bride.

Lori Rosett of Ely, a friend of the bride, was flower girl. Her white satin gown with lace trim was styled like the bride's and her headpiece, fashioned like the attendants' was of white nylon net. She carried a white crocheted basket filled with roses and carnations. Her pendant necklace was a gift from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was Lenny Vonasek of East Grand Forks, a friend. Groomsmen were Gary Aandal of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, Leland Nelson of Goodridge, and Wayne Vonasek of East Grand Forks, friends of the couple. Larry Machal of East Grand Forks, a brother of the groom, carried the rings. The ushers were Ronald Hamre of Thief River Falls, uncle of the bride, and Dennis Straus of East Grand Forks, a friend. All wore black tuxedos. The groom's boutonniere was a red rose and the other men of the wedding party had carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink, double knit dress complemented by black patent accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light blue, double knit dress, also with black accessories. Both had identical corsages of roses and carnations.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs Gladys Hamre, grandmother of the bride, Mrs Emma Machal, grandmother of the groom, Mrs Magna Storhaug of Thief River Falls, a longtime friend of the bride's family, Mr. and Mrs Henry Bendickson of Goodridge, and Gerald Hamre and Mrs. Glen Knutson, both of Thief River Falls, godparents of the bride. All were presented with corsages and boutonnieres, pinned by Mrs. William Wayne of Goodridge.

A reception in the church dining hall followed, with members of the ladies aid in charge. Decorations featured blue streamers and white wedding bells. Reception hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rogalla, all of Goodridge. Karen Bursits of Thief River Falls registered the guests as Karen Bendickson and Gail Fuller of Thief River Falls ladled the punch.

Highlighting the serving table was a Lady Windemere wedding cake featuring a three-tiered, cherry-flavored cake on a base of four round cakes. Each tier, separated by Grecian pillars, was decorated with blue roses. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom ornament backed by white orchids and lattice work. Miniature members of the bridal party graced the base. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs Donald Rupprecht. Mrs. Sheldon Nomeland, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Russell Tollefson of Crookston cut and served the cake. Pouring were Mrs. Henry Bendickson of Goodridge, godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Maeck.

Waitresses were Marilyn Nelson, Helen Johnson, Marlene Hanson, Karen Erickson and [illegible] Rosett of Babbitt, friend of the bride, Mrs. Ronald Hamre, Mrs. LaVerne Hamre and Mrs. Leighton Hamre, all aunts of the bride, presided at the gift table. They were assisted by the gift bearers, Perry and Lori Hamre, cousins of the bride. Distributing the rice packets and groom's cake were Cindy Mae, and Tawnya Hamre, cousins of the bride.

Relatives and friends attending were from Omaha, Neb., Grand Forks, N.D., East Grand Forks, Hancock, Babbitt, Ely, Oslo, Newfolden, Warren, Angus, Tabor, Goodridge, Grygla, Minneapolis, Circle Pines and Thief River Falls.

For traveling to the resort areas in Minnesota, the bride wore a gold, double knit pants suit.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school with the class of 1969. She is also a graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, clerical department. She is employed by Tony Dorn, Inc. The groom, a graduate of the East Grand Forks high school and the local vocational school of aviation mechanics, is employed by Arctic Enterprises.

The newly-weds are at home in this city at 318½ North LaBree.

Officers Elected At TRF Woman's Bowling Banquet

At the annual woman's bowling banquet held recently at the local golf club, officers of the Thief River Falls Women's bowling association were elected, trophies were awarded, and newly-elected officers of the leagues were introduced.

Mrs. Diane Bromley, president of the association, presided at the event. Mrs Mavis Buroker gave the invocation. The awards were presented by the presidents of each league.

At the election of officers, Mrs. Bromley was returned to office as president. Other officers elected were Mrs. Ruby Huseth, vice president, Mrs. Karen Fredrickson, secretary, and Mrs. Dorothy Bilek, sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. Bess Lang was re-elected as treasurer.

The presentation of the awards highlighted the evening. In the Moon Beam league, president Mrs Shirley Efteland presented the awards to the first place team, Ed's Food Market. Members of the team are Roberta Kloety, Cecilia Stoltman, Kathy Lindquist, Ann Yonke, Alma Malvig and Dolly Newland. The high average award went to Ann Yonke who had a 147 average. She also received the high series award with a 543. The high single games award was given to Sheila Collins for a score of 245.

Mrs Efteland also introduced the other officers of the Moon Beam league. They are Cecilia Stoltman, vice president; Vic Kalinoski, secretary, and Ann Yonke, treasurer.

Sinding's team won first place honors in the Monday Coffee Cup league. Members of that team are Erma Shumway, Vic Kalinoski, Darlene DuChamp, Tata Ogata, Sue Hagen and Bess Lang. Presenting the awards was president Maxine Wicklander. In that team, Bess Lang received the high average award for a 163 and a high series award for a 574.

Officers of the Coffee Cup League introduced by Mrs. Wicklander were Mrs. LaRue Johnson, vice president; Hannah Hetteen, treasurer; Mrs. Leola Kelly, secretary, and Mrs. Dorothy Hartley, sergeant-at-arms.

Awards for the Night Hawk league were presented by president Mrs Sue Hagen. First place awards went to the Helm Apparel team composed of Lorri Gjerdingen, Evelyn Spears, Norma Looker, Lola Johanneck and Betty Radeke. Receiving individual honors were Bess Lang with a high average of 158, Tress Noel for a high series of 568 and Judy Bassman for a high game of 248.

Officers of the Night Hawk league, presented by Mrs. Hagen, were Erma Shumway, vice president; Mary Lou Johnson, treasurer, Shirley Kruschke, secretary and Hilde Hamre, sergeant-at-arms.

Other awards in the bowling association were presented by Bess Lang, chairman of the tournament committee. Awards to the first place winners in the doubles event went to Teen Berg and Lorraine Morben, the singles event to Sheila Collins, and the all-events to Keks Lee. Winning the team event was Ekeren Drug team with Erma Shumway, Mary Anderson, Judy Bossman, Ruth Klosterman and Bess Lang, as members.

Over two hundred attended the banquet. Special guests were the team sponsors and their wives.

Wiseth And Hughes Engagement Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiseth of Goodridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Vickie Lynn, a junior at Bemidji State college, to Lee Edward Hughes, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leland Hughes of Indiana.

Miss Wiseth is majoring in elementary education. Her fiance, a former resident of Warroad, is a graduate of Utah State University. He is at present attending a graduate course at Bemidji state college, working towards his masters degree.

No definite wedding date has been set.

Once TRF Girl Coaches Winning Debate Team

Miss Mary Jo Froehle, a former Thief River Falls girl, had the distinction of having her debate team from the Indiana university win honors at the two-day Protagoras debate tournament held at the University of North Dakota on April 23-24.

College and university debate teams representing eight states were at the tournament. Miss Froehle's team of Will Shortz and Dennis Hagen placed second among the 32 teams entered in the novice division. In addition, they were awarded trophies for being named second and third top speakers at the tournament.

As an associate instructor at the Indiana university, Miss Froehle's assignment has been to coach the debate team. Her plans are to complete her Master's degree in speech in August. Although she maintains her California residency, her plans for the fall are indefinite.

While in the area, she was an overnight visitor in Thief River Falls with her parents and family, the Harold Froehles, and a dinner guest at the home of her brother, Mark.

Captain Brown Cited By Award In US Air Force

Captain Robert L. Brown, son of Mr and Mrs L. J. Brown, Thief River Falls, has been recognized for helping his Air Weather Service (AWS) unit win the U S. Air Force Senter award for 1970.

Captain Brown is a pilot in the 55th weather reconnaissance squadron at McClellan AFB, Calif.

The award—named in honor of Lieutenant General William O. Senter, former AWS commander—is presented annually to the reconnaissance or atmospheric sampling unit which continually demonstrates the ability to surpass established norms in the areas of mission accomplishment and operational readiness.

Captain Brown, who was commissioned in 1967 upon completion of officer training school at Lackland AFB, Tex., previously served in Thailand.

A 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school, he received his B S. degree in zoology in 1965 from the University of Minnesota.

Farmers Union Objecting To USDA Division

Minnesota's U.S. Senators Walter F. Mondale and Hubert H. Humphrey have been asked to oppose any federal reorganization plan which would downgrade the status of the department of agriculture.

Leaders of the Farmers Union organization in the county have taken this position in a resolution dealing with the Nixon administration's proposed reorganization of seven of the existing cabinet-level departments.

Under the plan, USDA would be phased out and its current programs and activities split among three or four surviving departments.

Meeting in a quarterly leadership meeting May 6 at Warren, the Farmers Union county and local officials expressed concern that present agricultural activities would get low priority in a non-farm agency.

Presiding at the session was E. Merton Roley of Warren, president of the West Marshall county Farmers Union.

Agriculture deserves to have an independent, cabinet level department in the federal structure, with its head being one of the top advisers to the President, said the Farmers Union resolution.

How's Your Hearing?

A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost and certainly no obligation. Write to Beltone Hearing Aid Service, Falls Theater Bldg., P.O. Box 298, Thief River Falls, Minn.

City Council Airs Shopping Center Plans

City police chief R. E. Waller gave an impassioned account of the rising crime rates in Thief River Falls and implored the council to buy a new police cruiser. The council, seemingly shocked by his report, immediately voted to buy a police car for $3,850.

(The text of Chief Waller's address to the council, and a photograph showing a roller chain belt taken from a man recently arrested in Thief River Falls and shown to the council, will appear in Monday's edition of the Times.)

The council also adopted an amendment to an ordinance prohibiting the riding or driving of horses in the streets of the city except during a parade or civic celebration. The amendment would give riders access routes through the city to the fair grounds.

The council also bought two half-ton pickups, a truck with plow for the park department, and a utility body to be added to a vehicle the city already owns. Bids for two two-and-one-half ton trucks were rejected because they did not meet specifications.

The council told a delegation of boys that unless they and their mini-cycles were licensed, they would be arrested for driving them, as state law demands.

The council refused to grant a request by the Pennington county safety council that a permanent 30-minute parking zone for two cars be set up in front of Northern Woodwork and that the no parking zone on Second street next to the post office be extended to include the whole half block from the alley to LaBree avenue.

The board granted permission to Northwestern Bell Telephone company to extend a buried cable from Main avenue to Arnold avenue and then south to Highway 32 and south along 32.

The council also agreed to set aside two acres on the Mickelson farm west of Greenwood cemetery to be used for a historical village.

Summary Given On Ambulance Operation Here

a call, they can alert the hospital by radio as to the type of staff and equipment needed upon arrival. Under this system, patients are given the required attention immediately upon arrival.

"Our function is primarily that of transportation," Vigness said. "Our treatment is only to stop bleeding or provide other required first aid which will allow the patient to reach the hospital in the best condition possible. Since most of the equipment required for treatment is located at the hospital, it is only on rare occasions that a doctor accompanies the ambulance."

Orderlies on duty or on call either carry radio pager units or may be contacted by telephone at all times. Other supportive personnel are also on duty or on call for hospital services. Two men are on duty at all times for the ambulance service and the units go where called whenever they are called.

For long distance transportation of patients, use of air ambulance service through Thief River Aviation is encouraged.

The hospital assumed operation of ambulance service after local funeral homes announced that they would discontinue the service due to excessive costs and difficulty in securing qualified personnel. The new units are also specially equipped for the work, whereas prior ambulances were not suitable for all ambulance work.

Expect Increase In Food Prices During The Year

If you're a typical American, you'll probably be spending nearly five per cent more for food in 1971 than in 1970.

Most of the increase will come from rising prices of food eaten away from home, as well as higher marketing costs. Grocery store prices of food may average only one to two per cent higher than in 1970—a sharp reduction from the five per cent increase in 1970—but food eaten away from home will again cost substantially more in 1971.

These predictions were made at the recent national agricultural outlook conference in Washington, D. C., according to Dale C. Dahl, extension economist at the University of Minnesota.

Although food prices are expected to move up during the first three quarters of this year, prices may level off or decline during the fourth quarter as large supplies of food come to market after the fall harvest.

This year you can look for lower average retail prices for pork, poultry, eggs, potatoes and some fresh vegetables, Dahl says. But you can expect higher prices for fish, dairy products, cereal products, sugar and processed vegetables.

Most of last year's large increases in retail grocery prices were attributed to a seven per cent boost in marketing charges because of higher wages and costs of other goods and services bought by marketing firms. Prices of farm products used for food contributed very little to the overall increase. A 7.5 per cent jump in prices of food eaten away from home further contributed to the rise in total food costs in 1970.

The proportion of disposable income Americans spent for food in 1969 and 1970 held steady at 16.7 per cent, but it is expected to be less in 1971. A decade ago Americans spent 20 per cent of their income for food.

Seatbelts Save Smiles, Reports Oral Surgeon

Far too many people are suffering from painful mouth injuries caused from auto accidents in which they were not wearing seatbelts, according to a Toronto, Canada, oral surgeon.

"The vast majority of collision injuries I see happened in the Metro area on just ordinary streets at low speed." He points out that while retractable steering wheels and padded dashes have helped minimize injuries, motorists can still break jaws and teeth if they impact against them.

He said that, although teeth are one part of the body that gets a lot of attention, and thousands of dollars are spent over a lifetime in maintaining and preserving them, it's ironic that most people won't take the simple precaution of wearing a seat belt.

The patients he sees often have teeth cracked off right at the gumline due to a collision. Their mouth injuries are often complicated with disfiguring facial injuries, sometimes requiring plastic surgery.

He, like many of his colleagues, is now making a practice of asking his patients if they were wearing a seatbelt at the time of the crash. Almost invariably the answer is no.

"Only one patient I saw in the last year was wearing a seatbelt, and he wasn't hurt too severely.

"The seatbelt, plus shoulder belt is the ideal configuration to prevent this kind of injury. Some of the worst ones I've seen have gone forward and hit the windshield. This can result in fractures of both the upper and lower jaw."

Roger Easthouse, Once Of Area, Dies In Staples

Roger Easthouse, 38, of Staples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Easthouse of Goodridge, died Sunday evening at a Staples hospital.

Funeral services for Roger Easthouse are being held today (Wednesday) at the Faith Lutheran church at Staples.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Mrs. Linnihan Services Set At Red Lake Falls

Mrs. Josephine G. Linnihan, 77, of Red Lake Falls, died Monday at the Hillcrest Nursing home where she had been a patient for the past two months.

A Requiem High Mass for Mrs. Josephine Linnihan will be offered Thursday at 10 a.m., at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Red Lake Falls. Rev. Wm. Keefe will officiate. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Recitation of the Rosary will be tonight (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock at the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, where the body is reposing.

Mrs. Linnihan, the former Josephine Kelfenheim, was born April 7, 1894 at Breckenridge, to John and Gertrude Lotzer Kelfenheim. As a child, she moved to Red Lake Falls with her parents. She was a graduate of the Lafayette high school and the Normal Training department at Red Lake Falls. She taught for many years in schools in Red Lake and Polk counties. She was a member of the VFW auxiliary and a 50-year member of the Royal Neighbors.

She was married at Red Lake Falls on June 18, 1914 to William D. Linnihan.

Surviving are two sons: Glenn Linnihan of Marysville, Wash.; and Dan of Los Angeles, five daughters: Mrs. B. H. (Gladys) Larson of Bloomington, Mrs. Leo (Ruth) Gagner of Crookston, Mrs. Mayron (Erma) Ritchey of Fergus Falls, and Mrs. Phil (Marie) Horton and Mrs. Everett (Mae) Bach, both of Port Charlotte, Fla.; 17 grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and one brother and a sister: John Kelfenheim and Mrs. Francis Mead, both of Red Lake Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husband in 1956, two brothers and one sister.

Carl Nelson, 71, Once Of Viking, Dies In Florida

Carl E. Nelson, 71 of Cocoa, Fla., and formerly of the Viking community, died Saturday, May 1, at Cocoa.

Funeral services for Carl Nelson were held at Cocoa with Rev. James T. Dunnam officiating. Interment was in the Florida Memorial Gardens at Rockledge.

Carl E. Nelson was born May 3, 1899 at Viking to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nelson. He attended school at Viking and grew to manhood there. He worked for a number of years throughout the states on road and dam construction, and for 27 years was employed by the United States Army corp of engineers. While with the corp of engineers, he was chief building inspector on the first launch pad constructed at Cape Kennedy in 1950. He retired in 1966.

He was a member of the First Baptist church of Cocoa, Fla.

Survivors are his wife, the former Mabel Sommers; two sons: Lafe Nelson of Milwaukee, Wis., and Alfred of Rockledge, Fla.; two daughters: Erna Hendrix of Cedar Town, Ga., and Maxine Davidson of Rockledge, Fla., and 12 grandchildren.

Also surviving are three sisters: Myrtle Peterson of Superior, Wis., Florence Pierce of Thief River Falls and Doris Sickler of Lennox, Calif., and four brothers: Henry Nelson of Washburn, Wis.; Clarence of Dade City, Fla.; Oscar of West Allis, Wis., and Reuben of Almond, Wis.

One brother, Ernest, preceded him in death.

Lillian Rosendahl Services Held At St. Hilaire

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian Rosendahl, 84, of St. Hilaire, who died Friday at Northwestern hospital, were held Monday at 2 p.m., at the Calvary Lutheran church at St. Hilaire.

Rev. James Swenson officiated at the services. Mrs. James Johnson was the organist and Mrs. Lester Vigness, soloist. Interment was in the Community cemetery at St. Hilaire. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Paul Roy, Bennie Johnson, Otto Johnson, Dan Johnson, Edward Wik and Martin Mosbeck.

Mrs. Rosendahl, the former Lillian Johnson, was born Aug. 27, 1886 at Beresford, S. D., to Mr. and Mrs. Julius Johnson. She grew to womanhood at Beresford. On July 15, 1917, she was married in Thief River Falls to Benjamin Rosendahl. The Rosendahls lived on a farm south of Thief River Falls until 1928, when they moved into the village of St. Hilaire.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Francis (Isabel) Gibbs of Tokyo, Japan, a son, Robert Rosendahl of Springfield, Mo.; eight grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and four sisters: Winifred Grendler of Sioux City, Iowa, Stella Jenson and Martha Mikkleson, both of Wakonda, S. D., and Agnes Christopherson of Portland, Ore.

She was preceded in death by her husband and one daughter.

Services Held At Grygla For James Sistad

Funeral services were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla for James Sistad, 55, of Thief River Falls. A former resident of Grygla, Sistad died Tuesday, May 4, at the University hospital in Minneapolis.

Rev. Bruce Anderson officiated at the services. Two duets were sung by Mrs. Rodney Anderson and Mrs. Roy Nordby with Mrs. Nordby as organist. Interment was in the St. Olaf cemetery. The Green Funeral home was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Pallbearers were Otto Hagen, Alfred Sorenson, Carl Dryseth, Leroy Sletten, Archie Sandsmark and Wilford Thorson.

James Sistad was born March 24, 1916 at Chaseburg, Wis., to Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sistad. At the age of one year, he moved with his parents to the Grygla community. There he attended school and grew to manhood. On Dec. 10, 1938, he was married at Neilsville to Gladys Weale. The couple lived for a time in the Climax area. In 1948, he moved to California where he lived until February of this year. Since then he had resided in Thief River Falls.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sistad of Grygla; one son, Virgil Sistad of Winchester, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Lyman (Geraldine) Nygaard of Shelly, and five grandchildren.

Also surviving are four brothers: Marvin Sistad of Fosston, Palmer of Grand Forks, N.D., and Arvid and Stewart, both of Grygla, and three sisters, Mrs. Ardel (Hazel) Bjorge of Buxton, N.D., Mrs. Marvin (Alma) Foss of Mentor and Mrs. Willard (Adeline) Sletten of Thief River Falls.

Personal Injury Accidents Noted

Three cases of personal injuries in traffic accidents were reported by Thief River Falls police in the past week. The first accident resulting in injuries took place at 6:30 p.m. May 4 when a car driven by Linda Hilleren, Thief River Falls, stopped in her traffic lane and was making a left turn into a filling station on Third street.

Her car collided with a motorcycle driven by Byron Nilson of Thief River Falls as Nilson was headed west on Third. Nilson suffered a broken left ankle and was hospitalized. Total vehicle damage in the accident was set at $140.

In another accident on the same day, Jack Boyer of Thief River Falls was driving his motorcycle north on Main behind two school buses at 3:45 p.m. As the buses made a right turn onto Eighth street, Boyer swerved to the left of the last bus completing its turn.

He had to swerve again to avoid a car that had just entered Main from Eighth and then lost control of his motorcycle. He was hospitalized with a severe knee dislocation and later underwent surgery. Northwestern hospital Wednesday morning reported that he was recovering rapidly.

Another accident resulting in injuries took place at 3:50 p.m. last Sturday, when a car driven by Mrs. Elaine Thorstenson of Route 1 was stopped in traffic on Highway 59 as she was attempting to make a left turn into the A & W drive-in.

The Thorstenson vehicle was struck in the rear by a car driven by Wayne Wathaug of Route 2, Oklee. Mrs. Gunda Thompson, a passenger in the Thorstenson car, suffered head and neck injuries. Total damage in the accident was estimated at $200.

In other accidents reported by police during the week, last Friday at 7:35 p.m. a car driven by Murray Joseph of Minneapolis stopped while headed west on Third street in the traffic lane to let out a passenger when a car driven by Roger Sladek of Thief River Falls approached on the right side of the Joseph vehicle. About $500 in damage resulted from the collision.

Other criminal actions reported by police last week included a report received by the police department May 4 that two juvenile girls from Red Lake Falls had been shoplifting in a local store. Police investigated the matter.

Bob Mattson, plant superintendent of the Times, reported last Wednesday to police that two magnetic signs, white with black lettering, had been stolen from the sides of his station wagon. The signs were valued at $20.

Myles Koop of Route 5 reported to police at 1 a.m. May 8 that his 1965 model International pick-up had been stolen from the parking lot at the American Legion club. The vehicle was found about one-half hour later on the 700 block of N. Atlantic avenue.

Also on May 8 Ivan Hoglin reported that a pair of field glasses valued at $22 had been taken from his car while it was parked in the American Legion lot late the night of May 7. On that day Donald L. Olson reported the theft of a Kodak camera valued at $28 from his car while it was parked in the same lot late Friday evening.

Keith Knutson of Thief River Falls reported to police last Sunday that the console from his 1964 Chevelle had been removed while the car was parked near the south side of Lincoln high school. The theft took place sometime between May 6 and 9. The console was valued at $20.

Lutheran Youth Rally Sunday

St. John Lutheran church of Thief River Falls will sponsor an area youth rally for Active Christian Teens (ACT) Sunday at 3 p.m. Youths from Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod congregations in the Crookston, Ada, and Thief River Falls areas are expected to attend. More than 125 teenagers will participate, according to the Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor at St. John.

The program will feature a folk-song communion service. The Infinite Spark Light team, a folk song group from the Lutheran student center at North Dakota state university, will also be featured at the service.

St. Cloud resident Bill Schultz, president of the northern Minnesota ACT group, will speak at an evening banquet on the theme "On Your Own." Planned recreation and a short business meeting to elect Crookston area ACT officers will complete the rally.

It's "Paycation" time for those who sell their "Don't Wants" with a Times Classified Ad.

Nixon Assistance Plan Would Cut Rural Poverty

The Nixon Administration's proposed family assistance plan would make a "substantial impact on rural poverty," an agricultural economist visiting the University of Minnesota said.

The plan could cut the $4.4 billion "poverty deficit" in half at a cost of $3.7 billion a year, Professor Emiel W. Owens said.

Owens is on leave from Prairie View A and M college, Prairie View, Tex., and is a member of the President's task force on rural development.

Rural recipients under the plan would include about a half-million farm families and one million non-farm families with present annual incomes of about $1,060 per family.

The family assistance plan contains three innovative provisions, Owens said, which differ from previous programs:

—The federal government would guarantee a basic national annual minimum welfare payment of $1,600 for a family of four.

—Families with unemployed fathers would become eligible for benefits.

—The "working poor" would receive assistance.

"These liberalized provisions would mean that about 12 million American poor could receive welfare aid for the first time and that most welfare recipients in the South would benefit from a substantial rise in welfare payments. Higher incomes for the rural poor and increased spending in rural areas would encourage expansion of rural trade, would probably bring many of the working poor up to the poverty line and would reduce dependency," he added.

FIRST PLACE in the ninth grade woodworking division of the Northern Industrial Arts fair at Bemidji was Bob Mattson of Franklin Junior high school. Competing were schools in the area from Detroit Lakes north and Virginia west.

Top Pennington Herds Named

Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the Pennington dairy herd improvement association, lists the following ten herds as top in the association for the month of March:

Mylo Carlson, 1412 lbs. of milk and 56.9 lbs. butterfat; Gene Nelson, 1401 lbs. of milk and 56.0 lbs. butterfat; [illegible], 1302 lbs. of milk and 54.9 lbs. butterfat; Carl and Duane Krohn, 1431 lbs. of milk and 52.0 lbs. butterfat.

Also Darrow Lundeen, 1338 lbs. of milk and 50.2 lbs. butterfat; Donald Erickson, 1402 lbs. of milk and 49.7 lbs. butterfat; Mehrkens Farm, Inc., 1197 lbs. milk and 49.4 lbs. butterfat; Chester Gast, 1264 lbs. of milk and 46.6 lbs. butterfat; Martin Hanson, 1255 lbs. of milk and 46.3 lbs. butterfat; and Harold Sabo, 1221 lbs. milk and 44.4 lbs. butterfat.

(The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the heed over the month. If too many dry cows are included in the herd, then the average for that month may be low, even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.)

There were 40 herds on test in March, with a total of 1379 cows in the Pennington association.

Thirteen cows finished with over 500 lbs. of butterfat in a 305 day or less lactation period over the testing year, with the top five being owned by Mordy Morrison. These top five cows were recorded as producing 13,580 lbs. of milk and 531 lbs. fat; 12,110 lbs. milk and 507 lbs. fat; 14,510 lbs. of milk and 529 lbs. fat; 14,980 lbs. of milk and 634 lbs. fat; and 12,580 lbs. milk and 511 lbs. fat.

Other top producing cows were owned by Chester Gast, 15,140 lbs. of milk and 537 lbs. fat; Mehrkens Farm, 12,960 lbs. of milk and 524 lbs. fat; Gene Nelson, 14,220 lbs. of milk and 613 lbs. of fat; Ronald Moe, 11,650 lbs. of milk and 507 lbs. fat; Wallace Reierson, 15,430 lbs. of milk and 563 lbs. fat; Swanson Bros., 14,750 lbs. of milk and 560 lbs. fat; and Warren and Lowell Hamrich, 14,540 lbs. of milk and 575 lbs. fat.

Bergland Hits Administration On Sugar Stand

U.S. Representative Bob Bergland today blasted the Nixon administration for its "callous disregard" for domestic sugar producers and said its sugar policies, if enacted, "would practically eliminate any expansion of the sugar industry in the Red River valley, and the entire country, for at least two years."

"During the next two years," Bergland said, "the United States will increase its sugar consumption by 300,000 tons. The administration," he continued, "wants 230,000 tons of it to come from foreign sources."

Bergland said that he was not opposed to foreign producers getting "a reasonable share" of the new market but said: "This administration's total disregard of American farmers is beyond understanding." Bergland said he was "especially shocked" that [illegible] the department of agriculture "which was created to promote farming in America—not work against it."

Bergland was also critical of the administration's suggestion that the Sugar Act only be extended for two years. "Both growers and processors must have a much longer extension in order to have adequate time and commitments to plan for expansion," he said. Bergland said that the six-year expansion proposed by sugar growers "was completely reasonable. The high capitol investments required for processing plants and farm equipment make a two-year extension totally unreasonable," Bergland added.

Bergland concluded by saying: "While the administration's ridiculous suggestions will not necessarily become part of the sugar act, it will complicate my efforts and the efforts of the Red River Valley Sugar Beet Growers association with whom I have worked very closely to increase acreage in the Red River Valley and make it extremely difficult to insure a growing future for the sugar industry."

SECOND PLACE ribbon in the woodworking division of the Northern Industrial Arts fair was won by Mike Froehle, ninth grader at Franklin junior high school in Thief River Falls. Shop instructors are Larry Golden and Jack McDermid.

American Legion Posts To Close Year's Activity

Planning for the annual observance of Memorial day also serves as a time sentinel to the members of the Minnesota American Legion in the posts and districts to close a year's activity by hearing reports on the past year's activities and election of new officers in the posts and districts for the coming American Legion year of 1971-1972.

Posts elect new officers, delegates to the district and department conventions and prepare to gather at the ten American Legion district conventions to hear reports on the year just completed, elect the constitutional officers of their district for the coming year and also elect delegates to the national convention.

Resolutions, originating in the posts and district committees concerning the programs of the American Legion are discussed and voted upon, thereby laying the cornerstones from which the programs will be guided in the years ahead. Forwarded on for concurring consideration and action at the department and national conventions, this system produces a "grass roots" system of guidance and expression on the programs and activities of the Legion at all levels.

Newly elected post and district officers will assume their duties following the department convention in Rochester on July 8-10, 1971 and the National Convention at Houston, Tx. on August 31 and September 1 and 2. From early June when they are elected, all are planning for the year ahead as constitutional officers of the American Legion posts and districts, appointing committees and chairmen to be in charge of programs and activities, holding organizational meetings with their officers and establishing a pattern of events for their year as American Legion officials.

Newfolden Menu For Week Listed

Monday, May 17, Cream of tomato soup, soda crackers, peanut butter sandwiches, plain bread and butter, cookies, gelatin with fruit, milk.

Prevent Litter On Fish Opener

Minnesota anglers were asked today by Robert Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources, to make an all out effort this fishing season to keep cans, bottles, and wrappers out of state lakes and streams.

"No one who calls himself a sportsman is worthy of that name if he throws his rubbish and litter into the waters he depends upon to supply his recreation," said the Commissioner.

The bottoms of some of Minnesota's most popular fishing waters are so littered with cans, bottles and other debris as to more resemble municipal dumps than lakes, he declared.

Herbst said many of the bottles and cans eventually wash up into the shallows where they can cause serious injury to swimmers and others using the shoreline.

Conservation officers are making an increasing number of arrests for littering in a determined effort to correct the situation.

"The public is fed up with littering and is supporting the Department in its determination to put a stop to it," Herbst said.

He noted that littering is a misdemeanor under the law. "The penalty for a misdemeanor was increased from $100 to $300 two years ago," he said, "and perhaps a few $300 fines would make people understand that the state regards the problem as serious."

NSJC Trackmen Finish Fourth

Northland state junior college trackmen scored 40 points with just four men during a junior college meet held Tuesday afternoon.

Vermillion won the meet with 78 points followed by Mesabi with 70, Hibbing 67, Northland 40 and Rainy River 16. Northland's score was double the amount they scored against the same teams last week.

Freshman Tony Burke was the meet's second highest scoring individual with a first, three thirds and a fifth-place finish for 15½ points. Burke captured the discus event with a toss of 121-8½ and finished third in the shot put (38-8½), Javelin (130-10) and triple jump (34-11). His high jump effort was good for a tie for fifth place.

Tim Olson ran his best time of the year in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 16.3 to win the event while finishing second in the 180 lows (22.9) and second in the triple jump to Burke with a jump of 35-5.

Mark Kays finished second in the discus with a toss of 116-5 which was his best effort of the season and fifth in the shot put with a 35-2.

Jim Duray was a second-place finisher in the 220-yard dash with a 24.5 clocking and fourth in the 100-yard dash in 10.9.

The Northmen will compete in the Northern Conference meet at Babbitt Monday, May 17, for their last scheduled meet of the season.

NSJC Golf Team Has Busy Week

Northland state junior college's golf team played Bemidji junior varsity to a 7½-7½ tie at the Bemidji country club course Monday afternoon.

Scoring was based on five man teams with all members of each team playing 18 hole match each for one point and 18 hole medal for one point. Scoring for Northland were Tim Carlson three points, Bob Lundbohm 2½ points, Steve Larson 1½ points and Bill Walker ½ point. Tim Carlson of Northland and Bob Daniels of Bemidji tied for Medal honors with 78.

Northland's next golf action will be against Crookston Tech on Thursday afternoon, May 13. NSJC defeated Crookston last week in a dual meet 14½ to ½ points.

Northland hosted an invitational golf meet with Itasca state junior college and Bemidji junior varsity at Thief River Falls May 6. Team scores were based on the four low score totals of the five man teams. Itasca finished first with a low total of 324, Northland second at 329 and Bemidji third at 343. Dana Flink of Itasca was medalist with a 78.

The Northmen placed second in a recent tournament hosted by Hibbing junior college. Six northern junior colleges competed in this invitational tournament that was held at Swan Lake Country Club in Pengilly, Minnesota, May 4.

Curt Flinch, of Itasca state junior college, shot a 76 to win medalist honors and lead Itasca to the team title. Tim Carlson, of Northland state junior college shot a 78 for second low score and gave Northland second place in team scoring.

Itasca state golfers posted a 324, followed by Northland 327, Mesabi 328, Brainerd 353, Vermillion 345 and Hibbing 353.

Card of Thanks

Special thanks to Doctors, Scheuneman and Bray and to the nursing staff at Northwestern hospital for care received while a patient. Also thanks to all who sent flowers, cards or visited me. Irvin Magnuson 1138p

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our sincere thanks to our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind and thoughtful during the loss of our beloved mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother. Most of all, thank you, for your cards, gifts, and visits while she was a patient at the C.N.C. Unit, Northwestern hospital. To Dr. Jerome Oray, Dr. A. F. Scheuneman and the hospital staff for their wonderful care. We wish to thank Rev. Paul Cardin, Rev. Carriere and Rev. Potnode for their prayers, visits, the casketbearers and the ladies group of the church who served the lunch. To the friends who brought food to our home, to those who sent flowers, Mass offerings, cards and memorials and to those who helped in any way. May God Bless you all. The familys of Rose Hruby 1138p

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to friends and relatives who sent flowers and cards while we were both in Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Lumberjacks Capture Conference Track Crown

Bemidji trailed both Crookston and Thief River Falls going into the final two events in yesterday's Northwest Conference track meet at East Grand Foks but the Lumberjacks received two first-place performances to win their third straight conference title.

The Lumberjacks finished with 70½ points to runner-up Crookston's 64½ while Thief River Falls scored 62, East Grand Forks 45 and Roseau 14. It was Bemidji's fifth conference track crown since 1957.

With two events, the two-mile and the mile relay, remaining Crookston was leading the field with 60½ points to Thief River Falls' 56 and Bemidji's 55½ but the Jacks' Jon Wubbles turned in a 10:35 two-mile to edge Roseau's Jeff Larson while Bemidji's mile relay team ran a 3:50 to go along with another third-place finish in the two mile for 15 points and the crown.

Jim Sims' Prowler track squad stayed close to the leaders all the way despite a number of injuries with three first-place finishes. Rob Swenson supplied the only individual first with a 10.6 in the 100-yard dash while the Prowlers' 880-yard and sprint medley relay teams both captured first. The 880 squad, Steve Beich, Jon Markstrom, Jon Wangberg and Markoe Hanson, ran a 1:39.2 while the sprint medley, Swenson, Beich, Mike Fitzgerald and Don Beierson, clocked a 3:58. The Prowlers set the conference record for the sprint medley last season with a 3:57.7.

Rande Smith gave the Prowlers their only points in the field events with a second place finish in the long jump with a leap of 18' 10½" and with a fourth in the shot put with a heave of 41' 5". Smith also placed second in the 880 with a 2:15.

Other second-place finishes for the Prowlers were supplied by Markoe Hanson in the 100 and 220-yard dashes with times of 10.7 and 25.0, Wangberg in the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.9, and Kim Murphy in the mile with a time of 5:06.

Third-place performances were turned in by the mile relay team (3:42.3), Greg Bulger in the mile (5:07.8), and Mike Fitzerald in the 440 (55.6).

Jon Folkedahl with an 11:07.6 in the two-mile; Jon Wangberg with a 16.6 in the 120-yard high hurdles, and Boug Aaseby with a 21.9 in the lows supplied fourth places for the Prowlers while Dave Strand with an 11:11.6 in the two-mile and Aaseby with a 17.0 in the highs gained fifth-place finishes for the Prowlers.

Bemidji held a 1½ point lead after the morning's prelims with 14 points to Crookston's 13½, East Grand Forks with 8½ and the Prowlers with 6, but after eight events were completed Crookston went in front with 35½ points to the Prowlers' and Lumberjacks' 32 and "East Side's" 23½.

No new conference records were set in yesterday's wind-swept meet although the Prowler sprint medley team came close as did Crookston's Gary Wagner in the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 20.5. The old mark for the lows is a 20.1 set by "East Side's" Kim Krostue in 1966.

The same teams will compete in the district 31 meet at the University of North Dakota track Saturday, May 22. The Prowlers will compete in a triangular meet with East Grand Forks and Crookston at "East Side" Thursday and in the Dragon Outdoor at Moorhead Tuesday, May 18, before entering the district meet.

The complete results of the Northwest Conference track meet:

High hurdles—1. Gary Wagner, Crookston. 2. Mathues, EGF. 3. Youngquist, Crookston. 4. Wangberg, TRF. 5. Aaseby, TRF. 15.6.

100—1. Rob Swenson, TRF. 2. Hanson, TRF. 3. Hohman, Crookston. 4. Wubbles, Bemidji. 5. Thompson, EGF. 10.6.

Mile — 1. Todd Peterson, Crookston. 2. Murphy, TRF. 3. Bulger, TRF. 4. Johnson, EGF. 5. Hanson, Bemidji. 4:49.8.

880 relay—1. TRF. 2. Bemidji. 3. EGF. 4. Crookston. 5. Roseau. 1:39.2.

440—1. Brad Wubbles, Bemidji. 2. Kiel, Crookston. 3. Fitzgerald, TRF. 4. Freborg, Bemidji. 5. Kurowski, EGF. 24.2.

Shot put—1. Leonard Bevos, Crookston. 2. Schwartz, Bemidji. 3. Dekrey, Bemidji. 4. Smith, TRF. 5. Hangsleben, EGF. 45' ½".

Bucks Top Prowlers 5-4 In Extra Innings

Crookston bounced back from a 3-0 deficit after two innings to score two runs in the last of the seventh to tie the game before scoring the winning run in the first extra inning for a 5-4 win over Thief River Falls yesterday on the Crookston diamond.

The loss gives the Prowlers a 5-3 season record with action slated tonight (Wednesday) at home against Warroad beginning at 5 p.m. A double header is scheduled for the fairground diamond tomorrow night against Bemidji with a starting time of 3:30 p.m.

The Prowlers jumped on Jim Clauson for four hits and three runs in the first two innings and totaled 11 hits for the game but three errors in the sixth and seventh innings cost the Prowlers the contest.

Second baseman Brian Peterson doubled off the centerfield wall with one out in the first inning and sophomore Tom Hanson followed with a homerun to left for a 2-0 Prowler lead in the first inning.

Dale Hanson, who pitched the fourth straight complete game for the Prowler pitching staff, led off the second inning with a solid triple to center and scored on senior Jerry Morben's sacrifice fly to left. Third baseman Neil Nelson tripled to left-center after one out but was one of ten Prowler runners stranded on base.

Crookston had its first real scoring threat in the third inning after two were out when Scott Wheethouse singled to left and Hanson hit Paul Hendrickson with a pitch to put two men on before Clauson ground out to the shortstop to end the inning.

In the fourth inning the Pirates put runners on second and third with two out but Hanson struck out Jim Lindell on a swinging third strike.

Hanson struck out the Pirates' first batter in the sixth inning but an error at third base put Kevin Tiedeman aboard. Tiedeman went to second on a passed ball and an infield hit put runners on first and third for the Pirates with only one out.

Lindell was called out on strikes while trying to bunt on a third strike before Loren Faul poked a single over third base to score Tiedeman and put runners at the corners. The Pirates scored once more in the inning on a passed ball for a 3-2 contest.

The Prowlers scored in their half of the seventh when pinch hitter Rick Johnson walked and went to second on a fielder's choice. Sophomore catcher Ordean Peterson reached on an infield hit to put runners on first and third with two out. Mike Hamerlinck came through with a base hit between short and second to score Johnson with the Prowlers' fourth run. Clauson stranded two Prowlers on base with a strike-out to end the inning.

Crookston tied the game in the bottom of the seventh with two hits, two walks and two Prowler errors.

Hendrickson reached on an error at third base but was tagged out after making too big a turn at first. After Clauson lined out to third for the second Pirate out of the inning Scott Youngquist walked on a full count and Ron Muir doubled to left to put runners at second and third.

Tiedeman walked to load the bases and Dale Noemandin poked a sinking drive to right field. The ball popped out of the outfielder's glove with two runs scoring to tie the game. Pinch hitter Mike Davis ground out to third base to end the inning.

Mike Hamilton singled to left and went to second on a throwing error with one out in the Prowlers' eighth. Nelson walked to put runners on first and second with one out but a fielder's choice at third and a foul pop fly ended the inning.

Crookston's Scott Wheelhouse walked in the eighth and went to second on Hendrickson's bunt single down the third base line. Clauson's hard single over third drove in the winning Pirate run.

Ordean Peterson went two for four at the plate for the Prowlers and Neil Nelson had a two for three performance to lead the Prowler hitting attack. Senior Brian Peterson also collected two hits for the Prowlers.

Crookston stranded 11 baserunners while collecting ten hits and committing just one error.

MOONBEAM LEAGUE champion team in the women's bowling association was the Ed's Food Market team. Left to right are Kathy Lindquist, Alma Malvig, Dolly Newland, Ann Yonke, Cecelia Stoltman and Roberta Klocty. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Opsund, sponsors, were not present when the photo was taken.

Indians Scalp LHS Tennis Squad 5-4

Lincoln high school tennis team has lost just two matches this season and both losses have come at the hands of the Grand Forks Central Indians.

Central dropped the Prowlers 5-4 Monday afternoon at Grand Forks after the Indians handed Thief River Falls an identical 5-4 loss on the Prowlers' courts a week ago.

The Prowlers lost in reverse this week however as Central's Terry Paukert dropped Prowler ace Mark Liden in the number one singles, 6-4, 1-6 and 8-6 after Liden led in the final set 5-3 before losing. Liden defeated Paukert in three sets last week.

Gordy Prichard avenged a loss to Central's Tom Wynne last week with a 2-6, 6-4 and 6-3 triumph in the number two singles while Tom Nepper registered his second win over Bill Gauslow, 5-7, 6-4 and 6-3, in the number three singles.

Mark Thyren and Stuart Waitonen lost 2-6, 3-6 in the doubles action to the Indians' Dave Deraney and Bave Fontaine. It was the second loss to the Central duo.

The Prowler B squad will see action this afternoon (Wednesday) on the home courts against Mahnomen while the varsity will be back in action Thursday at East Grand Forks.

The Prowlers will compete in a double dual match at Detroit Lakes Monday afternoon with the Lakers and Valley City before seeing home duty Tuesday, May 18, against Fertile in a 3 p.m. match.

Thief River Falls holds a 5-2 season record through Monday's match.

Token Therapy Used In Place Of Drugs At State Hospital

By Bill Hafling
University of Minnesota
Science Writer

When she was old enough to go to school, the little girl was sent to the state mental hospital instead. Diagnosed mentally retarded and considered a hopeless case by many, she and many others like her have spent their lives in institutions.

In the past 30 years the girl, though only dimly aware of what was happening around her, saw many things happen in her world. There were the many years in which the patients ran around screaming, hitting themselves and others, and tearing their clothes.

Therapists and custodians of many varieties came and went, pontificating, theorizing, philosophizing, praying, speaking with authority—and leaving in dispair. Mental institutions filled with patients.

Drugs Help

In the late 1950's, drug "therapies" were discovered and patients became more manageable. The noise level in mental institutions went down and many patients were able to leave the institutions for the first time. In fact, drugs have been credited with preventing the mental institutions from doubling by now over their present size. There are only two-thirds as many patients in Minnesota state mental hospitals today as there were in 1957 when drugs came into use.

Nevertheless, many patients spend the days, months and years now lying on the floor, and on benches, drowsy from medication. The easy cases come and go, but the harder-to-care-for, harder-to-treat cases stay.

Twenty-Four Women

For 24 women at Faribault state hospital in Minnesota things are very different now. Instead of screaming and crying and instead of lying on the floor due to sedation, the women are working puzzles, stringing beads, learning personal grooming, taking care of their personal needs, and learning to read and write. For those readers who feel the information is significant—the women's average I.Q. (intelligence quotient) is 35. (Average I.Q., a measure of learning ability, is 100 for the population at large.)

Linda McConahey, a tall, slim girl with long brown hair, is largely responsible for the dramatic difference in these women's lives. Linda, a University of Minnesota graduate student in psychopharmacology, took half of these women off drugs and instituted a therapy program based on behavior modification techniques for all of them. Behavior modification worked so well that only nine women now require any drugs at all.

The behavior modification technique involved the use of what is known as a token economy. Tokens, similar to poker chips, were given the women for doing a variety of useful activities, including self-help and skill learning. Given immediately on completion of a given activity, the tokens were exchangeable several times a day for such things as perfume, dresses, treats and combs.

Giving tokens to patients who do the right things is one example of what is known to behavioral psychologists as "positive reinforcement." A rather precise term, "positive reinforcement" differs from simply giving rewards for good behavior. The difference is that reinforcement clearly ties or relates the rewards only to certain clearly specified behaviors.

Reinforcement is judged to have taken place only when the desired goal behaviors begin to increase in frequency. As it happens, the patients begin to do what is desired of them more often and begin to make progress.

Careful Study Made

In order to compare the behavior modification program with drug therapy, Linda made a carefully controlled study of the two techniques.

For all patients, the specific reinforcement contingencies of the token economy were in effect from 8:30 to 11 a.m. each day. In the afternoons, though the same behaviors were desired on the part of the patients, no tokens were given. In this way, the effectiveness of the tokens could be measured.

Linda's study, to be published in the psychological literature under the title "Concurrent Behavior Modification and Chlorpromazine Therapy in a Population of Institutionalized Mentally Retarded Women," was co-authored by her advisor, Professor Travis Thompson of the University.

Menstrual Cycle Important Factor

The study was divided into six 28-day phases. As Linda pointed out, "Twenty-eight days corresponds to the mean (average) menstrual cycle length. Drug evaluation data for women should be plotted individually by day of menstrual cycle rather than by calendar day due to cyclic mood changes."

For the first 28 days, nothing was changed. No tokens were given, no drug doses were changed. Careful observation of all patients were made using several professional behavior evaluation measures. Such things as degree of grooming, bathing, fine and gross motor movements, reading, writing, hand work, toileting and comprehension all were kept track of.

Drugs were discontinued gradually in the next 28-day period for all patients, with changes in behavior again kept track of. On the 58th day of the study program, patients were assigned to two groups. For the next 28-days, half the patients received the tranquilizing drug, Thorazine (chlorpromazine) and half received an identical-appearing placebo (no drug at all).

In the intervening 28 day periods up to the final day of the study, the women were switched from drug to non-drug treatment in order to fully study differences in all the behaviors for all the women.

Control For Bias Made

To make sure that none of the staff members observing the women's behavior would be biased either for or against drug treatment, the drugs were given under a "double-blind" procedure. Neither the patient nor the staff member could be sure whether the drug or a placebo was being given at the time it was given. Only the hospital physician knew for sure which patients were getting drugs at any time. The physician also assigned the drug dosages appropriate to each person.

After all the measures had been done, and all the data was gathered, the huge complex of information was analyzed by a computer. When the analysis was completed and checked, drug treatment versus no-drug treatment could be examined. For all subjects, over each of the 50 behaviors observed, there were no significant differences between the results obtained during chlorpromazine drug therapy and during the non-drug (placebo) therapy. In other words, the drug had made no difference insofar as the women's progress was concerned.

Token System Made Big Difference

The big difference in behavior was found between mornings, when the token system was in effect, and afternoons when no token system was used.

"The morning and afternoon measures were strikingly different," Linda said. "There were more adaptive behaviors in the morning and more frequent maladaptive behaviors in the afternoon. Maladaptive behaviors include such things as aggression, loud talking, verbal abuse of others, talking to oneself and pestering others."

"When the token system was in effect, the women showed improvement in motor skills, hand work, verbal comprehension, eating, grooming, speech and time discrimination, money comprehension and dressing, as well as improvement on tests.

In the afternoons, when no tokens were given, the women hit themselves and others twice as many times and spent more time rocking back and forth or lying on the floor. The only behavior seen in the afternoon which might be considered "adaptive" was talking to other residents.

Linda's adviser, Professor Travis Thompson, said, "This work is a major accomplishment. It's the first careful study of the relative merits of a behavior therapy versus a drug therapy. It proves that once you get a good behavior management system going you don't need drugs nearly as much."

According to Dr. Thompson, 48 women are now on the token economy program and only nine receive any drugs at all.

Bergland Says Driver Minimum Age Unreasonable

Declaring "unreasonable" attempts by the department of transportation (DOT) to make 21 the minimum age for drivers of farm vehicles, U.S. Representative Bob Bergland this week introduced legislation which would exempt them from DOT regulation.

The new rule, scheduled to go into effect July 1, would cover farm trucks, pick-up sized or larger, that cross state lines.

Introducing the bill Bergland said: "Many farmers have no choice but to cross state lines to take their livestock and grains to markets and to purchase necessary farm supplies. If they are to continue to make ends meet," he added, "they must be able to rely on the younger members of the family for help. If he is required to hire—even if he can find—a full-time driver to conduct routine business," Bergland continued, "it will be one more of the burdens that help run thousands of farmers off their land each year."

Concluding Bergland said, "The Federal government should be a force to improve our lives not one which unjustly interferes in them."

THEY SHALL BEAT THEIR SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES, AND THEIR SPEARS INTO PRUNING HOOKS; NATION SHALL NOT LIFT UP SWORD AGAINST NATION, NEITHER SHALL THEY LEARN WAR ANY MORE

Of all the pictures of our senior class trip to New York City, this is everybody's favorite. Not just because the kids like Tom and Donna, but because it says something.

Clearer than a thousand words, it shouts our interest in anything that speaks of peace among nations.

And not just nations—we pray that within our country men of every color, age and interest can learn to build and work together to make a brighter future.

Sure, we're young and idealistic and have a lot to learn. That's why it's important for our parents and teachers and leaders to have good, strong values and to live by them.

My parents do. To them the Church is the backbone of our country and Christianity, the key to the future. That's why they go to church each week and take us with them.

THEY SHALL BEAT THEIR SWORDS...

Dairy cows fed alfalfa with some grain for energy have repeatedly produced 15,000 to 20,000 pounds of milk.

First concern of the dairymen must be profit. Feed cost is the largest single expense a dairyman faces. Thus, high quality feeds that are palatable must be produced.

Most dairy farms produce the majority of the forage and grain needed for the dairy herd. The value of these crops should be equivalent to 40 to 50 per cent of the income from milk sales.

Cows will eat 2 to 2.5 pounds of forage per hundred weight of body weight when cut at the bud to the first flower stage of maturity and only 1.2 to 1.8 pounds at the full bloom stage. Thus, daily feed costs are less when feeding early cut, high quality alfalfa.

Early cut alfalfa also contains a high proportion of nutrients, particularly protein, which reduces the need for supplementation. This will also lower the cost of milk production.

Intake is also of great importance if alfalfa is to be the major source of nutrients. The extent of intake will depend on the quality of the alfalfa.

Alfalfa also contains the necessary carotine needed for the production of normal healthy calves.

But, alfalfa must be handled like a major agricultural crop if high yields of excellent quality forage are to be obtained.

A new booklet, "Alfalfa Your High $ Crop" has been published. The latest research on animal production and crop management is contained in this publication. Copies can be obtained at no cost by writing to the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council, Route 3 - Box 1813, St. Charles, Illinois 60174.

With a farming system, including alfalfa, a dairyman can build a profitable dairy enterprise.

TALK OF THE MARKET

Cut Your Shrinkage Losses

Somewhere between feedlot and packing plant, a not-so-funny thing happens to your livestock. They shrink. That 1,000 pound steer in your lot may weigh only 950 pounds when he's weighed for sale - and you, the livestock producer, are out the difference.

Shrinkage is a fact of life producers must live with, regardless of how or where they market. But stockyards experts suggest you take the following steps to lessen this bite out of your payment check:

— Handle livestock with care, using good safe loading facilities. More than half your shrinkage occurs during loading and the first 10 miles of hauling. Don't sort and load in one operation. Give livestock a chance to rest between times.

— Pick a reputable trucker who knows how to handle livestock correctly, and who drives a clean, well-bedded truck.

— Don't overcrowd, but load trucks tight enough to prevent slipping and falling.

— Ship to a market where livestock can be fed and watered before sale. This can recoup much of your shrinkage loss, and more than offset your marketing fees.

— Livestock ship best on an empty stomach. And they're more apt to take on feed and water at the market if hungry.

— Make sure you don't receive a double shrink! This happens when you accept a "pencil shrink" from a direct buyer in addition to the actual shrink incurred by shipping livestock to his scales for weighing.

The market agents of your nearest United Livestock Market have other tips on how you can reduce your shrinkage losses. Get in touch with them. They're on your side.

Owning your own home can be simpler than you think!

Simpler because we're here to help. In fact, financing homes is half of our business. And, we take pride in helping families own their own home:

Consider these advantages you get when you finance your home through our association.

Low closing costs—Closing costs can mount up. Ours are low and competitive. Compare and see.
One monthly payment—You can make one monthly payment that includes both insurance and property taxes.
Fast, efficient service—When you finance at our association, you get fast, efficient service because everything is handled locally—in days, not weeks—by people you know and who know you.
No pre-payment penalty—In contrast to some mortgage plans, you can prepay any part of your loan at any time without penalty.
Loans up to 90%—With AMI's mortgage insurance plan, you can borrow up to 90% of the appraised value of your home and pay only 10% down.

If you're dreaming of a home of your own, come and talk with us about your financing needs. Buying a home is simpler than you think.

Outwit wild oats.
Let us fly on Carbyne* for wild oat control.
Wild oats are trouble! But you can outwit wild oats with Carbyne.
Remember, as soon as first green appears in your crop, it's time to check for wild oats. So, be alert. Catch wild oats in time to control them with a single spraying of Carbyne.
Timing is important. So don't let these wild oats get away from you because of muddy fields.

Doings of Week at Rosewood

Mrs. Bert Kron, Rt. 1, Newfolden, 123-2382

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Johnson attended the wedding and reception last Saturday night of Brenda Muzzy and LeRoy Walberg which was held at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls.

New Solum 4-H to serve at Friendship Club

At the regular monthly meeting of the New Solum 4-H club held at the Rosebank clubhouse, Debbie Reierson, vice president, was in charge last Thursday evening as plans were completed for serving lunch and giving a short program at the Friendship club which will meet at 7:30 May 6 at the Fireside room at Nopers motel. This is a community service activity that Pennington county 4-H clubs can take part in if they wish. The members of the club also voted to give a check of $5.00 to the tri-community scholarship fund for use in scholarships provided by the area for graduates of Marshall County Central who go on to college. Graduates of Lincoln high school can apply for a scholarship from the Pennington County 4-H leaders council if they have been 4-H members. It was also voted that the meetings start at 8:30 now with the change in time.

The following program was presented: Group singing; a demonstration, "How to properly cook an egg" by Barbara Holmstrom; project report, "Soap Carving" by Lyle Johnson; and two films on ecology were shown, "Life in the deciduous forest" and "Life on the prairie". Recreation was provided by Laura Kron and David Lubarski. Serving the lunch were Mrs. Harold Lambert and Mrs. Donald Lubarski.

During the week some of the 4-H members and leaders attended the county 4-H play and share the fun elimination contests. Mrs. Bert Kron was one of three adult leaders serving as judges at the contest at Goodridge Friday evening.

Intelligence(?) Reports

The following editorial is from the Shelton, Wash., Journal and was reprinted in the Minnesota Press, published by the Minnesota Newspaper association;

They've got a little list.

Nosey newsmen and Congressional investigators have turned up the fact that United States Army intelligence files contain information on 25,000,000 Americans the military considers a danger to the security of the military-cost overrun complex.

There has been much criticism of the massive surveillance and compilation of dossiers on civilians, but nowhere has the public been able to find out what the brass considers a threat, since contents of the files have been kept secret.

Your friendly hometown newspaper decided to do something about this information gap. We admit to pirating a successful scheme from William Randolph Hearst, Jr., to accomplish our purpose.

When the Hearst newspapers want to present an in-depth snow job, they send the Hearst Task Force, a group of prose pros, to do the job. You are about to benefit from the results of the first offering of the Journal Task Force, a select newsman we sent to Washington, D. C., to bring back the true case histories of the one-in-ten Americans who threaten the security of our war machine.

Through hard work and the purchase of eight double martinis for a disgruntled clerk in the Pentagon, the Journal Task Force obtained a number of dossiers, the eye-opening contents of which we reproduce below. The reports are sketchy, but they tell the story of those who are destroying our country from within.

"Billie Jo Thrush; Green Mold, Louisiana; female, white, 42-42-42 — Left out the words "rockets" red glare while singing the Star Spangled Banner prior to Little League game between Green Mold Giants and Snake Haven Braves. Agent X-14457 was disguised as umpire and submitted expense claim for three orange pops and two hot dogs."

"Morley Hertz; Gomorrah, Utah; male, white — Scraped American flag decal off windshield of 1956 Chevrolet and replaced it with STP sticker."

"John Forward, Pete Forward, Sam Guard, Harry Guard and Leland Center; Hoop, Indiana; all male, white—Starting five on Hiram Q Black High School basketball team. Agent X-2398 set new undercover record when he arrived at scene three minutes after reading headline on sports page of the Hoop Chronicle that said: 'BLACK PANTHERS TO INVADE EAGLE GYM.' "

"Harvey Squint; Big Puddle, Texas; male, white, near-sighted — Set fire to reel of film at American Legion stag party while smoking cigar next to projector. Agent X-13659 was treated for smoke inhalation. Squint was hospitalized with a skull fracture and multiple abrasions and contusions. Sixty-eight Legionnaires suffered bruised knuckles and extreme frustration."

"Inspector Lew Erskine; Video, California; male, white — FBI Inspector Erskine, wearing a fright wig, false beard, fringed vest and burlap hot pants, participated in demonstration in front of FBI headquarters in Butte, Montana, carrying a sign that read 'BAN BUTTE'."

"Rear Admiral Dudley Derriere; Fantail, Maryland; male, white, 42-54-61 — Won $100 bet on Army-Navy game from Colonel Wesley Point, head of intelligence unit at Fantail, Maryland."

"Harvey Lathe; Cheddar, Wisconsin; male, white — Drank twelve Moscow Mules at Christmas party of Cheddar Machine Works, a prime defense contractor."

"George Running Board, Barren, Wyoming; male, American Indian — Displayed bumper sticker on car reading 'CUSTER WORE AN ARROW SHIRT.'"

"Tansy Ragwort; Sardine, Maine; female, white — Burned sheet of six-cent stamps in lobby of Sardine Post Office to protest 14-day delivery of birthday card from mother in town 28 miles away."

"Amos Nandy; Geoduck, Washington; male, black — Attempted to deliver laundry through front door of Geoduck Elks Club."

"Bernard Bleedingheart; Quaker, Pennsylvania, male, white — Disrupted an executive meeting of the Peace Corps by delivering a speech advocating peace."

We are sure that after reading these intelligence reports you will come to the horrifying conclusion that the only group actively protecting our government from its citizens is the United States Army.

It is imperative that the list be expanded. The times dictate that we cannot afford to be half-safe. Surely no American can rest easy in his bed until the Army has a file folder on each of us.

Telephone, wire or write Senator Henry M. Jackson today. Tell him nuclear, chemical and biological weapons are not enough. We must not let the Russians remain ahead of us in the secret police race.

Freedom is everybody's business.

Tornado Survival

A Twin Cities radio station has recently circulated an information sheet on tornado survival. Since this type of storm has become increasingly common in this area—or at least conditions are being more readily diagnosed as potential tornado weather—the suggestions given are good to know. The information sheet follows:

The tornado is the most violent of all storms. To save your life you must know what to do when you hear official tornado warnings.

1. Listen to your radio for official tornado warnings and take them seriously. You usually will first hear that a Tornado "Watch" is in effect. This means that tornados may occur. A Tornado "Warning" is broadcast when a twister actually strikes.

2. Stay indoors. Wind-driven objects are your greatest danger outdoors.

3. Go to a storm cellar or basement if you can. The southwest corner usually is the safest. Take your battery radio for official information.

4. If you must remain above ground in a building, stay away from windows. Open the windows about an inch on the side of the building away from the approaching storm to reduce air pressure inside. Take shelter under a heavy table, or heavy furniture near the center of the building.

5. If you are in a car, drive away from the path of a tornado. Go to low, dry ground for shelter from wind-driven objects. Stay away from overhead wires.

6. If you are caught outdoors, lie down flat on the ground. A dry roadside ditch or plowed furrow gives you some protection.

7. Be prepared to give first aid. Remember that it is dangerous to move injured persons unless you are trained in aid work.

When you hear Civil Defense sirens, turn on your radio for official tornado "Watches" and "Warnings"

Art of Law Un-making

The following editorial is from the Wheaton Gazette:

It would appear that the Minnesota Legislators have a good deal less trouble making laws than unmaking them. That, at least, appears to be the case with legislation dealing with the Regional Development Act in Minnesota.

In the fading moments of the 1969 legislative session, the Minnesota Legislature swept into law a bill requiring the establishment of 11 regions in Minnesota. It was done in three weeks, without as much as a floor debate on the matter.

The act was met with heated opposition in outstate Minnesota. In Traverse County, for instance, Commissioners approved a resolution saying that they opposed regional planning. They suggested that the whole affair be dropped, but that in the event the county had to be included in the regional planning program, they wanted out from the region to which they were assigned and into another.

Now there is a bill in the Legislature (HF. 349) calling for the repeal of the Regional Development Act of 1969. A good many legislators have indicated that they intend to give the matter serious consideration. If they are, they certainly are not letting anyone know about it.

The big question to be answered by legislators in considering this whole business of regional planning is whether or not it serves any purpose. Some claim it is an absolute "must" if Minnesota expects to share in federal funding programs. But opponents of regional planning maintain that other states continue to share in federal revenues without any such regional planning.

Prime concern of those opposed to regional planning is that the program develops yet another branch of our already overly expensive government—and if there's anything we don't need it's more expensive government. Some feel that regional government is the first step toward elimination of township and even county government.

Whatever the case may be, it does appear that there is due cause to reconsider the Regional Development Act and perhaps repeal the whole thing.

S. about 11 a.m. Sunday.

Legislative Letter
from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Use of studded tires will no longer be permitted in the state. A subcommittee of the House Transportation committee voted to table all bills dealing with studded tires. The committee had nine bills dealing with this subject in their possession. I was the principal author of a bill that would have permitted the use of studded tires in the rural areas of the state outside the seven-county metropolitan area. Most of the damage from studded tires is in the metro area.

The highway department is of the opinion that the safety factor is greatly over-played. I still feel a reasonable compromise would be to ban the use of studded tires in the metro area but permit their use in the outstate area for a two-year period. After that experience the legislature and the highway department would be in a good position to evaluate whether or not it would be feasible to continue the use of studded tires on that basis.

The reduction of Minnesota's voting age to 18 years and the likely federal reduction to 18 has caused the legislature to consider legislation that would define the requirement for voting in communities in which students predominate.

The bill that is being considered would prevent students from voting from residences established for the purpose of attending school. The fear also focuses on the possibility of students taking over municipal government in small college towns. This is a problem that this session of the legislature should resolve.

Corporate farming has been one of the issues that has been discussed in past legislative sessions and also has been given many hearings during the present session.

A bill dealing with corporate farming has recently passed through the various agriculture committees and also passed the legislature to become law in the state of Minnesota. This bill would provide for the registration of all corporations dealing in the production of agriculture products or livestock in this state.

I personally feel this is a significant piece of legislation because when this information is processed, we will be able to get an indication of the types of business involved in agriculture as they relate to the corporate structure and also indicate any trends that might be taking place in the state.

Another bill relating to this subject and which will be acted on by the legislature soon would place some restrictions on corporate ownership of land and also what is commonly termed "vertical integration". I would like to briefly indicate what is encompassed in the bill and in so doing, hopefully will clear some of the misunderstanding concerning it.

Upon the effective date of this act when signed by the Governor until June 30, 1973, no corporation could acquire or otherwise obtain an interest in title in real estate used for farming within this state. Also, those involved in "vertical integration" which is the production, processing or distribution of farm products would also be restricted under the terms of this bill if their production exceeds $2 million per year.

It has been extremely difficult to define if in fact there is a serious threat in the State of Minnesota regarding the takeover by corporations and-or the structure of "vertical integration" in the farming industry. It was felt by some that while we are researching the outcome of the registration of corporations engaged in agriculture, we should place a moratorium until the next session of the Legislature so that if in fact this encroachment is a reality, a more complete determination can be made at that time.

Again, I want to repeat, the next session of the Legislature can then take a look at these exemptions as well as the possible threats to agriculture in this state and make a more thorough determination.

Hopefully, this will clarify many of the questions you may have concerning this subject. It is the intention in this piece of legislation as in all others to better the overall economy and protection of all of the residents of our state.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor,

After the drawing held last Thursday evening, I am prompted to write this letter. Imagine the shock when they called the name of my mother who died 5½ years ago. I think this is disgraceful!

I suggest that the names in the barrel be relegated to the scrap heap and a new registration started.

The thinking of the Chamber of Commerce must be that using this obsolete list of names exempts them from paying out money to people who have died or moved out of the area.

Yours truly,
Mrs Matt Wick

Tips On Trailers Given By Public Safety Dep't.

Minnesota has reciprocity with other states, provinces and countries regarding motor vehicle and small trailer licensing. This means that the vacationer from out of state may tow his trailer with an out-of-state trailer license or none at all, if his state does NOT have such a requirement.

Minnesota driving and equipment laws apply to non-residents as well as residents.

Trailer hitches must be equipped with safety chains, and they must be fastened when the vehicle is on the highway.

Speed limits for all vehicles are 60 miles per hour day, and 55 miles per hour night, in rural areas; and 30 miles per hour in urban areas, except in zones where other speeds are posted.

The driver of a vehicle towing a trailer must keep a 500-foot interval behind traffic ahead, outside of residential and business areas.

On multiple lane highways, passing is permitted on the right. However, slower traffic is required to keep to the right-hand lane. Violators of this rule are subject to arrest.

Rear lamps and red reflectors are required on the trailer. Brake lamps and turn signals are not required if the signals of the towing vehicle are clearly visible to following traffic. License plate must be illuminated.

Small Children Need Attention If Fire Starts

Flame—Flash—fatality

This is an accident report in brief—a report about a child who was the victim of a fire because he was left alone or without the supervision of a mature, dependable person.

If the first touches of spring give area residents a restless urge to get out of the house, go ahead, says Thief River Falls fire chief Roy Longevin, but don't leave small children alone in the house while you're out.

"Hundreds of children are killed by fire each year because parents gamble that nothing will happen while they are away for just a few minutes," says Chief Langevin. "The fact is that one child out of every three who dies in fires is alone and helpless when fire strikes, according to records compiled by the National Fire Protection association."

Chief Langevin recommends that you take your children with you when you go out, if only for a quick cup of coffee with a neighbor or a short trip to the store. Otherwise, leave the children with a competent older family member or with a babysitter.

Another way, he says, to keep children safe from fire is to start to teach them at a young age to have respect for fire. Make sure they understand how important it is to stay well out of the range of flames and sparks, and how dangerous it is to play with matches.

Buddy Poppy which will be offered to you on the streets soon is sold by a volunteer. All proceeds will go to the relief and welfare of the needy veteran, his widow and orphans.

USDA Secretary Clifford Hardin holds the 1971 Survey of Top Soybean Growers. Better crop management is the key to higher yields, point out leading growers (from left) Merle Leler, Albion, Iowa; William Griffin, New Bern, N.C.; and Allen Cummins, Brookville, Miss.

The nation's top soybean growers will place stronger emphasis on overall crop management to boost yields and profits. That's the finding of a survey of 400 of the nation's leading soybean growers.

Top soybean growers will also boost 1971 acreage, increase on-farm storage, and trade more often on commodity futures markets, according to the nation-wide survey.

The survey was conducted this Spring by the National Soybean Crop Improvement Council, Urbana, Illinois. Its goal was to pinpoint management practices that will aid other soybean growers in producing a more profitable 1971 crop.

"Top soybean growers see a lofty demand, a strong price outlook, and an opportunity to make better than average profits through improved management efforts," says the Council's Robert W. Judd. "And they'll place stronger emphasis on weed control, soil fertility, and ways to cut production costs."

The Survey was conducted by major soybean-producing regions—Midwest, West, Delta, and Southeast. Top Midwestern soybean growers will shoot for a 1971 yield goal of 51.2 bushels per acre—banking on more fertilizer and weed control for assistance.

Leading Delta soybean growers plan to harvest 43.1 bushels per acre. Western soybean leaders are planning for 45.6 bushels per acre, and top growers in the Southeast are setting their sights on 43 bushels per acre. The majority of top growers polled credit better crop management and reduced production and labor costs as keys to better profits.

Judd sums up the 1971 soybean situation this way: "The 1971 soybean outlook is bright – and top growers will take advantage of it by boosting total acreage and overall management efforts. Their goal is profit."

School Election Slated Tuesday

Edgar Naplin

Charles Samuelson

Roger Worth

School election in Thief River Falls District 564 took on added interest late last week when a write-in candidate was announced from the previous St. Hilaire school district. Edgar Naplin, 15-year veteran of the St. Hilaire board, has announced that he will be a write-in candidate.

Naplin joins six others actively seeking the three positions open on the board. Previously filing for the positions were Charles Samuelson, incumbent, Rev. Paul Biegner, Curtis L. Charlson, Robert Flynn, John E. Goulet and Roger Worth. Dr. George Martin and Mervin Prestebak, whose terms expire, did not file for reelection.

Recent state legislation signed by Gov. Wendell Anderson makes it possible for school districts which will be annexed to high school districts on July 1 to vote and sponsor write-in candidates in the elections of those high school districts. St. Hilaire district will become a part of the Thief River Falls district on July 1.

Naplin has farmed southwest of St. Hilaire for a number of years and has been active in many farm, community and church organizations. A member of the St. Hilaire board for 13 years, he has prepared the district's budget for the past 10 years.

Persons who wish to write in the name of any candidate in the election are reminded that they are to place an "X" in the box in front of the line on which they write in the candidate's name. If they fail to do so, writing in the name will not count as a vote for that person.

The School District 564 election will also be the first in which 19-year-old residents will be permitted to vote. Advance registration for voting is not necessary in this community, and registration is taken at the polling place.

Election hours will be from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria.

April Weather Records Show Warm, Dry Month

April was a fairly warm but extremely dry month in the Thief River Falls area, with only one day of measurable precipitation. Farm work in the area moved at a record pace during the latter part of the month.

The precipitation fell April 25, with only one-tenth of an inch of rain recorded. A trace of precipitation was measured April 1 and 2, again April 13, again April 27 and 28, and once more on the last day of the month.

The average monthly high temperature was 50.7, and the monthly low averaged 31 degrees. The warmest day was April 15, when the temperature reached 68, and the lowest temperature was recorded at 8 degrees April 3.

The lowest high temperature was 22 degrees on April 2, and the highest low was 50 degrees on April 18. Mean temperature for the month was 41.3 degrees. The mean April temperature for the preceding five years was 39 degrees.

The widest temperature variation in a 24-hour period during April was on April 14 and 17, with variations of 30 degrees on each day.

Following is a summary of the temperatures and precipitation during the month, as supplied the Times courtesy of the weather observation station at the North Central Airlines terminal at Thief River Falls.

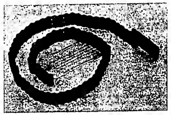
Police Chief Gives Views On TRF Crime



HEAVY ROLLER CHAIN, attached to a piece of polished metal containing two bent bolts, was worn as a belt by an area resident, according to Chief Roland Waller of the Thief River Falls police department. Chief Waller showed the chain, which had been confiscated by local officers, to members of the Thief River Falls city council last Tuesday evening. He termed the belt a "vicious weapon".

(Editor's Note: Following is the statement presented Tuesday evening to the Thief River Falls city council by Roland E. Waller, chief of the city's police department, prior to council approval of purchasing a third squad car for the department.)

Members of the City Council of Thief River Falls:

When I first met with you last November and discussed the details of my coming here as your Chief of Police, I was quite impressed with what I felt was your progressive attitude toward law enforcement and its needs. You had a goodly number of good men (partially necessitated by your having to maintain a jail). You had two squad cars and plans in your mind and the budget ($3,850) for a third car. You were adding a sixteenth man to the department in that the former chief was being relegated to the position of special investigator

Gaers Sell Store To Bill Dee And James Johnson

Effective May 12 the Ben Franklin store and Falls Variety, Inc., in Thief River Falls were sold by Mr. and Mrs E. M. (Gene) Gaer to James A. Johnson of Wahpeton, N.D., and W. H. (Bill) Dee of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaer have owned and operated the store since the fall of 1957. They plan to do some traveling and an increased amount of fishing this summer, and maintain their home in Thief River Falls.

James A. Johnson is owner of the Ben Franklin store in Wahpeton and Johnson TV and Appliance in Alexandria.

Dee has been manager of the local store for four years and will continue as manager. He moved here from Great Falls, Mont., where he had been a Ben Franklin stores supervisor for three years. Prior to that he had been with the F. W. Woolworth company for 22 years, the last 10 years in Detroit Lakes after working in Iowa, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Bill and his wife Doris have three sons and three daughters. Two are attending Northland state junior college, two are in Lincoln high school and two attend Knox elementary school. Dee is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion. He said that plans are now underway for in-store remodeling and department revision to take place late this summer.

Four Viking Children In Bus Accident

Four school children from the Viking area involved in a bus accident were examined in Northwestern hospital and released Friday morning after their school bus overturned in a ditch one mile east of the Elton Underdahl farm three miles north and one mile east of Viking.

Treated following the bus accident were Ronald Kvamme, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kvamme; LeAnne Kezar, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kezar; Gloria Moose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Glenn Moose; and Diane Floberg, 11.

Further details were unavailable at press time, the Marshall county sheriff's office said it would give no further details until reports are finished.

Northland Band, Chorus To Give Concert Tuesday

Band and chorus of Northland state junior college will give a "Spring Coffee House Concert" tomorrow (Tuesday) at 8 p.m.

The college band, under the direction of James Solsten, will play Strommen's "All About the Blues", DeCamps' "Tribute to Basie", Mercer and Raksin's "Laura", and Bergman and LeGrand's "Windmills of Your Mind", among other selections.

The chorus, directed by Sverre Solheim, will present Handel's "Music, Spread Thy Voice", from the "Solomon" oratorio. The chorus will also sing Hugh Roberton's "Lovely Heart", Hayward and Gershwin's "Summertime", Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady", and Simon and Garfunkel's "Bridge Over Troubled Water", among other selections.

The concert will take place in the student commons, with the public invited to attend and stay for refreshments. Admission is free.

PETERSON SPEAKS TO JAYCEES

Paul Peterson of Red Lake Falls will speak tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 6:30 to the Thief River Falls Jaycees meeting in the Elks Club on his 18 months in Vietnam with the U.S. Aid to International Development (AID) program.

Awards Distributed At Lincoln Senior Banquet

"WE'RE GONNA NEED a taller ladder and a lot more paint," could well be the comment of Julie Hermanson and Paulette Swanson as they have high hopes for the community's clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign. The expanse of the city arena exterior proved too much to attempt, however, so the girls settled for a little bird feeder artistry. Other photos are published on page to help teach the object lesson: Some people can't expect to do everything, but everyone should expect to do something for the clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign.

Craig To Give Graduation Talk At Newfolden

Earl D. Craig, Jr.

Earl D. Craig Jr., will be speaker at the Marshall County Central high school commencement excersises at Newfolden May 27.

Craig is presently a radio commentator and instructor in political science at Southwest Minnesota state college in Marshall and instructor in the Afro-American studies department at the University of Minnesota.

His work has included community organization and social work in settlement houses in St. Louis and Minneapolis. He was coordinator of Student International programs at the university for three years and former national executive director for the New Democratic Coalition. He was also a former editorial page columnist for the Minneapolis Tribune and was a candidate for the U. S. Senate DFL primary in 1970.

RABIES CLINIC

Rabies clinic for vaccination of cats and dogs will be conducted by Dr. F. W. Hazard Wednesday from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m. at his office on Oakland Park road near Lon's cafe.

James Aune and Julie Hermonson were named recipients of the American Legion and auxiliary outstanding senior boy and girl awards at the senior class banquet held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria. 50th Anniversary Celebrated By W. Lendobejas

About 140 relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lendobeja on Sunday, May 2, to help them celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. The actual date of their anniversary was April 29th.

Hosting the open house celebration were the couple's two children and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Dolores) Hoff of Eau Claire, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Julian W. Lendobeja of rural Thief River Falls.

Among those present for the occasion was Mrs. Lendobeja's sister, Mrs. Adelaide Ingberg of Fargo, N.D., who was maid of honor at the wedding 50 years ago. She assisted with the activities by presiding at the coffee service. Mr. Lendobeja's sister, Mrs. Bert K. Johnson of Goodridge cut and served the decorated anniversary cake.

In addition to Mrs. Ingberg and Mrs. Johnson, other sisters and brothers of the couple were also in attendance. Mrs. Lendobeja's sister and brothers present were Miss Thordis Swendsgaord, Julius Svendsgaard and his wife, Edward Svendsgaard and his wife, all of Fargo, N.D., and Charles Svendsgaard and his wife of rural Thief River Falls. Mr. Lendobeja's brothers and sister-in-law present were Mr. and Mrs. Julian C. Lendobeja, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja and Mrs. Ted Lendobeja, all of Thief River Falls. Two sisters of Mr. Lendobeja living in Akron, Ohio were unable to attend but sent special greetings.

Helping to create a festive air was a bouquet of flowers that earlier that day had graced the altar at Bethany Lutheran church. The bouquet was a gift from the couple's eight grandchildren.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

features from the kitchen of
Mrs. Noral Langlie
Of Holt

Fishing season has opened and the success of the weekend fishing trip can be told by the number or size of fish caught. For those who came home without any fish, may I suggest that you try the following recipe for stew. The recipe was provided by a local fisherman (?) who spent the weekend planting trees.

Elephant Stew

1 elephant
Salt and pepper to taste
2 rabbits

Method: Cut elephant into bite size pieces. This usually takes about two months. Add enough water to cover, approximately 500 gallons. Cook over kerosene fire for about five weeks or until tender.

This will serve about 400 people. If more show up for dinner, add two rabbits. However, use sparingly as most people don't like hare in their food! (EMS)

To compensate for the above recipe, Kitchen Karnival is publishing a recipe for bars. Today's recipe was submitted by Mrs. Noral Langlie of Holt. This recipe is suited for the small family, but it may be doubled successfully.

Peanut Butter Fingers

½ cup butter
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1-3 cup peanut butter
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
1 cup oatmeal

Method: Cream butter and sugars, add egg and beat well. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Baked in a greased 7 x 8 inch pan in a 350 degree for 20 minutes or until done. Remove from oven and cover with a six-ounce package of chocolate chips. Return to the oven for about a minute or two. Spread the softened chocolate chips like frosting. Cover with an icing made by combining 1 cup powdered sugar, ¼ cup peanut butter and 2 tablespoons milk.

Mr. and Mrs. Noral Langlie live in the village of Holt with their two children: Shawn, 6, who attends school in Newfolden, and Danny, 4. Mrs. Langlie stated that since she and her husband are employed full-time, she doesn't have the opportunity to participate in many outside activities. She enjoys baking, working in her vegetable garden and for relaxation, she likes to read.

The family attends services at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Middle River.

Crop Storage Rates Revealed

Storage rates for the coming year for farm stored resealed commodities have recently been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall county ASC committee.

Farm stored crops eligible for reseal, applicable to Marshall county are 1968, 1969 and 1970 wheat, barley, and oats. Storage rates per year for these commodities are $14.60 per 100 bushels for 1970 wheat and barley; $11.315 per 100 bushels for 1970 oats; $12.045 per 100 bushels for 1968 and 1969 wheat and barley; and $8.76 per 100 bushels for 1968 and 1969 oats.

The storage period is from June 1, 1971 through May 31, 1972, with payments being made after June 1, 1972. Dahl emphasized the importance of these rates before producers decide which of their commodities they will reseal.

District GOP Met Thursday

Pennington county Republicans last Thursday evening were at Brooks for the area meeting of the 7th District Republican party. The large delegation was led by the G.O.P. county chairman, Dr. David Brown of Goodridge.

At the meeting it was reported that all finance drive goals had been exceeded, including the $100 dinner headed by Dr. Arnold Berg, and the neighbor to neighbor drive lead by Mrs. Eba Sagmoen, both of Thief River Falls.

Following the meeting, the Pennington county executive board met and appointed Mrs. Eba Sagmoen to the post of county chairwoman. Mrs. Alma Elofson was appointed county vice-chairwoman.

Margaret Wurst In Honor Group At St. Catherine

Margaret Mary Wurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wurst of Thief River Falls, was honored at special ceremonies held recently at the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul for academic achievements and leadership qualities.

She was admitted into membership in Sigma Theta Tau society, a national honor society in nursing that selects members on the basis of scholarship and leadership potential in nursing. She is a senior majoring in nursing at St. Catherine's.

Grant Lillevold Recipient Of U of M Stipend

Grant M. Lillevold, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny C. Lillevold of Grygla, has been awarded a stipend by a foundation to study chemical engineering at the University of Minnesota, it has been announced.

He received the John P. Fridley Foundation fellowship in chemical engineering from a fund sponsored by the late Mrs. Edith G. Fridley. Lillevold will graduate from Goodridge high school this spring and will become a freshman majoring in chemical engineering at the university later.

Meat Eating Hits New Record

Americans have been eating more meat each year since 1965—and the increase in meat consumption is expected to continue in 1971.

Red meat consumption last year rose to a record 185.5 pounds per person, according to Dale C. Dahl, extension economist at the University of Minnesota. Beef is by far the most popular meat. Beef consumption in 1970 totaled 113.4 pounds, a new record.

Along with more meat, Americans ate more poultry, fish, vegetable oils, processed potatoes, sugar and sweeteners last year. They ate about the same number of eggs as the year before but fewer dairy products, fresh potatoes, cereal products and animal fats and drank less coffee, Dahl reported.

For 1971, per capita food consumption may increase 1 per cent, with animal products again making up the greatest proportion of the increase. During the first half of 1971 consumption of livestock products is expected to be higher than in the same period in 1970, largely because Americans have been eating more pork.

Police Chief Gives Views On Crime In City

and staying on the department. The budget was set up for 16 men.

Captain Liden resigned and his spot has not as yet been filled, though we talked about it in January of this year. Since my arrival I have found that my first impression may have been in error. Most of the men on the department feel that they are looked on as being POOR COUNTRY COUSINS; that should stay out of sight and mind until summoned.

The general feeling is that the police department is first to experience budget cuts and last for expenditures. The wage negotiation impasse and the pension situation bear this out. Now we hear that the third car for which bids are already in is to be denied us without a fair hearing on the need and use of this vehicle.

I am sure you are very well aware that crime is on the increase all over this country. It is rising at a much higher rate in the suburban and rural areas than it is in the cities. IT IS RISING HERE IN THIEF RIVER FALLS. We must show a positive and progressive approach to this increase.

During the four months I have been here, we have barely been able to keep two cars on the street due to repairs, etc. As a matter of fact, one of the cars was laid up for repairs four days last week and is back in the garage right now for repairs on a motor flaw in evidence from the very first day it was purchased. WE HAVE NO BACK-UP CAR. If both cars were to be disabled at the same time, I don't know what we would do for transportation.

We have had to juggle the men to keep enough manpower on the streets and have paid out as much in overtime pay as it would have required for the salary of one full-time officer. The drug problem is in evidence in our city. No one really knows how big it is. We are faced with many questionable characters on the streets as you know and see in driving or walking at any hour of the day or night.

We are making arrests in bars and on the streets for minors drinking illegally. I show you a chain belt that was taken from a young man arrested recently. Note the vicious weapon that it is, and the damage it would do to your face and body. I wonder how many of you would even attempt to arrest someone threatening with this, particularly if he was bigger than you.

We took a .44 cal. pistol from another man arrested for DWI. The officers indicate that there are a number of the criminal element in town carrying guns. Some have referred to them as "cop killers." We have an exposer that is showing up near the schools from time to time. Thefts are increasing as are the calls for loud parties and these will increase as the summer months are upon us.

All this means is that we cannot take a complacent attitude. We cannot tell ourselves, "Things are going good and we can afford to take a gamble that we'll get by". The argument that we have gotten by in the past is no longer valid. We can never stand still in the battle. We will either be moving ahead or we will be losing ground. Gentlemen, I submit to you that an ounce of prevention will beat a pound of cure anytime.

There has been some ignorance about how this vehicle would be used. Some think it would be my personal car, or that it would be used only for transporting prisoners. Neither of these is the case. This car would be a third patrol squad at night when manpower permitted. It would be used by Mr. Cummings in his investigation work (He has been using his own car when it is available, but this has not worked out well). It would be a surveillance vehicle when needed as such. All in all, it would be used for 16 to 24 hours a day for at least five days per week, more than any division's vehicles.

I have put into operation a new schedule which will give the most manpower when the calls for service are the greatest. It will have fewer men when the calls are fewer. The plan calls for three squads on the street during the night, always on Friday and Saturday nights and most of the other nights. I am sure the citizens of Thief River Falls will rest easier knowing there are that many officers ready to answer their call in a time of need. If two cars are busy, there still would be one ready to answer an emergency.

At the present time I have ~~enough manpower~~ to make this schedule work except for vacations or the loss of an officer due to injury or lengthy illness. I am committed to 37 weeks of vacation, almost the time of one man. Any illness or injury would put us in a very bad position. This whole schedule is predicated on the addition of the third squad car and a man to fill the vacancy of Captain Liden.

I might add also that one of our officers is thinking of joining the force at Grand Forks. He has taken all tests and passed them and is only waiting for his call. I hope he will change his mind but we have to be prepared for this eventuality. It is a proven fact that it takes about four years to properly train an officer to assume his full responsibilities. We cannot afford to lose officers, but the morale of the men is quite low in respect to the council actions.

Things have been going quite well in the department but only because I have been standing in the gap between the council and the men. I have tried to reassure them of their future here but I don't know how long I can keep it up. Another jolt such as the loss of the car might well be the catalyst that would set off an upheaval. I've heard the word "strike" bantered about among the men.

Since the salary of the additional man and the cost of the new car are already in the budget set for this year, I see no reason why we should not go ahead and buy the car and hire the man. The tests have been completed and we have four good candidates for the job. The public has shown time and time again that they do not object to tax money being spent for things and services that are necessary, and certainly public safety is necessary.

I am sure that the gentlemen from the taxpayers association will agree that an expenditure that will help protect them and their loved ones is money well spent. On the other hand, if you decide to forego this action, some emergency situation may arise. People may be hurt, lose money or property, or even lose their lives. If this happens, I am sure the voters of this city will hold you accountable when they find out you have pushed public protection aside in favor of paving, parks and pollution.

Gentlemen, I leave you with these final words. The actions that I and my men take will depend on two things. The equipment, facilities and manpower you furnish us, and the attitude we see reflected in your actions. Particularly we will watch the priorities you set on the police department needs and requests. May I add that I am making preparations to make the public aware of our needs with the hope that they will support them. Thank you for your courtesy in hearing me this evening.

The following members were present: Dr. George Martin, Kenneth Murphy, E. C. Olson, Marvin Preslabek, Charles Samuelson, Wallace Sparby, Maynard Wedul and Superintendent Johnson. None were absent.

Chairman Preslabek presided.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by M. Wedul and carried to approve the minutes of the previous meeting as presented.

A motion was made by K. Murphy, seconded by E. Olson and carried to accept the bid from Lee Plumbing and Heating for converting from coal to gas and oil burners at Lincoln High School and St. Hilaire Elementary School.

A motion was made by E. Olson, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to pay the bills as presented.

A motion was made by W. Sparby, seconded by E. Olson and carried to pay the extra bills.

A motion was made by E. Olson, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to approve teacher contracts for the school year 1971-72. The following contracts were approved:

1. Kenneth Fleicher—Spec. Ed. Teacher (E.M.R.) Franklin Jr. High
2. Michael Chimenia—Spec. Ed. Teacher (E.M.R.) Franklin Jr. High
3. Nancy Youngren—Special Education Teacher (T.M.R. Knox)
4. Judy O'Dair—English 8 Franklin Jr. High
5. Margaret Aas—English 8 Franklin Jr. High
6. Marchete Cummings—Vocational Instructor Cosmatology
7. Tom Tapper—Mathematics Franklin Jr. High
8. Susan Emerson—Grade 2 Mark Twain Elementary School
9. Nancy Peterson—Art Franklin Jr. High
10. Loiell Dyrud—English and Speech Lincoln High School

Mr. Arni Auna, Director of the A.V.T.S., presented the Board with three choices of building lots for building the second year carpentry project for the school year 1971-72.

A motion was made by E. Olson, seconded by G. Martin and carried to purchase Lot 2—Block 1 of Green Acres Addition plus sewer and water for the cost of $3,000.00.

Mr. Auna presented a request for a twin jet RB57A from state surplus. The aircraft would be free of cost to the school district except for the expense of transportation of flight personnel and the operational cost of the aircraft.

A motion was made by K. Murphy, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to accept the A.V.T.S. resolution regarding the purchase of a RB57A twin jet airplane.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried in regard to the pool closing from August 9 through August 27 for maintenance. The following memo was submitted to the Board of Education.

TO: Supt. Johnson and the Board of Education
FROM: Neil Taverna, Principal

On May 4, I conferred with Frank Hamerlinck, Dale Folger and Louie Lonclin concerning pool maintenance. As a result of this meeting, I am recommending that we close the pool on August 9 through August 27 for maintenance.

It appears that some of the systems that need repair cannot be fixed during the heating season. Action on this proposal will be appreciated at your board meeting on May 10.

Neil Taverna

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by W. Sparby and carried to accept the new student discipline policy as developed by the Minnesota School Board Association.

A motion was made by G. Martin, seconded by K. Murphy and carried to let the bid for milk, bread, gas, etc. as June 28, 1971.

A motion was made by M. Wedul, seconded by E. Olson and carried to accept the five year lease proposal with monthly payments of $1,074.64 from Home Lumber Company with the option of School District No. 564 to purchase the building at the term of the lease. K. Murphy and G. Martin voted nay. C. Samuelson did not vote.

At 9:25 p.m. an executive session was called so that Mr. S. O. Johnson, the Board's panel member, could give the Board a report on the teachers' salaries. The Board returned at 9:30 p.m.

Mr. P. Hamerlinck made a request that the School Board approve a request for the rental of time clocks for a time study program during the summer. It was approved by the Board.

The meeting adjourned at 11:00 p.m.

Course Offered In St. Paul Fri. On Bankruptcy

Filing bankruptcy may be a means of [illegible] business move. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, a total of 184,930 bankruptcy cases were filed in U.S. district courts. What legal rights does the debtor have and what are the rights of creditors?

These questions and others will be explored in a one-day course of study titled "Creditor's Remedies—Garnishments, Bankruptcy Proceedings, Mechanics' Liens" May 21 at the St. Paul Hilton hotel.

Purpose of the course is to review the areas listed with special emphasis on recent decisions in case law as well as the far-reaching changes that have occurred in statutory law. There are numerous areas where these changes have raised questions which are as yet unanswered, and these will be highlighted.

"Garnishment and Attachment" is the title of the morning session to be taught by Roger A. Nurnberger. The session will review sweeping changes in the law which were enacted by the 1969 legislature, together with a review of legislative action in the current session.

The afternoon meeting features two topics. "Recent Amendments to the Bankruptcy Act and Resulting Unanswered Questions" will be the subject of Howard A. Patrick. J. Robert Nygren will discuss "Mechanics' Liens," reviewing persons entitled to a lien, trial of the action, and sale and redemption.

Fee for the course is $30 which includes the new second edition of The Practitioner's Guide to Creditor's Remedies." Those wishing to register without the book may do so for $20.

The course is sponsored by the University of Minnesota's department of continuing legal education. For further information or to register contact Continuing Legal Education, 338 Nolte Center, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, 55455; phone: (612) 373-5386.

Theodore Jaeger, 42, Of Plummer Dies Saturday

Theodore M. Jaeger, 42, a lifetime resident of the Plummer community, died unexpectedly Saturday morning. Death was attributed to a heart attack which he suffered early in the morning. He was dead on arrival at Northwestern hospital.

A Requiem High Mass for Theodore Jaeger was offered today (Monday) at 11 o'clock, from St. Vincent DePaul's Catholic church at Plummer. The Rev. Henry Carriere officiated. The Petterson Funeral home was in charge of arrangements. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Jerry and Ronald Gerardy, Terry Erickson, George Pittman, Rodney Wayne and John Langee.

Theodore "Teddy" Jaeger was born June 24, 1928 at Plummer to Nick and Helen Hemmelgarn Jaeger. He attended the Plummer school and was a 1946 graduate of the Plummer high school. On May 13, 1950, he was married at Plummer to Anne LaVale.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Thief River Falls, and the St. Vincent DePaul's Holy Name Society.

Jaeger was a plumber by trade. He was employed by the Sorenson Construction company of Fargo, N.D., and was wiring at Northland State Junior college in this city.

He is survived by his wife and 12 children: Gregory, a student at Northland State Junior college, Linda, Kathi, Jeffery, Janet, Cindy, Mary, Joseph, Paul, Helen, Sheila and Anthony, all at home.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Helen Jaeger of Plummer, one brother: James Jaeger of St. Paul, and two sisters: Mrs. Howard (Margaret) Greenwald of Minneapolis and Mrs. Harvey (Mary Ann) Gagner of Mentor.

He was preceded in death by his father and one brother.

Sheldon Joyner, Retired Soo Line Agent, Dies Fri.

Sheldon Joyner, 84, of this city, a retired Soo Line agent, died Friday at the Methodist hospital at St. Louis Park.

Funeral services for Sheldon Joyner will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist church in this city. Rev. Jonathan Law will officiate. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from this evening (Monday) until Wednesday noon and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will appear in Wednesday's issue of the Times.

Mark Skreland Dies At Hibbing; Rites At Oklee

Mark Harold Skreland, five-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Skreland of Chisholm, died May 9 at the Hibbing hospital. He was born April 4 at Chisholm.

Graveside rites for Mark Skreland were held at the Salem Lutheran cemetery in Oklee with the Rev. Leonard Pankuch of Chisholm officiating.

He is survived by his parents, his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Alice Skreland of Goodridge and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Iverson, also of Goodridge.

CLEAN-UP turned out to be a little more than Julia Hermanson and Paulette Swanson bargained for (top photo) when they offered to bathe Mrs. G. L. Olson's puppy. The puppy turned out to be a frisky St. Bernard whose only quiet moment during their visit was when this Times photo was taken. Never to be defeated completely, however, the girls returned to the Hermanson home and found that Julia's pet fit the pan a little better.

Rites Today For Clara Limesand, 73, Of Goodridge

Mrs. Clara Limesand, 73, a longtime resident of the Goodridge community, died Friday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Limesand are being held today (Monday) at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Rev. Harald Peterson, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Zion Lutheran cemetery at Germantown.

A complete obituary will be in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Warren Lewis Of Trail Dies; Rites Here Wed.

Warren Lewis, 74, of Trail, father of Daryl Lewis of Thief River Falls, died Friday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Warren Lewis will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Harold Peterson officiating. Military honors will be accorded by the Ecklund-Holmstrom post of the American Legion. Interment will be in the Fort Snelling National cemetery.

The body will repose at Sinding's Funeral chapel after 3 p.m., Tuesday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will be in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Roger Easthouse Funeral Services Held At Staples

Funeral services for Roger V. Easthouse, 36, of Staples and formerly of Goodridge, were held Wednesday at 2 p.m., at the Faith Lutheran church at Staples. Easthouse died Sunday evening, May 9, at the Staples Municipal hospital. Death was attributed to a malignant brain tumor.

Rev. Eugene Floistad officiated at the services. Six former fellow faculty members served as pallbearers. Interment was in the Evergreen Hill cemetery at Staples.

Easthouse was a former instructor at the Staples area vocational technical school and at the time of his death was supervisor for the 3M Company at Staples.

Roger Vernon Easthouse was born May 16, 1934 at Goodridge to Ole and Ann Tollefson Easthouse. He attended school at Goodridge graduating from the Goodridge high school with the class of 1951. He attended Bemidji state college for one semester and then farmed with his father for one year. From 1953 until January of 1955, he attended Dunwoody Industrial Institute, Minneapolis, graduating from Machine Shop. Following graduation, he began employment with General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, in their mechanical division, engineering, research and development plant. While with General Mills, he took a leave of absence to serve with the United States Army at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. In August of 1961, he became instructor of the machine shop at the Staples Area vocational-technical school.

In June of 1965, he entered employment with the Dunwoody Industrial institute as machine shop advisor to the Khartoum Senior Trade school, with the United States Agency for International development, in Khartoum, Sudan, Africa. His duties there were to assist the Sudan people in setting up the machine shop section of their school, organizing tool crib and storage, providing ordering procedures, training in machine maintenance, placing equipment and putting it in operation, teaching shop and classroom groups, and providing lesson materials.

In July of 1967, Easthouse returned with his family to United States and resumed his position as instructor at the vocational school in Staples. Since January of 1968, he had served as machine shop supervisor for the newly formed 3M Company plant in Staples.

Through the years, Easthouse furthered his education by taking numerous courses through the Extension Service of the University of Minnesota.

He was a member of the Faith Lutheran church and served on the church council. He was also a member of the Staples Chamber of Commerce, past vice president of the Staples Education association and a past member of the Minnesota Vocational Education association.

He was married on April 29, 1956 at Aurora to JoAnn Kjelstrom. She survives together with two sons: Timothy, 12, and Thomas, 9.

Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Easthouse of Goodridge; a sister, Mrs. Theodore (Carole) Larson of Burnsville, and two brothers, Irving Easthouse of Goodridge and Howard of Coon Rapids.

Memorial Rites Held At Grygla For John Viken

Memorial services for John L. Viken, 92, were held at Grygla in the school auditorium on April 8 with Rev. Arthur Ortmann of Warroad officiating. Viken was a retired Grygla businessman and a pioneer resident of that community. He died on April 4 at Deaconess hospital in Minneapolis after an illness of two weeks. Until that time he had never been sick or hospitalized.

Funeral services were held April 7 in Minneapolis. Interment was in the Grygla cemetery.

John L. Viken was born near Levanger, Norway on Oct. 17, 1878. In 1903, he immigrated to the United States and homesteaded in the Grygla community. He was united in marriage to Sarah Haugland, a native of Saeteesdal, Norway, and the couple lived their entire married life at Grygla. Since 1958, Viken had lived in Minneapolis with his daughter, Ann, a librarian in the Minneapolis public school system.

Viken started out in business in Grygla as a blacksmith. He later added the dealership for International Harvester company. He continued operating this business until 1951, when he sold out to Irvin Anderson and retired.

He is survived by two children: Ann Viken of Minneapolis and Thilfred Viken, employed at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Ill. He is also survived by a large number of nieces and nephews living in Norway. One nephew, John A. Viken, immigrated to the United States and resided for a time with the Viken family at Grygla. He is now residing at Phoenix, Ariz.

He was preceded in death by his wife in 1954.

Rites Held For James Rooker Of Rosewood

Funeral services for James Rooker, 71, of rural Thief River Falls, who died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital, were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel.

Rev. Melvin Walla, pastor of the Association of Free Lutheran churches, officiated at the services. Mrs. Ernest Melvin, Sr., was the organist and soloist. Interment was in the Rindahl cemetery.

Pallbearers were Emil Hellquist, Erling Hagg, Wallace Anderson, Vernon Kees, Lewie Bonnett and Russell Nelson.

James Rooker, a son of the late Frank and Celstia Rooker, was born Oct. 24, 1899 at Ochyden, Iowa. At the age of nine years, he moved with the family to Hazelton, N.D., where he attended school and grew to manhood. He was married on Dec. 28, 1921 to Hazel Albough at Linton, N.D. After their marriage, the couple lived at Hazelton, Auburn, Hamilton and Drayton, N.D., before settling in 1951 in the Rosewood community.

He is survived by his wife, two sons: Elmer James Rooker of St. Hilaire and Vernon Dale of Grand Forks, N.D.; five grandchildren; two brothers: Roy Rooker of Hazelton, N.D., and William of Moffit, N.D., and five sisters: Mrs. Mabel Simpson of Glasgow, Mont., Mrs. Susan Hoskins of Wemme, Ore., and Mrs. Bertha Stickeny, Mrs. Rose Viellien and Mrs. Gladys Hoskins, all of Moale, Wash.

One brother and a sister preceded him in death.

Joe Langen, 85, Father Of Odin Langen, Dies

Joe Langen, 85, father of former seventh district Congressman Odin Langen of Kennedy, died Tuesday at a Hillsboro, N.D., nursing home. A retired Kennedy farmer, the senior Langen had resided at the nursing home for the past year.

Funeral services for Joe Langen were held Friday at 2 p.m., at the Red River Lutheran church, near Kennedy. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Joe Langen was born Feb. 11, 1886 at Roros, Norway. At the age of 17 years, he immigrated to the United States, settling in Kennedy. He was married at Kennedy on July 2, 1911 to Selma Almquist. The couple lived and farmed in South Red River and Skane townships, Kittson county, near Kennedy, until 1951 when they retired and moved into Hallock.

Surviving, in addition to the former Congressman, are two daughters: Mrs. George (Alfie) Sorlie of Hillsboro, N.D., and Mrs. Howard (Amy) Knudsvig of Buxton, N.D., seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife on June 6, 1965, and by one son, Percy.

Services Held At Mentor For LeRoy Gustafson

LeRoy Vernon Gustafson, Sr., 43, of Mentor, died Wednesday morning at the Veterans hospital at Fargo, N.D., where he had been a patient for the past three months. He had been in failing health for the past 10 years.

Funeral services for LeRoy Gustafson, Sr., were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the Faith Lutheran church at Mentor. Rev. P. E. Onstad officiated. Music was provided by Mrs. Wilbur Nielson, organist, Mrs. Herb Monson and Rev. P. E. Onstad, soloists. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Arthur Dale Benoy, Kenneth Benoy, Leland Saga, William Greendahl, Carl Sveningson and Virgil Tice.

LeRoy Gustafson was born Oct. 2, 1927 at Mentor to Anton and Mamie Engebretson Gustafson. He received his education in the Mentor schools. A veteran of World War II, he served with the United States Army airforce with most of his duty confined to the Pacific theatre. On Aug. 5, 1950, he was married at Erskine to Violet Larson. He was employed for [illegible] years at Chisholm by the Oliver Mining company and since retiring because of failing health, he had made his home at Mentor.

He was a member of the Disabled American Veterans and the Oliver Mining company union local 1663.

Survivors include five sons and one daughter: Allen, Wayne, David, Vern, LeRoy, Jr., and Lisa Gustafson, all of Mentor; his father, Anton Gustafson of McIntosh; three brothers: Milford and Gerhard Gustafson of Big Falls, and Donald of Lake Elmo; and two sisters: Mrs. Wallace (Lillian) Strand of Pine Valley, Calif., and Mrs. Ira (Evelyn) Wade of Mentor.

He was preceded in death by his mother, two brothers and one sister.

Sheep Producer Referendum Set For June 7 to 18

A nationwide sheep producer referendum has been called for June 7-18 by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin. The referendum, conducted by mail ballot, will decide whether or not the sheep industry wants to continue promotion of its products through the American Sheep Producers council.

For approval, this promotion program for lamb and wool requires a "yes" vote by more than two-thirds of the individual producers voting, or producers owning more than two-thirds of the sheep represented in the referendum by those voting.

With sheep raised in almost 3,000 counties in the U.S., the national referendum will reflect the desires of almost every sheepman in the nation. All sheep producers and feeders are eligible to vote if they have owned sheep or lambs, six months of age or older, for any one period of at least 30 days since Jan. 1, 1971.

During four past referendums—1955, 1959, 1962 and 1966—sheepmen have expressed overwhelming approval of the ASPC's promotion program, and the majority supporting this self-help program has increased with each referendum.

Sheepmen contribute to the promotion program through a deduction from their incentive payment on wool. The incentive payments amount to 1½ cents for each pound of shorn wool and 7½ cents for each 100 pounds of unshorn lamb. This gives an equitable distribution of contributions from all sheep producers according to the size of their operation.

The promotion program for lamb and wool is conducted to the major population areas of the nation, and includes joint programs with food processors and wool manufacturers; a lamb and wool education program; a lamb and wool publicity program for newspapers, radio and television; merchandising services for lamb with the major chains across the country, the Miss Wool of America program and the Make It Yourself With Wool contest for teenage home sewing experts, and other promotion programs.

The council also has sponsored the sheep industry development program designed to bring new production and marketing techniques to sheepmen throughout the country.

GIFTS TO HEART FUND

Gifts to the Heart Fund in memory of Mrs. Laura Rohrer and Emil Mellem, late residents of Thief River Falls, were made last month and will be used for research into the causes and control of heart disease, according to David Dratte, memorial gifts chairman of the Pennington county unit of the Minnesota Heart association.

More than $830 million is lost by American labor yearly through cardiac disabilities, the Minnesota Heart association says.

DURING THE TOUR of Northwestern hospital during Hospital Week last week, the Knox first grade class visited a number of departments. Miss Lydia Dahlen, director of nursing services, showed one of the youngsters how the table in the emergency room is used.

Reservists And Guardsmen Must Have Time Off

Employers in Minnesota were reminded today that reservists and national guardsmen are entitled to time off from their jobs to perform active duty for training.

The reminder came from John W. Beaty, area administrator of the labor-management services administration, U. S. department of labor, in Minneapolis.

Upon their return from training, reservists and national guardsmen have a legal right to be restored to their positions with the same seniority, status, pay and vacation rights as they previously held.

The law also prohibits any kind of employment discrimination against a reservist or guardsman because of his participation in the program.

Beaty pointed out that military training duty for guardsmen and reservists normally occurs during the summer months, and it can be expected that most of them will be absent from employment for two or three weeks of training during this period.

Reservists and guardsmen were cautioned by Beaty to notify their employers before leaving for training and to report back to their jobs immediately upon completion of their tours, or they may forfeit their statutory reemployment protection.

Roseau School Sets Salaries

Roseau school board and teachers have reached agreement on contracts for the 1971-72 school year, and old contracts are being recalled for re-issuance, it was announced last week.

The settlement calls for a total package increase of $37,500 in salaries or about a 4.8 per cent increase, which board chairman Dr. William Pitblado said puts the district at about the state median in salary increases.

Base for a teacher with a B.A. degree is $7,100, with the maximum going to $10,280. The base for an M.A. degree is $7,740 and goes to a maximum of $11,340.

The extra-curricular activities pay issue, which had earlier blocked a settlement, was resolved with the schedule no longer tied to basic salary schedule by a percentage and the total amount only very slightly increased.

The board rescinded action taken April 26, nullifying the meeting by waiving the three-day notice of meeting, in order to adapt to the reconsidered extra-curricular provisions.

Fosston Senior Citizens Plan Recognition Day

Civic center at Fosston will again, this year, be the site of the senior citizen recognition day on June 5.

The auditorium will be open at 10 a.m. to display arts and crafts. This year an additional group, the handicapped of the area, many of them homebound, have been invited to display their hobbies and crafts with those of all other senior citizen groups and individuals.

At noon a delicious luncheon will be served in the school cafeteria, at the cost of $1.25. Reserved tickets may be obtained through Mrs. Darlene Sollie, Oklee.

Valuable door prizes, as well as a host of other prizes will be awarded during the day and an interesting program has been planned for the afternoon.

As in previous years, an estimated 500 guests are expected to attend. Inter-County Community council warmly welcomes the public to join in the fun.

Knapp Receives Degree From Oklahoma "U"

Robert C. Knapp of Thief River Falls received the doctor of education degree Sunday at the University of Oklahoma spring graduation ceremonies in Stillwater, Okla., at Lewis Field stadium.

Knapp was one of 38 candidates receiving the doctor of education degree. Exactly 3,200 degrees were conferred at the 7:30 p.m. graduation exercises.

Low Germination Of Soybeans Not Noted In Minn.

Minnesota apparently is not experiencing the problem of some other Corn Belt states in abnormally low germination of soybean seed stocks reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald said today.

He stated the Minnesota department's seed laboratory reported soybeans are testing out at a "normal average" of nearly 90 per cent germination, and noted that a higher than usual number of seed samples have been tested this year.

Federal authorities had reported over 15 per cent of the soybean seed lots tested in some Corn Belt states had yielded less than 80 per cent germination.

Commissioner Wefald said the Minnesota agency's seed laboratory has completed over 11,500 germination tests on all types of seed stocks this year, about 1,500 samples more than tested by this time a year ago. He said the bulk of the increase represents soybean and field corn seed lots.

The only low germination readings this year were attributed to a few lots of carryover soybean seed stock. Laboratory personnel advised that many lots of Minnesota soybean seed in the current tests yielded over 90 per cent germination.

Also graduating from the University of North Dakota will be Leon Peterson of Hallock; Karen Hussong; Oklee; Ruth Washburn, Roseau; and Marilyn Adsem of Viking.

New Motorcycle Law Is Signed

An amendment to the motorcycle law affecting operator licensing and equipment has been signed into law and is effective immediately, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

The new requirements are:

1. Instruction permit. Upon application for a motorcycle endorsement to a valid driver license, an instruction permit is now issued. This permit is valid for 90 days and allows the applicant to practice drive the vehicle on public streets and roads. The person must be in possession of the permit for at least 30 days before he can take the road test for the endorsement. While driving on the instruction permit, the operator may not carry a passenger unless such passenger has a valid driver license with a two-wheeled vehicle endorsement.

2. Handlebars may not extend above the shoulders of the operator while seated on the vehicle with both feet touching the ground.

3. Any motorcycle with a seat designed or suited for use by a passenger shall be equipped with foot rests for the passenger. A rear view mirror and horn are also required equipment.

Bergland Offers Support Bill For Oats, Barley

U.S. Representative Bob Bergland last Thursday introduced legislation which would force the Secretary of Agriculture to set price support levels on oats and barley at not less than 70 per cent of parity.

Bergland estimated that his bill would increase the guaranteed price of oats from 54 to 65 cents and up barley supports from 81 cents to $1.04 per bushel.

When introducing the legislation, Bergland noted that farm parity "has dipped to its lowest point to the depths of the depression" and declared: "the current ratios of 58 per cent on oats and 55 per cent on barley are a disgrace. No one can grow these crops at those prices and stay in business," Bergland said.

Bergland's bill would guarantee the minimum support level of 70 per cent unless there is a surplus of the crops. "In that case," Bergland explained, "farmers would be eligible for setaside at a reduced loan rate and compensated for the reduction by direct payments."

Bergland said that since oats and barley "are as much feed grains as corn, they should be managed in the same way as corn when a surplus exists. Therefore, Bergland concluded, "direct payments for oats and barley should be based on a fair and reasonable relationship to corn payments."

"As I thus sat, joying in my own happy condition, and pitying this poor rich man that owned this and many other pleasant groves and meadows about me, I did thankfully remember what my Saviour said, that the meek possess the earth; or rather, they enjoy what the others possess and enjoy not; for anglers and meek, quiet-spirited men are free from those high, those restless thoughts, which corrode the sweets of life." —Izaak Walton

Time To Write Again

Believed to have been defeated in committee and no longer a threat in this legislative session, Attorney General Warren Spannaus' anti-gun bill has been resurrected and moved on to the Senate judiciary committee.

Under the guise of a concealed weapons bill, the proposal faces the Senate judiciary committee, the full Senate and then the House. There is still time to assist in the bill's demise and it seems that the time to write another letter is here again. Just tell your legislator that you understand Spannaus' bill is being pushed again and you want to see it soundly defeated—and that you will be watching for his vote against the measure.

What's so bad about a concealed weapons bill? It's more than that! Here's what the Committee for Effective Crime control has to say about it:

"Sec. 2 generally prohibits carrying a hunting or fishing knife in your car.

"Sec. 3 (b), as newly amended, OUTLAWS HUNTING of 'protected wild animals' with any 'dangerous weapon'; that means no deer, squirrel, rabbit, pheasant, duck or grouse hunting with firearms!

"Sec. 3 (c) limits transportation of any firearm to going directly to or from hunting (remember, varmint hunting only) or target shooting at an 'authorized place'; of course, it doesn't specify who authorizes the place or what qualifies.

"Under Sec. 8, if your shotgun or rifle should be stolen and the thief is caught with the gun, the gun is forfeited to the state and you can't get it back. You may be able to get a stolen pistol back, but you'll have to sue the police to do so. Most attorneys would charge at least $200 for this.

"If you do apply for a permit to carry concealed weapons, like in the glove compartment of your car, you have to register your guns and the burden of proof that you need a gun is strictly on you. Permits are granted solely at the pleasure of the issuing authorities. The permit expires every year, of course. You have to undergo an extensive investigation every year. A similar system in New York costs $72.87 per permit application."

How about the clincher?

"In spite of all these regulations on the use of firearms by honest citizens, this incredible bill, as now amended, does not prohibit the possession of firearms by convicted murderers, rapists, etc.," the committee reports.

Minnesota sportsmen should rise right out of their shoes in indignation at the attorney general's inference that they are the cause of crime and require control. Legislative mail should ring with rampant wrath as hunters decry the proposed abolition of their sport. Every citizen who has the least little bit of interest in the preservation of fundamental personal freedom should be appalled at this attempt by a government official to usurp an important part of it.

We sincerely hope there are still enough good men in the legislature to squash this bill. Encouragement from the voters will help immensely.

As the committee for effective crime control notes: "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

Deceiving Themselves

The following editorial is from the Morris Sun:

Certain writers, economists and commentators have unswervingly dedicated their works to a continuing revelation of the perils confronting nations that adopt inflation as a way of life—as has the United States. Mr. Henry Hazlitt is one of these. Writing in National Review, he tells of the dilemma currently facing the Nixon Administration and the government. He says, "Once an inflation has continued as long as ours has—almost without interruption for thirty years—and once it has reached for several years, as ours has, an annual rate of 5 to 6 per cent—then we court ultimate disaster if we try to continue it and invite an immediate crisis if we try to put an end to it ... Unless there is soon a marked improvement within both political parties in courage, candor and responsibility, as well as in economic understanding, the most probable outcome is that competition in demagogy will drive the country in the next four years into a rapidly accelerating inflation heading toward economic and social chaos."

All kinds of names have been used to explain and excuse governmental policies that breed inflation—ranging from pump priming to new economies and full employment budgets. The end result has been a steadily dwindling dollar and steadily rising discontent behind the facade of welfare state security. Money juggling has always been a game of rulers to fool the people. Today, the game has become so sophisticated it seems the rulers are fooling not only the people, but themselves as well.

Election On Tuesday

Two weeks ago we would have bet anyone a modest amount that turn-out for the annual school election would be well under 500 voters, and we don't think we would have lost any bets. The uproar over taxes, salaries and other matters seemed to have returned to a quiet state—at least on the surface—and the concerned populace had returned to its normal routine of living.

Now, we're not quite sure what to expect. Late filings placed six names on the ballot with three to be elected. That is a healthy situation and the competition should stimulate a greater turn-out of voters. There never has been an election here where there were too many candidates, and individual choices may now be made in the balloting.

Strengths of special interest groups are unknown, and this complicates the election. Not only is support for the candidates on the ballot in question, but a fragmented vote and a concentrated write-in campaign could change the entire complexion of the election. We know of no such campaign being planned, but the possibility always exists.

We do not intend to be derogatory by using the term "special interest" groups, for they are not necessarily bad. The taxpayers association has a special interest in holding the line on spending. The education association has a special interest in employment and classroom conditions. St. Hilaire district residents have a special interest in area representation. There may be others, and each is justified in being interested.

The question, however, is how many other people can the core of each group bring along with it? Indeed, how united are the groups themselves? Is there the strength in numbers necessary to make an impact at the polls? None of these questions will be answered until the votes are counted Tuesday night, and then the conclusions will be mostly supposition.

We have always encouraged a large turn-out of voters for elections, and we especially hope there will be a large number voting Tuesday. Only through large numbers can we be satisfied that the electorate made its choice on a consensus basis.

What are our predictions? How do we analyze the situation?

Some of the analysis has been mentioned earlier in this editorial. There are no known factors upon which a predictor can hang his hat. There are no real trends to use as guides, and even general voter attitudes are as varied as the wind.

With this hedging as a prelude, we will make our predictions of the election outcome. We would invite those who disagree to match their thoughts with ours—in writing and in advance of opening of the polls at 4 p.m. Tuesday. The predictions of the Wednesday morning prophet who says "I could have told you that you were way off" will be discounted 100 per cent. Predictions are made strictly in the fun of attempting to out-guess the voters, and DO NOT constitute an endorsement of the candidates we believe will win.

We look for Charles Samuelson to be reelected. He has the inherent strength of an incumbent, will probably receive strong faculty support since he is employed in the field of education, and has lived in the community for a sufficient number of years to know some people.

Curtis Charlson is well-known in the community and has done well at the polls in county attorney elections. He is a man with a mind of his own and could well be the top vote-getter in the balloting.

Rev. Paul Biegner has conducted an active campaign and could well win the third spot on effort and enthusiasm. He has perhaps the most open mind on matters of education and its cost of any of the six candidates.

We predict that the above three will win election Tuesday. If a large number of voters choose to vote for only one or two candidates (it is not necessary to vote for three), the result could be quite different.

Make up your own mind who you want to serve as your representative on the board. Robert Flynn, John E. Goulet and Roger Worth are the other names on the ballot. Go to the polls and cast your vote for the men you support. Encourage your friends and neighbors to vote as well. Let's have one of the largest school elections in recent years.

Interesting Opinions

"Treat the other man's faith gently; it is all he has to believe with. His mind was created for his own thoughts, not yours or mine." —Henry S. Haskins

notes from the governor

Last week I took the rare step of publicly urging the Minnesota Legislature to re-examine its priorities in the remaining few days of the 1971 session.

My appeal, I felt, was a proper one.

It came with just 18 working days left in the 120-day regular session.

As of that time, only two of the 202 bills I had signed into law were of statewide significance. The remainder were local and special interest bills, important in their own right in most cases, but not addressed to solving statewide problems.

For the most part, I told the legislature, "the concerns of January are still the concerns of May."

While I have great confidence in the integrity, diligence and responsibility of individual legislators, a personal attitude formed through my own 12 years as a legislator, I told our lawmakers that the session has been a failure thus far.

"I do not intend to sit quietly by during these last three weeks," I said. "I do not intend to let special interest legislation cross my desk while the major programs languish and wither in committee.

"I do not want this legislature to adjourn until the people's priorities have been met."

The address—even though my request to address a joint session of the legislature was denied—has been well received.

And it also has had some beneficial effects, I believe, in heightening awareness—both among legislators and the people at large—on the need to deal directly and responsibly with major issues.

It may well be that an unusually high number of local bills go by the boards in the legislature's closing rush this year.

That is a small price to pay, however, if our lawmakers do approve much-needed bills dealing with real estate tax relief, the environment, drug abuse, health and housing.

When Ralph W. Samuelson was a teen-ager in Lake City, everyone thought he was crazy.

"Sammy," as he was known, loved to ski on snow and figured that he could do the same on water. His experiments with various ski designs were a source of much amusement to his friends and neighbors.

He first tried barrel staves and, later, seven-foot long snow skies. When these failed, he bought two pine boards, curved their tips by steaming, and made them into skis eight feet long and nine inches wide.

These broke and Sammy made another pair 10 inches longer. He used rubber floor mat for footing and leather for foot straps. Attaching a rubber-wrapped metal ring to a 100-foot sash coard he was ready.

The first boat that pulled him was a 24-foot inboard with a 24 horse power engine, and water skiing was born on Lake Pepin one summer day in 1922.

For 15 years, Samuelson put on shows at Lake City, Detroit and Palm Beach. Always seeking greater thrills, he eventually developed water ski jumping and slalom. Once he even hooked on to a plane which pulled him 80 miles per hour across Lake Pepin and then took off, making him—in effect—the first water ski kite flyer too.

Samuelson never got any financial reward for his invention, save for some gasoline expense money. He eventually quit skiing and went into the turkey-growing business.

Now an athletic-looking 68, Ralph "Sammy" Samuelson lives in Pine Island. Once when asked why it took so long for him to be recognized as the father of water skiing, he simply said, "It just never occurred to me that I might have been first—or that there was anybody interested if I was."

When British explorer Jonathan Carver was exploring the Mississippi River below Lake Pepin in 1766, he noticed groups of odd hillocks which he thought were ancient fortifications.

Today we know these strange mounds of earth as Indian Mounds—Indian burial sites and tombs which have provided valuable relics of historic interest.

There are about 12,000 such mounds in Minnesota, although probably thousands more are no longer discernible. The highest ones can be viewed at Laurel, near International Falls. One of these is Grand Mound, largest in the state, with a circumference of 325 feet and a height of 45 feet.

As recently as 1963, the skeletons of 54 early American Indians were uncovered by workmen leveling a hill for a housing development in Burnsville, south of the Twin Cities. The discovery was heralded as one of the most important finds in Minnesota's archaeological history. It produced 11 man-made artifacts in addition to skeletons dating back 2,000 years or more.

Among the artifacts were two carved, bone harpoon heads and five pendants, one of which was made of a shell originating in the Gulf of Mexico.

Mounds are generally built in groups, on the tops of bluffs near lakes or rivers. The finest existing examples of these for visitors to view are located on St. Paul's East Side in Mounds Park.

Six mounds remain here, although many more once existed. Human bones, pottery, beads and peacepipes uncovered here are now on exhibit at the Historical Society Museum in St. Paul.

Below the site of Mounds Park was a cave where services were held for dead chieftains. Known as Carver's Cave, this historic spot has been covered with stone and debris and no longer exists, although a marker indicates its location.

University Faces Hardships Due To Legislative Cuts

A freeze on hiring at the University of Minnesota and a cut in enrollments have been declared by University President Malcolm Moos pending the outcome of the education budget before the state legislature.

At a news conference Thursday, Moos said the university will ask a House-Senate conference to reconsider the budget proposed by the House and Senate.

"I am prepared at any time to sit down with the leadership of the House and Senate to discuss an alternative approach to the university's budget," Moos said. "The interest of the state requires that we do so at our earliest opportunity."

He said he will ask the conference committee to "at least protect student access to the University and current program quality, even if it does not permit us to undertake the expansion of some critically needed programs."

Appropriations for the University recommended by the Senate finance committee were $47.8 million below the university's requests and $16 million below the recommendation of Gov. Wendell Anderson. The House appropriations committee bill was $48.4 million below the request and $16.7 million below Anderson's recommendation.

The House bill recommends a cut of 112 civil service positions and no new academic positions for the biennium for the university. The Senate bill recommends cuts of 100 civil service positions and 150 academic positions from the university budget.

"The Senate bill mandates $37.5 million of new expenditures by the university and only appropriates a $31.3 million in new monies," Moos said.

In a memo to administrators, Moos outlined immediate steps to be taken to respond to the feared cutback. Among them are:

—No increased enrollment for the campuses at Morris and Duluth or in the colleges of home economics, business administration, veterinary medicine and the institute of technology in the Twin Cities;

—Emergency planning to "prepare a plan for reducing planned expansion of enrollments" in the health sciences including medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing and public health;

—Reduction of planned enrollment by 500 students in the college of liberal arts and by 250 in general college;

—Identifying possible administrative and support positions which could be vacated "in order to provide additional resources to apply to critical shortages of teaching personnel;"

—No vacant academic or civil service positions will be filled;

—No promotions or civil service reclassifications will be initiated which would affect the 1971-72 budget;

—The college of education will "continue its planned reduction in undergraduate admissions;" and —The graduate school will hold admissions to levels "which can be accomodated to the presence of a possible reduction in both academic and civil service staff."

"As a general principle," Moos said in the memo, "all colleges and schools should suspend any plans for enrollment expansions in existing programs or the initiation of new programs of instruction."

Moos said the hardships presented by the budget outlook effects the faculty and staff of the university as well as many Minnesotans wishing to enter the university.

Moos said the university must prepare these "emergency measures which will be required of us in the event that we have no success, or only limited success in improving our appropriations through the bill coming from the conference committee."

"But unless we are successful in obtaining from the legislature a higher level of funding for general operations and maintenance than is provided in either of the appropriations bills now before that body, we face severe emergency retrenchment in order to keep our expenditures in 1971-72 within our resources," Moos said.

He said he is hoping the conference committee will understand and realize that "it takes decades to build strength in a great university, but that this strength can be quickly dissipated."

Ron Buford's switched on.
Maybe you are, too.

With foreman Ron Buford and his crew running their new $2¼ million electronic telephone office in Cottage Grove, a lot of people in that area are turned on to a good thing.

Like quicker order handling, instant trouble analysis, electronic routing of every call, and just plain more dependable day-to-day service. Plus bigger and better things like Touch-Tone® dialing, conference calls, automatic call transfer (when you know you'll be at another number), speed dialing, and more. Of course, the Cottage Grove office is just one of many electronic switching centers we're building and planning all over Minnesota. For better, faster, even more up-to-date service. People like Ron Buford and his crew think that's pretty important.

Ag Statistics Booklet To Be Published Soon

Minnesota's official 1971 agricultural statistics will be off the press and ready for distribution within 10 days, Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefold announced Tuesday.

He noted that it will be the final summary edited by state agricultural statistician Francis J. Graham, who will retire on May 29 after 38½ years of crop and livestock reporting service. Farm production and income have increased 10 times in that period.

The 96-page edition details Minnesota's 1970 agricultural production by quantities, acres, value, inventory and cash farm receipts, on a county-by-county basis.

It also shows Minnesota's ranking among the top 10 states in national production of the major food and fibre commodities and farm income for 1970, plus January of 1971 crop and livestock inventories. It details average precipitation, frost and freeze dates, planting and harvest dates and monthly marketings.

Minnesota agricultural statistics is compiled and published by the crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture, in cooperation with the statistical reporting service, U.S. department of agriculture.

Available state funding limits the 1971 publication to 4,000 issues. Most of these reports will go to high school, college and university vocational agriculture libraries and instructors, to county agricultural extension agents, and to key personnel involved in agricultural and agribusiness research in government and in private industry. A limited number of copies will be available from the documents section of the Minnesota department of administration.

When Graham first joined the crop and livestock reporting service of the federal government in his native Wisconsin, in October, 1933, farm prices were just beginning to rebound from one of the lowest levels in history.

In 1933, Minnesota cash farm income from crops totaled only $52,865,000. Poultry and livestock income, and the first year of government payments boosted total cash farm income that year to $204,676,000. For 1970, Minnesota crop receipts hit $639,470,000, and total farm income set a new record $2,016,268,000.

Doyle Thompson Attends School

Doyle W. Thompson of Thief River Falls attended the annual water works operators school at the Pick-Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis May 3-5.

The school, sponsored by the University of Minnesota, was divided into two sections, a basic school for those preparing for written examinations and an advanced school for supervisory personnel.

Discussion topics for those in the basic school included fluoridation, water chemistry, quality control and well pump maintenance. There were also demonstrations covering pumps, hydrants and meters. Groups in the advanced school discussed developing safety programs, municipal utility liability and combating vandalism.

Certification examinations were available May 5 for those qualifying. Others took a field trip to Waterous Company and American Hoist and Derrick.

Franklin Chorus Will Perform 'Fiddler On Roof'

"Fiddler on the Roof" musical highlights will be presented by the freshmen chorus of Franklin junior high school at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the city auditorium.

The concert is produced by John Hustad and directed by Mike Lehrer. Directing work on the scenery are Don Fugleberg and Gloria Miller.

The musical is set in a Jewish community in early twentieth century Russia. The story revolves around a man named Tevye, played by Greg Sorenson, and his wife Golde, played by Kathy Wald, and their five daughters. The plot rapidly develops into a classic comic-tragedy.

The public is invited to attend the performances. There is no admission charge.

Knox Students Offer Music Program Wed.

Knox elementary school students will present Wednesday at 8 p.m. their spring production, "Happiness Is", under the direction of Mrs. Frank Harzer.

"Happiness is Being an American" is the portion of the program to be presented by the second grade and the trainable class. First grade will perform "Happiness is Singing Songs Together", while the act presented by the third grade is "Happiness is Having a School House".

The fourth grade will present "Happiness is Having a Church School", and the performance by the sixth grade will be "Happiness is Getting Acquainted With the World's Music". "Happiness is Living in Thief River" will be presented by the fifth grade.

The fifth and sixth grade combined choruses will climax the evening program by singing "El Condor Pasa", "Take a Longer Look", and "Happiness Is".

Faculty At 'U' M Attacks Position Of Legislature

Faculty members at the University of Minnesota have attacked what they call "short-sighted legislation, some of it punitive and based on erroneous interpretation of facts" which "may do permanent damage to the educational mission of the university."

The statement by the Twin Cities chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) followed announcements of budget proposals in the legislature which could force a university cutback of up to 250 faculty and staff positions. The legislation would also mandate the university funding and may restrict the autonomy guaranteed in the university's charter, they said.

At the same time, the AAUP called for interim legislative committees so that "legislators interacting with administrators, faculty and students will develop a greater appreciation for the day-to-day problems and financial priorities of higher education."

"It is ironic," the AAUP said, "that in a year when the University of Minnesota has gained international acclaim for its agricultural and medical research and, through skillful and humane administration, has avoided the chaos of other campuses, it must face the prospect of mammoth cuts in its budgetary requests."

The statement written by AAUP chapter president Donald Gillmor and the group's executive committee said, "The nation cannot afford to neglect that segment of society whose mission it is to provide the learning and research essential for a wise approach to pressing social issues."

The AAUP said it was "mindful of the need to hold the line" economically, but added that the House salary proposal would "represent a net loss in purchasing power and would create particular hardships for junior faculty and teaching assistants."

The faculty retirement plan, which was singled out for attack in a rider to the House appropriations bill, is not excessive "and it represents a faculty decision to divert funds from current salary to retirement benefits," the AAUP said.

The national 1970 AAUP report on the economic status of college teachers ranked the University 60th among American colleges and universities in terms of average compensation for full-time faculty members. "For a first line institution this position is hardly extravagant," the statement said.

"Faculty cuts in a period of rising educational expectations are simply unrealistic and jeopardize the quality of the university's programs and thereby the enormous investment made by the people of Minnesota in this great institution.

"More distressing in the long run is the apparent effort being made by some legislators to substitute their judgments on academic policy for those of administration and faculty," the AAUP said. "Such a move encourages the university community to become an adversary of the legislature, a development that has had dire consequences for higher education in other states."

The AAUP said the university should be allowed to develop its own priorities through the "administration in consultation with the students and faculty. A budget almost totally mandated by the legislature destroys this concept."

The university's administration was called upon to "explore the whole range of possible alternatives before the instructional budget and staff are reduced." The AAUP asked that faculty be consulted on all such decisions.

MCC Grads Accepted At Moorhead State

Six Marshall County Central high school seniors have applied and been accepted as freshmen at Moorhead state college.

Starting their college careers next fall at Moorhead will be Merilee J. Collin, daughter of Gordon Collin; Judy E. Moen, daughter of Kenneth Moen; Bonnie M. Nelson, daughter of Ernest Nelson; Michelle E. Peterson, daughter of Charles Peterson; Karen J. Swan, daughter of Vernon Swan; and Gary J. Tandberg, son of Peter Tangberg.

Concordia Will Offer Classes On Environment

Concordia college at Moorhead will be offering its first classes in environmental studies this fall with plans for an environmental studies minor by 1972.

Dr. Duane Dahlberg, chairman of the planning committee, calls the new program "problem-oriented education" in contrast to the traditional academic offerings.

The proposed minor in environmental studies will be an interdisciplinary program. The one required course, Environment 101, will focus on the concept of the ecosystem as seen in the light of economic, legal and ethical implications.

In addition to the one required course, the student will take four courses from at least three different departments. Courses in biology, chemistry, political science, religion, sociology and speech will be offered.

The committee sees this new program as an attempt to achieve "relevancy" in the academic program, but also sees justification for the program in terms of necessity as well. In a committee statement an attempt is made to link the academic world with the world in which we live.

"The deterioration of the environment has created a growing concern for our world," says the statement. "As an institution of higher education we have the responsibility of perpetuating this concern and developing a program that will provide people with the tools necessary to do something about the environmental crisis."

Although a minor in environmental studies will not necessarily qualify a person for particular professions, there are employment possibilities in such areas as education, urban planning, pollution control, environmental health, and ecology. In addition, such a study is expected to make the student more aware of the impact of environment on all aspects of living.

The proposed environmental minor, adds Dahlberg, is seen as one facet of the work of concerned people in the environmental crisis.

'Farm Use Only' Tires Unsafe For Highway Travel

Prospective buyers are warned to be especially watchful when buying tires in rural area for highway use, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoglund said today.

"We have received a memorandum from the department of transportation reminding us that "farm use only" tires are not to be used on motor vehicles operating on public roads. An amendment to the federal standard requires:

1. That such tires be branded with the phrase, "Unsafe for Highway Use."

2. That each tire have two labels attached indicating that the sale of the tire for passenger car use subjects the person selling it to a civil penalty of up to $1,000 for each tire sold.

3. That all tire manufacturers report to the national highway traffic safety administration periodically the number of these tires sold and the names of the distributors or dealers who purchased them.

The administration has found that some unscrupulous distributors and dealers are removing or buffing off restrictive labeling on these tires and selling them for highway use.

"These tires are designed especially for farm use, and are usually mounted on farm trailers, corn planters and discs. They are built to handle the weights of farm loads, but not for the speed and heat encountered in highway travel.

"I have instructed the highway patrol to look for these tires during this year's spot inspection program."

NORTHLAND CHOIR director Sverre Solheim leads the junior college choir through one of the compositions to be presented by the choir at its combined band and chorus concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Choral numbers to be sung range from compositions by George Frederick Handel to currently popular Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel.

BAND DIRECTOR James Solsten conducts rehearsals of the Northland state junior college band in preparation for its concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. "Blues" jazz compositions will be a highlight of the program.

CHET ENGELMAN, instructor at Northland state junior college, points out places to be visited this summer by three Lincoln high school students, from left to right, Boo Sjoberg, Susan Schueneman and Cindy Nesland. Engelman said that as of May 1 there were still some openings in the program and that if anyone wanted any information they could contact him at Northland college, 681-2181, or at his home in the evening, 681-6518.

Only Indians May Harvest State Wild Rice

Minnesota Senate natural resources committee last Thursday approved and sent to the floor a bill which would return control of wild rice harvesting on Minnesota Indian reservations to the Chippewa tribe.

A companion bill in the house has been okayed by a subcommittee and is awaiting action in the house natural resources committee. Rep. Paul Petrafeso, St. Louis Park liberal and house author of the bill, said he hoped to get a committee vote next week. Sen. George Conzemius, Cannon Falls liberal, is the senate bill author.

The bill provides that only enrolled members of the Chippewa tribe or residents of reservations could harvest rice within the boundaries of the White Earth, Leech Lake, Nett Lake, Vermillion, Grand Portage, Fond du Lac and Mille Lacs reservations. Non-Indian reservation residents would be required to obtain a license from the tribe. Enrolled members of the tribe would not need licenses.

The bill also would permit the natural resources commissioner, with the advice of the tribe, to appoint Indians as special conservation officers to enforce wild rice harvesting regulations.

In other senate action, the senate health committee approved a bill to permit the state health department to establish a mobile health clinic to bring health care to residents of impoverished areas and Indian reservations.

Tornado Season Weather Service Reminder Given

A warning to all Minnesota citizens to be prepared for tornadoes and severe thunderstorms was issued today in a joint statement by national weather service meteorologist Joseph Strub and Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoglund. They stress that many lives are saved in disasters of this nature through adequate warning and proper reaction.

This was proven during the Fridley tornado in May of 1965 and the Tracy tornado in June of 1968 when many lives were probably saved because of a well-developed national weather service tornado spotting system in addition to its radar detection system.

Actual sightings of severe thunderstorms and tornadoes on the ground are necessary. These observations help supplement severe weather data observed and recorded by the Minneapolis weather surveillance radar. These surface observations are accomplished through a spotter system developed and trained by the national weather service and the Minnesota division of civil defense.

These spotter networks exist in most parts of the state, and their personnel includes Civil Defense, law enforcement, fire and other volunteers. They are alerted to the possibility of severe weather by a tornado or severe thunderstorm WATCH by the national weather service. "WATCHES" are not "WARNINGS!" Both are issued by the national weather service through radio or television stations, police communication networks, and the civil defense warning system.

The "WATCH" tells people to be alert to potential severe weather, whereas a "WARNING" means a severe thunderstorm or tornado has been sighted and for people to take cover.

They urged all citizens, particularly those in the rural areas, to volunteer their services as spotters when needed, to the national weather service. To volunteer, they should contact their local civil defense director, police department or nearest national weather service office. They further stated that all citizens should be alert for the latest WATCHES and or WARNINGS that will be issued by the national weather service and stay tuned to their local radio or television station when there is a possibility of severe weather.

Carpet Cleaning By Home Process Is Successful

If you've wondered about the efficiency of cleaning your own carpeting, a recently completed study shows that home methods can be perfectly satisfactory.

The three-year research study was conducted by Suzanne Davison, professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station and Lillian Lund, professor of home economics at the South Dakota state university experiment station.

The home method of rug cleaning restored carpeting almost to its original appearance when a commercially marketed liquid concentrate shampoo was applied with an electric rug shampooer, the home economists found. The home shampooing method was especially successful on nylon. Nylon stood up better under wear and shampooing than other fibers.

Four different carpet fibers were used in the three-year study: acrylic, nylon, olefin and wool. Light beige panels of the different fibers were assembled into a 10 by 16 foot rug and placed in heavy traffic areas of the home economics buildings on the St. Paul and Brookings campuses. The carpet was vacuumed daily throughout the wear period and photovolt meter readings were recorded at the end of every week to determine soiling.

The photovolt meter, an instrument that measures changes in light reflectance, is used to determine soiling and changes in carpet surface due to wear. When maximum soiling was reached, the carpet was removed from the corridor and shampooed. Twelve different shampooings were required during the study.

Both research groups used a method of cleaning any homemaker might choose. A commercially marketed liquid concentrate shampoo was mixed with cool water according to manufacturer's directions and applied to the carpet with an electric rug shampooer. While the rug was still damp, the pile was brushed in one direction to raise the nap and avoid streaking. After the carpet dried, it was vacuumed thoroughly.

With more shampooings and continued use, the carpeting lost some of its resistance to soiling, making it necessary to clean it more often. On the other hand, light reflectance readings showed that the home method of cleaning restored the carpeting satisfactorily each time, even though more frequent shampooing was needed.

The higher-priced, thicker pile carpeting withstood wear better than its lower-priced companion fiber, with the exception of olefin, the fiber often used for kitchen and indoor-outdoor carpets. The lower-priced, short pile olefin showed only half the wear of the higher-priced, thicker pile olefin.

The study is reported in the winter issue of "Minnesota Science," University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station publication.

Berry Attends Meet In Mpls.

Ernest Derry, Thief River Falls wastewater operator, attended the 34th annual wastewater operators institute at the Pick Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis May 5-7.

The institute, coordinated by the general extension division of the University of Minnesota, included discussion on proper sampling techniques and sludge disposal and a field trip to the Anoka wastewater treatment plant.

Written examinations were available for operators who wished to apply for voluntary operator certification. The institute was sponsored by the League of Minnesota Municipalities and the Minnesota pollution control agency.

100 Air Force Recruits To Join At Twins Game

Minnesota Twins and Air Force recruiters from Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin, announced today that they are cooperating in an effort to enlist 100 young men for service to their country at the end of this month.

According to TSGT. Denny Larson, the Air Force recruiter in Grand Forks, N.D., "We are forming a buddy flight to be made up of 100 men from the tri-state area. This flight, sponsored by the Minnesota Twins, will be enlisted into the Air Force during ceremonies at home plate, prior to the Twins-Baltimore game on the evening of May 28.

"The young men who enlist on that night will leave the next day for six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tx. They'll go through basic training together and then be assigned to bases throughout the United States".

Participants will be selected on a "first come-first served," basis. Young men in this area, who are interested in becoming a member of the "Minnesota Twins Flight", should contact Sgt. Larson immediately. His office is located at the federal office building in Grand Forks and his phone number is 775-9361.

Night Driving Problems Found Through Tests

A study conducted by the American Optometric association shows that color vision deficiencies contribute substantially to night driving problems, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

The association conducted a survey of the driving experiences of its own members to determine the main factors contributing to nighttime traffic accidents.

One of 20 of the optometrists studied had a color vision problem, showing little or no sensitivity to red light. Many drivers cannot see red traffic signals, brake, signal or tail lights.

More than 48 per cent of the doctors said that they guide their vehicles at night by viewing the right edge of the pavement, some look as far ahead as possible, and others drive by watching the oncoming car.

"This latter group explains why there are some drivers who seemingly drive to just miss the oncoming car," the report stated.

Most of the doctors reported that the greatest visual stress is placed on them by headlight glare, and this is overcome by viewing the edge striping on the right edge of the highway.

Commenting on the optometrist's report, Hoaglund advised all drivers to stop more often at night to rest the eyes, keep the eyes moving to lessen fatigue, and view the right edge of the pavement rather than the centerline. This practice will materially reduce stress placed on the eyes by oncoming headlight glare.

LEGAL NOTICE

May 17, 19, 1971
NOTICE OF HEARING ON IMPROVEMENTS

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, will meet in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Auditorium at 7:00 o'clock p.m. on May 27, 1971 to consider making the following improvements pursuant to MSA 429.011 to 429.111.

PART I

The proposed construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel subbase and base material, and concrete curb and gutter on Greenwood Boulevard and Tendar Street between Kendall Ave. and Soo Line tracks. Also the necessary storm sewer to drain the area south of Greenwood Boulevard, east of the Soo Line mainline tracks, and north of County Road No. 62 and County Road No. 62 extended to the Soo Line mainline tracks and west of the corporate limits between Greenwood Boulevard and County Road No. 52.

The property proposed to be assessed is all the property south of Annie Street from the Soo Line tracks to the center line of the alley west of Kendall Ave. between Annie Street and Greenwood Boulevard and south of Greenwood Boulevard from Kendall Ave to the eastern boundary of Southern Addition and west of the eastern boundary of Southern Addition between Kendall Ave. and County Road No. 62 and north of County Road No. 62 and County Road No. 52 extended and east of the Soo Line mainline trackage, and excluding all the property south of Annie Ave from the Soo Line trackage to the alley west of Kendall Ave.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $50,660.00.

PART II

The proposed construction would consist of excavation unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel subbase and base materials, and the construction of necessary storm sewers to drain the area improved.

Area A — On Belville Court beginning at a point 400' south of the intersection of Belville Court and Belmont Drive south a distance of approximately 400'.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $9,400.00.

The property proposed to be assessed is all property within Oakville Addition.

Area B — On Stephen Street, Christopher Street, and Westview Ave. from Meadow Street to Christopher Street.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $37,200.00.

The property proposed to be assessed is all property abutting the proposed construction.

Area C — On Greenhill Drive from Arnold Avenue west 400'.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $4,500.00.

The property proposed to be assessed is all property within the Nelson Hess Addition.

PART III

The proposed construction would consist of concrete curb and gutter and storm sewer construction on Meadow Street, on Sunset Street, on Cottonwood Avenue, on Westview Avenue from Meadow Street to First Street and on First Street from Westview Avenue 300' east.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property within Nesser's Third Addition and all property abutting the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $25,100.00.

PART IV

The proposed construction would consist of the construction of concrete curb and gutter.

Area A — On Tindolph Avenue from Greenwood Boulevard south to County Road No. 52.

The area proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $17,500.00.

Area B — On Reserve Avenue from Eighth Street to Tenth Street, on Pleasant Avenue from Eighth Street to Tenth Street, and on Falls Avenue from Eighth Street to Tenth Street.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of proposed construction is $13,000.00.

PART V

The proposed construction would consist of the excavation of unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel subbase and base material.

Area A — On Crocker Avenue from Tenth Street north 400'.

The area proposed to be assessed is all property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $4,100.00.

Area B — On Cardinal Drive and Oriole Ave. in Arthur's Second Addition from Sherwood Avenue to Robinhood Drive.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $15,300.00.

PART VI

The proposed construction would consist of the extension of an 8" water main from Arctic Enterprise's Printing Plant at Sherwood Avenue and Highway No. 59, south and east along Highway No. 59 to the intersection of Highway No. 59 and Greenwood Boulevard, and the extension of a 15" sanitary sewer trunk line from the intersection of Greenwood Boulevard and County Ditch No. 6 to the intersection of Greenwood Boulevard and Trunk Highway No. 59; and the extension of a 6" water main on First Street east from Elm Avenue to Sherwood Ave., hence south along Sherwood Avenue to Steven's Ave. South.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon and benefited by the proposed improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $42,800.00.

PART VII

The proposed construction would consist of the excavating of unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel subbase and base material, and the surfacing with a hot mix asphalt bituminous surfacing material in the alley between Third Street and Tell Street and between Maple Avenue and Knight Avenue.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $2,700.00.

PART VIII

The proposed construction would consist of the excavating of unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel and subbase material, concrete curb and gutter and hot mix bituminous surfacing on Brooks Avenue from Highway No. 59 south approximately 2,000 feet.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $58,500.00.

The total estimated cost of all of the above described improvements is $296,760.00. Such persons as desire to be heard with reference to the proposed improvements will be heard at this meeting.

A CONTROVERSIAL CALL developed on this pick-off attempt by Bemidji pitcher Gary Sargent in Thursday's first game of a double header between the Prowlers and Bemidji. The Prowlers loaded the bases with one out in the second inning of the scoreless contest when Sargent tossed the ball to third baseman Jeff Myers who (with the ball in his glove) put the tag on Peterson who has his hand stretched for the bag. Umpire Chet Engelman called the runner out on the close play. The Prowlers lost both ends of a twin bill with the Lumberjacks, 13-1 and 7-4 to drop their season record to 5-6.

BRIAN PETERSON is the newly-elected captain of the Lincoln high school baseball squad. The senior right hander is a second baseman-short stop when he's not seeing duty as a pitcher for Ralph Skay's club.

THIEF RIVER FALLS COWBOYS finished eighth in a field of 150 teams in the recent Minnesota state junior boys bowling tournament in Minnetonka. The Thief River Falls team rolled a 2,826 to place eighth in the senior division. There were 450 teams entered in the annual event. Team members holding their trophies and their series scores are, left to right, Doug Bergman, 632; Greg Carter, 424; Mark Mattson, 513; Ken Olson, 422; and Ross Gutterud, 437.

Bemidji, Warroad, Hand Prowlers Three Losses

Bemidji and Warroad rapped 38 hits and scored 33 runs in three games last week against the Lincoln high school baseball team as the Prowlers lost three games on their home field.

Bemidji stopped the Prowlers in both ends of a doubleheader Thursday, 13-1 and 7-4, while the Warriors romped past the Prowlers 13-8 Wednesday afternoon.

Gary Sargent and Alan Hangsleben, a pair of outstanding region eight hockey players, were the chief tormentors of the Prowlers as Sargent had a five for seven performance at the plate Thursday and Hangsleben stroked three doubles while driving in six runs for the Warriors.

Sargent and Jim Traught held the Prowlers to just one hit, a second inning infield single by Jerry Morben, in Thursday's first game while a number of Bemidji hurlers held the Prowlers hitless until the fifth inning of the second game as the local club managed to come up with five hits in the last three innings.

Senior right hander Brian Peterson needed just five pitches to retire the first three Bemidji batters in the first inning of the first game but the Lumberjacks came back to score three runs on four hits in the second inning.

The Prowlers stranded three baserunners in their half of the first when Sargent walked Peterson and hit Tom Hanson and Ordean Peterson. Mike Hamerlinck walked but not until after Sargent had picked off a Prowler runner at third base on a close call by the ump. Sargent, a junior righthander struck out the last Prowler batter to end the inning.

The Prowlers scored in the third when Morben singled and went to second on a passed ball. After a strike-out Neil Nelson walked but was forced out at second on a fielder's choice with Morben advancing to third and scoring on a wild throw on a pick-off attempt by Sargent.

Sargent put the Jacks on top 4-1 in the third inning with his eighth home run of the year over the right-centerfield wall. The Jacks erupted for eight runs in the fourth inning on six hits and four errors by the Prowlers.

Earl Sargent, Gary's younger brother, started the fourth inning when he reached on an error and went to second on a fielder's choice before the Lumberjacks connected on five straight hits.

Pete Sullivan replaced Brian Peterson on the mound for the Prowlers but the Jacks put four more runners on base with three errors and a double by Earl Sargent. Traught hit into a third to second to first double play to end the inning. It was the Prowlers 11th double killing of the year.

The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Bemidji jumped on starting pitcher Mike Hamilton for three runs in the first inning of the nightcap when the Prowlers were guilty of two throwing errors.

Both teams settled down until the third inning when the Jacks' Steve Donahue tripled to centerfield and scored on Gary Sargent's single to right for a 4-0 lead.

Thief River Falls climbed to within one, 4-3, in the fifth inning when Hamilton walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Bruce Johnson walked and Kevin Johnson singled to left to load the bases with no outs.

Traught came in to pitch for the Lumberjacks and struck out one batter before walking in a run with Brian Peterson at the plate. The Jacks got a second out on a foul pop fly before sophomore catcher Ordean Peterson singled to left.

It appeared that Peterson had cleared the bases for a 4-4 ball game but the field umpire called a Prowler runner out for not touching second base. Two runs scored for the Prowlers for a 4-3 contest going into the sixth inning.

The Lumberjacks came back with two runs in the sixth on another throwing error by the Prowlers and added an insurance run in the seventh on Gary Sargent's single, driving in the singling Mike Donahue.

The Prowlers collected three hits in their half of the seventh and scored once for the final 7-4 count.

Warroad rapped 17 hits for their 13 runs Wednesday afternoon against three Prowler pitchers.

The Warriors clubbed six hits and scored seven runs in the first inning with the first five Warroad batters reaching base safely. Hangsleben collected two doubles and drove in three runs in the inning that was halted when a Warroad runner was called out for not touching third base on Hangsleben's second double.

The Prowlers came back with four runs in their half of the first on sophomore Rob Almquist's lead-off homer over right-center and Mike Hamerlinck's single followed by Dale Hanson's hard double to left.

The Warriors went in front 9-4 in the top of the second but the Prowlers came back for three runs in their half of the inning for a 9-7 contest.

Warroad scored once in the third and three times in the sixth inning when a single and two walks loaded the bases for Hangsleben who belted his third double of the game to clear the bases.

The Prowlers will see action tonight (Monday) at 7 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond against Roseau and will host Oslo and Alvarado in a twin bill Wednesday beginning at 5 p.m.

Thinclads Topple East Grand Forks

Thief River Falls won nine of ten running events and added one first-place finish in the field competition to defeat East Grand Forks 75-48 in a dual track meet Thursday afternoon at "East Side."

The Prowlers have one scheduled meet remaining before entering the district 31 meet Saturday at the University of North Dakota track. The cindermen will run in the Dragon Outdoor tomorrow (Tuesday) beginning at 1 p.m.

The Prowlers swept first, second and third places in the 120-yard high hurdles and in the 880-yard run while the Green Wave managed its only first-place in the running events with a 1:36.9 in the 880 relay.

Jon Wangberg (16.2), Doug Anseby (16.5) and Rick Larson (17.6) placed one, two, three in the high hurdles while Paul Battleson (2:05.2), Rande Smith (2:09) and Steve Phelps (2:13.2) scored a clean sweep in the 880.

Junior Rob Swenson edged the Waves' Rip Thompson by a tenth of a second in the 100-yard dash with a winning time of 10.4 while the Prowlers' Steve Beich placed third in the race with a 10.8, just ahead of teammate Gerald Trickle who recorded the same time.

Seniors Kim Murphy and Greg Bulger placed first and second in the mile with Murphy turning in a 4:40.9 and Bulger a 4:50.0.

The Prowler 880 relay team finished just behind "East Side's" troop with a 1:37 clocking. The relay team members included Beich, Swenson, Wangberg and Anseby.

Mike Fitzgerald scored five points for the Prowlers in the 440-yard dash in a time of 53.4 with teammate Mark Hemerlinck placing third with a 55.9.

Wangberg was a winner in the 180-yard low hurdles to go along with his win in the high's as the sophomore ran a 20.6. "East Side's" Al Mathues finished second with a 21.0 and Doug Anseby ran a 21.7 for third place.

Thief River Falls' sprint medley relay team ran a 3:53.4 to finish first with Swenson and Beich running 24.8 and 24.2 220's, Fitzgerald a 55.3 440 and Don Reierson running a 2:08.9 anchor 880.

Jon Markstrom received a nod over Mathues of East Grand Forks in the 220-yard dash when both runners were clocked at 23.8 while Kurt Knoff made his first appearance of the season in the dashes with a 25.3 performance. Knoff made his debut in the conference meet Tuesday with a spot on a Green Wave relay team after missing almost all year with a basketball injury.

The Prowlers mile relay team of Hamerlinck, Bulger, Murphy and Markstrom finished with a 3:43.6 for first place and five more points.

Gordy Hangsleben placed first in both the shot and discus events while the Prowlers' Rande Smith was second in the shot, third in the discus and first in the long jump with a leap of 17' 3".

Kent Christenson placed third in the high jump for the Prowlers and Mark Hagen was third in the pole vault with a height of 8' 8".

MCC Posts Three Wins Last Week

Coach Ron Ueland's Newfolden baseball club posted three victories last week to hike its season record to an impressive 10-2.

The Nordics dropped Middle River 16-0, Nevis 2-0 and Akeley 4-1 in games played Friday and Saturday.

Marlin Bjornrud and Robert Bjorgaard combined for a one-hit pitching performance against Middle River with Bjornrud hurling the first three innings and picking up the win. The Nordics collected their 16 runs on nine hits and were helped out by seven errors by the Skippers while committing just one miscue themselves.

Tom McCauley, a sophomore right hander, hurled the first 5 and two-thirds innings in the Nordics' 2-0 blanking of Nevis to gain credit for the win while Bjornrud finished the game on the mound for Newfolden. Each team managed just two hits while committing one error apiece.

Bjornrud, a senior right hander, went the distance in the 4-1 win over Akeley on Saturday. Bjornrud gave up three hits while his teammates backed him up with seven safeties, including a three-hit performance by Gary Borg. Newfolden was guilty of six errors in the Akeley contest while the losers misplayed the ball four times.

EGF Hands Netmen 5-4 Setback

East Grand Forks handed Lincoln high school its second consecutive 5-4 defeat Thursday afternoon on the Green Waves' courts.

The Prowlers captured the number one and two singles matches but dropped the number three singles and the doubles competition to the Wave.

Junior Mark Liden downed Bob Bydahl 6-1, 6-1 in the number one singles and Gordy Prichard handed "East Side's" Dave Gorman a pair of 6-0 defeats in the number two singles.

George Weber of East Grand Forks defeated the Prowlers' Greg Knutson 6-2, 3-6 and 3-6 in the number three singles while Stuart Waltonen and Mark Thyren lost the doubles action to Mark Hughes and Kim Hovet, a pair that had made up the number one and two singles earlier in the season when the Prowlers handed the Wave a 6-0 loss, 5-7 and 8-3.

Tom Nepper and Gordy DeLap teamed up for an exhibition doubles match for the Prowlers and defeated Tom Butler and Chuck Hughes 6-2, 6-3.

The Prowler netmen will see action today (Monday) at Detroit Lakes in a double dual with Detroit Lakes and Valley City before hosting Fertile on the Lincoln courts Tuesday afternoon beginning at 3 p.m. The Prowlers will also be at home Wednesday for a 4 p.m. match against Ada and on Friday for a 3 p.m. contest with Bemidji.

UND recorded 13 wins during the 1966 baseball season for a school record.

TRF In Fourth Place At Bemidji

Fargo South golf team won first place in the Bemidji golf meet last Friday, with the five-man team combining to score 384, lowest score of the 23 team competition.

Thief River Falls golf team took fourth place with 402. Other teams in the top five included Crookston, in second place with 390, Bemidji found itself in third place after that golf team scored 396 points. Roseau took fifth place with a score of 404.

Scores for individual golfers on the Thief River Falls team were Mark Charlson, 77; Roger Lee, 79; Paul Olson, 80; Lee Sorensen, 72; and Mark Metusalem, 84.

Lincoln Golfers Place 2nd & 4th

Lincoln high school golf team, under the guidance of John Moum, competed in two large invitational golf meets last week and placed high in the final standings in each one.

The Prowler linksmen were runner-ups to host Mahnomen Wednesday afternoon after a fourth-place finish at Moorhead on Tuesday.

Roseau and Bagley finished behind Mahnomen and the Prowlers in the Indians' tournament with a field of 13 teams.

Roseau captured the Moorhead title with Crookston, finishing second, Fargo South, third and the Prowlers fourth in a field of 17 teams.

Vocal Concert At Lincoln Mon.

Concert choir and Lincoln Singers of Lincoln senior high school will be presented in concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The concert is under the direction of David Morken, vocal music instructor at the school.

Opening numbers will be "This Is The Day" by Jacobus Gallus (Handl), "As For Man, His Days Are As Grass" by Edwin Willmington, "Who Is Like Unto Thee, O Lord" by Jean Berger, "Choose Something Like A Star" by Robert Frost and Randall Thompson, "The Turtle Dove" arranged by R. Vaughn Williams and "I Will Extol Thee" by Eugene Butler.

Special instrumental music for "I Will Extoll Thee" will be provided by Brenda Burger on piano, Bruce Anderson and Jon Anton on guitars and Stuart Waltonen on drums.

"Hallelujah" by Handel will be sung by the girls ensemble including Cheri Ripley, Terri Cuppett, Valerie Hanson, Cindy Nesland, Janice Buroker, Jan Johnson, Ruth Hammer, Chris Cuppett and Alice Sorenson.

Lincoln Singers will present "Praise Ye The Lord" by Emma Lou Diemer with Susan Wysoski and Patti Prots as pianists; "The Water Is Wide" arranged by Robert Bune with Janice Buroker on guitar and Marie Hvidsten on flute, "Song Of The Storm" arranged by Dale Wood with Solveig Swenson as soloist, Susan Wysoski as pianist and Marie Hvidsten as flutist; and three Hungarian folk songs.

Concert choir will sing selections from "Paint Your Wagon" by Frederick Loewe and Alan Jay Lerner with Brenda Burger on piano, Peter Nelson and Bruce Anderson on guitars and Stuart Waltonen on drums; "Happy Heart" by James Last and Jackie Rae; "Oklahoma!" by Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein; and the Lincoln Alma Mater. The girls's sextette will also sing "Do You Know The Way To San Jose?"

LINCOLN SINGERS will participate in the spring concert of vocal groups at Lincoln senior high school Monday, May 24, in the school auditorium. Among the participants will be, left to right, Janice Bourdage, guitar, Marie Hvidsten, flute; Susan Wysoski, piano; and Patti Protz, piano.

GREG SORENSON as Tevye and Kathy Wald as Golda rehearse their music for roles in highlights from "Fiddler on the Roof" to be presented by the Freshman chorus of Franklin junior high Thursday and Friday nights at city auditorium.

Naplin, Charlson, Biegner Elected In Record Vote

A write-in candidate received the highest vote total ever given to a Thief River Falls school board candidate as voters in School District 564 went to the polls in record numbers Tuesday in the annual school election. An incumbent board member was defeated in the balloting which was so heavy that election clerks exhausted their supply of printed ballots and were forced to use mimeographed ballots to complete the voting.

Edgar Naplin, St. Hilaire area farmer who announced his write-in candidacy only a few days before the election, polled 1,190 of the record 2,170 votes cast to lead all candidates. Curtis L. Charlson, Thief River Falls attorney, was second in the voting with 1,161 votes while Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor of St. John Lutheran church, was elected with 957 as a total.

Other candidates included Robert Flynn with 866 votes, incumbent Charles Samuelson with 833, Roger Worth with 749 and John E. Goulet with 155. There were also 21 write-in votes for Kermit Finstad.

A long line of voters was in evidence in the corridor of Lincoln senior high school during most of the time the polls were open from 4 to 9 p.m. The vote total of 2,170 eclipsed the previous mark of 1,941 cast in 1963 by 229 votes. The 1963 record has bested the previous mark by 241 and no election since that time had come close to that total.

Addition of the St. Hilaire district, whose voters cast their ballots in Thief River Falls for the first time, undoubtedly contributed greatly to the record vote. The election also marked the first time 19-year-old residents of the district could cast their ballots.

Previous high vote total given to any School District 564 candidate was in 1963 when Lloyd Howick, seven-year veteran of the board and serving as its chairman, received 1,123 votes. He had filed for reelection. Others reelected in that previous record vote were John Burtness with 1,097 votes and Rufus Olsen with 1,091. Candidates opposing the incumbents that year and their vote totals were Bert Vigen, 858; Dake Ayers, 823; and LaVerne Randorf, 800.

The Times story following that election noted the following reasons for the record turn-out in 1963:

"The election had been regarded as a test of strength between proponents and opponents of the $1,495,000 school bond issue for construction of a new elementary school and junior high school. Incumbents had adopted the bond issue proposal and supported construction. Their opponents had opposed the bond issue and contested the election at which the bond issue was favored on March 5."

It was also noted that balloting in the national wheat referendum the same day gave rural voters a double reason to come to the city and vote.

The record vote Tuesday may be compared with the lowest return in recent years when Morris Owen and Robert Bredeson were reelected in 1967. There were only 77 votes cast in that election.

A year later, in 1968, only 140 votes were cast and Charles Samuelson was elected with 79 write-in votes over incumbent D. H. Stewart who had filed for reelection. Last night Samuelson was the incumbent who was unseated.

In the 1970 election, largest since 1963 until last night, there were 1,197 votes cast. Wallace Sparby and E. C. Olson were elected to the board.

In 1969 Kenneth Murphy was elected as a new member and Maynard Wedul was reelected with 930 total votes cast.

Back in 1966 there were 320 votes cast as Harry Oen and Rufus Olson were reelected and Dr. H. R. Achenbach was elected as a new member.

There were 650 votes cast in 1965 when Dr. George Martin and D. H. Stewart were elected as new members over incumbents Howard Hoel and K. Russell Anderson.

In 1964 there were only 153 votes cast—less than 10 per cent of the 1963 vote—as Morris Owen and Robert Bredeson were reelected.

Due to the number of candidates and the large vote last night, election clerks did not complete tabulation of the balloting until nearly 4 a.m. The board of education has a 10-day period in which to canvass the ballots and no date has been set for that action, according to Kenneth Murphy, clerk of School District 564.

LINE-UP OF VOTERS at the Thief River Falls school election extended down the corridor from the cafeteria polling place during nearly all of the voting time from 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. A record turn-out of 2,170 voters cast ballots in the election.

Hurby Lund, 32, Dies In Beltrami County Accident

Hurby Leland Lund, 32, son of Mr and Mrs Alrik Lund of 918 N. Horace, Thief River Falls, died as the result of a motorcycle accident late Sunday night or early Monday morning on highway 89 in Beltrami county.

Authorities said his cycle left the road and hit a bridge abuttment on highway 89. He was found several hours later lying face down in shallow water. Dr. Donald Hogenson, Beltrami county coroner, told the Times this (Wednesday) morning that head injuries had rendered Lund unconscious and that although the autopsy was inconclusive, death was probably caused by a combination of head injuries and submersion in the water.

Funeral services for Hurby Leland Lund will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Redeemer Lutheran church with Rev. Philip Lathrop officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. The body will repose at Sinding's funeral chapel in Thief River Falls after 3 p.m. Thursday. A complete obituary of Hurby Leland Lund will appear in next Monday's edition of the Times.

School Election Results Listed For Area Boards

Following are school board election results from Tuesday's elections in the Thief River Falls area.

In Plummer incumbent Art Hagge was reelected to the board of education with 145 votes. Art Hamrum was elected by a total of 135 votes. Both are Brooks residents. A total of 212 ballots were cast. Those not elected to the Plummer board of education and their vote totals were George Westlake, 46, James Kelley, 23; Barbara Leining, 30, and Donald Hesse, 30.

A total of 84 ballots was cast in the election in District 447 at Grygla. John Smeby, incumbent chairman of the board of education, was reelected with 89 votes and board vice chairman Roland Klamar of Gatzke was reelected with 92 votes. Several persons received one write-in vote each.

In Red Lake Falls two men were elected to three-year terms. Incumbent Charles Kleven received 253 votes and Rev. Roger Raebel was elected to the board with 177 votes. Board chairman Ken Tischart, who served 13 years on the board of education, did not choose to seek reelection. Those defeated in their candidacy were Mrs. David Mersey, 130 votes; Gerald Thiebert, 64 votes; and Edward Keefe, 62 votes. A total of 367 voters cast their ballots in Red Lake Falls.

In Goodridge incumbent Chester Solberg was reelected with 86 votes. J. Duane Nelson was elected with 78 votes, and incumbent Ernest Swanson lost with a total of 27 votes. A total of 95 ballots were cast to the County Board Made Decisions On Many Issues

Pennington county board of commissioners at their meeting May 11 covered a variety of topics in a wide-ranging agenda.

The county board set a tax-forfeited land sale for June 18, and also approved new plots of land in Baken's first addition south of the Oakland Park nursing home and Arthur's second addition of ten acres.

The county board also voted $25 to the Goodridge Lions club for its Memorial Day observance, and also appropriated $200 to the American Legion to decorate graves of deceased veteran's, in addition to the Legion's other observances of Memorial Day.

The board also approved a call for bids to blacktop 3.5 miles of county state aid highway 28. Joseph Seidel was rehired for two years as the county engineer by the board of commissioners retroactive to May 1. A funding request by Northwestern Mental Health center for $13,690 was turned down by the board. The commissioners decided to allot $9,943 to the center, the same amount approved for the last fiscal year.

Local Woman Elected ALCW District Officer

Thief River Falls woman, Mrs. Orville Feragen of this city, was installed as district stewardship secretary of the American Lutheran Church Women at the fourth triennial convention held Tuesday and Wednesday of last week at Concordia college at Moorhead.

Mrs. Feragen is past president of Trinity Lutheran Church Women and has served on conference level as stewardship secretary. Her term will be for three years.

The installation service was conducted Wednesday morning with Bishop Cecil Johnson as [illegible] officer.

About 40 women from the Thief River Falls conference registered for the two-day convention. Representing Trinity Lutheran church women, in addition to Mrs. Feragen, were Mrs. Morris Goddard, delegate; Mrs. Reuben Wongberg, Mrs. Harry Oen and Mrs. Louis Hermonsen.

Attending from Zion Lutheran church were Mrs. Stanley Ranum, educational secretary of the Thief River Falls conference, and Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen.

Representing the area churches were Mrs. Otto Hoarstad and Mrs. Jennie Anderson of the Newfolden parish, Mrs. James Swanson of the St. Hilaire parish, Mrs. Lyle Hoogenson, Mrs. Larry Inman and Mrs. Roger Rupprecht of the Holt parish, and Mrs. Wesley Mothre and Mrs. LeRoy Gustafson of the Viking parish.

Approximately 300 registered for the convention with 1,000 attending the Tuesday evening session featuring Dr. Walter Judd, former congressman, as guest speaker.

Of special interest to those attending from this area were the Bible study given by Orletto Wald, author of the Bible studies used both locally and in area churches; the special music provided by the Moorhead high school sextet directed by Bryant Ulseth, former music teacher at Lincoln; and the missionary talk given by Miss Clara Jones, formerly of Erskine. Miss Jones is a missionary to Taiwan and is home on a year's furlough.

The theme for the convention was "For we are partners working together. To correspond with the theme, each session began with the singing of the gospel hymn, "We are one in the Spirit".

The Times—A Great Gift!

David Owen Scramstads Are At Home In This City

Mr. and Mrs. David Owen Scramstad are at home in this city following their recent wedding at Trinity Lutheran church and a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba Canada.

The bride, the former Patricia Ellan Dobmeier, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dobmeier of Grand Forks, N.D. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Scramstad of this city.

Rev. Louis Hermansen officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Walter Larson presided at the organ. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Mrs. Donald Olson as she sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and Dunlap's "Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. For her wedding, she chose a floor length gown of white peau de soie styled in empire fashion with a modified scooped neckline and long tapered sleeves that come to a point over her wrists. Hand clipped lace motifs were appliqued on the bodice and across the front of the sheath-styled skirt. Matching motifs graced the chapel-length train edged with a narrow lace edging. Her lace headpiece, re-embroidered with seed pearls, held her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion. She carried a large white chrysanthemum, accented by purple heather, arranged in nosegay style with a wide lace ruffle and satin ribbon streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Jayne Komp. Bridesmaids were Misses Rebecca, Nancy, and Susan Dobmeier of Grand Forks, N.D., sisters of the bride. All wore identical colonial styled gowns featuring floor-length voile skirts in a lavender floral print topped by white leno empire bodices. Ruffles encircled the high necklines and short puffy sleeves. The high-rise waistlines were accented by lavender satin ribbons, tied in front with a bow and flowing streamers. Each attendant carried a nosegay of purple heather centered with a lavender chrysanthemum.

Richard Orlin Scramstad of Tucson, Ariz., attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Raymond Wilcox of Hermosa Beach, Calif., a friend; Clayton Barry Tierney of Minneapolis, a cousin of the groom, and Perry Dobmeier of Grand Forks, brother of the bride. All wore black, double-breasted tuxedos complemented by black bow ties and white carnation boutonnieres.

Seating the guests were Michael Dobmeier, brother of the bride, and Ross Radniecki, cousin of the groom. Kari Erik Gjernes of Thief River Falls, another cousin of the groom, carried the rings.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dobmeier wore a sleeveless, floor-length gown of pink bonded knit accented by rhinestone jewelry and white, over-the-elbow gloves. Her corsage featured white carnations with pink net and ribbon.

The mother of the groom wore a lavender gown complemented by a lavender brocade floor-length coat. Her corsage, similar to the one worn by the mother of the bride, was accented with lavender netting and ribbon bows.

Attending the wedding as honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kotaska, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Minnie Scramstad of this city, grandmother of the groom.

A reception at the Thief River Falls Golf club followed the ceremony. Highlighting the serving table was an all-white wedding cake with Grecian pillars dividing the five tiers. Topping the cake was a silver Christogram. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Max Graham. It was cut and served by Mrs. Gene Fetsch, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. George Rockstad, aunt of the groom. The groom's cake was a Norwegian "Krunaakaka" baked and decorated by Mrs. Knute Gjernes of Fargo, N.D.

Miss Aleen Gjernes, a cousin of the groom, registered the guests as Vicki and Nancy Dobmeier served the punch, and Mrs. Robert Steenson and Mrs. Barry Tierney presided at the gift table.

For traveling on the wedding trip to Canada, the bride changed into a pink brocaded suit.

The bride is a graduate of the Grand Forks Central high school and prior to her marriage was employed by Westward Ho Village in Grand Forks, N.D.

The groom is a graduate of Mira Costa high school at Manhattan Beach, Calif., and the El Camino college. He is employed by the Thief River Falls Police Department.

Chat And Chew Club Selects New Counselors

Mrs. Carol Narverud was elected senior counselor of the Chat and Chew homemakers club at the regular meeting held Wednesday, May 12, at the Camille DuChamp home. She will succeed Mrs. Carl Wennberg who served in that capacity for the past year. Mrs. Wanda Murphy was chosen to serve as junior counselor.

President Paulina Aubol presided at the meeting. Plans were completed for the display to be featured by the club at the annual Achievement day scheduled at Zion Lutheran church. The display will feature baking samples with recipes, some antiques, and an old-fashioned style show.

Plans were also made for the club picnic to be held June 9 at the Carl Wennberg home and ideas were requested for the homemakers' booth for at the Pennington county fair this summer.

The program included a report by Mrs. Marian Williams which featured 40 ways of de-polluting the earth. The lesson on arthritis was presented by Laurel Joyner and Carol Narverud.

Nine members attended the meeting which concluded with a dessert lunch served by Mrs. Joyner and Mrs. DuChamp.

Carriere And Whited Engagement Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Carriere of Thief River Falls, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Cecile Mary, to Paul Wayne Whited, son of Paul E. Whited of Midway, Ky.

Miss Carriere is employed by St. Bernard's Catholic school. Sgt. Whited is a member of the United States Air Force and is stationed at the Grand Forks Air Force Base in Emerado, N.D.

A July wedding is planned.

Scholarships Presented At BPW Meeting

Presentations of the annual scholarship awards, the official visit of District One chairman, Mrs. Florence Richardson of Walker, election of officers, and the discussion of traffic on Brooks Avenue, highlighted the dinner meeting of the Thief River Falls Business and Professional Women's club held Tuesday evening.

As in the past, scholarships were awarded to two senior girls planning to attend the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. Receiving the awards this year were Miss Joyce Feragen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Feragen of this city, and Miss Gloria Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Swanson of rural Thief River Falls. Both have enrolled in the clerical department. The scholarships, for $50 each, were presented by Mrs. Inga Shetler, member of the scholarship committee.

Working with Mrs. Shetler, in selecting the girls for the scholarships were Marilyn Winters and Helen Bushaw, members of the club, together with Robert Reeve, guidance counselor of the vocational school.

The scholarship winners and their mothers were special guests at the dinner, as was Mrs. Richardson, district one chairman.

In her official capacity, Mrs. Richardson reported on the clubs in the district and state. She urged members to revitalize the club and to continually strive for interesting programs. She stated that women still have much work to do to gain complete equality. She urged the support of the Human Rights Bill (Senate File 1879) and House file 2228). If this bill is passed, women will no longer be denied the opportunity to rent an apartment, buy a house, obtain a loan, receive a graduate fellowship, to eat at certain restaurants, get a mortgage, or buy insurance solely because of their sex.

She stated that women who are heads of households are finding it extremely difficult to secure adequate housing. Granting of credit, loans or mortgages are frequently denied women, not because of assets, salary or references, but because of their sex. In most instances even though the woman is supporting the family, the husband, who may be completely disabled, must co-sign in order for the woman to obtain the loan or mortgage. She stated that so widespread and pervasive are discriminatory practices against women that they are regarded as normal.

In the election of officers for the coming year, Marjorie Hanson was chosen as president. As first vice president, she has been presiding at the meetings during the absence of president Norma Hanson.

Other officers elected were Myrtle Wilson, first vice president; Connie Ferber, second vice president; Bernice Nelson, secretary, and Eileen Horejsh, treasurer. Presenting the slate of candidates for the election was Past president JoAnne Wedul. Assisting her in selecting the candidates were Ruth Wilson, Dolores Johnson and Clarice Collins. The new officers will be installed at the next meeting.

Several traffic safety improvements were discussed. Especially discussed was the flow of traffic along Brooks Avenue, east of the West Trailer court. Since the stop signs on First Street have been changed, this avenue, due to the traffic to the South Arctic plant, has become a hazard. Children in the trailer courts must cross through the traffic on this avenue in order to attend school. Mrs. Clarice Collins, the club's representative on the safety commission, was asked to report on this hazard at the next meeting of the commission.

The meeting also included the appointing of Dorothy Morehouse, Dolores Johnson and Monica Koes to serve on the auditing committee. Ruth Wilson, Clarice Collins and Myrtle Wilson volunteered to work on the committee to up-date the club's by-laws. All the members attending volunteered for special committee work for the parade of fashions scheduled for the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

A letter was also read from the Northern Blood Bank association, commending the club for their work in the recent membership drive and Mrs. Shirley Fransen gave a progress report of the child care center being established in this city.

Open House Sunday For John Grundhauses

Artmobile To Visit Thief River Falls In June

Northland state junior college will become the site of a temporary art museum June 1-3 when the Minneapolis Institute of Arts artmobile arrives on the Thief River Falls portion of its scheduled tour throughout the state. Paintings, sculptures and photography, the institute's collection and other collections are included in the exhibition.

The artmobile is 58 feet long, 10 feet wide, and 13 feet high and is completely air-conditioned for year-round use. Airconditioning and heating and humidifying systems maintain constant conditions for the preservation of the works of art in the traveling exhibit.

The artmobile was created under the auspices of the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts, with the Louis W. and Maud Hill Family foundation, Farmers and Mechanics bank, Northwestern National Life insurance company, and an anonymous donor underwriting the cost of construction and maintenance of the traveling art gallery.

In its first three years on the road, the artmobile covered more than 15,000 miles and made more than 150 stops in 125 Minnesota towns and cities. In all nearly 150,000 people visited the artmobile in its first three tours of the state.

School Election Results On Area Boards Listed

In the school board election at Okiee, incumbent Don Stenberg was reelected with 58 votes and Lawrence Morinville was elected with 54 votes. A total of 60 ballots were cast at Okiee, and two people received write-in votes.

A total of 285 voters went to the polls in the Newfolden area, electing incumbent Ervin Strandquist to the board with 170 votes and putting Lawrence Bjoraness on the board with 172 votes. Strandquist and Bjoraness both were elected to three-year terms. David Bakke was elected to a one year term with 214 votes, defeating DuWayne Olson, who received 71 votes.

Losers in campaigning for three-year terms were Donald Jueneman, 45 votes; Lester Sorenson, 95 votes; and Conrad Donaeski, 71 votes.

In Middle River Glendon McKeever was elected to the board with 39 votes and Lowell Pogatchnik was elected with 48 votes. Incumbent John Sandberg had announced he would not accept another term on the board of education, and there were two write-in votes in the Middle River district.

Investigation Of Thefts Reported By City Police

A number of thefts over the last week involved Thief River Falls police in investigative matters.

Twin City Construction company of Fargo reported May 10 the theft of steel reinforcing rods from it's construction site at the addition to the telephone company building.

On the same day Mrs. John Waltonen of Thief River Falls reported the theft of her billfold at a local school. The billfold was recovered the next day from a wastebasket in which it had been thrown after the theft.

Last Wednesday Anne Tonder of rural Thief River Falls reported the theft of a roto-tiller valued at $125 from a shed on her property. The city park department last Thursday reported the theft of an orange painted wheel and its tire valued at $30 from one of the city's mowers.

May 14 Bill Blankenfeld of Thief River Falls reported the theft of a Magnavox transistor radio from the staff room at Franklin junior high school. Also on Friday the son of the owner of the Corner Bar apprehended a juvenile while he was attempting to steal a case of beer. The youth was turned over to police.

Also on Friday Dell Harbott reported the theft of two chrome wheels with tires from a car in his back yard. On the same day Douglas Noyes of Thief River Falls reported the theft of $68 from his billfold, which he accidentally left at the post office. Police are investigating.

In an accident last Wednesday, city police say a car driven by Sherman Idso of Thief River Falls was struck in the left rear by a car driven by James VanEpa of East Grand Forks while Idso was driving east on Nora avenue at about 6 p.m. Police estimated that $600 damage resulted from the accident.

Arsonists Blamed In Forest Fires On Iron Range

Young arsonists, some of them using motorcycles, have been blamed by the Department of Natural Resources for forest fires set on the Iron Range.

The rash of set fires prompted the department's division of lands and forestry to press an aircraft into service for spotter duty over the weekend (May 8-9) in the Hibbing area.

The effort paid off on three separate occasions when youths—all on motorcycles—were observed setting fires and were apprehended by contacting enforcement agents in patrol cars on the ground by radio.

Altogether 20 fires were set near Hibbing over the weekend with several more being set in the Moose Lake area. One set fire was reported from the Park Rapids area near Badoura.

An incendiary fire in the Moose Lake area destroyed a barn, an abandoned house and scored a trailer house.

The Badoura fire burned 17 acres of planted trees before forestry crews were able to contain the blaze.

Forestry officials said fire danger was relatively high due to dry conditions brough on by lack of a general rain for more than 45 days.

Aircraft will be up over other portions of the state during the next few weeks, said officials, to try to put a stop to the problem of incendiary fires.

They said it is relatively easy to spot arsonists from aircraft and fire towers. The cooperation of local citizens who report violations to officials has also proved valuable.

Otter Tail Co. Fleet Honored For Safe Driving

National safety council honors for outstanding safe driver performance were won by Otter Tail Power company in the 40th national fleet safety contest covering the calendar year 1970. Otter Tail's employee-drivers, as a group, were awarded third place in the public utilities division.

During the contest period the company's 341 vehicles were driven 4,262,853 miles and had 3.52 accidents per 1,000,000 miles of operation.

For all participating companies, the combined national frequency rate was 12.06 accidents per million miles of operation, down slightly from 1969. Over 2,600 fleets, consisting of more than 345,000 vehicles, travelled more than six and three-fourths billion miles during the contest year.

Area Vocational Center Education Program Studied

John Tofte, assistant director of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school, was one of 60 program directors participating in a conference on secondary vocational education on May 11 and 12 in Alexandria.

Tofte will be responsible for the vocational center education program for high school students in Thief River Falls and the two participating districts of Plummer and Goodridge.

Howard B. Casmey, commissioner of education, addressed the group members, encouraging them to communicate with legislators. He charged the directors with providing high school students with vocational education which will lead to a job either immediately or after post-secondary education. Casmey said it is essential for directors to work closely with citizens and legislators in finding ways to meet student needs.

Richard Brinkman, superintendent of a joint vocational school for Clark county and Springfield in Ohio, suggested that Minnesota directors for vocational education should be concerned about a variety of career education choices for senior high school students. He encouraged Minnesota educators to provide realistic counseling.

Robert Van Tries, assistant commissioner for vocational-technical education, challenged the directors with providing for vocational education from "sandbox to gravebox." Lifelong career education is needed because of the changing world of work. He encouraged vocational educators to provide opportunities for each individual to prepare for a job and insisted that directors work cooperatively with legislators to provide vocational education for all.

Vocational center directors, vocational directors from comprehensive school districts, directors of secondary vocational programs in area vocational-technical schools and staff from the vocational-technical division of the state department of education participated in the meeting.

Roseau To Host Crippled Child Services Clinic

A preschool screening clinic sponsored by Crippled Children services, the Roseau American Legion auxiliary, and the Greenbush American Legion auxiliary will be held in Roseau on June 15 at Roseau high school for any Minnesota child up through the age of four years. The clinic will provide screening for speech, vision, hearing and other handicapping conditions of children and counseling for parents. There is no clinic charge.

Appointments should be made two weeks before the clinic comes to town. Appointment chairman is Mrs. Roland Fredrickson, 209 2nd Avenue N.E., Roseau. Her telephone number is 218-463-2016.

The clinic staff consists of a pediatrician, nutritionist, speech consultant, dental hygienist, medical social worker, and a public health nurse. A report of findings and recommendations for each child will be sent to the family physician. Local doctors are cooperating with the program.

Mrs. Fredrickson will be assisted in making appointments by Mrs. Keith Kilen, Greenbush. Mrs. Kilen may be called at Greenbush, telephone 218-782-4350.

This children's clinic is for all well-children up through the age of four years in the hope of detecting any handicapping condition that the child may have so that further medical attention may be given.

Reopelle Gains Weather Award At California

Staff Sergeant Robert M. Reopelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldage Reopelle of Route 1, Red Lake Falls, has been recognized for helping his Air Weather Service (AWS) unit win the U. S. Air Force Senter Award for 1970.

Sergeant Reopelle is an aircraft mechanic in the 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at McClellan AFB, Calif.

The award—named in honor of Lieutenant General William O. Senter, former AWS commander—is presented annually to the reconnaissance or atmospheric sampling unit which continually demonstrates the ability to surpass established norms in the areas of mission accomplishment and operational readiness.

Sergeant Reopelle attended Badger high school and completed requirements for his diploma after entering the Air Force.

His wife, Alice, is the daughter of Ray Sese, 600 Kathy Ave., Althus, Okla.

Courneya, Dorsey Attend Meet On Rural Poverty

Terry Courneya, Pennington county agriculture extension agent, and William E. Dorsey, area extension coordinator for the county, attended an agricultural extension service conference May 10-14 at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

While at the conference, they heard agricultural economist Emiel W. Owens say in a speech that three-fourths of Minnesota's poor people include the aged and mothers and children.

Owens went on to say that Minnesota's poor include persons with limited education and poor health, small farm laborers or operators, farm occupants or migrants to urban centers, minority group members, and women heading households with dependent children.

"Poverty in Minnesota has been linked to a declining agricultural economy, with its intensity heightened in rural counties with the least urban characteristics and lack of opportunities in urban settings," Owens said.

He added, "increased farm production through better farm practices would not eliminate conditions associated with rural poverty. In rural Minnesota, the opportunity for the farmer with a small acreage to employ modern farming methods is declining."

Bergland Named Vice Chairman Of Study Group

Rep. Bob Bergland has been named vice-chairman of a task force on food and agriculture composed of congressmen associated with the Democratic study group (DSG) in the House of Representatives.

The appointment was announced by DSG Chairman Phillip Burton of California. Burton said the task force will concentrate on such issues as a realistic and viable farm program that will protect and encourage family farming; a comprehensive rural development program to encourage growth in the countryside and relieve the burden on our cities; and a comprehensive education program to acquaint the entire Congress with the need for positive government action.

Rep. John Melcher of Montana, veteran congressman and a member of the House agriculture committee, was named chairman of the task force. Usually, the vice-chairman is also an older member. However, Burton said he appointed Bergland to the vice-chairmanship because of his expertise and experience in the agriculture and rural development area".

Bergland is serving his first term in the House and is a member of the agriculture committee and the select committee on small business. Bergland, who has operated his own farm for over 20 years, once served as midwest director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service.

Work of the task force will include the development of legislative and policy initiatives and monitoring the Nixon administration's activities.

The Democratic study group is a legislative coordinating and research organization supported by more than 150 moderate and liberal Democratic congressmen.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $4,100.00.

Area B — On Cardinal Drive and Oriole Ave. in Arthur's Second Addition from Sherwood Avenue to Robinhood Drive.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $15,300.00.

PART VI

The proposed construction would consist of the extension of an 8" water main from Arctic Enterprise's Printing Plant at Sherwood Avenue and Highway No. 59, south and east along Highway No. 59 to the intersection of Highway No. 59 and Greenwood Boulevard, and the extension of a 15" sanitary sewer trunk line from the intersection of Greenwood Boulevard and County Ditch No. 6 to the intersection of Greenwood Boulevard and Trunk Highway No. 59; and the extension of a 6" water main on First Street east from Elm Avenue to Sherwood Ave., thence south along Sherwood Avenue to Steven's Ave. South.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon and benefited by the proposed improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $42,800.00.

PART VII

The proposed construction would consist of the excavating of unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel subbase and base material, and the surfacing with a hot mix asphalt bituminous surfacing material in the alley between Third Street and Taft Street and between Maple Avenue and Kneale Avenue.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $2,700.00.

PART VIII

The proposed construction would consist of the excavating of unsuitable soils, backfilling with gravel and subbase material, concrete curb and gutter and hot mix bituminous surfacing on Brooks Avenue from Highway No. 59 south approximately 2,000 feet.

The property proposed to be assessed is all that property abutting upon the improvement.

The estimated cost of the proposed construction is $58,500.00.

The total estimated cost of all of the above described improvements is $296,760.00. Such persons as desired to be heard with reference to the proposed improvements will be heard at this meeting.

Crookston Rated Favorite In District Track Meet

Lincoln high school track coach Jim Sims withheld his squad from a scheduled appearance in the Dragon Outdoor Invitational meet yesterday afternoon at Moorhead in favor of a light work-out in preparation for the district 31 meet coming up Saturday.

Preliminaries are set for Saturday morning, May 22, beginning at 10 a.m. on the University of North Dakota track at Grand Forks.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks captured the Northwest conference title last week at East Grand Forks and the Crookston Pirates have been tabbed as the pre-meet favorite, although Sims is hopeful the Prowlers can squeeze ahead of the two schools.

"I feel it's going to be a dog-eat-dog type of meet and it'll only be from two to five points separating the top teams," said Sims. "With their strong squad Crookston has to be rated the favorite but with a few breaks we could win it all."

The Prowlers will once again be lacking point winners in the field events and that omission may cost Thief River Falls a chance at the title.

Sims had not decided on his entire cast for this weekend but a tentative line-up will find the following individuals participating: 100-yard dash, Markoe Hanson and Rob Swenson; 220-yard dash, Hanson and Jon Markstrom; hurdles, Jon Wangberg and Doug Aaseby; mile run, Kim Murphy and Greg Bulger; high jump, Rick Larson and Kent Christenson; shot put, Rande Smith, Dave Lee or Russ Larson; discus, Smith, Lee or Dan Sillerud; pole vault, Mark Kaushagen, Mark Hagen or Gary Holverson; long jump, Smith, Pete Nelson or Marty Collins; 880 relay, Steve Belch, Markstrom, Wangberg and Hanson.

In the 440 Sims will use Mike Fitzgerald and Mike Hamerlinck; sprint medley, Swenson, Belch, Fitzgerald and Don Reierson; 880, Paul Battleson and Smith; mile relay, Battleson, Hamerlinck, Murphy or Bulger and Markstrom.

Sims said his team's health is improving with captain Paul Battleson running at full strength once again but sprinter Markoe Hanson is still a question mark for the meet Saturday with a pulled muscle in his thigh.

The Prowlers' head mentor also has a watchful eye on East Grand Forks with junior Kurt Knoff on the squad once again. Sims said the UND track is the best around the area and it should be fast.

The Prowlers captured their own invitational crown earlier in the season with 69½ points while Bemidji finished second with 57 and Crookston placed third with 42 points. Last week the Lumberjacks won the conference crown with 70½ points to Crookston's 64½ and the Prowlers' 62 points.

LHS Golfers 8th

Lincoln high school golfers placed eighth in a field of 17 teams in yesterday's Detroit Lakes invitational tournament.

Recording scores for the Prowlers at Detroit Lakes were Jay Moum 78, Paul Olson 80, Roger Lee 82, Mark Charlson 84, Mark Methuselem 85 and Lee Sorenson 89.

The Prowlers will be back in action Friday at Grand Forks and will compete in the Northwest Conference meet at Crookston on Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. Thief River Falls will host their own tournament Monday and Tuesday, May 24 and 25 on the Country Club golf course.

GREG KNUTSON leaps to return a shot while teammate Gordy DeLap gives him back-up support during the doubles action in yesterday's dual meet against Fertile on the LHS courts. Knutson and DeLap defeated their Fertile counterparts 6-0, 6-2 as part of the Prowlers' 9-0 blanking of the Falcons. The Prowler tennis team holds a 6-3 dual meet record for the season and will take on Ada this afternoon (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. and host Bemidji at 3 p.m. Friday on the Lincoln courts.

Prowler Netmen Win Double Dual At D.L.

Thief River Falls topped both Detroit Lakes and Valley City, North Dakota, in a double dual tennis meet staged at Detroit Lakes Monday afternoon.

The Prowlers finished with 14 points, coming from a 9-0 blanking of Valley City and a 5-4 win over the Lakers. The host team scored nine points for the day after coming back for a 5-4 win over Valley City who finished with four points.

Against the defending North Dakota state champs the Prowlers scored a clean sweep with Mark Liden defeating Darrol Miedenna 6-3, 9-4 in the number one singles and Tom Nepper dropping Bob Stevenson 6-2, 6-2 in the second singles match.

The Prowlers' Gordy Prichard needed three sets to defeat Larry Han 6-3, 4-6 and 6-1 in the number three singles while Stuart Waltonen and Mark Thyren combined for 6-0, 6-0 wins over Steve Hiderson and Jon Strauss in the doubles competition.

Liden recorded a 6-1, 6-1 win over Detroit Lakes' Bill Knutson in the second match for the Prowlers while Nepper and Prichard lost their number two and three singles matches. Nepper lost to Tom Hamre 6-8, 1-8 while Prichard lost to the Lakers' Tom Holverson 4-6, 6-1 and 4-6.

Thyren and Waltonen dropped Mark Schneider and Mark Jenson 7-5, 7-5 in doubles action against the Lakers.

Greg Knutson and Gordy LeLap played an exhibition doubles match for the Prowlers and defeated the Lakers' Ken Ferbek and Mark Berg 6-2, 5-7 and 6-2.

Detroit Lakes dropped Valley City in the doubles and number two singles after losing the number one and three singles.

The Prowlers will be in action today (Wednesday) on the Lincoln courts against Ada beginning at 4 p.m. The Lincoln netmen will also see home action Friday starting at 3 p.m. against Bemidji.

TRF Tennis Team Blanks Fertile

Whitey Olson had to do almost a complete re-vamping of his Lincoln high school tennis squad yesterday, but the Prowlers still managed to blank the visiting Fertile Falcons 9-0.

With Mark Liden, number one singles, and Stuart Waltonen, doubles, missing from action coach Olson used Mark Thyren, half of his number one doubles team, in the number one singles match and moved up his number two doubles team against the Falcons.

Thyren defeated Fertile's Paul Carlson 6-2, 6-0 in the first singles while Tom Nepper dropped Ken Ramberg 6-0, 8-4 in the number two singles for the Prowlers.

Gordy Prichard stopped Paul Remark of Fertile 6-1, 6-1 in the number three singles with Greg Knutson and Gordy DeLap teaming up for a 6-0, 6-2 win over Rick Remark and Lynn Sillerud in the doubles action.

The win gives the Prowlers a 6-3 dual meet record for the season. They will see action in three more dual meets before entering the district 31 meet on May 28.

HEFTING THE NORTHERN which he caught early Monday evening in the Red Lake river is nine-year-old Danny Schoonhoven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schoonhoven of Thief River Falls. Danny was fishing near the diving board at Tindolph park pool when the nine and one-half pounder took his small red-and-white casting spoon. He managed to land it without benefit of a net.

Trap League Completes Second Week Of Action

Thief River Trap League completed its second week of action Monday night as five teams won their second straight match of the season and five others lost their second contest.

Winning their second match of the season were L.B. Hartz, 111-109 over Johnson Hide & Fur; Coast to Coast, 119-108 over Union st. Bank; Arctic Cat, 117-109 over Wilson Brothers; Northern st. Bank, 121-109 over the Legion; and the VFW, 113-112 over Tony Dorn's.

Bjorkman's recorded their second tie of the season, 113-113 with Lind Motors while other action found the A & W downing Custom Motors 119-108, Karlstad dropped the Times 115-107 and the Pharmacy clobbored the Shrine 123-90.

L.B. Hartz won their second match of the season with Pat Fischer shooting a 24-1, Curt Bottem 19-3, Norm Olson 16-5, Bob Olson 19-4 and Dean Anderson 19-1. Johnson Hide & Fur dropped to 1-1 on the year with the loss although John Dorr shot a 21-2, Harry Johnson 15-7, Del Stordahl 14-8, Brian Daley 14-8 and Frandell Johnson 16-4.

In the Coast to Coast win over Union st. Bank, Ike Ellingson shot a 23-1, Norland Windahl 17-8, Harold Hugg 21-3, Carl Hugg 20-3 and Dale Thompson 15-9. Fred Sorenson led the Union st. bank squad with a 22-4 while Al Scheuneman shot a 21-2, John Moum 19-4, Arnie Narverud 16-3 and Arnie Johnson 12-6.

Arctic Cat dumped Wilson Brothers 117-109 behind Gary Lane's 21-7, Lorn Brenna 24-0, Ike Hoglin 19-6, Ron Shern 17-5 and Burt Lane 17-4. Wilson Brothers received a 19-8 from Wally Vagle while Si Schantzen shot an 18-4, Ston Wilson 22-0, Myrt Wilson 16-3 and Orville Feragen 12-7.

Northern st. Bank remained unbeaten with their 121-109 win over the Legion with Bob Phillips shooting a 23-4, Howard Thorson 18-8, Joannie Wilson 21-3, John Feragen 21-3 and Sandy Wilson 23-0. The Legion was led by Gary Boughton's 24-8, Dick Scultherp 22-1, John Kotaska 18-4, Allen Steinhauer 13-8 and Tom Greells 13-5.

VFW edged Tony Dorn's 113-112 with Gubby Lane shooting a 23-1, Roonie Johnson 18-6, Keith Bugge 18-5, Tony Noel 20-1 and Rick Contos 13-8.

Rick Bruggeman shot a 22-1 for Tony Dorn's with Mark Langevin shooting a 17-8, Budd Brooten 16-7, Tony Dorn Jr. 18-3 and Buzz Marvin 16-2.

Bjorkman's recorded their second tie in two weeks Monday night against Lind Motors as Wendy Olson shot a 16-8, Earl Dagg 16-5, Dick Bjorkman 18-5, Dave Bjorkman 20-2, and Bob Bergan 13-8. For Lind Motors, Hal Loge shot a 22-3, Floyd Ball 23-1, Lambert Brunkhorst 15-7, Dick Greisen 18-3 and Dave Lee 17-4.

Warren Hannestad shot a 22-4 to lead A & W to their 119-108 win over Custom Motors while teammates George Hannestad shot a 21-6, Barry Felleman 19-4, Roger Rivers 15-8 and Bruce Prichard 15-8. Steve Cyr shot a 21-2, Mark Hegen 15-8, Steve Johnson 22-1, Dave Larson 19-3 and Dale Schantzen 11-6 for the losing Custom Motors squad.

Karlstad picked up its first win of the season while handing the Times a 115-107 defeat with Jack Olsted shooting an 18-8, Aemond Keil 23-0, Tim Nordin 18-5, Jon Nordin 14-8 and Craig Spilde 16-6. Bob Mattson led the Times with a 23-2 while Bruce Mattson shot a 16-8, Mike Lundgren 14-8, Marv Lundin 19-2 and a dummy score of 15.

The Pharmacy jumped into the win column with their 123-90 victory over the Shrine behind Roy Thyren's 24-2, Russ Embury 23-4, Jim Huseth 23-4, Don Wahlbeck 19-8 and Mark Swanson 21-2. For the Shrine, Carl Lee shot a 16-7, LeRoy Nabben 16-3, Orvis Olen 12-6, Eugene Gaer 12-5 and Irv Wilson 5-8.

The team standings after two weeks of action, based on two points being awarded for a win and one point for a tie:

TRF Summer Youth Baseball Preview

Baseball practice for youngsters in the summer baseball program will begin this week at the various baseball diamonds in the city. Program director Ron Novak has supplied the Times with the following information concerning the program's operation:

The program this summer will be organized into an eight-year-old Instructional League, a 9-10-year-old Little National League, an 11-12-year-old Little American League; a 13-year-old-league; and a 14-15-year-old league.

Due to the number of boys interested in playing baseball this summer we will have a 13-year-old league and also a 14-15-year-old league, rather than a 13-15-year-old league as we did last summer. The coaches and I feel that by dividing our league into a 13-year-old league and a 14-15-year old league we will provide more and better competition for the boys, have better balanced teams and give the boys much more playing time.

All boys born after August 1, 1955 and before August 1, 1957 are eligible to play in the 14-15-year-old league. There will be four teams in this league: the Twins coached by Don Lindquist and Orin Aune, the Senators coached by Wally Grovum and Buzz Marvin, the Royals coached by Bo-Bo Dicken and Don Engelstad and the Brewers coached by Bill Petersen and Jack Goulet.

This league will play a 15-game schedule with game nights scheduled for Monday and Wednesday at the fairgrounds diamond. The league will begin practice this week with games starting on June 7 and with the final game on July 30. The play-offs will be held during the week of August 2-7.

All boys born after August 1, 1957 and before August 1, 1958 will be able to play in the 13-year-old league. This league will serve as a farm system for the 14-15-year-old league. Each 13-year-old team will be affiliated with a 14-15 year old team. There will be four teams in this league as well. The Angels (coach needed) will be affiliated with the Twins, the Athletics (coach needed) will be affiliated with the Brewers, the Orioles, coached by Bob Kammen, will be with the Senators and the Yankees, coached by Don Laidley, will be associated with the Royals.

This league will play a 15 game schedule with games scheduled for Monday and Wednesday nights. These games will be played on the two new baseball diamonds which are presently being constructed at the fairgrounds. Practices will begin in a week with the first game scheduled for June 7 and the final game on July 30. The play-offs will be held during the week of August 2-7.

All boys born after August 1, 1958 and before August 1, 1960 will be eligible to compete in the 11-12-year-old Little American League. The number of teams will depend upon the number of boys playing. Coaches are needed for this league. Registration and try-outs for this league will be held during the week of June 7-11. League games will begin on June 14 and finish up on July 30. The play-offs will be held during the week of August 2-7. All games will be played on the two new fields at the fairgrounds on Tuesday and Thursday evening.

All boys born after August 1, 1960 and before August 1, 1962 will be able to play in the 9-10-year-old Little National League. All Little National League action will be held Monday through Thursday in the afternoon from 1-4:30 at the fairgrounds diamond. Registration and try-outs for this league will be held during the week of June 7-11.

The Instructional League will be open to all 8-year-old boys interested in playing baseball. This league will concentrate on the fundamentals of baseball (throwing, catching, hitting and fielding). Registration for this league will be held on Wednesday, June 9 at 1:00 at the fairgrounds. This league will practice in the afternoons on Monday and Wednesday at the fairgrounds diamond.

The participation in our summer baseball program has been increasing steadily over the past five years. We have made many improvements in our program over those years. One of these has been the addition of adult coaches for each team in our 11-12-year-old league, 13-year-old league, and our 14-15-year-old league. We have some excellent coaches in our present program who have volunteered their time to provide the leadership, and to develop the correct attitudes and values that each boy should receive from playing the game of baseball. With the increase in the number of boys playing baseball this summer, our program cannot operate effectively without the help of adults in the community interested in baseball and working with our youth. Any adults and parents who are interested in coaching a team in our baseball program this summer, please contact one of our coaches or contact Ron Novak, 681-3959, for further information.

SUCCESS while fishing in the Red Lake river at Thief River Falls was noted Sunday morning by Dennis Klein. Trolling with a red and white spoon while returning with a rental boat to the Eighth Street Gulf station, Dennis caught this nine and one-half pound northern. Several smaller northerns were also caught.

NSJC Competes In Track Tourney

Northland state junior college placed sixth in a field of seven teams to the recent Northern Division junior college track tournament.

Mesabi won the crown with 70½ points while Hibbing scored 67½, Vermillion 60½, Fergus Falls 32, Rainy River 18½, NSJC 15 and Crookston Tech 6.

The Northmen went with just three performers at the meet and each team member turned in his best performance of the season in at least one event.

Tim Olson, freshman from Thief River Falls, was clocked at 15.9 in the 120-yard high hurdles for second place and 21.9 in the 180-yard high hurdles for third place. Both times were the best by Olson this season.

Tony Burke tossed the javelin 133' 2" for his best throw of the year and finished fourth in the event while taking a second in the discus with a toss of 119' 10".

Tom Kays was a third-place finisher in the discus competition with a throw of 118' 8" which was his best performance of the season.

SADDLE CLUB TO MEET

Neil Mattson Will Receive Award At History Conference

Second annual conference on the history of the Red River Valley and Northern Great Plains will honor a Minnesota newspapermen May 21-22 at North Dakota state university in Fargo.

Co-sponsored by the North Dakota institute for regional studies (NDIRS) at NDSU and the Red River Valley Historical society, (RRVHS), the history conference will give its first "Gertrude Hoag Distinguished Service To History Award" to E. Neil Mattson of Warren. The award will be presented at a 7 p.m. dinner meeting Friday, May 21, in the Memorial Union ballroom at NDSU.

Mattson is the managing editor of the Warren "Sheaf," Marshall county's oldest newspaper. Last July, Mattson was elected president of the Minnesota Historical society—the first from outside the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

The NDIRS distinguished service to history award goes to the region's most active and outstanding historians. Mattson is a third generation of newspaper editors at Warren, where the "Sheaf" was purchased by John P. Mattson in 1886.

Mattson has represented the Minnesota Historical society before the legislature for 11 years. He has concentrated his efforts on balancing the society's budget and calls its programs "the most imaginative and aggressive in the nation." Born at Warren on Sept. 28, 1926, he is a 1948 University of Minnesota school of journalism graduate.

The conference will begin with the 7 p.m. dinner meeting Friday, May 21, at NDSU. Russell W. Fridley, director of the Minnesota Historical society, will talk about "The Changing Role of the Historian in Contemporary Society."

The first "Gertrude Hoag Scholars Award," sponsored through interest from the memorial fund of the Daughters of the Dakota Pioneers will be announced at the Friday evening dinner. It is directed at the preservation of study in North Dakota history.

The memorial fund was given to the institute last year in honor of Gertrude Hoag, a Fargo school teacher for many years and one of the early organizing forces behind the Cass County Historical society museum. Located in Minard hall at NDSU, the museum will be open during the conference Saturday, May 22.

Following conference registration between 8 and 9 a.m. Saturday, May 22, at the NDSU Memorial Union ballroom, the first "Gertrude Hoag Award Lecture" will be given by Dr. Gilbert C. Fite. A research professor at the University of Oklahoma, Fite will talk about a "Time of Crisis—The 1890s". He is the newly appointed president of Eastern Illinois university, effective next fall.

Beginning at 10 a.m. and running to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Memorial Union, leading area historians—both lay and professional and University of North Dakota and NDSU graduate students will lead a series of half hour talks on a variety of historical subjects. Talks will range from "Religious Beliefs and Ceremonies of the Northern Plains Indians" and "From the Farmer's Alliance to Populism," to "North Dakota Journalism," and "North Dakota Politics and Economics."

Numbering among those participating in the Saturday schedule of talks are Dr. Victor Peters, Moorhead State college professor of history; Frank Vyzralik, archivist for the state historical society of North Dakota, and Edward A. Milligan, NDSU-Bottineau branch.

The Rev. Gerald Foley, president of the RRVHS, will preside over a social hour and noon luncheon in the Ballroom, and Neil Mattson will talk about "The State Historical Societies and Regional History."

Registration for the conference is $2 and may be completed during the Saturday morning registration hour, or by writing Dr. Bill G. Reid, archivist of the NDIRS at NDSU, or Don Myrold of the RRVHS, also at NDSU. Complete programs are also available.

In connection with the conference, there will be a special session beginning at 2 p.m. for history teachers and those interested in teaching. "Idealism and Realities: Group Appraisal of an Effective History Teacher" will be led by history instructors Curtis R. Engel, NDSU, and Jon S. McKeel, Moorhead state college.

All those present will be part of the appraisal session that will consider such questions as "Can History Really be Taught in Our Schools?" "Are History Teachers, in Effect, Glorified Babysitters For the Taxpayers?" and "Should Coaching a Sport be Considered a Quality Necessary for History Teachers?" Group coordinators of the program are Mrs. M. B. Roberts, Humboldt-St. Vincent high school faculty members, and Dr. I. Kenneth Smemo, professor of history at Moorhead state college.

Teachers or prospective teachers interested in attending should contact Curtis R. Engel, Department of History, NDSU, Fargo, N. D., 58102.

"Honor the Dead by helping the living" is the slogan of the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars Buddy Poppy sale. Proceeds are used entirely for the welfare of disabled and needy veterans and the survivors of deceased veterans.

Lack Of Rain Cripples FFA 'Rain Guage'

Minnesota Future Farmers of America (FFA) members have a newly-extended deadline of May 27 to start recording and reporting Minnesota rainfall as a part of their statewide "Operation Rain Gauge," due to the success of weather experts in holding up expected precipitation for this state until the latter part of this month.

U.S. National Weather Service meteorologist Joseph Strub and state climatologist Earl Kuehnast both have used their influence and technical know-how, FFA officers suggest, in limiting and withholding rainfall during the past two weeks in Minnesota, giving latecomer FFA volunteers a chance to join in "Operation Rain Gauge."

Thus far, approximately 2,000 FFA members from 160 of the state's 268 chapters have started recording rainfall on the opening day of May 1. Ultimately, according to W. J. Kortesmaki, state FFA executive secretary, all 268 chapters are expected to participate. The rainfall locations will supplement the 240 official state rain gauges now in operation.

"FFA Operation Rain Gauge will help us forecast weather extremes that will cause damage to life or property," says Joseph H. Strub, Jr., meteorologist in charge at the Minneapolis office of the U.S. weather bureau. "Ground observations are needed to help us interpret what we see on radar. Rainfall and its intensity are an indicator of how severe a thunderstorm may be. We may have a trained source of potential information in other areas of the state and will be more able to forecast storm intensity as it develops and moves eastward."

According to Earl L. Kuehnast, state climatologist, "Preliminary studies last summer found extreme and unexpected differences in rainfall from one township to another. Rainfall strips or alleys are believed to exist, but their cause is a mystery. A dense gathering of rainfall measuring outposts could benefit dam and highway builders, farmers, flood fighters, conservationists and everybody who is interested in the daily weather forecast".

"This is the first attempt in the nation to obtain this kind of information on such an intensive scale," he said.

The national FFA adult leaders and student officers are showing interest in this pilot project, as they expect to recommend the program on a national level in 1972 if it is successful in Minnesota.

The busiest individual on the local level is the FFA chapter climatologist who collects the monthly rainfall reports from the amateur weather observers and mails them to the state climatologist prior to the tenth of each month.

"Grow old along with me . . . the best is yet to be," the sundial seems to say. It's a nice thought—but is it true?

What is best in life? Childhood? Adolescence? The Middle Years? The peace that should come with the twilight of life? Who is to say?

Life is full of many questions and very few answers. The hours bring with them unexpected contrasts of happiness and sorrow—of assurance and dismay—of wealth and poverty, both spiritual and material.

Because of this very uncertainty, we need something far more stable than a sundial to "grow old along with." We need substance, endurance, solidity. We need faith.

Where to find it? How about looking, first, in the church of your choice? Next Sunday?

News of Past Week from Plummer Area

Mrs. Hellrr C. Prlsrson, Plummer, 465-2413

The Plummer American Legion auxiliary unit 623 held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the Plummer hall with Mrs. Floyd Hesse presiding at the business meeting. The Gift of Life program which was held here with Mrs. Kenny Malwitz and Mrs. Floyd Hesse in charged had four persons signing up. Mrs. Arlene Kelly and Mrs. Floyd Hesse gave a report on the spring luncheon which was held in Barnesville this year. The unit voted to donate to the legion lounge project at the Veterans hospital in Minneapolis. The unit will entertain the members of the Plummer Legion post and their partners and Auxiliary members and their partners at a steak supper to be held Saturday evening, May 22, at the Plummer hall. The history of the unit was read by historian Mrs. Don Hesse. A discussion on the giving of a $50 scholarship to some veterans or auxiliary members child who wishes to go to college and it was voted to do so and Mrs. Hurbert Matt and Mrs. Marie Kein are in charge of looking into it and to bring it to the next meeting how it can be done. The nominating committee to select a new slate of officers are Mrs. Kenny Malwitz, Mrs. Don Hesse and Mrs. Agnes Hemly. Poppy Day will be held Saturday, May 22, in Plummer with Mrs. Herbert Walter, Mrs. Art Hanson and Mrs. Melvin Hesse in charge. Mrs. Hesse presented gifts to the Gold Star Mothers, Mrs. Emil Malwitz, Mrs. Jerome Bernier and Mrs. Anna Wickstrom. After which an impressive memorial service was held honoring all the units deceased members with Mrs. R. H. Pahlen and Mrs. Emil Malwitz in charge. The Poppy posters made by the Plummer sixth grade students were judged and winners were first prize to Janet Kvasager, second prize to Laurie Heden and third prize to Tommy Willett. The posters will be displayed in the windows of the Plummer business places. On the program for the evening were Mrs. Stella Erickson, Mrs. Erwin Seibel and Mrs. Leroy Westerlund. Lunch was served by Mrs. Jos Willett, Mrs. Art Hanson and Mrs. Theo LaCoursiere. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Alvin Johnson and Mrs. Ellsworth Milligan.

Poppy Day May 22

Poppy day will be held Saturday, May 22nd, in Plummer with Poppies being sold all day by auxiliary members. Many have seen the Poppies on Poppy day and have bought them, but really know little of the meaning of the program. The memorial Poppies are made by disabled veterans in Poppy workshops throughout the United States. The Poppy is presented just prior to Memorial day by American Legion auxiliary members and their helpers. The profits from donations are pledged 100 per cent to the relief of service men and women and their families, thus fulfilling the true meaning of the Poppy—an emblem of faith.

"Though I am much against too much spending, yet I do think it best to enjoy some degree of pleasure now that we have health, money, and opportunity, rather than to leave pleasure to old age and poverty, when we cannot have them so properly." —Samuel Pepys

A Clean-Up Problem?

"If you're looking for something to write about in your editorials," stated the feminine voice on the other end of the line, "how about telling the dog owners to keep their dogs on their own yards. After the snow melted this spring, our yard had to literally be cleaned up with a scoop shovel—and we don't have a dog."

Consideration for other people can go a long way in neighborhood relations, and a little forethought can avoid a lot of problems. People who own dogs are responsible for them and for any inconvenience or damge which they may cause. This should be assumed by anyone who keeps a dog or other pet.

Many are the cases where dogs in the habit of regular trespassing have been the victims of firearms, poison, garden rakes or what-have-you in retaliation. The sorry part is that these methods are applied against the dog which doesn't know any better. Such drastic action shouldn't be necessary if a little courtesy is practiced.

Infrequent or first-time incidents involving dogs can often be excused, especially if action is taken to correct them. Frequent or continued violations of good manners or public safety are another matter. The lady who called likely has reason to be disturbed.

While we are talking about dogs, however, we want to strike a blow in behalf of the canines. Worse than any dog trespassing on the property of a neighbor is the child (of any age) who annoys or teases a dog which is confined on a chain or in a kennel. We have heard reports of kids throwing rocks, shooting BB guns, slingshots or pea shooters at dogs confined to their owners' yards as required by city ordinance. Such behavior is inexcusable.

There you are, lady. Now we'll have to look for something else to write about.

Act Of Man

The following editorial from an exchange paper provides some food for thought:

At a time when California is still recovering from its devastating trembler, scientists meeting under United Nations auspices, warn that "under certain circumstances, earthquakes may well be an act of man rather than an act of God."

The scientists, at a symposium sponsored by the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), made these points.

Artificial lakes created behind great dams can lead to earth tremors. Among other things, this results from the weight of the water in areas where rock masses already are close to failure. The additional weight, the experts say, "may be the last straw to break the earth's back underneath it."

Earthquakes also are associated with the withdrawal and injection of fluids—whether water or oil. In Colorado, for instance, the U. S. Geological Survey found that at the Rangely oil field, tremors followed the injection of water into the earth at high pressure to maintain the flow of oil in wells.

As a classic case of the water-weight phenomenon, the scientists cited Lake Mead behind the Colorado River's Hoover Dam. Some 6,000 shocks were recorded in the region during the 10 years after 1935 when Lake Mead began filling. And by world standards, the lake—with 40 billion tons of water—isn't even considered a giant. The lake behind the Kariba Dam on the Zambezi River in Africa contains 160 billion tons of water!

Clean Home Seldom Burns

This suggested editorial from the National Fire Protection association carries a message worth heeding during May clean-up, paint-up, fix-up month:

... With the onset of cold weather, the enclosed porch had become a catch-all for every kind of clutter. So there was plenty of fuel for the midnight fire to feed on. By the time the sound of breaking glass aroused the parents, flames had broken through to the kitchen, and deadly smoke and heat were pouring upstairs into bedrooms. Three small children didn't make it to safety.

... The basement was no place for the four-year-old twins to be playing, and certainly matches shouldn't have been their playthings. But nothing happened until they pulled open the door of a storage closet overflowing with old boxes, cleaning rags and other odds and ends. When the fire was out, the two boys were found in the blackened rubble of the closet.

... The young wife shouldn't have been smoking as she rummaged for something stored in the attic, but everything seemed all right when she left. Hours later a smoldering stock of newspapers and magazines burst into flame. The wife was smart this time. Smelling smoke, she picked up the baby and ran. No lives were lost, but the house was a sorry mess and most of the not-yet-paid-for furniture was hauled to the dump.

Thousands of records like these in the files of the National Fire Protection Association make one fact crystal clear:

Rubbish and clutter breed fire.

Five times an hour, 120 times a day, an American home is destroyed or damaged by fire starting in rubbish.

Get the clean-up urge now, and keep it throughout the year. Aim it particularly at basement, attic, closets, and other out-of-sight areas.

Remember, it's the clean home that seldom burns.

Everybody's Farm

The following editorial was published in the "Dairymen Digest", published monthly by the northern region of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., and is published here in the general interest:

If all the land used for farming in the United States were divided equally among U.S. families, what would be your family's share?

The answer is slightly more than 27½ acres. To the city dweller or suburbanite this would seem like room to roam. But the average farmer, accustomed to more than 385 acres, might feel a bit cramped.

About 22 of your 27½ acres would be actually in your farm. A little less than 9 acres of your farm would be cropland; nearly 10 would be pasture, grassland, or range. You also would have about 1½ acres of woodland which you use for grazing, and 1½ acres in farmstead, roads, and nonfarm uses.

In addition to land in your own farm, you would run livestock on about 5½ acres of land rented or leased from the government. About half would be grassland, pasture and range, and the rest would be woodlands—mostly lands administered by the Forest Service.

Although your farm contains nearly 9 acres of cropland, you planted less than 6 acres to crops in 1970. The rest of it was in fallow, held out of production under government programs, or idle for one reason or another. You had nearly 3½ acres in grains, over half of which were corn and wheat. You had over an acre in hay, and a soybean field of eight-tenths of an acre. Most other crops were on garden-sized plots.

Your herds and flocks present some puzzling biological problems. You had only one-fourth of a dairy cow but she managed to produce 2,287 pounds of milk in the year. The beef cattle herd of 1.8 head dropped three-fourths of a calf, while your lone hog had a litter of 2 pigs. Only four-tenths of a sheep roamed your pasture.

You had 6.4 hens during 1970. They laid 113 dozen eggs. You also produced 58 broilers, but only 2¼ turkeys.

Your family farm was valued at $4,086 on the 1970 real estate market. As the year began, you had $460 worth of livestock and poultry on hand and $211 worth of crops. Investment in machinery and motor vehicles amounted to $671.

If you are a city man, this farm may give you more elbow room than you are accustomed to, and perhaps something of the spirit of agrarian living. But, as every farmer knows, it won't make you rich.

Your 27½ acres grossed $1,068 in 1969. Production expenses took $752 of that, leaving you a net income of only $316.

Just Supposing . . .

The following was a broadcast editorial from station WKRC in Cincinnati, Ohio:

SUPPOSE you woke up one morning and, overnight, the following things had happened in the United States:

All paychecks slashed 75 per cent;

40 million TV sets destroyed;

14 out of every 15 miles of paved roads torn up;

60 million Americans transferred back to the farm;

60 per cent of our steel-making capacity abandoned, along with two-thirds of our petroleum industry;

19 of every 20 cars or trucks junked;

2 out of every 3 miles of railroad track torn up;

9 out of every 10 telephones ripped out, and

7 of every 10 houses torn down.

BY DOING all this, the United States could become the equal of Soviet Russia. We think it shows that we must be doing something right in America.

The Nelson Motor Company has been appointed Oakland-Pontiac dealer in this community, according to an announcement made today.—The board of county commissioners at a meeting Friday instructed County Auditor Harry Fowler to advertise for bids on three county aid projects.—Police chief William Sheedy yesterday issued a warning to local boys to stop the practice of riding bicycles on the side-walk in violation of city ordinances.—While watering stock on the Barzen farm Friday, Henry Gehling, 65, was crushed in the chest by a horse that became unmanageable, and suffered six broken ribs.

1941—THIRTY YEARS AGO

The Jaycee chapter voted to recommend to the park board that the Boy Scout park on the east bank of the river be the site of the proposed boat dock to be financed by the Junior Chamber.—The board of trustees of Mercy Hospital announced tentative plans for a large addition to the institution.—The local Elks lodge will move in July to new quarters under the Northern Chevrolet garage.—The city council ordered the paving of the alley in the block bounded by Main and Knight avs and Second and Third sts.

1951—TWENTY YEARS AGO

Nearly 425 persons attended the annual meeting of N.W. Hospital assn., and elected L. B. Hartz, Lawrence Bjorkman and John Anderson as trustees.—Work will start at once on construction of a new building for the First Federal Savings & Loan assn. on Third st. east of the S & L Store.—Robert Wik, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd Wik of the St. Hilaire area, was accidentally killed while participating in a track meet at Crookston.

1961—TEN YEARS AGO

Robert A. Bredeson and Morris Owen were elected in the Thief River Falls school district election Tuesday evening.—Official word was received today by the Valley Home of Thief River Falls that its request for a federal loan in the amount of $340,000 has been approved.—Thief River Falls city council is preparing a bond issue for $100,000 for storm sewer and curb improvements on the East Side.

notes from the governor

As we near the end of the 1971 legislative session, I believe there is strong reason to believe important progress will be achieved in at least one vital area.

Our legislators now appear to agree—almost to a man—that the single most critical issue facing the people of Minnesota is that of high, regressive real estate taxes.

My entire budget was shaped with that central fact in mind. I am proud of that budget. I traveled the state explaining it to you. I believe it deals effectively with the property tax crisis.

I have also stated on many, many occasions that I take no pride of authorship, that I have an open mind concerning responsible alternative plans.

In the tax field, several alternatives have been advanced.

Some features of the plan sponsored by Senator Jerome Blatz of Bloomington, particularly the so called "value added" tax, deserve serious study. The same holds true for recommendations made by State Auditor Rolland Hatfield.

On the other hand, the tax plan passed last week by Republicans in the Minnesota House is deficient in several respects.

First, it provides $200 million less in property tax relief to homeowners, businessmen and farmers. That is not enough. That does not adequately meet the needs of our people.

Secondly, the spending limits incorporated in the bill do not provide sufficient guarantees that the property tax relief will be permanent.

Finally, the House GOP plan hits moderate and low-income taxpayers far heavier than do other major proposals.

Political realities dictate that the final tax plan must be a fair compromise.

I recognize this and so do most legislators. I'm confident that the omnibus tax bill finally passed will reflect that consensus.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor Lundin:

Congratulations to your entire community for making the month of May Paint-up—Clean-up—Fix-up Month! From your Mayor Jacobson's proclamation announcing same, with the Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees, the S O S (Save Our Sphere) of the Republican Women, your various clubs and organizations, school students and all the citizenry of Thief River Falls taking part, it is most commendable.

Having pride (I understand you have Mr. Pride) in one' community—starting from where one lives, is in the best traditions of this country's grass roots involvement. Once started, it becomes an important part of the community's continuing outlook and participation level. Congratulations again!

When visiting your community, I very much enjoyed talking with Mr. Cal Lindberg of your Franklin Junior High School, and Mrs. Margaret Weigelt, President of the Pennington County Republican Women's Club. Their enthusiasm was infectious and promising of good future endeavors for Paint-Up—Clean Up—Fix-Up.

Very truly yours,
Ione I. Lundeen
President, Minn. Federation of Republican Women
Fergus Falls, Minn.

Strandquist . . .

Gerry Stoner, Strandquist 587-1193

The Strandquist senior class returned Sunday evening after spending their class trip in St. Paul. They roomed at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge and are still talking about how much they enjoyed the indoor swimming pool. They had the opportunity to visit the Capital, Historical Building, Cathedral, Summit Avenue, and Como Park. They also attended a Twins baseball game at Metropolitan stadium. They would like to thank those who made the trip possible, Palmer Rud for driving them down and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Elseth for chaperoning.

The spring concert was held on Thursday evening, May 13th, with Mrs. Ken Sanli as director. The concert included numbers by the concert band, the junior band, the flute quartet, the clarinet quartet, the saxophone quartet, and the trombone trio. Vocal numbers were given by the junior and senior high sextettes. Vocal solos included Dawn Thun, soprano and Lori Lindstrom, contralto. Instrumental solos were Deborah Haugen, clarinet, and Patty Kleinwachter, bass clarinet. Student directors for the junior band were Lowell Lefrooth and Stanley Stancyk, Jr. For the concert band student directors were Krista Boen, Darlene Renstrom, Debi Thun, Mary Ellen Flaten, and Marcy Stancyk. A corsage was presented to Mrs. Sanli by the members of the band. The John Philip Sousa Award was given to Deborah Haugen. Lunch was served by the band boosters during intermission.

Outwit wild oats.

Let us custom apply Carbyne* for wild oat control

This is the year to outwit wild oats! When they show up in your crops, let us control them with Carbyne.

Remember, the time to look for wild oats is when the first green appears in your fields. You can't spot them from the road, so walk or drive your fields, then see us about spraying Carbyne.

Call today for complete information about custom Carbyne application.

What happens when you're offered $18,000 for your $24,200 pile of ashes?

You take it if you haven't increased your home insurance to keep pace with inflation.

This is the kind of problem you could face if you bought and insured your home for $18,000 in 1963. See me to find out if your home is insured for its full value. I'll tell you about a low-cost State Farm Homeowners Policy that will insure your home for all it's worth . . . and keep it that way with automatic Inflation Coverage.

Defect In Red Blood Cell Gives Leukemia Clue

Characteristics of a common hereditary red blood cell defect may provide a clue to understanding leukemia—cancerous white blood cells—according to a University of Minnesota physician-researcher.

Dr. Harry S. Jacob, professor of medicine and chief of the hematology division, explained he has found evidence that leukemic white blood cells may have stiff membranes similar to red blood cells of people with a disease called hereditary spherocytosis.

Dr. Jacob first discovered an inherited defect in the membrane protein of red blood cells in this disease. The defect causes them to become stiff and marble-shaped instead of remaining supple and disk-shaped. Because of their stiffness, the altered cells have difficulty flowing through the small blood vessels of the body and are prematurely destroyed, resulting in anemia.

In a type of leukemia usually found in adults, Dr. Jacob has suggested that the malignant white blood cells are similarly affected and have difficulty squeezing through small apertures in bone marrow where they are mainly produced. The marrow becomes clogged with the leukemic cells, producing the bony tenderness of the disease.

Additionally, the cells that do get out into the bloodstream have difficulty squeezing into sites of infection leading thereby to the major cause of death in this condition.

Dr. Jacob has also found that certain drugs used to treat cancers may also create stiff blood cell membranes. Vinblastine, which is used to treat Hodgkin's Disease, for example, will cause normal red cells to become stiff in a way which completely mimics the genetic defect found in hereditary spherocytosis. Such drugs may have to be used with caution in patients with propensity to infection.

These findings may have important therapeutic ramifications in leukemia, Dr. Jacob said. Recently he has been able to chemically modify the genetically stiff red cell of hereditary spherocytosis to make it more plastic. Studies with leukemic white cells have been begun in the hope of producing similar changes. If successful, these studies might lead to decreased infection in this malignancy, and hence longer survival.

Dr. Jacob and five colleagues are members of a special Leukemia research task force at the University health sciences center. Research funds supporting this work have been partially raised by a group of local businessmen organized by Richard Brown of Minneapolis.

Dr. Jacob presented his research findings at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin state medical society in Milwaukee. He will be receiving the society's Conrad Elvehjem award for his research contributions.

Plane Plants Wild Rice In Oklee Area

More than 2,000 acres of land in the Oklee area have been planted in wild rice this spring, three times the amount seeded only one year ago.

Under contract to Black Gold Development of Fosston, the wild rice is being grown in six parcels of diked land along the Red Lake, Clearwater and Lost rivers. Wild rice was first commercially grown in the area three years ago.

A pump with a 160 h.p. engine lifts 20,000 gallons of water a minute from the rivers to fill the diked area in preparation for planting. Seeding this year was done by airplane, with David Bachand of Oklee flying a specially equipped biplane carrying about 1200 pounds of the seed mixture of one-third wild rice and two-thirds oats, enough to plant about 15 acres.

Also to be used to irrigate the rice land will be mobile pumps which will be moved about the various sites to maintain the necessary water level during the growing season. By mid-July the crop is headed out above the water and harvest usually takes place about mid-September.

Ordean Sundrud, manager of Black Gold, said that the increasing acres in the Oklee area are the result of the good wild rice crops in the past two years. He said he expects 2000 to 4000 more acres to be diked this fall for further planting next spring and said he expects the increase to be as much as 10,000 acres in Minnesota.

Sundrud's company plans to emphasize promoting and marketing of wild rice in the future. In and around the Oklee area the company will donate free wild rice to churches and other service organizations for use in serving public meals.

Although the rice sells at from $3 to $4.50 per pound, only a cupful of wild rice is enough to feed a family of five.

Regents Name 3 To Staff For Health Sciences

Three staff positions for the office of the vice president for health sciences affairs were approved Friday by the University of Minnesota board of regents.

David Preston, acting assistant vice president for health sciences affairs, and Dr. Joseph Resch, coordinator of health sciences affiliates, both were named assistant vice presidents for health sciences affairs. John Westerman, director of University Hospitals, was named coordinator for health services delivery research and development and general director of University hospitals. He remains an associate professor of public health.

Dr. Lyle French, vice president for health sciences affairs, said Westerman will be responsible for bringing concepts of health research together and translating them to delivery models for all health sciences students. Dr. French said he anticipates the development of several alternative organizational arrangements and predicted "a major emphasis on the health team and measurement of the effectiveness of these models."

No salary changes are involved in any of the appointments.

Gene Nelson Dairy Farm Is 160 Acres of Efficiency

by Marvin Landin
Times Editor

"I guess it's like they say: You like to know where you've been so you can see where you're going."

This is Gene Nelson's capsule analysis of record keeping in his dairy enterprise which has enabled him to make a living for his family while operating only 160 acres of land. He is a charter member of the vocational-technical school's farm management program, starting in 1955, and has been on Dairy Herd Improvement association (DHIA) test since 1961.

After farming southwest of Thief River Falls on rented land, the Nelson's bought a quarter section northwest of Viking 18 years ago. The farm had a house and a barn at the time, and both have been substantially changed since that time.

The dairy barn was originally 32x50 feet in size, and the Nelsons added a 16x50 lean-to addition in 1955. That was the year they started producing Grade A milk, using cans rather than a bulk tank. In 1963 a milk house was added to the barn and a 400-gallon bulk tank was installed. In 1964 the barn was extended 28 feet in length and a barn cleaner was installed. Most recent additions to the operation were a milk transfer system and a 20x60 silo constructed in 1967.

The Nelsons have always had dairy cattle, and Gene decided that he had to concentrate his efforts on dairying to have the 160-acre farm provide for his family. A constant culling and feeding program according to production has resulted in the herd reaching a top production average of 573 pounds of butterfat on 37 head.

Originally Nelson's cattle had quite a bit of Brown Swiss blood, but through Holstein breeding have almost lost the Brown Swiss appearance. Each month the herd has an average of 3.8 to 3.9 per cent butterfat.

Nelson raises mostly hay and corn on his 160-acre farm which has 152 acres of cropland. About 40 acres of corn and 75 to 80 acres of legume hay are produced each year. Some wheat is also raised as a cash crop and sold to purchase feed grains for the cattle. A feed lot is used and the cattle are never on pasture. Both haylage and corn silage is put in the silo. Gene has produced wheat crops of up to 47 bushels per acre—a high yield for his area of Marshall county.

Grain fed to the cattle is a mixture of two-thirds barley and one-third oats, commercially ground and with protein supplement added to bring the total protein up to about 15 per cent. In the feeding program according to production, the highest producers

NESS TYPHA PLANT at Holt was leveled by fire Wednesday evening with the loss estimated at $15,000, partially covered by insurance. Some youngsters noticed smoke coming from the building and notified Clinton Castle who lives nearby. The Middle River fire department was called but the fire burst through the side and roof of the building before the department arrived. Lost in the blaze was the 40x100 building; seed, cleaning equipment, some household goods and wool stored in the building. Intense heat from the blaze warped rolls on the railroad siding next to the building, requiring replacement. Smoke from the fire was easily visible from Thief River Falls and the glow could be seen from a distance of at least six miles.

Northrop School Music Program Slated Tuesday

Northrop school will present "Happiness Is. . ." tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the school gym. Happiness Is Being an American" will be the theme of grades one and two. They will begin with the "Star-Spangled Banner" followed by the pledge of allegiance. The patriotic theme will continue with "Fifty Stars" and "Fifty Nifty United States".

Paint-up, Clean-up, Fix up and the Diamond Jubilee will be the theme of grade three. Their songs will include "This Land is Your Land", "Leave Them a Flower", "Diamond Jubilee", and "It's a Hap-Hap-Happy Day".

The kindergarten theme will be pets and animals. "Hush Little Baby", "Six Little Ducks", and "Poor Little Dog" will be sung to carry out their theme. Grade four will sing "We Shall Overcome", "Northrop School is a Great School", and "Thief River Falls".

Working together and caring about the family will be the theme for the fifth grade. Their songs will include "Teamwork", "He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother", and "Blowin' in the Wind".

Grade six will sing songs of church and church school. Included will be "Allelula", "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands", "Everything is Beautiful", and "Put Your Hand in the Hand". The combined fourth, fifth and sixth grade choruses will end the program with "Happiness Is".

The kindergarten will be directed by Mr Kermit Hanson, grades one through three by Pat Stringham, and grades four through six by Mrs. Alex Stoffel. The accompanist is Mrs. Frank Harger. The public is invited to attend.

Baccalaureate At Goodridge

Baccalaureate services will be held at the Goodridge school gymnasium for the 1971 graduating class at 8 p.m. next Sunday. Rev. John Dulles will give the baccalaureate address.

Commencement exercises for Goodridge seniors will be held at 8 p.m. June 4, with Dr. M. L. Cushman, dean of the college of education at the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks giving the commencement address. A total of 42 seniors will graduate at Goodridge.

Hayes Dam Bid Set Too High, Skaar States

Bids for the proposed Hayes Lake state park dam were $87,500 above estimates, state representative Andy Skaar announced last week.

Skaar said the bids were too high to be let, but indicated that means are being sought to raise the additional funds from sources other than the money allocated. He is hopeful that the additional sum may be found in order that the dam be completed this year.

If the funds cannot be found, the bids will have to be rejected and there would be another two-year wait until the legislature could act again.

City's Day At Winnipeg Races Set For June 5

Tickets are now available at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office for Thief River Falls day at Assiniboia Downs in Winnipeg, according to Merle Smith, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The tickets are given free of charge to persons who plan to attend the event. Thief River Falls day will be on Saturday, June 5, and tickets will be honored on that day only. In previous years the free tickets could be used for attendance at other races.

A number of races during the race program on June 5 will be named for Thief River Falls and the winner of the feature race will be presented with a cooler blanket bearing the name of this city.

Any area resident wishing to obtain tickets for the races on June 5 are encouraged to contact the Chamber of Commerce office, located in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Monday Issue To Be Printed On Saturday

Because of the Memorial day holiday Monday, the May 31 issue of the Times will be published on Saturday of this week. Early advertising and news copy will be necessary because of the advanced publication date, and cooperation of advertisers and news sources will be appreciated by the Times staff.

FURRY HANDFUL is this pair of very young snowshoe hares being held by Bruce Ternes, 14, of Thief River Falls. Bruce and a friend, Mike Lofberg, 16, discovered them as unborn young when they were skinning the mother hare which had been killed. The boys dried the young hares as best they could and carried them home in their pockets. An eye dropper is used to feed them canned condensed milk about five times a day. They were five days old when this Times photo was taken and were quite active. The two now drink "about a shot glass of milk a day", according to Bruce's mother, who accepts the task of feeding the baby bunnies during the day. Hares are normally born fully-furred and with their eyes open. Rabbits are born without fur and require several days before they open their eyes.

"Evening of Drama" will be presented by the students of Franklin junior high at 8 p.m. Tuesday, with three one-act plays to be presented in the auditorium of Lincoln high school. Mrs Mary Kaye Tillmann will direct the plays.

"Of Poems, Youth, and Spring" by John Logan, is a fantasy about youth and love. Performing in the play are Julie Flynn, Steve Sacher, Shelley Langlie, Janet Peterson, Kim Wigness, Connie Dahl, Sally Nepper, Julie Hanson and Karen Lindquist.

"Big Black Box" is a situation comedy by Cleve Haubold which portrays the foibles of a gullible young man when confronted by a talking object. Scott Bornholdt and James Goulet will act in this play.

In "Sorry, Wrong Number" an invalid woman is threatened by a mysterious phone call. Her attempts to have the call traced and to get help drive her to the brink of hysteria. Characters included Chris Broeker, Kim Joppru, Keith Melvie, Jim Goulet, Claudia Kraemer, Sue Adamson, Peg Hohlman, Jessie Boyer, Mary Grundhaus and Dick Skay.

Tickets are 50 cents for adults and 23 cents for children under 14. Tickets may be purchased from cast members or at Lincoln high school on the night of production. The public is invited to attend.

Two Arrested At Warroad With 25 Lbs. Of Hashish

Two California persons were taken into custody in Warroad the afternoon of May 14 for the alleged smuggling of hashish into the United States.

Linda Webb, 19, of San Francisco, and Frank Earl Hawkins, 21, of San Rafael, were apprehended after customs agent Roy Hill and border patrolmen Hank Henderson and Bill Tufley discovered 25 pounds of hashish in two trunks allegedly belonging to Hawkins on a Grey Goose bus on which Linda Webb and her three-year-old daughter were passengers.

Hill became suspicious while making a routine check of luggage on the bus and found after questioning that the woman was to meet Hawkins in Warroad.

The two were held in the Roseau county law enforcement center over the weekend and were then taken to Minneapolis where they appeared before the U. S. magistrate Monday.

According to special customs agent John Dziak of Duluth, the two are presently free after their arraignment on $5,000 personal recognizance bonds.

Welfare authorities made arrangements for the three-year-old girl in Warroad, and juvenile authorities took charge of her in Minneapolis.

The hashish taken last week, according to authorities, has an estimated street market value of $112,000. Hashish is a concentrated form of marihuana.

Ministers Group Makes Plans For Diamond Jubilee

Community service of thanksgiving to observe the Diamond Jubilee of Thief River Falls has been set for Sunday, September 19, at 4 p.m. at Riverside park here, according to the local ministerial association.

Other items mentioned for the religious observance of the jubilee would be visitation of various nursing homes in the city by youth groups from the churches in the community and the appearance of the Covenant Players, a drama group from California. The Covenant Players are tentatively scheduled for Friday, September 17.

The ministerial association also suggested a massed choir for the Sunday afternoon service, as well as a responsive scripture reading.

Sollom To Edit Student Paper At Bemidji

Robert O. Sollom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Sollom of Thief River Falls, was selected editor-in-chief of the Bemidji state college newspaper "The Northern Student" recently.

Sollom, who will be a senior next year, is a veteran of four years in the Marine Corps, and attended Northland state junior college here for a year before transferring to Bemidji state as a sophomore in 1969.

Bertha Hastad Will End Library Career

BERTHA HASTAD, who will retire in early June after being with the area library since 1948, sorts out book record cards in the bookmobile before setting out next day to begin another circuit of the bookmobile's route.

by Pete Volkert
Times Reporter

"When I was a young girl my mother always knew where to find me"—explained Bertha Hastad, as she pondered her librarian's career which will end with her retirement early next month—"I was always in the library."

"While I was in college, had someone told me I would one day be a librarian, I would have laughed out loud. I don't think I ever had any real intention to become a librarian."

Miss Hastad, who was born and reared in Thief River Falls, later studied at Mayville state teacher's college in North Dakota and taught in rural northwestern Minnesota schools for a number of years.

She started working at the Thief River Falls library as a clerk in 1948. "The job just happened to be open, so I took it," she says. She became assistant librarian in 1962 and was named head librarian in 1965 after the sudden death of Frances Shanahan.

"I was happy from the start to be working in the library," she says, "and for a time it was a community joke we were the FBI library—the initials, of course, were from our first names—Frances Shanahan, Bertha Hastad and Inga Thompson."

"Our FBI library only lasted until 1962 when romance entered the library and Inga left to be married," she said.

In March, 1968, Miss Hastad became bookmobile librarian when Dorothy Last arrived to become head librarian. Miss Last has since left the position and the new librarian, Miss Mary Croteau, took her place in September of 1970.

Miss Hastad said that being in charge of the bookmobile "has been a very satisfying project. We have traveled so many miles and met so many hundreds of wonderful people and checked out so many thousands of books in the almost three years we have been operating the bookmobile."

She also had high praise for Marvin E. Johnson, who drives the massive bookmobile to its various visiting points in Pennington, Roseau, Red Lake and Marshall counties. "He can talk to anybody on any subject," she says, "and we have so much fun with a dog owned by a woman in Ross near the Canadian border. The dog hates to see his mistress enter the bookmobile, and he barks and runs around madly after she enters—so Mr. Johnson keeps moving the handle that raises and lowers the steps on the bookmobile, and the dog just sits back and wonders why the steps are moving like that."

Miss Hastad said the bookmobile makes more than 30 stops on a staggered schedule every two weeks. She said that the bookmobile circulates about 750 books or more over the period.

"I've learned to know what people like, and I know what

North Central Boards 698 At Airport In April

North Central airlines boarded 698 passengers in Thief River Falls during April and dropped off 684 passengers during the month, according to airline officials here.

Airline officials also said that 2,573 pounds of air mail, air express and air freight were loaded on board in Thief River Falls, while 23,868 pounds of air mail, air express and air freight cargo were unloaded here.

System-wide, the airline said it flew 317,298 passengers in April—an 18 per cent increase over the same month in 1970, according to David Moran, the company's vice president for traffic and sales.

The 70,045,495 revenue passenger miles flown during the month represented a 32 per cent gain compared with last year.

North Central achieved a high operating performance record during April by completing 99.9 per cent of its 7,212,809 scheduled miles, while 87 per cent of its 18,018 flight arrivals were on time.

For the first four months of 1971, the airline boarded 1,184,143 passengers, a 16 per cent gain over the same period last year.

Lumbach-Robidoux Vows Spoken In South Dakota

Miss Mary Lumbach, daughter of Mr and Mrs Gaylord Maier of Witten, S D, became the bride of Dwight Robidoux, son of Mr. and Mrs Lloyd Robidoux of Brooks, at a recent ceremony held at the Church of Christ the King at Presho, S D.

The Rt. Rev Msgr A B Grady officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by Drian Konzem and James Sweeny, servers Mrs John Herdd was the organist and Mrs Harry Hillgeman, soloist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in an empire fashioned, floor length gown designed with an A line skirt that flowed back into a chapel-length train. Wide satin bands accented the lace bodice at the scooped neckline and high-rise waistline. Her elbow length veil was held by a satin bow. She carried a round bouquet of daisies, yellow roses and mums.

Miss Sandra Robidoux of Oxnard, Calif, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Lyle Goltz of Minneapolis. They wore identical A-line gowns fashioned of yellow crepe complemented by brown satin ribbon. To complete their attire, they wore ribbon and lace headpieces and each carried a single chrysanthemum surrounded by daisies.

For the wedding, the mothers of the bride and groom chose aqua gowns with beige accessories. Their corsages were composed of mums and daisies. Similar corsages were worn by the grandmothers, who were attired in navy blue ensembles.

A reception in the church parlors followed with Mrs. Terry McMahn of Minneapolis presiding at the guest book. Mrs. Rod Hendrickson served the punch.

The square, four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow daisies, was topped by a miniature bride and groom backed by a daisy heart. Mrs. Marvin Hoffer and Mrs. Vincent Snodgrass cut and served the cake as Mrs. Harry Lindberg of Grand Forks, N. D, presided at the silver service.

Opening and displaying the gifts were Joyce Mienen and Mrs. Michael Nordhausen. Sue Fordyce and Patricia Ruden served as waitresses.

Among the guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robidoux, Zodi and Echo, Mr. and Mrs Peter Robidoux, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lindberg, Daniel Bruggeman and Sandra Robidoux.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Presho high school and received her secretarial training at the National college of Business in Rapid City, S. D. Prior to her marriage, she was employed by Cargill Inc., Minneapolis.

The groom is a graduate of Pershing high school, Plummer. He attended the University of Minnesota for three years and is presently serving in the United States Army. He is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C, where the newly-weds will be making their home.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

features from the kitchen of Mrs. Jane Smith of Redlake

Last month the Times published a feature article, "Technology and Tradition Merge at Red Lake school," featuring the restoration of Indian culture. Included in this restoration, is the art of Indian cooking with Mrs. Jane Smith, home economic instructor at Red Lake High school, in charge.

We are grateful to Mrs. Smith for supplying us with today's recipes. In supplying the recipes, Mrs. Smith stated, "The book used for the ninth grade Indian culture class at Redlake is 'The Art of American Indian Cooking' by Yeffe Kimball and Jean Anderson. In this book, the Chippewa Indian cooking is included in the section, 'The Wandering Hunters of the Plains.' Plains dishes are for the most part simple, but then the most eloquent foods are often the simplest." Mrs. Smith concluded by saying that the students particularly enjoyed making jerky which they ate with fried bread and maple syrup.

Eggs And Wild Onions
(Makes four servings)

5 slices bacon, cut into julienne strips
8 eggs, lightly beaten
¼ cup minced scallions or chives
1½ tablespoons minced parsley
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Method: Brown the bacon in a large, heavy skillet. Add eggs, scallions, parsley, salt, and pepper and scramble gently. Serve at once.

Beet, Cucumber and Onion Salad
(Makes six to eight servings)

6 medium-sized beets, washed
1 cucumber, washed and sliced
3 yellow onions, peeled and sliced

Dressing

¾ cup salad oil
¾ cup cider vinegar
4 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon fresh ground pepper

Method: Place the beets in a large saucepan, cover with water and simmer for about 1½ hours or until tender. Peel and slice. Place the sliced beets, cucumbers and onions in a large bowl and toss to lightly mix. Mix the dressing ingredients together, pour over the vegetables, toss and let stand about one hour before serving. Toss again and serve.

Cabbage Slaw
(Makes six servings)

1½ medium-sized head cabbage, sliced very thin
1 sweet red pepper, washed, cored and chopped
1 carrot, peeled and grated fine
2 scallions, washed and sliced thin

Dressing

1-3 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 egg
2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoons fresh ground pepper

Method: Place cabbage, sweet red pepper, carrot and scallions in a large bowl. Beat dressing ingredients together until light and pour over the vegetables. Toss well to mix.

Patricia Most-W. Dodge Vows Said In Wisconsin

Miss Patricia Ann Most and Wayne Allen Dodge exchanged marriage vows recently at the United Church of Christ at Prescott, Wis. Rev. Nelson Baxter officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Most of Prescott. Mrs. Most is the former Iris Franzman of Grygla. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Nella Dodge of Ellsworth, Wis.

Mrs. Floyd Leseman presided at the organ. She also accompanied Mrs. Henneth Roen, a friend of the bride, as she sang, "The Hawaiian Wedding Song." Bonnie and Robert Ruud of Gatzke, cousins of the bride, sang, "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and "O Perfect Love" with guitar accompaniment.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a white floor-length gown of imported silk organza. Chantilly lace accented the empire bodice, A-line skirt and bishop sleeves. Complimenting the gown were a detachable train with Chantilly lace trim, and a matching headdress veiled with imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white mums accented with red roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Maxine Most. Bridesmaids were Lynn Stark, friend of the bride, Wendy Dodge, sister of the groom, and Donna Most, sister of the bride. All wore identical A-line gowns of blue taffeta with ninon overlay and ninon bishop sleeves. White Venise lace marked the high neckline, waistline and also accented the sleeves. A circlet of white mums held their matching veils. Each carried a cascade of white mums and blue stephanotis.

Wearing a similar gown was Helly Farrell, a cousin of the bride, who served as flower girl. She carried a basket of red roses and white mums, similar to the circlet of flowers that she wore in her hair. Carrying the rings on a white satin pillow was Aaron Most, nephew of the bride. Like the men of the wedding party, he too, wore a black tuxedo.

Randy Dodge attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Larry Grosse, cousin of the groom; Dennis Finstad and Dick Swenson, friends of the couple. Ushers were Ron Most and Jerome Thels.

A reception followed in the church parlors.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado and Utah, the newlyweds are now at home in Ellsworth, Wis.

Arrested In Grygla Co-op Rob Attempt

Prompt action on the part of manager Donald Verbaut and Mayor Ralph Klein resulted in the apprehension of a Wannaska man in an attempted burglary at the Grygla Co-op store last Monday.

Being held for preliminary hearing by the Marshall county sheriff's office is Richard Wayne Olson, Wannaska, the alleged burglar. He will be bound over to district court, according to the sheriff's office.

Verbaut and Klein responded to a burglar alarm in the store at 11 p.m. last Monday and heard someone moving about in the building. They gave chase and caught the man before he could escape.

Olson is also being charged with the February 24 burglary of the Gatzke Gulf oil station.

141,122 Visit At Lake Bronson Park In 1970

Lake Bronson state park, ranking among the top six in attendance in the Minnesota park system, attracted a record 141,122 visitors in 1970, according to park superintendent L. E. Gross.

Gross said that he expects another high attendance year in 1971, since the number of visitors to the park has increased each year. Many of the increasing number of visitors are from out of the state and from Canada, he said.

New campground development is continuing in the park, with almost 130 sites cleared for camping. The work was done by the Operation Mainstream crew through the office of Economic Opportunity. The work was sponsored by Northwest Community Action.

The crew worked for nearly a full year, clearing the land for the main road entrance, loops and campsites. The new campground will be located on the east end of the lake and may be open to the public next year. It is expected that the 1971 legislature will appropriate funds for a utility building on the newly developed campgrounds.

Bids will be opened May 26 for construction of a lagoon which will serve as the main disposal field for the entire park. The first phase of this project, laying the four-inch main to the lagoon site, was completed two years ago. Last year, a deep well was completed.

Gross said total revenue at the camp was $18,475.10 in 1969 and $22,183.70 in 1970.

Deborah Collins Gains Degree

Deborah Ann Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Dryden of 111 S. Spruce Ave., Thief River Falls, received the bachelor of science degree in social work at commencement exercises held April 25 at the University of Dayton, Ohio.

Ninety honor graduates were among the 1329 receiving diplomas, including 64 associate, 1129 bachelor, and 136 master degrees. This was the largest single graduation exercise in the university's history.

Bonita Syverson In Nurse Course At Grand Forks

Mrs. Dean (Bonita) Syverson, registered nurse in Pennington county with the Inter-Agency nursing service, is currently attending a three-week rehabilitation nursing course at the medical center rehabilitation hospital, University of North Dakota, in Grand Forks.

The rehabilitation nursing course is designed to improve patient care through teaching the newest rehabilitation techniques to nurses currently employed in health-care facilities in North Dakota and the surrounding states. Clinical experiences in working with patients who are learning to become more independent in daily living activities following a stroke, a neuromuscular disease, cerebral palsy, or a traumatic accident, provide learning experiences to implement knowledge gained in lecture classes.

The professional staff members in the 12 departments of the medical center rehabilitation hospital, as well as at the North Dakota regional medical program, serve as faculty for the three-week course.

This session is one of five to be held this year. Since January, 1970, thirty-three nursing personnel from North Dakota and Minnesota have been participants in the course. The rehabilitation nursing course is co-sponsored by the North Dakota regional medical program.

School Board To Meet Tuesday On Several Matters

Canvass of election returns from the May 18 record election and awarding of bids on the house built by the area vocational technical school carpentry class are on the agenda for the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education. The meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school building.

Three new teacher contracts will also be presented for approval and resolutions will be presented regarding a student teacher agreement with Bemidji state college and joining the state high school league athletic accident benefit plan.

Discussion will also be held relative to the classrooms which the board approved for the east side complex, but which have run into a technical snag at the state level.

Supt. L. M. Johnson also reminded the board in the meeting agenda of commencement exercises on Thursday, June 3, at 8 p.m. in the city arena.

Memorial Day Is 1st Heavy Travel Holiday Of Year

First heavy travel holiday weekend of the year is approaching, when the nation celebrates Memorial Day with Saturday, Sunday and Monday free for pleasure travel, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund warned today.

Although the weekend of May 15-16 attracted large numbers of campers and trailers for the opening of fishing season, the coming three-day weekend will bring out the families for the first summer outing.

Hoaglund offered a few suggestions for a safe holiday for travelers.

(1) Have both car and trailer safely checked well before starting out. This should include tires, brakes, cooling system, windshield wipers and washers, trailer hitch and chain, lights and exhaust system.

(2) Try to time your trip to avoid heavy periods of travel. These are from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday, and from 4 to 8 p.m. on Monday. If you're not traveling too far, it's a good trick to wait until early Tuesday morning for the return trip.

(3) Be well rested before you start—both coming and going. Too many men work a full day on Friday and then attempt to drive half the night. It is better to get a good night's rest and start out early Saturday morning. For the return trip, if you plan to return Monday afternoon or evening, take it easy during the day.

(4) Stay away from alcoholic beverage, especially for several hours before driving. Confine the alcoholic refreshment to the time when you're staying in one place.

(5) Take frequent rest stops, especially if there are children in the car. Overtired or restless children can be distracting for the driver and contribute to his fatigue.

Truck Taxes Reported

WASHINGTON — Annual state and federal highway use taxes for a typical heavy truck range from $1,654 for a three-axle tractor-trailer (40,000 pounds gross vehicle weight) to $3,400 paid by a five-axle tractor-trailer (72,000 lbs. GVW).

State Awarded $82,619 To Aid Historic Sites

Minnesota has been awarded $82,619 for projects designed to preserve buildings and sites of historic, archaeological and architectural significance, according to the Minnesota AAA.

Minnesota was one of 39 states, along with the District of Columbia, receiving a total of $2.3 million, made available under terms of the national historic preservation act of 1966.

The grants, administered by the National Park Service, were made to states that have met criteria set up by Congress for historic preservation, and have agreed to match federal funds.

The state of New York, which will receive $202,582 for the project, led all states in the amount of funds it will get for historic preservation.

Students Contract For U OF M Grades

Students at the University of Minnesota need not fear of the class "Crop Growth and Culture" because they studied the wrong things, were sick for the test or just plain "blew it."

It's all because of a program initiated for this class by agronomy instructor Vernon B. Cardwell, called "learning for master" which allows students to retake tests until they reach the performance level they desire and takes them out of the do or die situation of a single test on each topic.

The program begins at the start of the quarter when each student has the option of signing a contract for the letter grade desired or taking the class on the usual one test, one chance sytem. The student can void his contract at any time if he wishes to go back on the traditional one test system of grading.

Cardwell signs the contract which also binds him to provide an opportunity for each student to learn the material and retake exams over the same material as many as two times. In addition, students complete take home problems and laboratory write-ups or an independent research report for the class.

To retake a test, the student must either attend a one-hour discussion session on the material or submit a list of 10 questions and answers pertaining to the subject being reviewed.

Of the 55 students who have tried the contract system in Cardwell's class, 44 completed the contract and received the desired grade or higher. Four of the remaining 11 received an incomplete in the class and hope to make up the necessary material to get the grade they contracted for.

Two-thirds of the students usually tried the first retake test and one-tenth tried the second retake test in an attempt to achieve the contracted grade. The retake tests employed different questions over the same material which were of the same difficulty as the first test.

Of the 123 retaken tests, students improved their performance in 94. The requirement of attendence at discussion groups and additional studying by the students before the retaken tests is partially responsible for student improvement, Cardwell explained.

The effect of the contract system was to give the student more opportunity to perform better in the class and thus moved the grading curve towards the "A" and "B" brackets, he said. As a result, 19 students were given "A's", 28 "B's", 2 "C's" and 2 "P's" and four were given an incomplete for the course.

Most students didn't consider the contract system easy and agreed they worked as hard or harder on the contract system as they worked in classes based on the usual grading system. In fact, individual students had to put in about two to five hours extra work in order to retake a test, Cardwell said.

Cardwell found that the contract system also required more time from the instructor than the usual one test system. Extra time was needed for construction of exams, giving retake tests and evaluating the exams. This amounted to at least five extra hours of work per week, he said.

The idea behind "learning for mastery," Cardwell said, is the belief that nearly every student, given the chance, sufficient time and motivation can perform at his optimum level in the classroom. One student may work 10 hours to obtain 80 per cent comprehension of a topic, another may require twice the time. Cardwell's system aims at giving each student the opportunity to achieve the level which the student believes himself capable of achieving or desires to achieve.

The contract is a method of stimulating an individual to achieve at higher levels and have a better understanding than would be normally possible in single test situations, he said. The contract eliminates most other factors that might influence a test score such as a student being sick, sleepy or failing to understanding the major points for a specific topic.

Student response to the contract teaching system is overwhelmingly favorable. The system is valuable in motivating both the teacher and students, Cardwell concluded.

W-2 Forms Must Be Given After Employment End

Requirement that employers provide Forms W-2, wage and tax statement, to workers within 30 days after final wages are paid upon termination of employment has been restored, according to George O. Lethert, IRS district director.

Earlier the requirement had been suspended while Congress considered legislation which would affect the social security information to be reported on the form. The legislation has been enacted, and Forms W-2 for 1971 are available at IRS offices now.

If an individual's employment was terminated on or before May 3, Form W-2 must be furnished by June 2, Lethert said. Employees whose work is terminated after May 3, should be furnished W-2's not later than 30 days after the final wages are paid.

Kennedy Receives Grants To Build Public Projects

Approval of grants totaling $140,800 to help create new jobs and stimulate growth in Kittson county was announced by the Upper Great Lakes regional commission and the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

The village of Kennedy is the applicant for the federal funds and the project involves construction of water and sewer facilities to serve an industrial area.

Kennedy Improvement, Inc., has established a potato-storage warehouse in the industrial area with the aid of an EDA business loan. It is expected to employ 83 persons when fully operational.

In addition to serving the storage facility, the project will help make Kennedy attractive to firms seeking locations for new plants, local officials report.

Kennedy and Kittson county are working to create new jobs to combat high unemployment—especially during the winter.

The U.S. environmental protection agency is making a $33,600 grant for the waste-treatment phase of the project.

EDA is making a $96,400 grant and the Upper Great Lakes regional commission, $44,400. The village of Kennedy will use $85,600 in local funds to complete the $260,000 total cost.

The funds will enable the community to install water and sewer lines, pumping facilities and waste-treatment facilities.

EDA and the Upper Great Lakes commission were established under the public works and economic development act to encourage industrial and commercial growth in areas with severe unemployment problems.

The Upper Great Lakes commission approved the grant for Kennedy in support of its long-range program to help communities in a 119-county region of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin build public facilities essential to growth.

Bertha Hastad Retires From Library Service

books they check out and what books they request," she said. "I've learned to notice what books don't move and we take those off the bookmobile shelves and replace them with the books we think our patrons will want to check out," she stated.

Being surrounded by books, she said, she has had to decide what particularly interests her in reading. "I usually prefer biography and travel books," she said, "but I'll start to read anything that interests me—if the book doesn't keep me interested, I stop and don't bother to finish it. I still manage to read a lot anyway."

Miss Hastad said she was extremely pleased when the Thief River Falls library became a regional library—she was one of the persons who tried to persuade local government officials to allot funds for an expansion of the old library.

"We all were so pleased when we became a regional library," she said. "We otherwise would have only asked for an extension on the old city library."

"Of course, the move into the new library building had its problems too," she hastened to add. "The college had to have our basement area immediately, and we were faced with all those books piled up in the new building. It took us a month to get organized enough so that we could open, and thanks to a local grocery that loaned us its "banana boats" and dollies, and the volunteer students who helped us, we were ready for business within that month."

The library, she said, had an open house in November, 1966, for a dedication ceremony, and she repeated that the volunteer help was instrumental in getting the library operational the following spring.

"The students really helped us," she said, "and they found themselves getting interested in the library filing system. I think it helped them to learn to use the library and probably increased the number of people using the library and its facilities today."

Election Reflections

Record turn-out of voters in the Thief River Falls school election last Tuesday provided an impressive figure to shoot for in future years. We would guess it will be some time before more than 2,170 votes are cast in a Thief River Falls school election.

Our predictions were not too accurate, although there is an alibi for that. At the time we wrote the editorial, we didn't know that Edgar Naplin would be a write-in candidate from the present St. Hilaire district. The strength of his candidacy—a record-setting 1,190 votes received—combined with the record turn-out to upset our predictions. We did guess right on the election of Curtis Charlson and Rev. Paul Biegner.

"What did you think of the election?" was the most common comment we heard on Wednesday.

We were surprised by the record turn-out of 2,170 voters, although we probably shouldn't have been. The school district ordered 2,100 ballots and had to hurriedly mimeograph the additional ones needed when that supply was exhausted.

And while special interest groups had a stake in the election, it would seem that each of them salvaged something out of the end results. It may be dangerous to pre-suppose the actions of candidates elected, but here are our election reflections:

Edgar Naplin brings to the school board the valued commodity of experience which can be acquired only through service. He will speak for the farmer who had no other counterpart among the candidates filed. Representing a new part of the district he provides the people of that area with a voice in the affairs of the district. We believe this is as it should be.

Apparently there are others who agree with this philosophy, for it took many more than St. Hilaire area voters to give Naplin his 1,190 vote total. That he received this number of votes as a write-in candidate is almost unbelievable, particularly considering the few short days he had to campaign.

Curtis Charlson was endorsed by the Northwest Taxpayers association and has taken a hard line on school spending. We are sure that he will have some searching questions when the new board organizes after July 1....and perhaps before that time if new members sit in on remaining board sessions.

During faculty negotiations two years ago, Charlson represented the school board as its representative on the adjustment panel. That group failed to reach any agreement and filed reports from the individual members. His statement in the Times prior to election indicated his concern about wise use of the tax dollar. The taxpayers association can feel that its interests will be represented on the board.

Rev. Paul Biegner will approach board service with an open mind and a sincere interest in education, and we expect that same attitude toward each problem which the board will face during his term. He will weigh each situation on its merits without obligation to any particular interest group, and we think this is good for the welfare of the local school system.

Of the six candidates who filed for election, we believe Rev. Biegner would rank next to Charles Samuelson in coming closest to the interests of the district's teachers. Since Samuelson was defeated in his bid for reelection, we feel the faculty can take some consolation in the election of Rev. Biegner. Following him in the vote total was another candidate endorsed by the taxpayers association.

In our opinion, the teachers lost some strength in Samuelson's defeat and the taxpayers association lost some strength in failure to elect more than one of its endorsed candidates. In general, however, everyone salvaged some satisfaction and no election can be much more satisfactory than that.

It is interesting to note that some patities was being played in the voting. Adding up the total votes cast for all candidates, including write-in votes for those not elected, and dividing by three, gives a total of only 1,977. Since there were 2,170 ballots cast, it is obvious that a number of voters cast ballots for fewer than three candidates. Total votes cast for all candidates were 5,933 out of a possible 6,510.

We were happy to see the record vote total cast and hope that the public's interest in its schools can be maintained.

And by the way, nobody took up our challenge to match predictions prior to opening of the polls—even after Naplin's candidacy was generally known. Apparently the result was not clear in the minds of any of our readers either.

Fable Of The Fleas

The following editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Detroit Lakes Tribune:

And it came to pass that two young fleas fell in love, and after a short courtship, married and settled down. They found a large, goodnatured and inactive dog for a home.

Theirs was truly an ideal life. Food, shelter and heart were provided. There was a housing unit in every wrinkle. Life was sweet and easy. All they did was eat, sleep and multiply.

Freedom from want and fear had been attained, and they and their offspring enjoyed the abundant life.

But the patient old dog, sore and unappreciated, grew weak and weary. Unable any longer to support the hungry and rapidly multiplying nonproductive population, he finally staggered off into the woods and died.

Consternation reigned among the fleas. They held meetings, protesting that the economic system had let them down. Some even threatened to vote for the other party. There was talk of suing the old dog for lack of cooperation.

Many of those panicky parasites perished on the spot. Others, bitter in spirit, trudged off into the cruel world and died by the roadside, trying to thumb a ride on another dog. None thought of shifting for themselves.

Now the moral of this little story is that if too many people depend on society, industry or government to look after them, to provide them with security, they may end in want and distress amid the wreckage of a nation.

Men must never forget that there is no substitute for self-reliance, individual striving and thrift to provide for their future needs.

Sage Advice

Reprinted in the Montana Journalism Review were these bits of advice to newspaper correspondents from Josh Billings, as quoted in the Virginia City, Mont., "Post", on June 1, 1867:

No notis will be took of letters what haint got no postage stamp into them.

Write only on one side of the manuskript and don't write much onto that.

Don't send a manuskript unless you can read it yourself after it gets dry.

We pay, all the way up the hill, from ten cents to one dollar for contributions, according to heft.

Settlement made promptly at the end of the next ensuing year.

The highest market prices pade for awful railroad smashes and elopements with another man's wife.

Your remarks might possibly lead one more man to think as you do, and we don't want our columns held responsible for increasing the number of phools.

The world has already got more phools than there is any need of.

Huh?

Following is from the Christian Science Monitor:

Back in 1944 that maverick politician and thinker, Maury Maverick, invented the wonderful word gobbledygook to describe bloated, pompous official language. Since then innumerable newspaper editorials and columns have twitted and jibed at such governmental absurdity. To what avail? Alas, to almost none.

The proof of this pessimistic statement? To you a shovel may be a shovel, but to the Defense Department it is a "combat emplacement evacuator." And is a parachute a parachute? Not in the Air Force, which prefers to call it an "aerodynamic personnel decelerator." And could you guess what the Bureau of Public Roads calls the drums used at construction sites? You can't? We don't blame you. They are called "impact attenuation devices."

Psychologists have long recognized the source of such language. It stems from the desire to make one's work more important, more mysterious, more difficult than it might seem to others if described in simple, unvarnished terms. When it bolsters a bit of innocent pride as when a janitor calls himself a termal engineer, well and good. Who can do more than smile benignly? But when the Pentagon falls into this glossological teratology (oops, they have us doing it), it is time to lower the boom.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Realizing how far-removed Northern Minnesota is from the State Legislature, I thought it to be my civil duty to inform my fellow district members of recent activities of their state senator, Donald Sinclair.

A week ago Sinclair put special interests and big business ahead of the people of Minnesota and the people of our district. He voted with his Republican fellows in a straight party vote to kill Senate File 878, a bill that would have put a temporary hold on the construction of nuclear power plants.

First of all, the bill was not a narrow-minded environmentalist's bill. It was a very conservative approach to a serious problem. The bill would not have affected the nuclear power plants already in operation or those under construction. It merely set down three conditions utility companies had to meet before they could construct future nuclear power plants. These conditions are as follows:

1. There shall be no public exposure to radiation;

2. Radioactive wastes resulting from the operation of such plants must be contained and stored with no danger of leakage to the environment;

3. Utilities must obtain liability insurance to cover all costs should a malfunction occur.

We might not feel affected by such a bill, but if you feel that nuclear power plants are safe, why is it that no insurance company anywhere in the world will underwrite liability insurance for them?

The United Nations has also come out with a resolution stating that nuclear power plants result in more radiation than all the weapons testing done to this date.

I don't know how many people in Northern Minnesota are aware of it, but Northern Minnesota is one of the highest radioactive fallout areas, yet Senator Sinclair feels he can vote down a bill like Senate File 878. Is he really taking into consideration the people of Northern Minnesota? Is this the kind of representation you want?

Sincerely,
Paul E. Kleinwachter
Strandquist, Minn.

4-H CLUBS

Deer Park

Monthly meeting of the Deer Park 4-H club was held May 11 at the Richard Radniecki home. The meeting was called to order by vice president Mark Nesland. Flag pledges were said and roll call was taken. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and approved.

Old business consisted of discussion of planting flowers at the canoe outlet by the River Valley bridge. New business consisted of discussion of the 1971 natural beauty program, and the meeting was adjourned.

Demonstrations were given by Bekki and Jack Radniecki on mouth to mouth resuscitation. Project talks were given by Bonnie Cullen on "Cleaning Your Room" and Mark Nesland on "Tobacco and Smoking".

Mrs. Merle Lundeen gave a talk on conservation, during which she asked the members questions about conservation. Lunch was served by Mrs. Richard Radniecki.

One of history's most famous overland routes is in the extreme northeast corner of Minnesota, about 5 miles below the mouth of the Pigeon River. This is Grand Portage—literally, the "Great Carrying Place"—which was once the busiest, noisiest place in the state.

Now a National Monument, this fur post was the clearing house for practically all the fur traffic of the northwest at the end of the 18th century. Traders and voyageurs of the North West Company of Montreal transported their goods here through over 2,000 miles of wilderness.

The first white man to claim use of this nine-mile swath of land was Sieur de la Verendrye, who crossed it in 1731 on the first of several exploring expeditions in search of the western sea.

By 1775, it was being used by various fur traders as well as by the Indians who had, of course, been aware of it for centuries. Because of increased hostilities among the various users, they consolidated for the common good as the North West Company in 1783.

During the late summer months, Grand Portage was a lively place. Here the brigades from Montreal met other traders coming from their posts throughout the northwest; here were held the annual meetings of the North West Company; here the employees received—and largely spent—their annual wages.

In 1804 the post was abandoned and rapidly declined in importance until it virtually disappeared by the end of that century. In 1936, the Minnesota Historical Society directed archaeological excavations which determined the exact site of Grand Portage and the post was reconstructed in 1940.

In 1960 Grand Portage, along with 770 acres of surrounding wilderness, was designated a National Monument. In 1970, a fire destroyed the Great Hall, but work is now underway to restore it even more accurately.

Visitors to the site walk the same paths as the voyageurs and enjoy the same wild beauty as did the explorers and adventurers of 200 years ago. They walk in the footsteps of some of the earliest recorded American history as well as Indian tradition dating to prehistoric times.

V.F.W. Buddy Poppy is a symbol of the sacrifices made by the nation's war dead in the great conflicts for peace.

What's a nice guy like Larry Dixon doing in underground training?

Well, if you're a cable splicer for Northwestern Bell, underground is where the action is. (Last year, 93% of all new telephone cable installed in Minnesota went underground. Out of sight and more trouble-free.)

So Larry came from Hibbing to the phone company's Plant Training Center in Minneapolis, to learn how to splice cable better and faster.

The Center has been running full steam for almost 20 years now. With subjects as diverse as electronic switching and driver training. One hundred and eighty different courses in all.

The 40 people who run the Plant Training Center think that what happens there is pretty important. So do the 3000 men and women who study there every year.

When this group finished 23 weeks on electronic switching, they knew electronic switching.

You can count on the phone people here in Minnesota

Many wedding dresses were modeled or shown, also wedding pictures and other items of past years. Valerie Hanson and Marilyn Nelson read descriptions and things of interest about the various dresses. There were also readings and songs by the L.D.A. girls. The luncheon was enjoyed very much by the many who attended.

Mrs. Amanda Russell and Don spent the weekend in the community. They returned to Minneapolis Tuesday.

Chief's Corner

— by —

Roland E. Wollar, Chief
Thief River Falls Police Dep't.

It has now been more than four months since I arrived in your fair city to take over the administration of the police department. I must say that I have been received royally by practically all the people and I am in love with this city. It is a pleasure to be far away from the big city and its many problems.

Throughout my many years as a police officer and my contacts with other officers all over the country, I have found that one of the major problems facing the policeman is that of making the public aware of the problems, needs and limitations facing the law enforcement officer. As I have been in contact with the editors of The Times, I have voiced some of these problems and the need to have a communication medium with the general public. I tossed out the possibility of writing a newspaper column at various times to casually discuss things pertinent to public safety. You are now reading the first of what I hope will be a number of interesting articles about policemen.

During the week of May 19, 1971, the Chamber of Commerce, with police help, showed a film entitled "CAUGHT" to most of the students of Thief River Falls. It was information and warning on shoplifting. It was also shown to business people and shop clerks in the city auditorium. After the film County Attorney Neil McEwen explained the law on apprehension and prosecution of shoplifters.

The law states that "A merchant or merchant's employee who has reasonable cause for believing that a person has taken, or is in the act of taking, any articles of value without paying therefor from the possession of the merchant in his place of business may detain such person for the sole purpose of delivering him to a peace officer without unnecessary delay, and then and there making a charge against such person to the peace officer. The person detained shall be informed promptly of the purpose of the detention and shall not be subjected to unnecessary or unreasonable force, nor to interrogation against his will.

"Upon a charge being made, a peace officer may, without a warrant, arrest any person whom he has reasonable cause for believing committed or attempted to commit the offense described in subdivision above. No merchant, merchant's employee or peace officer shall be criminally or civilly liable for false arrest or false imprisonment or wrongful detention under subdivisions 1 and 2 above if his action was based upon reasonable cause."

Although the laws quoted here are directed at shoplifters and their prosecution, the provisions made by law for the private citizens to make arrests are much the same. Many people are afraid to detain someone they may have observed committing a violation, be it theft, traffic, vandalism, etc. Many think they do not have the right to apprehend a juvenile for the commission of a violation or a crime.

The main thing to remember is that the arresting person, be he officer or private person, must have witnessed the person commit the act if it is in the misdemeanor category, or have committed the crime if the crime is in the felony class. The law also makes provision for the use of reasonable force to be used to make the arrest.

The other thing to remember in arrest by a private person is that the arrested person must be turned over to a peace officer without delay. A formal complaint will have to be sworn out before a judge by the arresting person and likely that person will have to appear in court against the arrested person.

We, in the Police Department, are called on very often to handle this type of arrest situation and we have a form we require the arresting person to sign indicating that the officer is not the complainant in that case. We then advise the arresting person on the formal signing of the complaint and take the person to jail where he or she is handled as any other person booked in jail.

Sometimes the officers are asked to arrest someone where they feel there is not enough evidence to substantiate the arrest. If the party wanting to place the charge insists, the officer is bound by law to follow through with the request, but the liability of the arrest stays with the person making the arrest. A good rule to follow in this type of arrest, where the party is known to the would-be arrester and too much force would be required to detain him, would be to let the person go, if it can be done safely, and swear out the complaint before the judge. The person would then be arrested by a peace officer on the signed warrant.

Many occurences in the arrest by private persons are connected with domestic cases. Perhaps the husband has come home after imbibing in alcoholic spirits to excess and the wife takes exception to his condition and actions. She often calls the police to the home and demands that husband be removed from the home at least for the night, or she wants him arrested. Officers have learned the hard way that this is a ticklish situation, much as they may sympathize with the wife.

We have found all too often that after the officers take the husband to jail that the wife has misgivings about her actions. She can picture him in that hard jail, or fine money coming out of the family budget, so she fails to show up the next day and sign the complaint. Sometimes she may even want him released that night. This places the officer in an uncomfortable position, right in the middle, so he acts with extreme caution.

Voldres Samband Convention Set

Bank Debits In City Drop From April Last Year

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during April, 1971 showed a decrease of two per cent over the same month in 1970, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

In dollar figures, Thief River Falls bank debits volume during April was $18,721,000. In the same month in 1970 the total figure was $19,099,000. The 12-month cumulative total of bank debits through April, 1971, is $271,721,000, an increase of three per cent over the year, according to the bank's statistics. The cumulative percentage change from January through February of this year, however, was a decrease of eight per cent.

Bank debits for the most part are checks against depositor's accounts and thus represent payments for goods, services, debts, etc. They also include all debits against checking accounts of individuals, partnerships and corporations, and of states and political subdivisions. They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government, and saving accounts.

For Minnesota during April the volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 12 per cent from April of last year. Debits for the 12 months through April 1971 increased six per cent from the previous 12-month period.

The volume of bank debits for the entire Ninth Federal Reserve district for April increased four per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the 12 months through April, 1971, indicated a six per cent increase from the previous 12-month period.

Delores Jerome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Diamond of Humboldt, has accepted a position with the North Dakota state employment office in Grand Forks. Wanda Leskiw of Grygla has already been employed by State Farm Mutual Insurance company here in Thief River Falls.

Jeanette Weiland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Weiland Sr., Euclid, has accepted employment with the G.T.A. office in Crookston.

Approximately 70 clerical and secretarial students have taken the federal civil service test administered here May 5 and are now awaiting their test scores. Anna L. Valelly will be talking with the students next week and will explain job opportunities with the Department of the Navy for those who are interested in working in Arlington, Va.

Four students have indicated an interest in working for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C. An agent will interview these students next week.

Employers interested in hiring office help are encouraged to contact the local employment office or the area vocational-technical school. About 50 clerical and secretarial students will finish their training July 26 and a new group of clerical students will be admitted to the business and office education department June 7. Students enrolling in June will complete their course of study in March of 1972.

Arctic Opens Clearbrook Track Plant

Production of drive tracks for Arctic Cat snowmobiles began at Clearbrook recently as the first of nearly 100 assembly line workers reported for work.

During the winter a large addition was added to Arctic's Clearbrook plant to assemble the tracks. The track operation is in addition to the crate manufacturing which continues at the plant. With the addition the building covers some 24,800 square feet.

On the first day of the track assembly work, two men from the plant at Thief River Falls were on hand to assist a group of new workers in the operation of their machines, of which about one-third have been installed.

Manager Dewey Paulson and foreman Wayne Jackson were available to supervise activities and provide information on various aspects of the work to the new crew.

About 80 persons were working last week and the plant expects to employ from 90 to 100 people on the first shift during the summer with 40 to 50 on the second shift. About half the workers will be women.

Jackson said that it is estimated that about 58,000 snowmobile tracks and 120,000 shipping crates will be turned out at the plant this season. It is expected that the plant will produce about 700 complete track assemblies each day.

QUALITY CATTLE which put milk in the bulk tank and profit in dairying are important to the Gene Nelson dairy operation northwest of Viking. Through good management, Nelson has built his dairy herd into a producing herd which has had a high average test of 573 pounds of butterfat. One of the Nelson's top producers is shown in the feed lot above.

Nelson Dairy Operation Has Only 160 Acres

get the most feed. One individual animal which produced 673 pounds of butterfat received 26 pounds of grain per day while she was producing 92 pounds of milk daily.

Nelson raises most of his own replacement heifers and always keeps the barn's 36 comfort stalls filled with producing animals. His breeding program is planned to have his cattle calving year-around for the most uniform production. The total herd, including heifers and young stock, numbers about 85 to 90 animals.

This year the Nelson farm will be more than doubled in size, however, as Gene has rented an additional 240 acres. He plans to crop 40 acres and summer fallow 160 acres this year, and in the future will raise more of his own feed grains.

Four of the five Nelson children are or have been 4-H club members and enrolled in dairy projects. Five-year-old Grant will probably follow their lead when he reaches eligible 4-H club age.

Debra, 19, is a freshman at Bemidji state college this year. David, 15, and Steven, 13, are sophomore and eighth grader respectively at Marshall County Central high school at Newfolden. Ten-year-old Darrel is in fourth grade at Viking elementary school.

Nelson's farm records show a steady growth in net worth as he has matched his expenditures to his ability to produce. Record-keeping is sometimes a tedious chore, but it does help "to know where you've been so you can see where you're going."

Unemployment In April Recorded At 5.3 Per Cent

Seasonally adjusted April unemployment rate in Minnesota was 5.3 per cent, up 0.2 percentage points from March, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of manpower services said today.

This compares with a national unemployment rate of 6.1 per cent for April, Cushing said.

He said the number of unemployed in April was 99,100 or 2,300 fewer than in March but the highest April figure since 1961. In April of 1961, 106,700 persons in the state's labor force were without jobs, resulting in an unemployment rate of 7.6 per cent. The number of unemployed in April 1970 was 69,600.

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in Minnesota rose moderately from March to a total of 1,278,000 in April. The relatively small increase of 7,600 jobs compares unfavorably with an average March to April increase of 18,300 jobs during the last five years.

Compared with a year ago, nonagricultural wage and salary employment dropped 20,700 in spite of an increase of 5,000 workers in nonmanufacturing industries.

Cushing said approximately 88 per cent of the 25,600 decline in manufacturing employment from a year ago was in industries producing durable goods. Machinery manufacturing recorded significant decreases, with nonelectrical machinery down 7,290 and electrical machinery down 6,700 positions. Ordnance and scientific instruments and miscellaneous industries were down 7,100.

Cushing said the net gain of about 5,000 in employment in nonmanufacturing industries from a year ago helped counter the losses in manufacturing to a limited degree. Increased employment in local governmental units was primarily responsible for an overall rise of 5,800 in government employment. Added jobs in hospital and medical facilities were mainly responsible for an increase of 2,100 in the Service category.

Offsetting some of the over-the-year gain in government and service were decreases of 1,200 in transportation and 2,900 in trade. In construction, an increase of 1,400 in highway and heavy construction workers was almost offset by a drop of 1,100 jobs in special trades contracting.

In April of 1971, production workers in manufacturing earned an average of $147.26 per week for working 39.3 hours at $3.74 per hour. In March, average weekly earnings were $148.48 for 39.7 hours at the same rate of pay. April is the eighth consecutive month the average workweek was below 40 hours, Cushing said.

However, he said, compared with April of 1970, average weekly earnings rose $7.76 in spite of an estimated decrease of 40 minutes in the production manufacturing workweek.

HOLSTEIN CATTLE are one of the interests of David Nelson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nelson of Viking. A sophomore at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden, he has dairy as a 4-H club project.

LOTS OF MILK is used in the Gene Nelson household at Viking, and five-year-old Grant Nelson is a hearty milk drinker. Mrs. Nelson pours a glass of milk in the farm kitchen.

Artmobile Here For June Exhibit

Selections from the American collection of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and other leading collections in this area will be included in the exhibition to be shown when the artmobile visits Northland state junior college June 1 through 3.

Thief River Falls is one of several Minnesota cities selected for the current tour of the traveling gallery. The artmobile will be open to the public on June 1 from 1 p.m. to 3:30 and again from 7 to 9 p.m.; on June 2 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and on June 3 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on the college campus.

The exhibition focuses on American art from 1930 to the present. Painting, sculpture, and photography are included in the exhibition. Works by such artists as Marsden Hartley, John Flannagan, Larry Rivers, and Arshile Gorky show the efforts by these and other artists to introduce new styles and modes of thought to the American public.

The artmobile was created under the auspices of the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts, the governing and supporting organization for the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, and the Minneapolis College of art and design.

About 175,000 widows of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities and 65,000 wives of veterans totally disabled in service are eligible for educational benefits. Individuals interested in these benefits are urged to contact the nearest VA office or local veterans service organization representative.

ACTIVE DAIRYMAN is Gene Nelson who farms northwest of Viking in Marshall county. Until this year, when he has rented an additional 240 acres, he has made his living from dairy cattle on 160 acres of land.

KIDS AND DOG seem to be part of the normal farm scene. Here Steven and Darrel Nelson, ages 13 and 10, play with their family pet on a pile of straw bales at the Gene Nelson farm near Viking.

Leaflet Tells Of Certification In Farm Program

The do-it-yourself system of certifying crop and set-aside acres under the new farm programs is outlined in a new U.S. department of agriculture leaflet received by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS) offices.

The leaflet, entitled "Certifying Your Set-Aside and Crop Acres" (PA-962), contains a reminder that set-aside, conserving base and crop acres should be in compliance with program provisions when producers come in to certify their final acreage. If program acreage is not in compliance, a farmer can lose all or part of his farm program payment.

The leaflet urges farmers to measure correctly, or to obtain measurement service from the county ASCS office, because no changes can be made after crop acreage has been certified.

Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington ASC committee, said farmers who follow acreage guides set up by the measurement service, will be guaranteed compliance with their farm's planting history, allotment, conserving base and set aside requirements.

"And the only expense to the farmer is a nominal fee for having a trained man come out to stake off the area to be measured," Knutson added.

The leaflet explains the why, what and how of measurement service, compliance, photocopies, certification and spot checks.

Knutson said copies of the new leaflet have been mailed to farmers eligible to participate in ASCS programs. Copies also may be obtained by visiting the county ASCS office.

Legion Wins TRF Bowl-off Title

American Legion bowling team topped off a fine season May 10 as the team captured the first Thief River Falls city bowl-off between champions of the various bowling leagues.

The Legion won the first-place prize money with a total pin score of 2,785. During the season the Legion won the service league title and placed second in the city tournament before winning the 9th district Legion tournament at Ada.

Members of the Legion team were Ollie Botner, Fred Dallmann, Vern Quam, Erv Ferber, Charlie Rodekuhr, Ellsworth Jorgenson and Harold Storhaug.

Harold Storhaug won the individual high series award during the city bowl-off with a 593 series while Bob Bossman walked away with high game honors with a 241.

NOTICE OF BIDS

Sealed bids addressed to the School Board, Independent School District No. 564 of Pennington County will be received at the office of the Superintendent of Schools in the Lincoln Building until 3:00 p.m. June 28, 1971 on the following: Fuel Oil and Gasoline.

Bids are to be made on bidder's stationery or bid forms which are on file in the Superintendent's Office at the Lincoln Building. All bids should be sealed and marked "BID" on the outside of the envelope. A certified check for $100.00 should accompany all bids.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Kenneth O. Murphy, Clerk
Independent School District No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701

A PRIZE CATCH was made by Scott Sabo, 10, second from right, when he landed this three-pound northern by the Eighth street bridge. He received an assist from Rick Kezar, 11, second from left, who pounced on the fish as it flopped back toward the river and nearly made good its escape. Other boys fishing in the area were Greg Bottem, 10, left, and Kevin Swanson, 11.

FUN AND SUN accrue to Mrs. Dwight Norell of Thief River Falls as she fishes the Thief river by the Eighth street bridge. She is employed in the occupational therapy department of Northwestern hospital while her husband attends the aviation mechanics course at the area vocational-technical school. Last year she and her parents caught 19 northerns by the bridge. This year she has gained more sun than fish.

AN EAGER NORTHERN tackled the casting spoon offered by Alfred Louze of Thief River Falls as he fished Thursday at the landing by the Eighth street bridge. The northern was almost as small as the lure, however, and was quickly returned to the river. Louze fishes the river quite often, and last year caught a 10-pound northern when fishing from a boat further up the river.

EARL HANSON of Newfolden showed the local fishermen they don't have to travel to Lake of the Woods for a prize catch as he hauled this six-pound, twelve-ounce walleye out of Red Lake River near the Eighth street bridge last week. The fishing season for walleye and northern is in its second week now with the bass opener for Minnesota set for this Saturday.

Assessment Notice

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Review-Equalization of the Township of New Solum in Marshall County, Minnesota, will meet at the town hall in said township on the 1st day of June, 1971, at 1:00 p.m. for the purpose of reviewing and correcting the assessment of said township for the year 1971. All persons considering themselves aggrieved by said assessment, or who wish to complain that the property of another is assessed too low, are hereby notified to appear at said meeting, and show cause for having such assessment corrected. No complaint that another person is assessed too low will be acted upon until the person so assessed, or his agent shall have been notified of such complaint. Given under my hand this 16th day of May, 1971. Glenn J. Halvorson, Clerk of the Town of New Solum. 1t41c

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown us in the loss of our beloved son, brother, grandson, nephew and cousin, Benjamin Rindahl.

Special thanks to Rev. Wosje and Rev. Gunderson for their comforting words, to Mrs. Wosje and Mrs. Lowell Enerson for the music and to the Petterson Funeral home. To all our friends who brought food to our homes, to those who sent flowers, cards and memorials and to those who assisted in many other ways.

Your kindness will always be remembered and may God bestow his blessing on each and every one.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rindahl, Deborah and Rhonda, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Contwell, Mr. and Mrs. Orland Rindahl, David, Gail and Dianne, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Olson, Michael and Trudy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sollen, Jackie, Shelly and Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Cantwell, Kyle and Cheryl 1t41c

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank Pastor Walla, and all those who sent cards, gifts and visited me while I was a patient at the hospital. God bless you all.

TRF Claims 4th Straight District 31 Track Crown

Lincoln high school track coach Jim Sims admitted before the start of the 1971 season that his squad was very weak in the field events and if the Prowlers were to go anywhere, their running would have to carry them through.

All went true to form Saturday during the district 31 meet at UND as the Prowlers rolled up 76 points in the running events, but somehow the Prowlers managed to score twelve points in the field events to edge Crookston and win their fourth consecutive district track title.

The Prowlers ended the rain-soaked day with 88 points to Crookston's 81½. East Grand Forks was third with 57½ points while Red Lake Falls scored 17, Warren 6, Climax 4 and Fisher 2.

Rob Swenson was the first Prowler to record a first-place finish Saturday as he successfully defended his 100-yard dash title he won last year as a sophomore with a 10.6 clocking. Mike Fitzgerald, last year's two-mile winner, placed first in the 440-yard dash with a time of 53.2 while Prowler captain Paul Battirson raced to a first-place finish in the 880 with a 2:05.0.

Other first-place finishes were turned in by Jon Markstrom in the 220-yard dash with a time of 24.0 and Jon Folkedahl in the two-mile. Folkedahl broke Fitzgerald's meet record of 11:01.5 with a 10:56.3 clocking as he raced to the finish line with teammate Tim Strand.

The Prowlers' 880 and sprint medley relay teams also turned in first-place performances. Steve Oeich, Markstrom, Jon Wangberg and Markoe Hanson ran the 880 event in 1:35.5 while Swenson, Beich, Fitzgerald and Don Relerson clocked a 3:45.3 in the sprint medley.

Recording second-place finishes for the Prowlers were Rande Smith (shot), Hanson (100), Kim Murphy (mile), Wangberg (low's) and Strand (two-mile). Murphy was the defending mile champion but lost to Crookston's Todd Peterson who set a new meet record of 4:38.7, dropping the old mark of 4:41.2 set by "East Side's" Don Jamirson in 1969.

Third-place finishes for the Prowlers were turned in by Greg Oulger (mile), Smith (discus), Wangberg (high's), Aaseby (low's) and Hanson (220). Hanson was still bothered by a muscle pull in his lower back and upper leg.

David Lee was a fourth-place finisher in the discus competition while fifth-place performances were recorded by Mark Kaushagen (pole vault), Aaseby (high's), Smith (long jump) and Rick Larson (high jump).

East Grand Fork's Rip Thompson set a new record in the pole vault with a jump of 11' 7¾". Thompson, a sophomore, set the old mark of 11' 6" last season.

The top two finishers in each event will advance to the region eight meet with the exception of the relay teams where only the first-place squad will advance.

The region eight meet will be held Saturday, May 29, at Bemidji.

Prowlers Sweep Wed. Twin Bill

Thief River Falls limited Oslo and Alvarado to just three hits Wednesday afternoon as the Prowlers swept both ends of a split double-header, 5-0 and 12-0, over the Bobcats and Indians.

Senior right-hander Orian Peterson hurled a one-hitter, a lead-off hit in the seventh, against Oslo while Dale Hanson and Mike Hamilton combined for a two-hit performance versus Alvarado in the night-cap.

The Prowlers held a slim 1-0 margin over Oslo in the first game until the sixth inning when the home club racked up four runs for the 5-0 win.

Peterson, the team's captain, singled to center after two were out in the Prowlers' third and scored on sophomore catcher Ordean Peterson's single after a walk to Tom Hanson.

Ordean Peterson started the sixth-inning uprising for the Prowlers with a lead-off single to left. Senior first baseman Mike Hamerlinck followed with an infield hit to second and Dale Hanson drove in Peterson with a solid single to centerfield.

Jerry Morben walked to load the bases with no outs and walks to Mike Hamilton and Rob Almquist, sliced around a strike out, forced in two runs. Brian Peterson hit into a force play at second base with the sacks still loaded to drive in another run for the Prowlers who stranded the last two runners on base with a pop fly to second base.

The Prowlers collected seven hits against the Bobcats as Ordean Peterson and Hamerlinck each went two for three at the plate.

Ordean Peterson started the Prowlers to their win in the second game against Alvarado with a single to left field, driving in two runs in the first inning. The Prowlers maintained the 2-0 advantage until the third frame when Morben stroked a hard double down the left field line to score two more runs for a 4-0 Prowler lead.

Twelve batters stepped to the plate in the Prowlers' sixth inning as the first four Prowlers reached base safely.

Pete Sullivan doubled to left to start the inning and scored on Almquist's single to center. Orian Peterson singled just off the shortstop's glove to put runners on first and second and Tom Hanson walked to load the bases with no outs.

After an infield fly out, Mike Hamerlinck's shot to third base was mis-played, allowing two runs to score. Dale Hanson walked to load the bases once again and Morben followed with a single past the shortstop to drive in two runs. Hanson made it 10-0 as he scored on a passed ball.

With two outs and runners on first and second, Almquist smashed a hard double to center to drive in the final two Prowler runs.

Almquist went three for four against the Indians while Morben and Sullivan each collected two hits out of three trips to the plate. As a team the Prowlers rolled up eleven hits against Alvarado.

Hanson and Hamilton combined to strike out eight Alvarado batters, including Hamilton's three strike outs in the last inning.

with Mike Lundgren

Thief River Falls will face seven teams during the 1971-72 basketball season that weren't on the Prowlers' schedule last season, according to the schedule released by Lincoln athletic director Russ Smith.

The Prowlers will open their season with home games against Fisher and Mentor on November 26 and December 6. The Prowlers faced Fisher in the District 31 tournament last season while Mentor is the defending district 30 champs. The Trojans played with just two seniors on their squad last year and neither one of the two was listed as a starter.

The Prowlers will face two other defending district championship teams with visits to District 23's Detroit Lakes in the third game of the season and a late season trip to defending District 29 champion Littlefork-Big Falls.

Other new teams on the cage schedule next season will be Pine City and St. Francis—a pair of teams the Prowlers will face in a Christmas tournament at Chisago Lakes—and Kennedy.

Dropped from the Prowlers' basketball schedule were Newfolden, Cass Lake, Dilworth and Fergus Falls.

The Prowlers will be under the guidance of new head coach Lee Swanson who moved up to the head coaching position after the resignation of Whitey Olson after the 1970-71 season. Glen Peters, former head coach at Goodridge will be Swanson's assistant next season.

Detroit Lakes, a scheduled opponent of Thief River Falls in both football and basketball in the 1971-72 school year, finds itself without a head football or basketball coach, according to Ralph Anderson of the Becker County Record.

Head basketball coach Orin Schueler resigned from his post last week to accept a head coaching position at Cloquet. Football coach Del Mollberg resigned from his coaching position earlier but is still with the school and acts as athletic director.

Lincoln high school football coach Jim Sims attended the coach of the year banquet in Minneapolis May 15.

Sims was named as region eight football coach of the year and was eligible for the state coach of the year award.

Gory Gustafson, long time head football coach at North St. Paul, was named recipient of the state award.

Sim's 1971 football squad finished the season with an 8-1 record and a share of the Northwest Conference title.

Bemidji, a Friday afternoon opponent of the Prowlers, was ranked 18th in the latest high school tennis poll.

The Lumberjacks' Gary Conda was rated 34th in the singles rankings released May 16.

The Prowlers handed the Jacks a 7-2 defeat earlier in the season with junior Mark Liden winning his match against Conda on the Bemidji courts.

The Prowlers finished ahead of the Lumberjacks by three points, 20-17, for the Northwest Conference crown held at Bemidji May 4.

Netmen Split Duals

Lincoln high school tennis team defeated Ada 9-0 Wednesday afternoon but lost a 5-4 decision to Bemidji Friday in a pair of dual meets held on the Lincoln courts.

In a battle of top ranking singles players, Bemidji's Gary Conda defeated the Prowlers' Mark Liden 6-3, 6-1 Friday to avenge an earlier season loss to Liden.

Gordy Prichard defeated the Lumberjacks' Scott Bjelto 6-4, 6-3 in the number two singles while Tom Nepper dropped Gary Dreyer 8-6, 6-1 in the third singles match.

Mark Thyren and Stuart Waltonen lost to Joe Rossl and Jim Kastner 1-6, 4-6 in the doubles play Friday.

In the Prowlers' win over the Vikings Liden defeated Mark Johnson 6-0, 6-1 in the first singles while Prichard downed Red Ogaed 6-2, 6-1 in the number two singles and Greg Knutson blanked Chuck Krogstad 6-0, 6-0 in the number three singles.

Thyren and Waltonen defeated Ron and Paul Johnson 6-0, 6-0 in the doubles action.

BRIAN PETERSON goes through the motion as he pitches a near-perfect game against Oslo on the fairgrounds diamond Wednesday night. Peterson faced only 21 batters in seven innings and allowed just one runner to reach base, a lead-off single in the seventh. The Oslo runner was called out however as he tried to stretch the hit into extra bases when the outfielder juggled the ball. The umpire called the runner out for missing second base. Peterson struck out 11 batters including three whiff's in the sixth inning.

LHS Stops Roseau And Climax In Double-header

Thief River Falls completed its most successful week of the 1971 baseball season Friday night with a pair of victories in a split double-header with the Roseau Rams and the Climax Vikings.

The Prowlers clobbered the Rams 15-1 in the first game and came back for a 5-0 blanking of the Vikings in the night-cap. The two wins followed another double-header sweep against Oslo and Alvarado Wednesday to account for four wins in the week. The Prowlers stand 9-6 for the season with the last regular season game set for the fairgrounds diamond tomorrow night (Tuesday) against Crookston.

The Prowlers scored once in the first inning against the Rams on Ordean Peterson's double, driving in Tom Hanson with two out. Four Prowlers crossed home plate in the bottom of the second inning as Jerry Morben singled to left with one out.

Junior Mike Hamilton doubled to left-center to put runners on second and third before Pete Sullivan reached base on an error, loading the sacks with one out. A walk to Rob Almquist forced in a run for the Prowlers and captain Brian Peterson followed with a hard single to right for two runs.

Mike Broton relieved Tim Delmoro on the mound for the Rams and Tom Hanson stroked his first pitch to right field to load the bases once again. Broten struck out the next batter but Almquist came home with the Prowlers' fifth run on a wild pitch.

The Prowlers upped their lead to 12-1 in the third inning with seven runs on six hits and two errors.

Dale Hanson started off the third with a single to left and Morben reached on an error to put runners on second and third with no outs. Hamilton doubled to center to drive in two runs.

Rob Almquist gave the Prowlers a 6-1 bulge with his second homerun of the year over the left field fence, driving in two runs. The Prowlers' next two runs of the inning scored on Ordean Peterson's single to left and a fielding error in the outfield. Mike Hamerlinck's ground out to third accounted for the Prowlers' seventh run of the inning.

The Prowlers added two more runs in the fourth inning when senior left-fielder Jerry Morben smashed his first homerun of the season just inside the left-field foul pole for a 13-1 lead. Kim Johnson singled to left-center to drive in the Prowlers' 14th run.

Mike Hamerlinck drove in the final Prowler run with a solid triple to center in the fifth inning, scoring the singling Rick Johnson.

The Prowlers collected 17 hits off the Rams' pitchers while sophomore left-hander Pete Sullivan started on the mound for the Prowler staff. Roseau managed just two hits off the Prowlers while committing four errors.

Climax enjoyed a short-lived 1-0 lead in the second game on a throwing error in the first inning.

The Prowlers came back to tie the contest at one-all in their half of the second as Morben scored on an error in the outfield.

The Prowlers scored three times in the third as Rob Almquist led off with a single to second and stole second. Brian Peterson tripled to center to drive in Almquist and after two runners were retired, Mike Hamerlinck singled over second to drive in Peterson. Hamerlinck added the Prowlers' fourth run on a passed ball for a 4-1 lead going into the fourth.

Single runs in the fourth and sixth innings topped off the scoring for the Prowlers. Brian Peterson's double in the fourth scored Almquist while a Climax error in the sixth led to the Prowlers' final run.

Plan Memorial Day Services For Area

Memorial Day services and observances are scheduled for Friday and Monday in the area. Goodridge will hold its service on Friday, and Thief River Falls, Plummer and Newfolden will hold Memorial Day observances Monday.

The Goodridge program will start at 8 a.m. at the school gymnasium with the color guard from Grygla Post 3858 of the V.F.W. Rev. Bruce Anderson will have the invocation and Dr. Stanley D. Sahlstrom of the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston will give the major address.

Goodridge school band will supply the music, and Joani Jenson and Rosalee Iverson will offer readings. The program is sponsored by the Goodridge Lions club.

Memorial services in Thief River Falls will begin at 11 a.m. Monday in Riverside Park, weather permitting, or at the city auditorium in case of inclement weather. Calvin Bradley, first vice commander of the American Legion post, will preside. Rev. Ales Stoffel of Zion Lutheran church will give the invocation.

The American Legion auxiliary chorus will sing, and Mrs. Leo Nelson, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Peter Sullivan, president of the V.F.W. auxiliary, will place wreaths. Al Sollom will give the memorial address. The local National Guard company will render the salute to the colors.

The Thief River Falls service is sponsored by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Minnesota National Guard.

Memorial Day services will be held at the Plummer school at 8:30 a.m. The service will start with the processional played by Betty Haggs. Gold Star parents and honored guest will be seated, the colors will be advanced and the national anthem will be sung.

Rev. M. J. Sheidahl will give the invocation, and boy's trio consisting of Leslie and Lowell Arlt and Terry Rewertz will sing. Plummer American Legion post commander Lorence Granum will introduce the memorial speaker, Willard Kottke, community services director at Northland state junior college.

Cemeteries will be visited after the service. Plummer Catholic cemetery will be visited at 10:15, Emardville at 10:30, Brooks Catholic at 11, Brooks Presbyterian at 11:15, Finnish at 11:45 a.m. and Clearwater cemetery at 12:15 p.m.

There will be a pot-luck dinner in the park at Plummer for all American Legion and Auxiliary families following the cemetery visitations.

Memorial Day services will be held at Marshall County Central high school at Newfolden at 10:30 a.m. The speaker chosen for the event is Fred Vaske, postmaster from Elkton, S. C., and very active in veterans affairs.

The high school band under the direction of Mrs. Sheila Nelson will perform at the program and lead the parade to the cemetery where wreaths will be placed on the crosses of veterans who have served their country and are now deceased. The parade group marching to the cemetery will consist of the school band, color guard, firing squad, other veterans, boy scouts, girl scouts and cub scouts.

The guests of honor at the ceremonies will be the Gold Star mothers. Arrangements for the program are being made by Clyde Swenson, commander, Otto Knutson Post 427 of the American Legion at Newfolden.

Memorial Day

On this Memorial Day the bugles sound, humbly honoring all those who have lost their lives in war, that others might live. Let us pause, if just for one moment this day, to honor these men who can never return. Together may we pray for an everlasting peace in the hearts of all men.

In Remembrance

County Will Be Included In New Court District

A bill that would unite Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties into a new court district has been signed by the governor, and an acting judge has already been assigned by the chief judge of the district court and has begun holding trials in Pennington county, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor.

Judge Jerome L. Kersting was appointed acting judge by chief District Judge Gordon L. McRae to an indefinite term. Under the new bill, many smaller counties now served by part-time probate-juvenile judges would be combined into court districts of two or three counties.

When the permanent judge is appointed, he will receive a salary of $24,000, which will also be shared by all three counties.

Rob Five Cars Of Tapes During Service Sunday

Baccalaureate services for Lincoln high school Sunday night offered a thief or thieves a chance to obtain tapedecks and tapes valued at $666 from five cars while the owners were attending the baccalaureate service.

Pat Travnicek of Thief River Falls reported the theft of a Pioneer-Craig tape player from his car, as well as eight tapes. Value was set at $173. Jerry Myers of route 4 reported the theft of a Lear-Jet tape player and a tape together valued at $100 from his car.

Steven Josephson of Thief River Falls reported the theft of a Motorola tape player and 22 tapes with a value of $222 from his car. Mrs. Phil Prichard reported the theft of an Amoco tape player and six tapes valued at $111 from her car during the service, and the next day Mervin Erikson reported the theft of 11 tapes and a tape-carrying case from his car. Value of the loss was $60.

In other cases handled by Thief River Falls police in the last week, a 15-year-old boy was apprehended by personnel of a local store for shoplifting. The case was investigated by police and the juvenile was turned over to his parents.

At 10:25 p.m. last Wednesday a car owned by James Huseth was parked on south Main when it was backed into by a rental-agency-owned car leased to Land O' Lakes. About $800 damage resulted and investigation of the driver of the rental car is continuing.

Forsberg's, Inc., reported a break-in on Friday. Entrance was gained through a window and it was reported that several desks had been disturbed. Loss was estimated at about one dollar in change.

At about 7:10 a.m. Monday a

Arthur Forsberg Sr.

Arthur Forsberg Retires From Local Company

Retirement of Arthur Forsberg Sr. after 46 years of work on seed cleaning machinery was announced recently by Forsberg's, Inc., Thief River Falls manufacturing firm. Forsberg, who will be 88 years of age on Friday, started in business with his father and brother in Dauphin, Man., in 1925.

"At that time we built the first seed and grain cleaner and huller," he said. "After several machines were built in Manitoba, our family decided to move back to the United States in 1932. We were very interested in this type of machinery and decided to manufacture cleaning machinery in Thief River Falls. We have continued ever since that time, enjoying a very steady and progressive growth by meeting requirements necessary to do a good job of cleaning all types of granular products."

As a result of experimentation and research, the Forsberg line of seed cleaning equipment has been widely accepted by industry and is in use on a world-wide basis.

Arthur's father died in 1957 and his brother Clarence died in 1967. The business will be carried on by his sons, Arthur Jr. (Manny) and Irvine, who have been active in the corporation for a number of years.

Dr. Martin New President-Elect Of State Ass'n.

Dr. George B. Martin, Thief River Falls general practitioner, May 19 was named president-elect of the Minnesota State Medical association at the closing session of the association's 118th annual meeting in St. Paul. He will assume the presidency a year from now.

Dr. Martin graduated from the University of Illinois college of medicine in 1950 and after serving three years with the U.S. Navy settled briefly in Montevideo before coming to Thief River Falls in 1954.

CORRECTION

County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr has called to our attention an error in material supplied to the Times for publishing in the county financial statement. An item of $3,900 under the welfare fund was listed as payment to Curtis Charlson. It should have been a recovery of costs by the county revenue fund from the welfare department for county attorney and clerk costs. The error was further complicated in that the county attorney is Neil McEwen rather than Charlson.

1971 Loan Rates Announced For 4 County Crops

Loan rates for 1971-crop wheat, rye, flaxseed and barley in Pennington county have recently been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

For wheat grading No. 1 the loan rate will be $1.34 per bushel, somewhat higher than the national average loan rate of $1.25 a bushel. Wheat grown on farms participating in the 1971 wheat and feed grain set-aside programs will be eligible for Commodity Credit corporation loans made through the county ASCS office.

County loan rate for 1971-crop rye has been set at 97 cents per bushel for rye grading No. 2 or better, or No. 3 on the factors of test weight only. National average loan level for rye is 89 cents a bushel. Participation in farm programs is not an eligibility requirement for CCC loans on rye.

County loan rate for 1971-crop barley has been set at 78 cents per bushel for barley grading No. 2 or better. Participation in farm programs is also not an eligibility requirement for CCC loans on barley.

For 1971-crop flaxseed, the Pennington county loan rate has been set at $2.53 per bushel for No. 1 grade. The national average is $2.50 per bushel, the same as last year. Flaxseed loans are not conditional on farm program participation.

Old Car Club Meets Tonight

Lake Agassiz antique car club will meet tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 at the Les Kulseth residence to make further plans for the diamond jubilee celebration.

Anyone interested in antique cars is welcome to attend, and it is not necessary to own an antique car to become a member of the club.

School Board Hears Report From Panel

SUPERINTENDENT of the Thief River Falls public schools will be Dr. William S. Corliss, it was announced last night by the Thief River Falls board of education. Dr. Corliss, 49, is currently superintendent of the Gateway School District at Monroeville, Pa. The district has 9,500 students.

Receipt of the adjustment panel recommendation on faculty salaries was acknowledged, bid on the vocational school's house-building project accepted and contract extended to a new superintendent of schools at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Tuesday evening in the Lincoln senior high school library.

Election returns from the May 18 election, which showed Edgar Naplin, Curtis L. Charlson and Rev. Paul Biegner to be elected to the board, were officially accepted. Naplin and Charlson were in attendance at the board meeting.

Dr. William S. Corliss of the Gateway school district in Monroeville, Pa., was extended a contract at $23,500 as superintendent of schools in Thief River Falls. (See separate story in this issue.)

Roland Wailer, Thief River Falls police chief, was successful bidder among three for the house built as a project by the carpentry class of the area vocational-technical school. The bid was $24,155 for the house as is, with Wailer to pay all taxes and assessments.

Following an executive session of about 90 minutes, from which the press and public were excluded, the board rescinded action taken on Oct. 12, 1970, to not renew the contract of Dwight Wilson, carpentry instructor at the vocational-technical school, for cause. Resignation of Wilson, who was represented by an attorney at the board's executive session, was accepted.

Recommendations of the adjustment panel studying faculty salaries were read at the meeting, with all three panel members in agreement on the recommendations. The panel recommended that 185-day base salaries be increased by $78,687, with the increments within that total being mutually agreed upon by the board and teachers' negotiating council. No change was recommended in the extra-curricular pay and health insurance was also recommended to be limited to $30 per month or $360 per year.

The teachers' council presented a proposal to the board as to proposed changes in base salary within the recommendation of the adjustment panel. The recommendations included a base of $7,100 for a first year teacher with a bachelor's degree, advancing to $13,700 for a master's degree plus 30 credits and 13 years of experience. Increments in the schedule proposed by the teachers' group ranged from $100 to $1,000 annually.

The board adopted a resolution acknowledging receipt of the teachers' council proposal and agreed to take it under study but

Dr. Corliss New Superintendent

Dr. William S. Corliss, 49, presently superintendent of Gateway School District at Monroeville, Pa., will become superintendent of the Thief River Falls public schools starting next month. According to an announcement made by the board of education here Tuesday evening, Dr. Corliss is expected to be here for the June 14 meeting of the board.

Dr. Corliss will succeed Supt. Lloyd M. Johnson who has headed the local school system for the past three years. Supt. Johnson has accepted a position as superintendent at the LaCrescent public schools near the Wisconsin border.

The new superintendent is a 1942 graduate of Winona senior high school and his wife is originally from Bemidji. He received a BS degree in industrial education and physical education from Winona state college in 1942 and his Master of Education degree from the University of Minnesota in 1949. His doctorate is from Wayne state university in Detroit, Mich., in 1965, with work in the fields of administration, supervision and curriculum.

Dr. Corliss has had advanced study at the University of Illinois and the University of Colorado in addition to the University of Minnesota.

A mechanic with the U.S. Army Air Force from 1942 to 1946, he spent one year in the United States and more than two years in Europe. From 1947 to 1948 he was a teaching assistant at Winona state college, then became a teaching assistant at the University of Minnesota for a

DR. NEAL NICKERSON, associate professor of educational administration at the University of Minnesota, will be commencement speaker at the Lincoln high school graduation ceremonies to be held in the arena for added seating convenience next Thursday. Nickerson is a graduate of Macalester college and the teachers college of Columbia University in New York City. He is the author of a number of books and articles and has delivered speeches throughout much of the United States.

232 At Vocational Get Diplomas Sun.

Charles Samuelson, vice president of the Thief River Falls board of education, presented diplomas to 232 graduates of the area vocational-technical school in ceremonies at Lincoln high school Sunday night.

Guest speaker was Dr. William E. Knaak, superintendent of Northeast Metropolitan area vocational school in St. Paul, who was introduced by Supt. L. M. Johnson of Thief River Falls. Arnt M. Aune, director of the local school, presented the class.

Lincoln high school string quartet played the processional and Rev. Louis Hermansen of Trinity Lutheran church gave the invocation. Musical selections were given by Diane Delage, Naomi Hygh and Junleve Svoboda, student practical nurses.

Diplomas went to the following graduates in various departments:

Women's Clubs Donate $1,000 To NSJC Theatre

At a council meeting of the Thief River Falls Women's clubs held Thursday evening, members of the council voted to allocate $1,000 to Northland State Junior college for Klieg stage lights for the new theatre now under construction.

The council is composed of the executive officers of the DeCor, Laural and Zehlian club. Each club was represented at the meeting by officers and members. All voted unanimously in favor of the donation.

In charge of the meeting were Mrs. Ed Leiran, president; Mrs. William Ness, secretary, and Mrs. Saro Mayer-Oakes, treasurer.

The council also voted to continue the sponsoring of the Crippled Children's clinics. Volunteering to plan for these clinics were Mrs. Arthur Forsberg, Jr., and Mrs. James Winjum, Jr., of the Zehlians, Mrs. Victor Kvikstad of the DeCor club, and Mrs. Carl Hovie of the Laurel club.

Gaining new members and the forming of new clubs were also discussed. It was suggested that new clubs stressing arts, crafts, reading, music, current affairs and drama be formed. Anyone interested in becoming members of one of these clubs may contact Mrs. Leiran, 681-4525.

Meetings of present clubs will resume in the fall with a joint luncheon. The Laurel club with Mrs. George Biddick, volunteered to be in charge of decorations, assisted by Mrs. Ed Leiran of the DeCor club and Mrs. William Moeglein and Mrs. Dale Dunning of the Zehlian club.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. George Biddick, Mrs. Joe Dostal, Mrs. Art Forsberg, Jr., Mrs. Harold Elofson, Mrs. Robert Henry, Mrs. Marie Hovie, Mrs. Dale Dunning, Mrs. Victor Kvikstad, Mrs. A. Liden, Mrs. Stanley Mortenson, Mrs. William Moeglein, Miss Geneva Overum, Mrs. Jack McKechnie, Mrs. H. Mellain, Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, Mrs. Rudy Sagmoen and Mrs. James Walker.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Moeglein and Mrs. Forsberg.

Spending the week in Thief River Falls visiting Albert W. Johnson and family were his sister, Mrs. Anna Anderson of Spencer, Iowa and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bill Anderson, also of Spencer.

Brenda Kay Muzzy And LeRoy Walberg Vows Said

Lighted candelabra flanked the altar at the United Methodist church in this city for the wedding on April 24, of Miss Brenda Kaye Muzzy and LeRoy D. Walberg.

Rev. Jonathan Law officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 225 relatives and friends.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muzzy of Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Walberg of Grygla.

Mrs. Sherman Iso, a friend of the couple, presided at the organ. For the processional she played Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus". The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" from "A Midsummer Nights' Dream." Mrs. Idso also accompanied Orland Aspen of Hill City, brother-in-law of the groom, as he sang, "O Perfect Love" and Dunlap's "Wedding Prayer." The assembled guests participated by singing, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling."

"To correspond with the bride's chosen colors of lavender and white, an arrangement of white and lavender lace carnations graced the communion table. The reserved pews were marked by white bows.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length, empire fashioned gown of nylon and acetate lace. A lace ruffle edged the high neckline and full-length sleeves. The gown, styled in front with a fitted bodice and an A-line skirt, featured a full, cage that flowed down to a scalloped hemline. A petaled headpiece of nylon lace held her elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnation and greenery accented by a large lavender orchid.

Miss Kathy Muzzy of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Jane Kaushagen, a friend of the bride, and Mary Ann Walberg, sister of the groom. All wore lavender, floor-length, double-knit gowns fashioned with baby-doll sleeves and empire waistlines accented by a deep purple sash. Their lavender veiled headpieces were held by deep purple bows. Each carried a nosegay of white daisies and greens centered with a lavender lace chrysanthemum. Flowing from the nosegays were lavender and purple ribbon streamers. All the attendants gowns and headpieces were made by the bride.

Attired like the attendants was Laureen Muzzy, sister of the bride, who served as flower girl. She carried a basket filled with white and lavender lace carnations, white daisies and lavender streamers. Scott Muzzy, a cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Attending the groom as best man was a close friend, Lyle Paulson of Grygla. Groomsmen were also friends of the groom: Jerry Holthusen of Grygla and Lyle Nelson of Thief River Falls. The ushers were Jerry Muzzy of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, and Tenny Neuschwander, friend of the groom. All the men of the wedding party, together with the ring bearer, wore black tuxedos with black bow ties. The groom wore a white carnation boutonniere and his attendants and ushers had lavender lace carnations.

The mother of the bride was attired in a light blue, double-knit dress accented by a figured tie at the neckline. To complete her attire, she wore black accessories and a corsage of white and lavender lace carnations with lavender and purple ribbon. A similar corsage was worn by the mother of the groom who was attired in a mint-green, double-knit dress complemented by white accessories.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Odin Hanson, Mrs. Ann Muzzy, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Allard Morken, godparents of the groom.

A reception in the church parlors followed with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Larenson, uncle and aunt of the groom, as host and hostess. Mrs. Orland Aspen of Hill City, sister of the groom, registered the guests and was also in charge of pinning the corsages. Serving the punch were Darrel and Michell Muzzy, brothers of the bride.

The square, five-tiered wedding cake, divided by swan pillars, was decorated with lavender flowers and surrounded by green foliage. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Lowrence Lubitz, a friend of the bride, was cut and served by Mrs. Curtis Johnson and Mrs. Kenneth Muzzy, aunts of the bride. Pouring were Mrs. Erwin Muzzy and Mrs. Jim Muzzy, also aunts of the bride.

Waitresses were Claudia Larenson, Karen Muzzy, Peggy Newton and Mrs. Lyle Nelson. Presiding at the gift table were Gail Fuller, Kathy Hillyer, friends of the bride, assisted by the gift bearers, Kent Hanson and Mike Muzzy, cousins of the bride.

For the reception, the tables were graced with lavender streamers and lavender lace carnations. To accent the color theme, the groom's cake was wrapped in lavender net and tied with purple ribbon.

Guests attending the wedding were from North Dakota, McIntosh, Argyle, Grygla, Goodridge, Roseau, Hill City and the Thief River Falls area.

Following the rehearsal the parents of the groom hosted a supper for members of the wedding party.

For traveling to Texas, the bride wore a beige pantsuit with a lavender orchid corsage. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and prior to her marriage was employed by Arctic Enterprises. The groom is a graduate of Goodridge high school and Northland State junior college. He is now with the United States Army, stationed in Texas.

Gordon And Meyers Plan July Wedding

Engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Marian Lee Gordon to Harold Bernard Myers is announced by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Roland Berfield of Anchorage, Alaska.

Miss Gordon, whose father, John D. Anderson, lives in Kent, Wash., is a 1967 graduate of East Anchorage high school. She is employed by the First National Bank of Anchorage.

Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Myers of Thief River Falls, is a 1963 graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed by Alaska Orient Van Service, Inc.

The couple plans a July wedding.

Moccasin Garden Club To Meet Sat.

Moccasin Garden club will meet at the Julian C. Lendeboja home on Saturday. The meeting will begin with a plant and variety sale at 1 p.m. Members may bring guests. Refreshments will be served. Making the arrangements for the meeting are Eva Lendobeja, Sophie Burstad and Olga Nelson.

Tuesday Night City Council Meet Routine

At its meeting Tuesday night the Thief River Falls city council told the city clerk and city attorney to draft a letter to the business manager of the Teamster's municipal drivers, helpers, and public employees union informing the union that the city did not wish to negotiate with the union. The matter of increased pay for city employees will now be handled by a labor conciliator.

The city council also passed a resolution to hire Dennis Kiesow as the newest member of the municipal police force. The council accepted the recommendation of its fire department commission to hire Duane Noel as fire chief at $700 per month effective August 1, to replace current fire chief Roy Langevin, who will retire. Barry Fellman will take Noel's place at a salary of $603 per month.

The council discussed plans for the Thief River Falls airport and a new program offering 90 per cent aid to key airports—airports that already have regularly scheduled service, such as the one here. The council decided to ask for plans and specifications for a new hangar at the airport, and also discussed the possibility of Thief River Falls airport becoming an overnight layover for North Central flights.

The council also adopted a new ordinance that prohibits the riding of horses on the public streets of the city except on the routes designated. It was also suggested that council members should consider the possibility of an ordinance requiring all existing junk yards in the city limits to be fenced.

The city council told its attorney to write a letter to the Soo Line railroad on blocking crossings within the city limits, a problem which council members said had been especially acute at crossings on Nora and First, Third and Eighth streets.

HONORARY chapter farmer awards were presented by the Thief River Falls FFA chapter Monday evening to two adults by Larry Langevin, president of the chapter. Recipients were Harlow Johnson, left, manager of Production Credit association in Thief River Falls, and Leo Langevin, father of the chapter president.

CHAPTER SWEETHEART of the Thief River Falls FFA, Susanne Bruggeman, gets a look at some of the awards Larry Langevin received at the awards night on Monday. Langevin was chapter president for 1970-71 and received six awards at the event.

If all you had to do was to push a button to learn to play the organ, would you push it?

Just push a button to turn on our new, electronic Funmaker Cassette Recorder that plays through the new Wurlitzer Organ (below). Some rather startling things happen. The taped voice of your instructor greets you with simple instructions on how to play the Wurlitzer—demonstrates with actual sounds how you should sound. In no time at all, he can have you playing "The Saints"—even if you've never played a single note of music before. After a few lessons, you'll surprise yourself with "By the Time I Got to Phoenix" and thrill to the big, full sound of "Born Free." Sound easy? Sound like fun? It really is! Come on in. We'll give you a free demonstration. Then, if you like, we'll fix you up with your own button to push.

Clarice Galliher To Head Local Chapter Of MEA

Clarice Galliher, mathematics instructor at Franklin junior high school, was elected president of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Minnesota Education association Monday in the Lincoln high school cafeteria. She succeeds Walter Redinger as head of the local organization.

Mrs. Lovanell Kraemer, cosmetology instructor at the vocational technical school, was named president-elect and will head the chapter for 1972-73. This is the first year that the chapter has named a president-elect, last year's vice president was Donald Hejlik.

Arthur Welter, science instructor at Franklin junior high school, was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. Patricia Johnson, and Mrs. Madeline Robarge, fifth grade teacher at Northrop school, was elected treasurer to succeed Mrs. Mary Tillmann.

The MEA chapter also approved a constitutional change which provides for a representative assembly for building representation in the local chapter. Each of the district's elementary and high school buildings will have one representative on the executive council for each 10 MEA members or major fraction thereof at the school. Presently this would include two from each of the four elementary schools, three from the vocational-technical school and four each from Lincoln and Franklin senior and junior high schools.

Prior to the MEA meeting, an all-faculty meeting was held at which the teachers approved the adjustment panel recommendation. Further information on that recommendation is included in the school board story in today's issue of the Times.

did not act upon it. Vern Isaacson, chairman of the negotiating council, asked that the teachers be notified of the board decision and that the council meet with the board to reach mutual agreement.

After discussion of classroom needs, the board requested the administration to advertise for bids for temporary buildings, secure an attorney general's opinion on a leasing agreement and secure a final price on rental of facilities at Redeemer Lutheran church.

New teacher contracts were approved for Peter Tri, Red Lake Falls, graduate of Bemidji state college, Northrop elementary school; Anthony Ricci, Boston, Mass., graduate of St. Olaf college, vocal music at Franklin junior high school; and Paul Jacobs, Frazee, graduate of Moorhead state college, business education at the area vocational-technical school.

Leave of absence for military duty was extended to Michael Mattson and Curtis Kozitka, instructors in social studies and mathematics, respectively, at Franklin junior high school.

Resolutions were adopted joining the state high school league athletic accident benefit plan and renewing a student teacher agreement with Bemidji state college.

Reminder was issued of the commencement exercises for Lincoln senior high school which will be held Thursday, June 3, at 8 p.m. in the city arena.

year. He was a teacher and coach at Comfrey public schools in 1949-50, and then elementary principal at Estes Park public schools in Estes Park, Colo., until 1952.

From 1952 to 1955 he was elementary supervisor of the Willmar public schools and teacher-administrator for off campus center courses of Mankato state college. He continued the role at Mankato college from 1955 to 1961 when he became director of elementary education at Wayzata public schools.

In 1961 he was named director of elementary education at the Birmingham public schools in Birmingham, Mich., and in 1966 became superintendent of the Lincoln Park school district in Lincoln Park, Mich. That district had 12,500 students.

Since 1968 Dr. Corliss has been superintendent of the Gateway district in Pennsylvania. He has visited this community on two occasions while being interviewed for the position here by the board of education.

At Winona college he was president of the intramural board, a track team captain and an honor graduate in the top 10 per cent of his class. He was listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" and participated in football, basketball, track, chorus and glee club.

Active in community and educational activities in communities where he has lived, he was secretary of the Wayzata Chamber of Commerce, a Sunday school superintendent at Willmar, and has chaired the Michigan curriculum research committee.

Dr. Corliss has also had about 30 articles published in educational publications such as "School Management", "American School Board Journal", "Phi Delta Kappan", "MEA Journal" and "Minnesota Journal of Education" among many listed.

The Thief River Falls board of education screened many applicants for the position, consulted with the state department of education and University of Minnesota placement service, and conducted personal interviews with five candidates before making a selection, according to Kenneth Murphy, board clerk.

Wells To Give Graduation Talk

Andy Wells, 1961 graduate of Goodridge high school and currently an instructor in educational media at Bemidji state college, will deliver the commencement address Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at Red Lake high school. The commencement exercises for 38 graduates will be held in the school gymnasium.

car driven by Wyman Johnson of Karlstad was headed east on Eighth when it was struck in the right side by a car driven by Dennis Kujava, going north on Horace. The impact caused the Johnson car to hit the front of a parked car owned by Mark Hegtvedt of the city. Police reports said the Johnson car was totaled and that there was $450 in damage to the Kujava car and $350 damage to the Hegtvedt car.

Late last Thursday night or early Friday morning a car driven by Audrey Johnson of Thief River Falls was going south on Reserve avenue when the driver apparently fell asleep and struck a car owned by Emil Lundeen while it was parked at lot one of the Riverview trailer court.

The impact pushed the Lundeen car into another vehicle owned by Lundeen. The accident was reported to police at 8 a.m. Friday. There was $300 damage to the Johnson car, $225 damage to the first Lundeen car, and the other Lundeen car, a 1963 Plymouth, was totaled, according to police.

Social Studies Teachers Review Local Pollution

(Editor's Note: The following summary of a study on local pollution problems was prepared by Mark Schug, seventh grade social studies teacher, and Cal Lindberg, ninth grade social studies teacher, at Franklin junior high school. Although most of the information contained therein has been published in prior issues of the Times as it became news, the summary is published here in consolidated form in the public interest.)

Pollution is a problem which we all must learn to deal with. The purpose of this case study is to help you become familiar with the pollution problem we face, in our own community.

There are many different types of pollution, among them are air, land, noise and water pollution. Not every community is faced with major problems in each of these areas. Air and noise pollution are not immediate hazards in Thief River Falls, but we must be alert to prevent them from becoming major problems.

Thief River Falls faces two major types of pollution: land and water. The land pollution in our community seems to result from the carelessness and unconcern of individuals, a walk around the outskirts of town and near particular businesses can be enlightening. One is amazed by the amount of refuse that has been tossed by automobiles into roadside ditches. There is a wide variety of junked cars, old refrigerators and assorted junk heaps that are, in the least, eyesores.

It appears that the paper, cans and junk around our community can only be cleaned up through the efforts of concerned individuals. In other words, people must go out, pick up the refuse, and see that it is properly disposed.

A partial solution to our refuse problems would be the construction of recycling plants in our community. With such a plant, what was formerly useless paper, glass or cans would now become useful products. Many communities are finding recycling plants to be an efficient, non-polluting, and perhaps even profitable method to begin solving their refuse problems.

The second major pollution problem facing our community is that of water pollution. Our water pollution problems seem to result from three major sources: individuals, industry and the community-at-large. Individuals add to water pollution in many different ways, one being their careless disposal of sewage directly into the river. Individuals are also guilty of thoughtlessly dumping tires, cans, bottles, dead carcasses and other garbage into the water. These practices all contribute to our water pollution problem, and should be stopped immediately.

Industry and the community-at-large combine to give us one of our major water pollution problems. The problem is one faced by many communities, and involves the releasing of untreated sewage into the river from the sewage treatment plant. The present sewage treatment plant was constructed in 1939, and was designed obviously for a smaller community than we have today. It has been evident for some years that our waste treatment facilities had become overloaded and obsolete. This was the conclusion reached by a study of the sewage treatment plant made in 1967 at the request of the Minnesota pollution control agency.

The problem specifically is this: From the last part of July through the first half of November, the Land O' Lakes turkey processing plant adds one-third more waste to the sewage system than the rest of the city uses. This puts a considerable strain upon the entire system. The plant was built to handle a maximum of 30,000 gallons of sewage per month, but the system has been overloaded with as much as 42,000 gallons per month. What happens when the load is over the plant capacity? Morris Owen, superintendent of the water and light department, replied: "We just have to spill it into the river." The sewage then must move through the treatment plant so quickly that it cannot be adequately processed.

The 1967 study of the sewage treatment plant suggested four ways to solve our sewage problems: (1) remodel existing plant; (2) remodel existing plant, and add a secondary stabilization pond, (3) construct a new treatment plant, or (4) construct stabilization ponds.

Remodel Existing Plant (1)

This plan would consist of rebuilding the present sewage plant. This would include replacing the old equipment in the existing units and adding new equipment. This plan has two obvious disadvantages: The first is that the present site is obsolete due to its closeness to the high-value residential district; the second is that this type of plant requires 24-hour supervision and thus would greatly increase labor costs.

Remodel and Add a Secondary Stabilization Pond (2)

This plan would include replacing the equipment in existing units, and the addition of new equipment together with the building of a secondary stabilization pond. One disadvantage is that the plant would keep its present location, although labor costs would not increase.

Construct New Plant (3)

This plant would be of a "complete-mix type," and would be an adoption of alternative number 2. Its advantage is that it requires less labor and maintenance than the other two plans. One disadvantage of this type of plant, as is true for alternatives 1 and 2, is its inability to adequately handle shock loads of sewage. A second disadvantage is that the plant would remain at its present site.

Construction of Stabilization ponds

This system would consist of the construction of one or more stabilization ponds. Under this plan, sewage would remain in the pond until it purified itself naturally. Before the water could be discharged into the Red Lake river, samples would have to be checked and approved by the Minnesota pollution control agency. The advantages of the pond system are several, the first being the low maintenance and operation costs. Another feature of the ponds is their ability to handle shock loads of sewage. This system could easily be expanded as the community continues to grow.

The main disadvantages of this plan are the high land costs, and the opposition by residents in the area where ponds would be constructed. Residents are fearful that the ponds will emit an unpleasant odor. According to Morris Owen and Bob Carlson, council president, residents have little need to worry about the odor except during the few days of winter freeze and spring break-up.

It is the pond system, alternative number 4, that is favored by the city council. Some of the land for this plan has already been purchased, and the council currently holds an option for the remaining land.

Our community faces immediate problems of land and water pollution. These problems are still at the point where they can be solved if we begin to act now. Delay can only make our problem more difficult to deal with in the future. Individuals must become aware of pollution in our community, and then be willing to do something about it.

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. What are the major causes of pollution in Thief River Falls?
2. Which of the four alternatives for a sewage treatment facility do you favor? Why?
3. What can you, as an individual, do to help fight pollution in our community?

Local Delegates Attend Annual Mrs. JC Event

Mrs. Jaycees of Minnesota held their annual convention in conjunction with their Jaycee husbands in Duluth on May 21 and 22. There were 147 Chapters represented from throughout the state.

Mrs. Roger Blain of South St. Paul, president of the Mrs. Jaycees of Minnesota, presided over the business meeting. The Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycee chapter was represented by Mrs. Neil McEwen and Mrs. Jon Larson.

Elected to lead the organization in the coming year was Mrs. Lynn Tanen of Cottage Grove. She was installed to office at the luncheon, and later installed the 22 state vice presidents who will serve on the executive board during the year. Included in this installation was Mrs. Laverne Rongen of Crookston who will serve as state vice president of Region 1, of which the local chapter is a member.

Laser Beam Is Reviewed Mon. For Rotary Club

J. F. Tigges

Scientists may someday be able to transmit more than 200 million telephone calls on a powerful, single beam of light called a laser beam.

Speaking before the Rotary Club in Thief River Falls Monday, J. F. Tigges, Detroit Lakes, Northwestern Bell Telephone company control foreman, said the laser is already being used experimentally in the fields of surgery and construction. Laser beams are also being used to do such tings as brand cattle, and to separate tiny circuits used in electronics. The number of possible uses is increasing.

Tigges said the laser is an acronym for a process developed about 10 years ago called "Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation". He said the light-refracting reaction takes place in a split-second, creating a powerful beam of light that is the closest thing to Buck Rogers' ray gun devised so far.

In his slide-illustrated talk, Tigges demonstrated the value of the laser in communications. He said the laser is on the high end of what scientists call the electromagnetic radiation spectrum and because of its higher frequency, a laser beam is capable of carrying a greater number of signals, or telephone calls than can now be carried by cable or microwave.

He explained that scientists are continuing to perfect the laser beam, and said it will be some time before it is used to transmit telephone conversations. The laser is also being used, said Tigges, in the development of holograms, or three-dimensional photographs.

Propose Program On Transportation Of School Pupils

A proposed new highway safety program standard on pupil transportation safety has been submitted to the Congress by the national highway safety administration.

According to Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund, the new standard will set requirements for proper and safe equipment, maintenance of equipment, selection, training and supervision of drivers and maintenance personnel, and administrative procedures in the field of pupil transportation.

The proposed new ruling is designed to improve state programs for transporting pupils safely in urban and rural areas.

In Minnesota, pupil transportation is administered by the department of education, with annual inspection of school buses conducted by the Highway Patrol. Throughout the state, 14,000 drivers carry 400,000 children to and from school every day.

All drivers must renew their school bus driver's license each year and are required to submit a doctor's certificate of good health covering vision, hearing, heart condition and general health.

Big Winnie Terrific Opener

Bena, Minnesota...The best opening weekend in four years was enjoyed by fishermen in the Bena area. Bob Karbowski of the Four Season Resort said that most fishermen got limits of fair sized walleyes. The biggest he saw weighed 8½ pounds. The weather on Saturday and Sunday was perfect but it changed Monday with rain and even some snow on Wednesday. Again Big Winnie lived up to its name as one of Minnesota's best walleye lakes.

Alexandria Report

Harvey Hammergren of the Alex Chamber of Commerce reported excellent fishing in many of the lakes in this area. One of the best walleye lakes is Lake Mary where many limits were taken. The biggest walleye taken over the weekend weighed 5 pounds 8 ounces and was taken from Lake Darling. It was caught by Dee Darmand of Alexandria.

Leech Lake Hot

Perfect weather made the opening on Leech Lake spectacular. Jim Kelsey, Walker's minnow man, was enthusiastic about the opener. He saw many limits of walleyes.

Good reports came in from all points of the lake, with many guides, resorters, and other fishermen claiming it has been the best opener in six years.

Brought to Reed's Tackle Shop in Walker by local fisherman Gene Troyna was a string of six Walleyes, ranging in weight from 4 lbs. up to 7 lbs. 7 oz., which were caught on Saturday.

Sunday brought a whopper into Stony Point resort, with guest Larry Gibbs, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, catching a 17 lb. 4 oz. Northern Pike that took him 20 minutes to land. Mr. Gibbs was fishing off of Stoney Point and was using an 8 lb. test line.

Robert Brown, Route 3, Pine City, Minn., guest at Martin's Campground, brought in a 17 lb. Muskie that was caught on a casting spoon.

Terry Crissenger, Laporte, Minn., fishing out of Point of Pines Resort on Kabekona Lake snagged an 9 ¾ lb. Walleye on Saturday.

Auto Harvey, 752 Prior Ave., No. St. Paul, Minn., guest at Journey's End Lodge, caught a 12 lb. Walleye on Saturday.

Fishing out of Dick's Launch Service, with guide Jim Nelson, Dick Schaefer, Bud Merrimen, Bill Olson, Robert Cloakey, Lowell Sullivan of Minneapolis came in early on Saturday with limits. This marks the 2nd year in a row for them.

The Dale Nelson party of Minneapolis consisting of 8 men came back to Pine Point Resort with 40 nice sized Walleyes.

Early fishermen at Grand View Lodge, Chuck Anderson and party of four from Minneapolis had their limits by 4:00 a.m. Saturday. The Dick Renslow group from St. Paul were back by 8:00 a.m. with limits.

Don Betts and Ken Turner of Adair, Iowa, guests at Horseshoe Bay Lodge brought in limits of Walleyes weighing up to 5½ lbs. on Saturday.

Chuck Wahlberg, 0 Ridge Road, Burnsville, Minn. came back to Grand View Lodge with a nice 5 lb. 9 oz. Walleye, caught off of Squaw Point on a plain hook with minnow.

Echo Trail

The fire in Superior National Forest which started near the Echo Trail north of Ely, reminded us of the many trips we have taken on this trail. We remember when the Minnesota Outdoors television program renamed "Lake One" to "Lake Ed Shave". (Governor Orville Freeman was on hand for the dedication.)

We have often seen deer, moose and bear. We wonder just how much wildlife was destroyed by this tragic fire.

Note to Ed Franey: "Ed, do you remember several years ago when you started a drive to have the bear designated as a game animal. You spoke of this for years on our television shows. Well, it happened last week! The state legislature passed a law to this effect and it was signed by Governor Anderson. Congratulations, Ed!"

Pool Schedule

Wed., May 26—7-8:00 open swimming. 8-9:00 ladies lessons.

Thurs., May 27—7-8:00 open swimming. 8-9:00 mask, fins and snorkel.

Fri., May 28—7-9:00 open swimming.

Sat., May 29—1:30-4:30 open swimming. 7-9:00 open swimming.

Sun., May 30—1:30-4:30 open swimming. 7-9:00 open swimming.

Mon., May 31—7-9:00 open swimming.

Tues., June 1—7-8:00 open swimming. 8-9:00 ladies lessons.

Bear Now Given Big Game Status

Bear became a big game animal in Minnesota and came under the protection of the game laws when Governor Wendell Anderson signed a measure passed by the legislature a few days ago.

The bill provides that the bear, previously classed as an unprotected animal in Minnesota, may only be taken during seasons established by the Commissioner of Natural Resources.

Commissioner Robert Herbst said the new law culminated 20 years of effort by the Department of Natural Resources, sportsmen and conservation groups.

"No longer will the law permit such abuses as the indiscriminate slaughter of bear at village dump sites and the shooting of females in the spring when they have cubs," said Herbst. "Now the bear is given the same protection afforded the deer, grouse and other established game species." The bill is the first major piece of wildlife legislation to reach the Governor's desk during the present session.

Department officials cautioned hunters that the new law means that bear are now protected everywhere in Minnesota except during authorized hunting seasons.

The law provides, however, that bear may be taken by a person protecting his property, but the event must be reported to a state conservation officer within 48 hours.

Officials said details of a fall bear hunting season will be announced this summer.

NSJC Will Enter State Track Meet

Northland state junior college will enter three men in the state J.C. track meet scheduled for Saturday on the Anoka-Ramsey track.

Tim Olson, Tony Burke and Mark Keys will participate in the annual event after meeting the qualifying times in meets during the season.

Olson will enter the 120-yard high hurdles with his best time of the season being 15.8. Keys will take part in the discus competition with his best throw of 118-8. Olson and Keys are freshmen from Thief River Falls.

Burke, a freshman from Bemidji, will throw the javeline and discus in the state meet. Burke's best performance in the javelin this season was 133-2 while his top discus throw was 125-8.

Northland coach Chet Engelman is aware of the competition his squad will face Saturday but he reports that Olson's time in the hurdles is better than last year's winning time and the other Northmen marks are as good as the fifth-place performances last year.

Worthington and Rochester are expected to battle for the championship.

Phil Jackson To Head MSC Clinic

First annual Phil Jackson Basketball Camp will be held at Moorhead state college this summer, with two one-week sessions planned for June.

The first session begins June 13 and expires June 10 while the second session runs from June 20-20. The age limits for camp participants are 11 to 19. The cost of the camp of $100 for those staying on campus, and $75 for living off campus.

Moorhead state college basketball coach Marv Skaar is camp director while assistant coach Bob Bromme and other area coaches will serve on the staff.

Phil Jackson, a member of the New York Knicks professional basketball team, will be the feature attraction of the camp. A product of Williston, N.D., Jackson was a two-time Little All-American at North Dakota University before joining the Knicks. Jackson will be joined by New York teammate Mike Riordan, a guard with the Knicks.

According to Skaar, "the camp's major emphasis will be placed on the individual and his development. The primary goal is helping the boys to develop and utilize their skills."

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Marv Skaar at Moorhead State College.

New State Fish Records Posted

Two large fish, at least one of them a new state record, were caught in Minnesota during May, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

On May 1, Donald Schulte of Grand Marais caught an 8 pound 8 ounce splake from Gogebic Lake in Cook County.

The splake is a cross between a lake trout and a brook trout. They are artificially spawned in state hatcheries and stocked in suitable waters by the Department's game and fish division.

The splake taken by Schulte is the largest ever reported to the Department.

On May 10, a 14 pound 9 ounce rainbow was taken from the Devil Track River by Kenneth Marchand, also of Grand Marais. Although a larger rainbow weighing 15 pounds 7 ounces was taken from Lake Superior last year, Marchand's fish ties an "inland" record set in 1960 on the Knife River.

Region Eight Has New MSHL Dir.

Erwin C. Ostlund, Superintendent of Schools at Walker, was recently elected to the position of Director of the Minnesota State High School League to represent Region Eight for a 4-year term. He replaces Louis Allen, Superintendent of Schools at Greenbush, who on June 1 completes eight years in that position.

The Board of Directors of the State H. S. League is a 13-member body charged with the general management of that organization. It is comprised of one member from each of the eight regions, the Commissioner of Education, a member of the Board of Directors of the Minnesota School Boards Association, the President of the State Coaches Association, the President of the State Athletic Directors Association, and the President of the Music Educators Association or the President of the Speech Association serving alternate annual terms with the President of the Music Educators Association.

Ostlund has been extremely active in League affairs, having been an officer of the District 29 Committee since 1956 and a member of the Region 8 Committee since 1959, serving as chairman the last eight years.

Ostlund's entire 26 years of professional service have been spent in the Walker school system as teacher-coach, high school principal, and superintendent, a position he has held since 1964. He started his work there in 1945 after serving four years in the United States Air Force.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS — Sealed proposals will be RECEIVED until 11:00 a.m., June 8, 1971 by C. W. Bodskuhr, County Auditor of Pennington County at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on behalf of the Commissioner of Highways as Agent for said County for the construction of the county project listed below. Proposals will be OPENED and read publicly by the Commissioner of Highways or his representative at the County Court House in Thief River Falls, Minnesota immediately after the hour set for receiving bids.

READ CAREFULLY THE WAGE SCALES AS THEY AFFECT THIS PROJECT.

Minimum wage rates to be paid by the Contractors have been predetermined and are subject to the Work Hours Act of 1962, P.L. 87-581. Those which apply to this Project are set forth in the Proposal for Project this.

Aggregate Base, Plant-Mixed Bituminous Base, Plant-Mixed Bituminous Surface and Aggregate Shoulders

S.P. 57-622-02 (CSAH 22), Minnesota Project S 6426 (8), length 10.4 miles, located between County State-Aid Highway No. 2, 11 miles east of St. Hilaire, and the North Line of Pennington County. The major quantities of work are 110,000 Tons of Aggregate Base, 17,000 Tons of Base Course Mixture, 12,300 Tons of Wearing Course Mixture and 1,425 Tons of Bituminous Material for Mixture.

Item	Counter Price	Delivered Price
Plans and 1 proposal	$1.00	$1.75
Proposals only—per copy	0.50	0.85

Proposals, plans and specifications may be examined and secured at the office of the Highway Department, State Highway Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. The County Engineer of Pennington County, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701, will have copies at the above for examination only.

REQUESTS FOR PLANS AND PROPOSALS MUST BE SUBMITTED ON CONSTRUCTION FORM NO. 21120, ACCOMPANIED BY CHECK, DRAFT, OR MONEY ORDER PAYABLE TO THE COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS.

Bids must be accompanied by a certified check made payable to the Commissioner of Highways, or a corporate surety bond made in favor of the State of Minnesota in an amount as designated on the back of the proposal form.

The State Highway Department, in accordance with the provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 252) and the Regulations of the Department of Commerce (15 C.F.R., Part 8), issued pursuant to such act, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that the contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder without discrimination on the ground of race, color, or national origin.

W. S. Ekern
Acting Commissioner of Highways

Order for Hearing on Petition to Determine Descent
State of Minnesota,
County of Pennington—ss.
IN PROBATE COURT
IN RE ESTATE OF Paul Irvin, aka Paul H. Irvin, Decedent

Doris Conliels having filed in this Court a petition representing, among other things, that said decedent died intestate more than five years prior to the filing thereof, leaving certain property in Pennington County, Minnesota, and that no will of said decedent has been proved, nor administration of his estate granted, in this State and praying that the descent of said property be determined and that it be assigned to the persons entitled thereto.

IT IS ORDERED That the hearing thereof be had on June 22, 1971, at 9:30 o'clock a.m., before this Court, in the Probate Court Room, in the Court House, in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and that notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in the Thief River Falls Times and by mailed notice as provided by law.

Dated May 25, 1971
Jerome L. Kersting
Probate Judge

Card of Thanks

We the family of Mrs. Louise Mosbeck wish to express our thanks to the Valley Home staff during her stay there. Also our sincere thanks to the third floor staff at Northwestern hospital, and Dr. Van Rooy for the care given her. And to Pastor Lathrop and Pastor Peterson for their prayers and comforting words during her last illness.

To the many friends who so generously contributed food during the trying days before and after the funeral services. A special thank you to those who sent flowers and memorials, to Mrs. Lund for her vocal contributions, and the great-grandchildren for their singing, the pallbearers and all those who helped in any way. 1t42c

Card of Thanks

A very special thank you to all the nice friends, neighbors, Dr. Taylor, and nurses at Northwestern hospital. Also Green Funeral home for their kindness. And all that brought food to the home. Thanks to Rindal Ladies aid for their serving. May God Bless you all.

Close Region Eight Track Meet Shapes Up For Fri.

Thief River Falls will enter ten individuals and two relay teams in the region eight track meet Friday at Bemidji.

The district 31 champs figure to be in the running for the region crown along with Bemidji, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Fosston. The Lumberjacks rate the slight favorite after coming through the district 29 meet with almost an entire squad. Crookston will have eight individuals entered and "East Side" will have four talented performers.

Prowler trackmen who qualified for the meet include Rande Smith, shot put; Rob Swenson and Markoe Hanson, 100-yard dash; Kim Murphy, mile; Mike Fitzgerald, 440-yard dash; Paul Battleson, 880; Jon Wangberg, 180-yard low hurdles; Jon Markstrom, 220-yard dash; and Jon Folkedahl and Tim Strand two-mile.

Crookston will enter Len Devos, shot; John Heinan, pole vault; Bob Menzhuber, discus; Todd Peterson, mile; Lon Keil, 440; Doug Laniel, 880; Scott Youngquist, high jump, and versatile Gary Wagner in the 120-yard high hurdles, 100-yard dash, 180-yard low hurdles and the long jump.

East Grand Forks' entrants include Rip Thompson, pole vault; Gordy Hangsleben, discus; and Al Mathues in the high hurdles, high jump and 220-yard dash.

The Prowlers will also enter their 880 and sprint medley relay teams. The 880 will include Steve Beich, Jon Markstrom, Jon Wangberg and Markoe Hanson. The sprint medley team will be Rob Swenson, Beich, Mike Fitzgerald and Don Releraon.

Prowler coach Jim Sims thinks things are going to be very interesting and reports that 37 points could win the championship for someone.

"Things will probably be bunched up pretty tight," says Sims, "but I think our boys have a real shot at it if we can get everything out of everyone."

Best performances turned in by the Prowler thinclads are: Rande Smith 44-5½ in the shot, Rob Swenson 10.4 in the 190, Kim Murphy 4:40 in the mile, Markoe Hanson 10.4 in the 100, Mike Fitzgerald 53.2 in the 440, Jon [illegible] .6 in the low's, Paul Battleson 2:04.3 in the 880, Jon Markstrom 23.8 in the 220, Tim Strand 10:55 in the two-mile, Jon Folkedahl 10:56.3 in the two mile and the 880 relay team's 1:35.5 along with the sprint medley's 3:46.

The two relay teams along with Battleson, Hanson, Fitzgerald and Swenson figure to have the best shots at capturing individual titles.

The Prowlers won their own Jaycee Invitational meet May 1 over the same teams but things might be a bit different the second time around.

Top performers from other teams include Bemidji's Brad Wubbles in the 100-yard dash and his brother Jon who figures to battle Roseau's Jeff Larson for the two-mile. Wubbles has turned in a 10:20 and Larson a 10:25 this season.

In the high hurdles district 31's Al Mathues of "East Side" and Gary Wagner of Crookston will battle for the blue ribbon while The Pirates' Todd Peterson is the top miler in the region along with Murphy and Hallock's Tom Jerome. Peterson turned in a 4:38.7 in the district meet Saturday.

Brad Wubbles' 52.2 in the 440 this season figures to make it an interesting race along with Fitzgerald and Lon Kiel of Crookston. Gory Wanger and Jon Wangberg will battle in the low hurdles while Battleson will have his hands full in the 880 with McIntosh's Lee Bly who turned in a 2:05 this season.

Thief River Falls will be pushed in the relay's by Bemidji's entries who have recorded a 1:36 in the 880 and a 3:35 in the sprint medley.

The preliminary running events and the field competion will begin at 10 a.m. Friday on the Bemidji state college track.

Prowlers Host Crookston Today

Lincoln high school baseball team was scheduled to close out its regular season on the fairgrounds diamond this afternoon at 3 p.m. after wet grounds postponed yesterday's contest.

The Prowlers stand 9-0 on the year going into today's game against Crookston.

Prowler coach Ralph Sksy will attend the district 31 meeting at Warren tonight (Wednesday) to determine the pairings for the district tournament scheduled for Thief River Falls.

Athletes Warned About Clinics

Lincoln high school principal R. J. Ostazeski and athletic director Russ Smith issued a warning this week concerning summer athletic camps and clinics.

Athletes are warned not to attend a summer athletic school, camp or clinic in any sport unless they have first checked with the principal to see if it is sanctioned by the Minnesota State High School League.

Failure to comply with this rule will mean the loss of eligibility to participate in sports.

A list of the authorized and sanctioned camps, schools and clinics will be posted as soon as it is received from the league.

The State High School League requires that a student file attendance at a school, camp or clinic with the high school principal before actual attendance at the event. This will assure the student and his parents that the operation is authorized and sanctioned by the High School League.

Prowlers Host TRF Invitational Golf

Lincoln high school golf team topped Monday's field while finishing second Tuesday in the Thief River Falls invitational golf tournament held on the TRF Country Club golf course.

The Prowlers finished with a three-man count of 236 to place first in Monday's tourney while Bagley recorded a 246 for second place. Mahnomen was third with a 254, followed by Red Lake Falls 261, Warren 264, Greenbush 269, East Grand Forks 273 and Fosston 283.

In Tuesday's tournament for the larger schools the Prowlers' five-man total was 397, tieing Roseau for second place behind Bemidji's 392. Fargo South was fourth with a 408 while Grand Forks Central came in at 416 and Red River recorded a 436.

The Prowlers' Paul Olson was medalist in Monday's action with a 78 while teammates Lee Sorenson and Randy Carlson finished with 79's. Other Prowler scores were Mark Charlson 80, Mark Metusalem and Tom Olson 87, Roger Lee and Tom Goddard 88, Brent Olson and Jeff Bottem 89, Dick Penning 90 and Jim Barry 95.

Robbie Harris of Roseau took home medalist honors Tuesday with a 73 while Bemidji's Ed Demery finished with a 75.

Jay Moum paced the Prowler duffers with a 77, followed by Roger Lee's 79, Paul Olson, Lee Sorenson and Mark Metusalem at 80, Mark Charlson 81, Randy Carlson 82, Dick Penning 83, Tom Goddaed and Brent Olson 86, Jeff Bottem and Tom Olson 88, Paul Debryan 83, Jim Barry 90 and Bob Skoglund 113.

Paul Olson was also medalist in the Northwest Conference meet last weekend at Crookston when he edged Harris on the first hole of a play-off after the two golfers had fired two-over par 74 totals.

Roseau won its fifth conference golf title in six years by edging the Prowlers by one stroke. The Rams finished with a 230 total to Thief River Falls' 231, Bemidji and Crookston 238 and East Grand Forks 264.

Dean Blais, a sophomore left wing from International Falls, scored the most WCHA points for Minnesota this year, 27 in 22 games.

Standings Tied In Trap

Pat Fischer recorded the first 25 straight of the season Monday night as L.B. Hertz gunned down Karlstad 116-113 to share first place in the third week of action in the Thief River Trap League.

Coast to Coast defeated Lind Motors 115-111 and Northern St. Bank got by VFW 115-112 to share the top spot in the standings with Hertz—all standing 3-0 in league play.

In other action Monday night, Bjorkman's won their first match after two draws with a 99-89 win over the winless Shrine while Johnson Hide & Fur topped Arctic Cat 111-107. Union St. Bank downed Custom Motors 108-105, Wilson Brothers stopped A& W 120-103, the Legion edged the Pharmacy 114-110 and the Times won their first, 112-104, over Tony Dorn's.

The next scheduled league shooting will be Tuesday night, June 1, instead of Monday night because of Memorial Day.

Howard Hagen backed Fischer's straight with a 21-5 while Curt Bottem shot a 20-3, Dean Anderson 20-2 and Norm Olson 17-8 in L.B. Hartz' win over Karlstad. Craig Spilde led the losers with a 23-7 as Tim Nordeen shot a 16-5, Armond Kiel 22-0, Jack Olstad 14-8 and Jan Nordeen 12-8.

Ike Ellingson led Coast to Coast to their third win of the season, over Lind Motors, with a 24-0 while Merv Skadsem shot a 24-7, Norland Windahl 18-8, Harold Hugg 19-3 and Carl Hugg 17-3. For Lind Motors, David Lee shot a 20-5, Ed Krystosek 16-8, Lambert Brunkhorst 16-7, Floyd Ball 19-1 and Dick Griesen 16-3.

Northern St. Bank remained undefeated with their win over the VFW as Howard Thorson shot an 18-7, Joanie Wilson 21-3, Sandy Wilson 23-0, John Feragen 19-3 and Don Stewart 15-6. VFW was paced by Ronnie Johnson's 22-6, Keith Bugge 19-5, Gubby Lane 22-1, Tony Noel 21-2 and Del Rux 9-8.

Bjorkman's dropped the Shrine 99-89 behind Wendy Olson's 19-8, Dick Bjorkman 19-5, Lawrence Bjorkman 10-8, Dave Bjorkman 15-2 and Bob Bergan 7-8. For the Shrine, Phil Prichard shot a 14-8, LeRoy Nabben 15-4, Carl Lee 8-7, Gene Gaer 7-8 and Orvis Oien 10-8.

Johnson Hide & Fur handed Arctic Cat its first loss, 111-107, behind Del Stordahl's 19-8, Harry Johnson 17-8, Brian Dailey 13-8, John Dorr 16-2 and Frandell Johnson 14-6. For Arctic Cat, Jerome Lund shot a 20-4, Ron Sheen 17-8, Ike Hoglin 16-6, Burt Lane 15-4 and Gary Lane 14-5.

Custom Motors sank to the bottom of the standings along with the Shrine as Union St. Bank handed them their third straight loss, 108-105. Arnie Johnson led the winners with an 18-7 while Jerry Wendorff shot an 18-5, Fred Sorensen 17-4, John Moum 16-5 and Arnie Narverud 14-4. Custom Motors received a dummy score of 15 to go along with Dale Schantzen's 22-6, Mark Hagen 15-8, Steve Johnson 19-2 and Steve Cyr 16-2.

In Wilson Brothers' 120-103 win over the A & W Orville Feragen shot an 18-8, Stan Wilson 24-0, Myrt Wilson 20-4, Si Schantzen 21-3 and Wally Vagle 16-7. A & W was paced by Barry Fellman's 20-4, Bruce Prichard 14-8, George Hannestad 16-5, Curt Ness 13-5 and Warren Hannestad 16-2.

The Legion defeated the Pharmacy 114-110 behind Gary Boughthon's 20-6, Allen Steinhaurer 18-6, Al Paulsen 16-8, John Kotaska 17-4 and Dick Sculthorp 16-1. The Pharmacy was led by Don Wahlbeck's 19-0, Mark Swanson 20-3, Stub Pahlen 17-5, Ray Thyren 18-1 and Russ Embury 17-3.

Bruce Mattson shot a 23-8 to lead the Times in their win over Tony Dorn's while Bob Mattson shot a 21-2, Roger Anderson 16-5, Mike Lundgren 14-8 and Marv Lundin 16-3. For the losers, Bud Brooten shot an 18-7, Tony Dorn Sr. 20-1, Mark Langevin 13-8, Buzz Marvin 10-3 and Rick Bruggeman 17-1.

Slow-Pitch Ball Begins Friday

Thief River Falls slow-pitch softball league will begin its 1971 season Friday, May 28, on the east side ball park diamond.

Four teams are entered for league play which will continue with its regular season until July 30 when play-off's begin.

Captains of the four squads are Pat Klemisch and John Schmitz, Knights of Columbus; Ron Dargus, L. B. Hartz; Bill Weigelt, Weigelt; and Ron Omlid, Wilsons.

Friday night's schedule will find the Knights of Columbus taking on Weigelt and L. B. Hartz playing Wilsons. All games will begin at 6:15.

Brothers Ron and Doug Peltier from St. Paul played on the same line for two seasons with the University of Minnesota hockey team.

Prowler Tennis Team Blanks Fertile 9-0

Lincoln high school tennis team wound up its regular season portion of its 1971 schedule yesterday with a 9-0 blanking of Fertile on the Falcons home courts. It was the sixth 9-0 win for the Prowlers this season while their won-lost record stands at 10-4 in dual meets.

The Prowlers will participate in the district 31 meet at East Grand Forks Friday beginning at 1 p.m. with the region eight meet also set for "East Side" on June 4. Prowler coach Whitey Olson reports, that to his knowledge, Thief River Falls has never lost a district tennis crown.

In yesterday's number one singles Mark Liden blanked Fertile's Mark Carlson 6-0, 9-0 while Stuart Waltonen dropped Ken Ramberg 6-3, 6-1 in the second singles action. Waltonen usually plays doubles but with the absence of Mark Thyren he moved into the number two singles.

Sophomore Jeff Wendt made the most of his first opportunity with the varsity with a 6-2, 7-5 win over Fertile's Paul Remark. Greg Knutson and Gordy Prichard defeated Rick Remark and Lynn Sulerud 6-3, 6-3 in the doubles play.

Olson isn't sure about his line-up for the district competition although junior Mark Liden will be playing the first singles and Waltonen and Thyren will make up the doubles team. The second and third singles will be determined in play-offs during practice between Tom Nepper, Gordy Prichard, Greg Knutson and Gordy DeLap.

After graduation today, Martha dressed her little sister, Amy, in cap and gown and let her walk across the stage. Amy chortled all the way home, "I graduated, just like Martha."

Martha is a sweet big sister. She lets Amy watch while she gets ready for dates, makes clothes for her dolls and invents endless games designed to please a four-year-old. On the other hand, Amy adores the ground her "Marthy" walks on and listens to her advice before all others. It was Martha who straightened her out when she rebelled against church-going. "We go," said Martha, "not because we have to, but because we love God and want to be good."

Big moment

How glad Bob and I are that we have always gone to church and taken Martha with us! Love of God is an essential part of her life. Now she is helping us teach Amy a similar understanding and reverence.

Go to church, and take your child. Share with him the greatest wealth on earth.

"I avoid talking before the youth of the age as I would dancing before them; for if one's tongue don't move in the steps of the day, and thinks to please by its old graces, it is only an object of ridicule."
—Horace Walpole

Remember May 10?

Remember May 10? It was an important day for you. That was the day the average taxpayer began working for himself, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. All earnings until that time this year were earmarked to pay federal, state and local taxes.

If four months seems like a long time to work for units of government, look at it on a daily basis. The average wage earner needs to work more than one-third of every eight-hour day—two hours and 51 minutes, to be exact—before his daily income will be enough to cover his tax bills.

Wage earners complain about their property taxes, but don't take a close look at their withheld income taxes. The screams of financial anguish would be a lot louder if the income tax bite came in one payment instead of the weekly, bi-weekly or monthly nibbles.

Too many salary earners look at their take-home pay as their total salary, discounting the taxes withheld as though they never earned the money to pay them. Perhaps it would be good if the worker received his total due and had to pay back, in cash, the amount normally withheld for income taxes. At least the dollars passing through his hands would remind him of his investment in government.

Unless we stop seeking more government services, which it seems that our representatives are only too eager to offer us, that May 10 date for tax payment may soon reach much further into the year.

Cure Starts At Home

Editor Bill Adams of the Roseau Times-Region recently devoted much of his front page to a story involving young people crossing the border into Canada to purchase and consume alcoholic beverages. Purchase of beer by 18-year-olds is legal north of the border, and that makes their companions of a few years younger all the more vulnerable.

Adams obtained material for his article from customs officials, border patrol officers and the Roseau county law enforcement center. He told of attempts by youngsters to smuggle liquor across the border; mid-teen age girls in cars with older men and all obviously having been drinking; reckless driving by inebriated young drivers; a teen age girl walking from a car to the customs station rest room in 30 below zero weather while clad only in her bra and panties; and other accounts related by the customs and law enforcement officials.

The same issue of the paper contained an editorial on the question, which could well affect people in this area which is not at all far removed from the Canadian border. The editorial follows:

The story on the front page of this week's Times-Region shocks us as much as it may shock some of you. That's the reason it was written ..to awaken the public, with special emphasis on parents, to what is going on "right under their noses." The picture of kids getting loaded on beer, wine or hard liquor is one we can't stomach...and won't stomach if we can do anything about it. This is our way of trying; for we feel that if enough people become aroused about things happening in their own back yards, the more apt there is to be something done about it.

Do parents really care so little or have so little control over their youngsters, that they can travel across an international boundary; stay out until after midnight, come home reeking of drink and their own sick smell and yet completely escape the notice of their parents? Incredible! Are there parents who knowingly let their youngsters do these things? Inexcusable!

Are those who sell beer or liquor over the line so careless that they do not, or will not ask for proper identification and are authorities so busy, spread so thin, or so "non-seeing" that they will condone this situation? If so there should be some restrictions on allowing minors to cross boundaries into Canada without parents or natural guardians in the same vehicle with them. We would hope the freedom we now have to come and go across that boundary will continue as wonderfully free as it is.. but that privilege is one that should be denied to minors if they continue to abuse it.

We have conducted numerous interviews with lawmen, port officials and others. We feel that they alone cannot do more than make it tough for kids to smuggle beer back into the United States; or to apprehend those who might be drinking and driving or those under the influence. That is like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. It does not eliminate the problem which is what needs to be done.

The best source of action is for parents to do the policing of their own children; and insist, through proper channels, that efforts be made across the line to eliminate whatever situation makes possible the weekly influx of youngsters who can somehow procure and drink liquor there.

IF parents will not help the officials who are doing their best to prevent their kids from killing themselves in automobile accidents, we will soon be taking pictures of some very dead teenagers on a road somewhere in this county leading from the border.

Youngsters have great curiosity and get "kicks" out of getting away with something which makes them feel more mature, more adult. They seldom take into account the penalties they may have to pay...or that their parents may have to pay.

Discipline in time can save lives. It is time it was used.

Not-Now Generation

Each new generation arrives on the scene with the self-conceived idea that only it has the welfare of the world at heart and is willing to make changes in the status quo. And each generation makes contributions toward change and development and progress, just as it has for many generations before and will for many generations to come.

The following editorial from a Tulsa, Okla., newspaper comments on the "not now" generation:

The great projects of humankind are built by people who struggle for what they'll never see.

Eighteen popes died between the beginning of St. Peter's Basilica and its completion. So did five of the chief architects.

When Pierre Charles L'Enfant, the Franch engineer who laid out Washington, D.C., died in 1825 his dream of noble vistas and broad malls was still a dream. Coaches and wagons bogged down in the bottomless mire of Pennsylvania Avenue. Pigs rooted around the domeless Capitol.

In 1840, Charles Dickens scoffed at Washington as a city of magnificent intentions. Few of the handful of patriots who set out to raise money for the Washington Monument in 1848 lived to see it completed 36 years later.

John Roebling, incurably ill, sat swathed in blankets at the window of his Brooklyn home and watched the first cables spun for his Brooklyn Bridge. But he had been in his grave 14 years before it became a wonder of the world.

Great ideas achieve momentum slowly. Seven hundred years ago Friar Roger Bacon grew disgusted at the witchcraft and necromancy that passed for science and medicine. He advocated that things be tested, the results noted and spread abroad, so that worthless theories could be discarded and promising clues followed up. This was to be, of course, the scientific method.

A school is not a Now thing. It is a Not-Yet thing. It pays no quick dividends. It merely hopes to prepare a generation so that it can produce dividends. Elderly couples with no school-age children who pay taxes or make gifts to support schools cannot possibly personally benefit from these outlays. They are contributing to a future they will not see.

Contrast this behavior with the character who thinks he has a right to burn down a school because it doesn't meet his standards. Whatever it is he wants, he wants it Now.

Any given graveyard contains the corpses of three kinds of people—those who counted, those who by reason of early death, long disability or ignorance could hardly have counted, and those who could have counted, but didn't.

Of the three, the latter group is the deadest.

Drive among the tombstones. Read the names of the people you remember who ate the rubber chicken and sat through the long committee meetings and panhandled for good causes and schemed for things that would improve the community.

Think of all the projects they worked for that lagged behind the undertaker, or that still remain a future hope. Yet there lies interred the salt of the earth. There lies the Not-Now Generation.

Old Louis Pasteur, having yanked medicine into the modern age and having pointed out the way to de-fang the epidemic beast, had no time for self-congratulation. On his deathbed at Saint-Cloud he murmured: "So little time. So much to do."

Not now. Not for me. But for someday.

Borrowed Nonsense

Thought for the day: Even a mosquito doesn't get a slap on the back until it starts working.

A dirty, sweaty little boy came tearing in the house carrying a very dead rat by the tail and shouting, "Mom, Mom, Mom! !" He charged through the kitchen, through the dining room and into the living room where his mother was sitting. Holding the rat up high he exclaimed, "We hit him, we bashed him, we smashed him"...then he noticed the visiting minister, gulped, and continued.. "and then God called him home."

S.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Lundin:

On behalf of the Freshman Chorus at Franklin Junior High School, I would like to say thanks to you and your paper for the fine coverage you gave our performances of Highlights of "Fiddler on the Roof". Your concern was greatly appreciated. But in addition to this I would like to thank others.

For the past school year I have watched my Freshman Chorus work as a team maturing not only physically but mentally and emotionally as well. In the past month and one half I have seen them paint scenery together, prepare costumes together, laugh together, cry together and spend many hours of hard work together preparing for their performances. Working with these young adults has made me thankful that I became a music teacher, thankful that I can call each of them "friend" and thankful that their parents have raised such an outstanding group of children.

Sincerely,
John Hustad
Chorus Director
Franklin Junior High School

Viking-Land Is Seeking Doctors Among Europeans

Viking-Land, USA, a 17-county northwestern Minnesota promotional organization, has completed a successful promotion in the Stockholm, Sweden, area involving medical doctors.

Realizing the need for doctors in several Viking-Land communities, Viking Land directors entered the medical promotion field about one year ago. Results from a campaign in a national medical magazine proved inconclusive, bringing forth the lack of desire for domestic doctors to practice in a rural area. Viking-Land decided to expand its efforts going to the same source as its original pioneers, northern Europe.

"This inter-continental promotional effort recognizes that our Viking-Land communities have two of the three requirements for a medical system, facilities and financing," stated Robert A. Anderson, Battle Lake, Viking-Land president, "and that we lack only manpower."

Inquiries received have been distributed for action to civic and governmental leaders throughout the Viking-Land region. Many inquiries were received from those in fields other than medicine indicating a continuing desire on the part of the world's population to immigrate to the United States and to Minnesota.

Viking-Land, with headquarters in Battle Lake, is also involved in travel and industrial promotion.

Booklet Issued On Mobile Home Loans For Vets

Veterans administration has a new pamphlet for veterans and servicemen who want information about a VA-guaranteed loan for a mobile home.

Single copies of the pamphlet are available at all local VA offices. The brief pamphlet (26-71-1) titled "Questions and Answers on Mobile Loans to Veterans" is designed to answer questions about the program established last December.

For example, one question answered is "How does a veteran or serviceman go about getting a loan?"

The answer: Obtain a certificate of eligibility from the nearest VA regional office, find a mobile home of your choice which meets VA standards, arrange for rental or purchase of mobile home lot, and apply to a lender for a loan.

Another question: "Who is eligible for a mobile home loan?"

Answer: Servicemen on active duty, veterans of World War II, the Korean Conflict, and those who served after Jan 31, 1955, if they are entitled to VA's maximum $12,500 conventional home loan guaranty.

The VA pamphlet also provides answers to such questions as where a mobile home can be located, maximum loan amounts and terms, general specifications for mobile homes, interest rates, and other questions about mobile home loans.

Students May Be Exempt From US Withholding Tax

Students who will be looking for summer jobs were reminded that they may be exempt from federal income tax withholding of their wages by George Lethert, IRS district director.

The new return filing requirements excuse single persons with an income of less than $1,700. Married individuals filing jointly with income of less than $2,300 are not required to file for 1971.

If the student owed no tax last year and expects to owe no tax in the current year, he should advise his employer, submit a withholding certificate (Form W-4E) and tax will not be withheld from his salary, Lethert stated.

This provision makes available more take-home pay, and eliminates the need to file a federal tax return for 1971 to secure a refund.

LHS Commencement Set For Class Of '71

Commencement exercises for the 210 graduates of Lincoln senior high school will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the new city arena in Thief River Falls. School officials are anticipating no difficulty in having ample seating in the arena for all who would like to attend the graduation program, and have not issued tickets for distribution by graduates as was done in previous years.

"Pomp and Circumstance" will be played by the high school orchestra, under the direction of James Solsten, for both the processional and recessional. The orchestra will also play "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring", and the welcome from the Class of 1971 will be delivered by James Aune, selected from among the top 10 scholastic students in the class.

David Morken will direct the high school concert choir as it sings "Star Spangled Banner", "I Will Extol Thee" and "Lincoln High School Alma Mater".

Supt. Lloyd M. Johnson will introduce the commencement speaker, Dr. Neal Nickerson, associate professor of educational administration at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Presentation of the class will be made by Robert Ostazeski, senior high school principal, and diplomas will be awarded by Kenneth Murphy, clerk of the board of education for School District 564.

Officers of the Class of 1971 include Susan Scheuneman, president; Bruce Anderson, vice president; Paulette Swanson, secretary; and Margaret Fanfulik, treasurer.

Top 10 scholastic students in the class include Gail Anderson, James Aune, Terri Cuppett, Bonnie Habedank, Julie Hermanson, Jan Johnson, Paula Mickelson, Cheryl Narverud, John Peterson and Brian Scholin.

Other members of the honor society are Cristy Amundgaard, Cornelia Carlson, Mark Charlson, Mervin Erikson, Joyce Feragen, Roger Lee, Cynthia Nesland, Paul Olson, John Peterson, Barbara Roisland, Gary Rux, Susan Scheuneman, Mary Sherack and Jacquelyn Sinding.

Aldon Hyland

Legion Selects 2 Area Boys For State Meet

Robert Swenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Swenson of Thief River Falls, and Aldon Hyland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hyland of Goodridge, have been selected by Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion to attend the 23rd annual American Legion "Boys State" to be held at Gustavus Adolphus college in St. Peter June 6-12, according to Erwin Ferber, local post commander.

Both of the young men are juniors in high school and both rank in the upper half of their classes, as well as having outstanding records in extra-curricular and community activities, according to Ferber.

Objectives of "Legion Boys State" include teaching boys who attend how local and state governments function, to develop better civic behavior, and to obtain for them an appreciation of the democratic way of life.

"Legion Boys State" was first held in Minnesota in 1949 with 169 participants. In 1970 417 young men participated in the program.

Regional Library Hours To Change

Effective June 1 the Northwest regional library in Thief River Falls will begin its summer schedule.

The Library will open an hour earlier on weekdays and close on Friday evenings and Saturday. The new hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

Memorial Day Services Held In City Monday

Bugles sound today (Monday) in Thief River Falls as residents attend Memorial Day services in honor of citizens who lost their lives in war.

Calvin Bradley, first vice commander of the American Legion post, leads the observances, with the Rev. Alex Staffel of Zion Lutheran church giving the invocation.

The chorus of the American Legion Auxiliary sings, and Mrs. Leo Nelson, president of the American Legion auxiliary, along with Mrs. Peter Sullivan, president of the VFW auxiliary, places wreaths.

Al Sollom, who is a retired U. S. Marine Corps officer, is scheduled to give the memorial address. The National Guard company here provides the salute to the colors. The Thief River Falls Memorial Day service is sponsored by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Minnesota National Guard.

Memorial Day services were also held at Goodridge, Plummer and Newfolden.

State Insurance Investigator Here

A. E. Isberner, insurance investigator for the state of Minnesota, will be in Thief River Falls on Thursday at the Minnesota manpower services office between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

The insurance division is responsible for the formulation of practical regulatory procedures to expedite the administration of existing insurance laws.

Granary Loans Available From Co. ASCS Office

Farm storage facilities have proved to be a very popular item in the farm operations of a grain farmer whether he farms a few acres or many hundred acres, according to Wallace Sparby, executive director of the Pennington county ASCS office.

Loans are available now through the Commodity Credit corporation at six per cent interest with a five-year repayment schedule on 85 per cent of the out-of-pocket cost. This would be in four equal annual installments starting one year after the date of disbursement.

"Eligibility for a loan is figured on two-years estimated production of crops you have planted or intend to plant," Sparby said. "Eligible crops without program participation could include oats, barley, rye, sunflowers and flax. Corn and wheat are also eligible if you are participating in the program.

"You must have a wheat allotment, participate in the program and be eligible for a certificate payment in order to secure a price support loan and also to use those bushels for eligibility purposes for a granary loan.

"Wooden granaries, quonsets, steel type buildings or bins are all eligible providing they are built of new material. Eligible costs are materials, labor and sales taxes," the director added.

"Before you make any definite plans, please feel free to contact the ASCS office for more information."

Mrs. Bohlman Is New Head Of Girl Scout Council

Mrs. C. W. Bohlman, Grand Forks, is the new president of the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout council. She succeeds Mrs. Leonard Johnson, Starkweather, N. D., who died May 7.

In memory of Mrs. Johnson, a Janice Johnson memorial fund has been set up to erect a new lodge at Camp Hiawatha, the Girl Scout established camp near Clearbrook.

Meeting at Camp Hiawatha, the council board approved the following officers and chairmen: Mrs. Kenneth Tischart, Red Lake Falls, first vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Zahradka, Grand Forks, second vice president; Mrs. Ray Bostrom, Grand Forks, program services chairman; and Mrs. Pat McGurran and Mrs. Gordon Bondy, cookie chairmen.

Three of the four senior scouts who will be sent to the PPR's and Q's event August 10-23 in Bloomington, Ill., met the board. Attending will be Dawn Hoffman, Fargo; Janice Sheppard, Devils Lake; LuAnn Knudsen, Warren; and Maureen McKeever, Warroad.

Board members also toured camp facilities, which were being readied for the camping season by volunteers under the direction of Arlo Gebhard, Devils Lake, camp committee chairman. A second work weekend June 4-6 is open to interested volunteers of any age.

There are still vacancies in the first session June 27-July 9 and the fourth session August 8-19; also for troop camping and the counselor-in-training program. Scouts and non-scouts from third grade on are eligible.

Contos Named Officer For Pharmacists

Rick Contos, chief pharmacist at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, was recently elected vice president of the Minn-Dak Society of Hospital Pharmacists, a recently formed group consisting of hospital pharmacists from eastern North Dakota and western Minnesota.

The group will meet four times a year for the purpose of exchanging ideas and information relating to their occupation. Any interested hospital pharmacist in the area or pharmacists servicing nursing homes are invited to attend the meetings.

FLAGS AND POPPIES decorate approximately 400 graves of military veterans or men killed in service as a result of the area effort of the men pictured above. M. R. (Rudy) Leverson, left, and Hjalmer Rafteseth, have worked together for more than 25 years to decorate graves at nearly 30 cemeteries in Thief River Falls and the surrounding rural area. It takes the men several days each year to accomplish the task of placing United States flags and paper poppies on all the graves. Leverson represents the American Legion and Rafteseth the Veterans of Foreign Wars. They ask that anyone who knows of the grave of a serviceman not decorated for Memorial Day contact either one of them so that the addition may be made to the list now in use. The picture above was taken at a plot in Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls.

SILENT TESTIMONY to the military service given by men now deceased is provided by flags and poppies marking graves in the area. The flags and poppies are placed each year by M. R. Leverson and H. B. Rafteseth, representing the local American Legion and VFW posts, respectively. The above photo was taken soon after the grave decorations for Memorial Day had been placed in position at Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls.

Many Cases On Court Backlog

With newly appointed acting judge Jerome L. Kersting presiding, a number of delayed cases were decided in court recently. Court had not been held for some time due to a vacancy in the judge of probate position.

In cases brought before the court by the Minnesota highway patrol, John R. Wengler, Thief River Falls, was found guilty of speeding and forfeited a $70 bond.

Ralph I. Hamlin, Red Lake Falls, tried on an open bottle charge, was found guilty and sentenced to 15 days or a $30 fine.

Loren D. Klopp of Thief River Falls was found guilty of a speeding charge and forfeited $15 bond. Donovan C. Foss, St. Hilaire, was found guilty on open bottle and speed charges and forfeited a total bond amount of $64. Ronald O. Olson of East Grand Forks forfeited a $17 bond on a speeding charge.

Gladys P. Dalager, St. Hilaire, forfeited a $15 bond on an unsafe change of course charge. James E. Kelley, Plummer, forfeited a $16 bond on a speeding charge. Also charged with speeding were Harry C. Crane, Thief River Falls, $17 bond forfeit; William Dicken, Thief River Falls, $19 forfeit; and Lynette Harstad, Viking, $15 bond forfeit.

Louis A. Lallier, Red Lake Falls, was charged with being over the center line and forfeited a $30 bond. Terrence A. Walker, Thief River Falls, forfeited a $20 bond on a failure to stop for a

Study Indicates Training Means Higher Salaries

According to a recently released study by the University of Minnesota department of industrial education, 14 per cent of the 1968-69 graduates of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school were receiving salaries of $700 or more per month one year following graduation.

(An official statement issued by the school said that the wages cited reflect a trend in business and industry to pay higher wages to people with definite skill training, and added that the study also showed that less than one per cent of the graduates had gone on for further training at a college or similar institution.)

The final statistical table in the report shows, however, that just over nine per cent of the graduates have a present monthly salary of under $250, while just over 50 per cent of the graduates are currently earning salaries ranging from $250 per month to $399 per month.

Another table showing percentages of graduates who received various salaries in their first jobs after graduation showed that 24 per cent earned under $250 per month, while 50 per cent of the graduates who responded to this question in the survey reported they were earning between $250 and $399 per month. Four of those responding to this question said they were receiving a salary of $700 or more per month.

A table on percentages of graduates who held different numbers of jobs during the year since their graduation showed that 12 per cent had three or more jobs, 24 per cent had worked at two different jobs, and 65 per cent had one job. Of the 77 students responding to another segment of the report, 97 per cent said they were employed full time and three per cent said they were employed part time.

Only 37 former students responded to a question on why they were unavailable for employment one year after graduation, but 78 per cent of those gave military service as the reason. (Another 16 per cent were pregnant housewives.)

A total of 93 graduates responded on the question of salaries increasing, decreasing or staying the same in their first year after graduation. Increases were given to 55 per cent of them, while 43 per cent had salaries remaining the same. Only two per cent had their wages decreased.

A foreword to the report noted

Veterans Service Officer Promotes Job Training

Pennington County veterans services officer Lewis Hill will hold an information meeting for veterans and prospective employers on the Veterans Administration on-the-job training program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the county courthouse.

Hill said that he hopes more employers will consider supplying on-the-job training programs for veterans and said he is readily available for discussion and explanation of the program.

Hill said that certain requirements must be met by an establishment before approval can be given by the state approval agency for enrollment of veterans for the purpose of receiving GI bill benefits.

Hill said that the training content of the course must be adequate to qualify the veteran for appointment to the job for which he is being trained and there must be a reasonable certainty that the job for which he is training will be available at the end of the training period.

Wages to be paid the veteran during the training period may not be less than those paid non-veterans in a similar training position, and wages paid at the start of training must be at least 50 per cent of the wages of the job for which he is being trained.

There must be at least one wage increase during the period, and not later than one month before the end of the training period the veteran must be paid 85 per cent of the wages of the job for which he is training, according to Hill.

Hill also said that appropriate credit must be given the veteran for previous job experience, whether in the military service or elsewhere and that his beginning wage must be adjusted to the level to which such credit advances him. The training period would also be shortened proportionally.

May Cut Hay On Set-Aside Acres

According to a recent decision by the department of agriculture, the set aside acres for wheat and feed grain farms may have hay harvested for emergency purposes.

If anyone might be interested in storing hay for emergency purposes, he should contact the ASCS office, according to Wintan Knutson, chairman Pennington county ASCS committee.

Simulated Mishap Tests TRF Service

APPLYING MATERIALS to provide simulated injuries requiring treatment was part of the drill for mass casualty handling in Thief River Falls on Thursday. E. C. Olson, who played the role of a driver involved in a collision with a school bus, is being given a liquid "bruise" prior to the staging of the accident. Olson is a member of the Thief River Falls board of education and has been active in the local safety council.

Twenty-three "patients" with a variety of "injuries" were used in a mass casualty handling test Thursday for a number of agencies and services in Thief River Falls. A simulated school bus accident was arranged by officials of several sponsoring groups to provide the basis for the test.

Personnel of the participating agencies were not given advance warning of the test so that reactions and procedures could be evaluated and improvements could be made if necessary. Videotape recordings of the proceedings were made at the scene and at Northwestern hospital where the injured were taken by ambulance, fire department rescue squad vehicle and private automobiles. An evaluation session will be held Tuesday evening and the tapes will be shown at that time.

Cooperating in the exercise were administrative personnel and ambulance service coordinator at Northwestern hospital; Charles Richards, Pennington county sheriff; Ronald Waller, Thief River Falls police chief; Roy Langevin, fire chief; public school administration; Pat Patterson of the Minnesota department of health emergency services

Manthly Birthday Party Held At Oakland Park

Four residents at the Oakland Park nursing home, who had birthdays during the month of May, were special guests at the monthly birthday party held at the home on Tuesday, May 18. They were Mrs Theresa Saugen, Mrs. Gertrude Ross, Frank Fisher and Helmer Fjorden.

The party was hosted by members of Circle II of the Evangelical Free church. Mrs Alfred Mehus gave the devotions and Mrs. Floyd Dalzell played several accordion selections, sang a solo and led in group singing. In charge of serving the refreshments were Mrs. Clyde Davirs and Mrs Eugene Hanson.

The following week, members of the Lois circle of Trinity Lutheran church visited with the residents at the home, presented a program and served lunch. In charge were Mrs. Charles Samuelson, chairman of the circle, and Mrs. Myron Halvorson, stewardship secretary. Mrs. Don Narverud led the group singing and Kathy Barron, a student at Lincoln high school, served as organist.

Karen Ericksan Feted Fallawing Graduatian Here

Miss Karen Erickson of Warren, a graduate of the business department at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, was guest of honor at a luncheon following graduation. Hosting the event was her landlady, Mrs Gladys Hamre.

Those present were Miss Erickson's parents and sister, Mr. an Mrs. Myron Erickson and Carol of Warren, togehter with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Halsa, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Potucek, and Mr. and Mrs. Baedolf Peterson and Betty, all of Warren.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Nomeland of Grygla, Susan Haspel, Ken Bergerson, Edith DeGroat and Gerald Hamre, all of Thief River Falls.

DIAMOND JUBILEE of Thief River Falls received a tribute during the music concert at Washington elementary school on Thursday. Dressed in dresses styled to years gone by, these girls carried a decorated "cake" while they sang one of the numbers on the program. Director of the production was Miss Patricia Stringham, music instructor at the school.

MUSIC AND LYRICS written by the girls themselves were played and sung Thursday by Linda Beenhardson (left) and Lari Lundin at the Washington elementary school music concert. Pollution and its problems was the central theme of the original song entitled "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow".

Roeske And Westerlund Marriage Vows Exchanged

Miss Nancy Roeske and Gregory Westerlund exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, May 15, at 2 p.m., at the Zion Evangelical church at Warren.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Roeske of Warren. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Westerlund of Thief River Falls.

Rev. H. V. Buchholz officiated at the ceremony before an altar graced with arrangements of pink carnations and painted daisies. Special music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Merle Nelson.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she chose a floor length gown of white organza featuring a chapel-length train trimmed with lace. She carried an arrangement of pink carnations and red roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Marshall Carlson of Litchfield. Other attendants were Mrs. Joel Roeske of Litchfield, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Debbie Westerlund of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. All wore pink, long-sleeve, floor-length gowns complemented by white trim. They carried identical bouquets of pink carnations.

Attired like the bride was Wendy Johnson of Litchfield, a friend, who served as miniature bride. She carried pink carnations and painted daisies in a white basket crocheted by the bride's grandmother.

Richard Fossum attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Kim Engelstad and Milo Westerlund. The rings were carried by Bruce Carlson, a nephew of the bride.

A reception in the church parlors immediately followed the ceremony. Relatives and friends in attendance were from Omaha, Neb.; San Francisco, Calif.; Atlantic, Iowa; Milwaukee, Wis.; Carrington and Fargo, N. D.; Plummer, Thief River Falls; Nashwauk, Wheaton, Darwin, Litchfield, Grygla, Warren, Red Lake Falls and Minneapolis.

The newly-weds are now at home in this city at 613½ North Horace. The bride is employed at Northwestern hospital and the groom is employed by Chester Carlson.

Janell Mae Nygaard Baptized On May 22

Janell Mae Nygaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nygaard of this city, was baptized on Saturday, May 22, at Our Savior's Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Melvin Walla administered the sacrament. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Noreen.

Mr. and Mrs. Nygaard hosted a buffet dinner at their home following the baptismal ceremony. Guests were the sponsors and their family, the child's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sebade of Deer River; Mrs. LaVoy Rhude, Mrs. Mildred Spillitstoesser, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gagner, all of this city, Mrs. Alice Johnson of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Julia Alexander of Lebanon, Mo.

Also present were the child's sister, Jill, and brothers Terry and Billy.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Merle Narseth
of Goodridge

Cup cakes haven't always been as popular as they are today. A number of years ago, homemakers would rather make a sheet or layer cake in preference to making cup cakes. Removing the cakes from the muffin tins without tearing a hole in the bottom of the cakes, and the washing of the tins, were two chores that most women detested. These chores were eliminated with the appearance of paper liners. Decorated cup cakes are now taking the place of birthday cakes, especially at children's parties, and in their fancy liners, cup cakes are also being stacked to form wedding cakes.

We are grateful to Mrs. Merle Naeseth of Goodridge for sharing her favorite cup cake recipe with the readers of Kitchen Karnival.

Banana-Chip Cup Cakes

½ cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup bananas, mashed
¼ cup sour milk or buttermilk
6-oz. package chocolate chips

Method: Cream shortening and sugar, add vanilla and eggs. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with sour milk. Add bananas and chips, mixing well. Pour into paper-lined muffin tins and bake in a 325 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Mrs. Narseth stated that these cup cakes stay moist for a long time and that they freeze well.

The Naeseths live on a farm 25 miles east of Thief River Falls. Although they live on a farm, Mr. Naeseth is employed in construction. They have three children: A pair of twins: Davie and Denise, age six, in kindergarten at Goodridge, and JeAnn, one-year-old. Mrs. Naeseth enjoys sewing and making articles using art foam. The family attends St. Ann's Catholic church in Goodridge.

Gilbertsen-Harris Vows Exchanged At Richfield

An arrangement of ferns and candelabra graced the chancel at the Woodale Baptist church at Richfield for the recent wedding of Miss Rhoda Irene Gilbertsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Gilbertsen of Bloomington, and John William Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis T. Harris of this city.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Peter Unruh. Jack Symons presided at the organ and for the processional and recessional he played the traditional wedding marches. He also accompanied the bride's sister, Mrs. Wayne Larson, who also served as the bride's only attendant. She sang, "Love" and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of white taffeta with a white chiffon overlay. Her gown, made by her sister, Mrs. Larson, featured an empire bodice of Chantilly lace styled with a slightly scooped neckline and three-quarter-length, bell-shaped sleeves. Securing her fingertip veil was a white taffeta headpiece trimmed with lace and embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a lace covered white Bible topped with a single yellow rose.

Mrs. Larson wore a delicate pink floor-length gown which she had also made. It featured long, bellowed sleeves secured at the wrists by wide cuffs. To complete her attire, she wore a pink veiled headpiece and carried a small bouquet of daisies.

Attending the groom as best man was a close friend, Edward Aakhus, a student at the University of North Dakota. Ushers were Wayne Larson and James Gilbertsen. All wore the conventional business suits with the groom wearing a sprig of stephanotis pinned on his lapel. The other men had white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride is a graduate of the Abraham Lincoln senior high school at Bloomington and prior to her marriage was employed by Data Action Corporation at Edina. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the radio and television broadcasting division of Brown Institute, Minneapolis.

The newly-weds will be living in Germany where the groom is stationed.

Former Resident Is Graduate

(Mrs. Daniel (Vicki) Olson, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Lindberg of Thief River Falls, graduated from Pine City area vocational-technical school during commencement ceremonies last Thursday.

She was one of 69 graduates to receive diplomas during a ceremony that included a program conducted by the students. She graduated from a 37-week secretarial training

Holmgren-Nichols Engagement Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Holmgren of St. Hilaire announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Renae, to Harold E. Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Pearson of Warroad.

Miss Holmgren is a senior at Lincoln high school and is listed among the candidates for graduation. Her fiance is a recent graduate of the Heavy Equipment Construction school in Florida.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hill of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Charles Myers of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kvamme of Twin Valley were recent house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Skay.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warnes were house guests at the Mrs. Ellen Waenes residence during the past week. While here they also visited with Mrs. Annie Holman and Mrs. Carrie Lager. They returned to their home at Karlstad on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kulseth returned to this city on Friday after spending a week at Fort Wayne, Ind., where they visited at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. Marvin Carlson. While there they attended a large antique auto show and swap meet sponsored by the Historical Auto association.

Mrs. Adeline Ronning of Rock Falls, Ill., left Saturday for The Cities after spending the past week as a house guest at the Joseph Osness home while visiting here with Mrs. Marie Biddick, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Mehlhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mogen, Mrs. Julia Rye, Oliver Rye, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thompson and with her step-mother, Mrs. Inez Weflen. On Thursday, Mrs. Ronning and her cousins, Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Mrs. Illa Lull, visited their uncle, Ola Rye and his family at International Falls, and with a cousin, Mrs. Pearl Tyscon, at the North Haven nursing home at Northome. The following day, Mrs. Ronning and Mr. and Mrs. Osness and Odean were dinner and supper guests at the Wallace Stinar home at Warren. Mrs. Ronning was accompanied to The Cities by Mrs. Fred Ulrich of Red Lake Falls who will visit her daughter and family at Waconia while Mrs. Ronning visits her son and family, the James Stephansons at Minneapolis. The two will then travel together to Rock Falls and from there Mrs. Ulrich will go to Sterling, Ill., where she will visit indefinitely with her daughter and family, the Darold Stephansons.

AN ALERTED STAFF at Northwestern hospital stood by to receive "patients" as they arrived by ambulance, rescue vehicle and private car from a simulated "accident" Thursday. One of the "victims" is being carried into the hospital in the above photo and others are still in the ambulances awaiting transfer. The test provided training in the emergency handling of a large number of injured.

division, A. E. Jorgenson, county civil defense director; H. L. Fredeen, Minnesota highway patrol captain; Northwestern hospital auxiliary; students and faculty of Northrop elementary school and LPN students from the vocational-technical school.

Northrop school students and the practical nursing students were made up with artificial injuries at the new city arena early Thursday afternoon. So real were the materials used in creating the accident victims that several of the school children reportedly became nauseated and did not participate in the test as they had been scheduled to do. Patterson, from the state department of health, and his assistants applied the make-up.

The accident victims were then driven in a school bus to a site one mile west and one mile north of the highway 1 and 59 intersection west of Thief River Falls. The bus and a panel truck, the latter with E. C. Olson as the injured driver, were nosed into the ditch as though a head-on collision had taken place. Call to the authorities to report the "accident" was timed to catch the 3 p.m. shift change at Northwestern hospital, thereby exposing a larger number of staff members to the exercise experience.

Ambulances were summoned to the scene, the fire department's rescue unit was pressed into service (complete with sounding of the city's emergency siren), hospital staff members were put on emergency alert and the occupational therapy department in the convalescent and nursing care unit was set up as an emergency ward to receive the patients.

When the patients arrived, they were brought into the emergency ward and examined by the medical staff. Extent and type of injuries were noted and the patients were transported to the surgery, x-ray or other departments of the hospital where staff members were on duty to receive them. Various law enforcement agencies assisted with traffic control and other matters at the scene, in the downtown area and at the hospital.

"Some of the personnel apparently had an idea that something was up," stated Les Vigness, director of the ambulance service at Northwestern hospital and a prime organizer of the test. "Others were taken completely by surprise, however, and this is the condition we had hoped to create so that we could assess reactions and judgment.

"We believe that the test accomplished its purpose. We were extremely pleased with some portions of the test, and we did find some areas where improvement could be made. Our review session Tuesday will give us a further opportunity to discuss and evaluate the total test.

"All of the persons involved in the test planning would like to express appreciation for the cooperation shown. We hope we will never have to use the experience gained in the test, but we believe we are now better prepared because of it," he added.

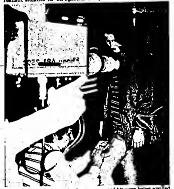
IT TICKLES more than hurts, might be the reaction of this Northrop elementary school youngster as he is being prepared to become an accident "victim" for a test exercise Thursday. Youngsters from Northrop school and 10 practical nursing students from the vocational-technical school served as "patients" for the test which provided a realistic situation for all agencies and personnel concerned.



WHILE REALISTIC injuries from a prepared kit were being applied to "victims" of an accident, a videotape camera recorded the efforts taking place. A number of local services and organizations cooperated in the exercise to test personnel and equipment in the handling of mass casualties. Cameras recorded the happenings at the scene of a simulated accident and at Northwestern hospital as 23 "patients" arrived by ambulance, rescue squad vehicle and private cars. Officials will review the test Tuesday evening and consider possible changes which might be made to improve the situation.

Nabben forfeited a $30 bond on a drinking by a minor charge, while Milton J. Burstad forfeited $5 for not having a 1971 vehicle registration.

Former Pastor Here Directs Synod Conclave

Convention manager for the May 14-16 meeting of the Indiana-Kentucky synod of the Lutheran Church in America was the Rev. Marvin O. Carlson, pastor of Christus Victor Lutheran church in Fort Wayne, and formerly pastor of Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

He served in Thief River Falls from 1955 to 1963 and for more than four years was the assistant to the president of the Red River Valley synod of the Lutheran Church in America, with headquarters in Moorhead.

In addition to serving as manager of the recent convention, he was also chairman of the lay-clergy committee on synod priorities. Carlson was also recently elected to the board of Wittenberg University at Springfield, Ohio.

EMERGENCY WARD was set up in the occupational therapy department at Northwestern hospital to handle the 23 "patients" admitted following a simulated school bus accident Thursday. The exercise involved the hospital's medical and secretarial staff in addition to nursing and other hospital personnel. Regular procedure was followed throughout the test, even to the point of identifying patients and injuries and moving them to surgery or x-ray departments at the hospital.

Bank Supports Dairy Promotion

Tribute will be paid to the dairy industry of this area and Minnesota during 1971 June Dairy Month by Union State bank, it was announced today.

J. J. Womack, president, said his institution will add its weight to the month-long promotion, which calls attention to the economy and nutrition of dairy foods as well as the economic importance of dairying.

Banks throughout Minnesota and in other parts of the nation are presenting special lobby and window displays.

"Minnesota's 42,000 dairy farm families received over 450 million dollars in gross income during 1970," Womack said. "This money was spent for goods and services produced and provided by other Minnesotans."

Womack also said that most of the dairy industry's income comes from outside Minnesota. Approximately 80 per cent of Minnesota's dairy products are sold out of the state.

"Dairying adds to the wealth and well-being of all who live in Minnesota, and our bank is pleased to join the Minnesota Bankers association, supporting June Dairy Month," he added.

three reasons why tables in the report do not summarize data on the same number of people. Some tables should not contain all people, a table summarizing the reasons why people dropped out of programs, for example, should not also contain people who graduated, the foreword states.

It also added that some people did not provide answers to all questions, and warned that as in any data processing effort, it is possible that a small number of errors were made in coding the data.

The foreword said, however, that the percentages in the report should be accurate and there is no reason to believe that the percentages would have been systematically biased by the fact that all data on all individuals was not available.

Roseau Man Is Cleared Of Drug Charge May 20

All charges against Craig Sincock, 26, who was arrested May 18 at Roseau on suspicion of selling narcotics, were dropped May 20 when the material he supposedly had been selling was found non-narcotic.

Sincock was arrested after he had allegedly sold what officials thought might be marijuana to a Roseau person. He had been held in the Roseau law enforcement center, until the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension announced that the material he was reported to have sold was non-narcotic.

Discussion On Current Topics Set By Jaycees

Panel discussion and debate on several controversial questions will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Elks club rooms under sponsorship of the Thief River Falls Jaycees. The public is invited to the program which follows the regular Jaycee business meeting.

Rev. Jonathan Law will moderate the panel which consists of three students from Northland state junior college and three members of the Thief River Falls Jaycees. Topics include the military draft, 18-year-old voting age, law and order, sex and morality, religion and government.

Representing the junior college are Brian Nelson, Darrold Rodahl and Larry Fannest. Jaycee members are Robert Ekeren, Lloyd Myster and a third person yet to be named.

Low Income NWCA Delegates To Be Named

County elections of low-income representatives to the Northwest Community Action board of directors have been announced for four counties during June.

Election for east Marshall county will be June 7 at 8 p.m. at the Gatzke school. Representative from Roseau county will be chosen June 8 at 8 p.m. at the Badger village hall. The Kittson county representative will be chosen at the Lake Bronson school at 8 p.m. June 14, and the delegate from Lake of the Woods county will be elected during a meeting at 8 p.m. June 5 at the Baudette school.

A county nominating committee composed of delegates from the Head Start, senior citizen, and community advisory groups within the county will draw up a slate of candidates. Nominations will also be taken from the floor.

The individual elected need not be from a low income level, but must serve to represent the interests and needs of the low income residents in his county. Nominees should be contacted prior to the election and consent to serve if elected.

To be eligible to vote in the county low income election, voters must be residents of the county, attend the county election, and meet the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) income guidelines, which will be presented at the election meeting.

Hilma Anderson, 90, Newfolden Pioneer, Dies

Mrs. Hilma Anderson, 90, a pioneer resident of rural Newfolden, died Wednesday afternoon at the Karlstad Memorial hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hilma Anderson were held Saturday, May 29, at the Bethesda Lutheran church of Strandquist with Rev. George Johnson officiating. Mrs. Phillip Boen was the soloist and Miss Yvette Born, organist. Interment was in the Nyed cemetery, near Newfolden. Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Gust Bring, Melford Rokke, Otto Haarstad, Oscar Amundson, Daryl Haugen and Emil Dyrud.

Mrs. Anderson, the former Hilma Sophie Olson, was born Aug. 14, 1880 at Oslo, Norway. At the age of two years, she came with her parents, August and Anna Olson, to the United States. They lived first at Fort Ransom, N.D., and later at Sheldon, N.D., where she attended school and grew to womanhood. On Nov. 25, 1911, she was married at Warren to Abel Anderson. Following their marriage, the couple lived and farmed in West Valley township, Marshall county, near Newfolden. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Anderson continued to make her home on the farm until her death.

She is survived by two sons: Vincent Anderson of Newfolden and Edor of Hoyt Lakes; four daughters: Mrs. Stanley (Inez) Johnson of Hallock, Mrs. Nels (Phorbe) Knudson of Arvilla, N.D., Mrs. Reuben (Dorothy) Brakken of Williston, N.D., and Mrs. Warren (Eleanore) Breken of Montevideo; 17 grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and three sisters: Mrs. Mollie Toussaint of Fargo, N.D., Mrs. Clara Otterson and Mrs. Albert (Jane) Strand, both of Lisbon, N.D.

In addition to her husband, who died in December of 1958, she was preceded in death by one son, a daughter, four brothers and three sisters.

EMERGENCY KIT in hand, an orderly from the ambulance service at Northwestern hospital climbs aboard the school bus used to simulate an accident Thursday in a test near Thief River Falls. Aboard the bus the ambulance service personnel found a number of "victims" with a variety of "injuries" requiring different amounts, types and degrees of attention.

REALISTIC SITUATION confronted orderlies from the ambulance service at Northwestern hospital as a simulated school bus accident was staged Thursday northwest of Thief River Falls. Twenty-three people were made up as "patients" to test personnel, operations and equipment in the handling of mass casualties. Cooperation of a number of agencies and services was enlisted and received for the exercise.

Services Held At Karlstad For Algon Lindgren

Services for Algon Lindgren, 84, of Karlstad were held Wednesday at 2 p.m., at the Karlstad Gospel tabernacle. Lindgren died Sunday morning, May 23, at the Kittson War Veterans' Memorial hospital at Hallock.

Officiating at the services were Rev. Kenneth Brown and Rev. J. A. Riveness. Special music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Ingolf Ingebrigtsen with Mrs. Ingebrigtsen as organist. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were John Hettren, Joseph Hanson, Ed Carlson, Leonard Thompson, George Rasmussen and Algot Erickson.

Algon N. Lindgren was born Jan. 3, 1887 at Spruce Hill to Alfred and Christine Lindgren, now deceased. As a young man, he moved with his family to the Karlstad area where they settled on a farm in Lind township, Roseau county. He was married on Dec. 20, 1912 at Roseau to Miss Paula Peterson. The couple farmed in Lind township until 1929. They then moved to Roseau where Lindgren was employed by the Minnesota Highway department and later by the City of Roseau. In 1959 he retired and the couple returned to Karlstad where they have since resided. He was a member of the Karlstad Gospel tabernacle.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. William (Dorothy) Minarik of Rockford; two grandchildren, Sharon and David, also of Rockford; one brother, Oscar Lindgren of Cloquet, and three sisters: Mrs. Art (Sally) Baker of Clarissa, Mrs. Leonard (Jennie) Radchwict of Waukegan, Ill., and Mrs. Ed (Alice) Skramstad of Fergus Falls.

He was preceded in death by two sons, one daughter, three sisters and a brother.

Rites Held At Greenbush For Ole Temanson

Funeral services for Ole K. Temanson, 86, retired businessman of Greenbush who died Monday, May 24, at the Greenbush hospital, were held Thursday at 2 p.m., at the Bethel Lutheran church in that village.

Rev. Erling Borg-Breen officiated at the services. Don Becken was the soloist and Mrs. Rhett Haugen, organist. Interment was in the Blessed Sacrament cemetery at Greenbush with the Collins Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Martin Walker, Kermit Temanson, Charles S. Lund, Erick Wicklund, Harry Prosser and Stanley Evans.

Ole K. Temanson, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Knute Temanson, was born March 6, 1885 at Fertile. He attended school and grew to manhood in Fertile. In 1909, he was married at Crookston to Ursula Maria Schoenauer. Following their marriage, the couple lived for a time at Strandquist, Thief River Falls and Grand Forks, N. D. In 1940, they moved to Greenbush where he and his son, Vernon, operated Temanson Chevrolet. Temanson retired from business in 1953 and since then had continued to make his home in Greenbush, spending the past two years in the Greenbush nursing home.

He is survived by one son, Vernon Temanson of Greenbush; two daughters: Mrs. Luella Andre of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. George (Evelyn) Stanley of Minneapolis; six grandchildren, four great-grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Knute (Clara) Skeie of Santa Anna, Calif.

He was preceded in death by his wife in June of 1966, three sisters and four brothers.

Jennie Eastman Funeral Services Set For May 31

Mrs. Jennie (George) Eastman, 84, a longtime resident of Thief River Falls, died Friday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Eastman will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Rev. Lloyd Berger will officiate. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will be in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Summer Reunion Plans Complete For Once NWSA

Plans have been completed for the annual summer reunion for alumni of the former Northwest school of agriculture, University of Minnesota, Crookston. The reunion will be held Saturday, June 26, on the campus of the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston.

According to Myla Carlson, president of the alumni association, special activity is being planned by the class of 1931. Mrs. Erick O. Berg (nee Alma Lindgren) of Clearbrook is encouraging the class of 1931 to get together. The classes of 1931 and 1961 are also making inquiries concerning special meetings. A bulletin board will be placed in the registration area to list details of time and place for these specific class meetings.

The alumni reunion festivities will begin with registration and coffee at 3 p.m. at the agricultural research center. Time will be allowed for tours of the technical college and experiment station, special class activities, and personal visitation.

At 5:30 p.m., a smorgasbord supper will be served in the main dining room at Bede hall. Those wishing to attend the smorgasbord are asked to make reservations with Superintendent B. E. Youngquist, Northwest experiment station, Crookston, no later than June 18. There will be a nominal charge for the meal.

The arrangements committee is planning to provide recognition for selected faculty and alumni during the early evening program. A short business meeting will follow, and the 1971 alumni reunion festivities will close with reminiscing by all who attend.

Officers of the alumni association are: Myla Carlson, '58, Angus, president; Edward Pester, '57, Crookston, vice president; and Mrs. Calmer Johnson (nee Clara Stromstad), '45, Beltrami, secretary-treasurer.

ARTMOBILE containing works from the American collection of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and works on loan from other museums will be open to the public on the campus of Northland state junior college from June 1 through 3. The exhibition focuses on American art during the last 40 years of this century, including paintings, sculpture, and photography.

East Valley Club Runner-up In 4-H Conservation

East Valley 4-H club in Marshall county was recently named a runner-up in the 4-H conservation club of the year competition. The Thrifty Thrivers 4-H club in Anoka county took first place.

Conservation-minded clubs throughout Minnesota have been planting trees, providing wildlife cover and feed, and carrying out many other projects in the 4-H conservation program.

The Thrifty Thrivers 4-H club set goals for their conservation program and learned how to carry out their plans in a manner beneficial to wildlife and environment. The club has planted 400 trees which provide cover for pheasants and deer and also prevent soil erosion. Members follow up the planting with tree trimming.

They have also blasted marshy areas to provide loafing area for waterfowl. Club members plant corn and leave it standing for winter pheasant feed and during winter provide hay as deer feed. Members also give talks and demonstrations at meetings on conservation practices.

Other runner-up clubs included Silver Hill Ramblers club in Wright county, Newhouse Norsemen club in Houston county, Fast Freighters club in Pine county, Moland Cloverleaf club in Clay county, and Homer Hilltoppers club in Winona county.

Clubs receiving honorable mention in the 4-H conservation competition were from Carlton, Murray, Big Stone, Carver, Stevens, Pope, Isanti, Dakota, Washington, and LeSueur counties.

Sandra Weiss Candidate For Army Program

Sandra K. Weiss of Red Lake Falls has been selected as an alternate in the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing program, according to Staff Sgt. Ron Anderson, local Army recruiter.

The program provides four years of college at Army expenses, with the first two years spent at the college of the selectee's choice and the second two years at the nursing school of the University of Maryland, with successful completion of the institute leading to a commission in the Army nurse corps.

State Farmers Earn Presidential Crop Recognition

Minnesota farmers helped earn national recognition in President Nixon's recent White House salute to agriculture, according to Alvin Payne, Minnesota farm program leader.

The President, in a tribute to agricultural achievement, said, "Thanks to American agriculture for making us the best fed, best clothed people in America; thanks to American agriculture for providing the basic industry that is essential for any nation to be strong."

He cited specifically a 300 per cent per man-hour productivity increase for agriculture in the last 20 years, comparing it with the 150 per cent increase recorded by other American industry.

Payne, who is chairman of the state agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, said all Minnesotans should recognize that this national salute to agriculture is a salute to Minnesota farmers as well as those in the other 49 states.

During 1970 in Minnesota corn production was over 390 million bushels, almost 10 per cent of the national total with average yields of 85 bushels per acre. In 1000 Minnesota's average corn yield was only 54 bushels per acre. Soybean production of 62.9 million bushels was over seven per cent of the national total with average yields of 26.5 bushels per acre in 1970. In 1960 Minnesota's average soybean yield was 19.5 bushels per acre.

Wheat production in Minnesota in 1970 was 23.8 million bushels.

"This is the kind of productivity the President was talking about when he said recent agricultural statistics are the most exciting, the most dramatic, of all American industry," Payne said.

"In our farm program agency, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, in Minnesota we are most interested in the crops under the set-aside farm programs, corn, plus crops which are eligible for the loan, principally soybeans, barley, oats, rye and flaxseed.

"Over 98,000 farms in Minnesota are participating this year in the new market-oriented set-aside farm programs. Some of the restraints on production and kinds of crops which were imposed in previous years have been removed, as was noted by President Nixon recently in a national speech on agriculture," Payne said.

"The President told the nation that American farmers have proven their ability to capitalize on new opportunities and can compete successfully whenever they have the chance to compete. Mr. Nixon said he is determined to see that agriculture has that chance," the ASC committee chairman said.

The White House salute to agriculture not only drew national attention to farming, but also served to concentrate efforts to better American agriculture's competitive position, according to Payne.

President Nixon told the salute to agriculture audience: "It is a rule in a free society that whoever produces more should be compensated for more. The income per capita of those who live on America's farms has gone up in the last 26 years. But in terms of sharing in this increased productivity, those who live on America's farms, those who produce from America's farms, have not had the rewards from increasing productivity that their colleagues who work in American industry have had for their increase in productivity.

"It is that problem that we have been addressing ourselves to. It is that problem in which, of course, we need cooperation among all branches of government, the administration, the Congress, and the farm community to see how we can see that America's farmers receive their fair share of a dramatically increasing productivity."

GERALD WIGNESS, chairman of the business and office education department of the area vocational-technical school has announced that three recently graduated students have accepted jobs with area employers. Left to right they include: Ruby Boroski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boroski of Halma, Thief River clinic; Janet Alnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd T. Alnes of Mahnomen, L. B. Hartz company; and Nadine Aune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juel Aune of Gatzke, Lincoln senior high school.

ROGER WORTH has been elected assistant secretary by the board of directors of Arctic Enterprises, Inc. He joined the company in November, 1970, as legal counsel. He previously was a vice-president of Kiekhaefer Aeromarine. Previously he was divisional counsel for the Kiekhaefer-Mercury division of Brunswick corporation, an outboard marine motor manufacturer.

Farmers Union Summer Camps Open To Youth

Education department of the Minnesota Farmers Union is sponsoring a series of summer camps for Minnesota Farmers Union young people. Anyone interested in attending the camps should contact the local education secretary.

The camp schedule includes a June 6-12 scholarship camp for those who have completed three years of Farmers Union senior youth classes. June 13-19 will see two statewide camps for senior youth. Those who are eighth grade graduates or 14 years old and up may attend camp June 20-26. The camp is at Sibley state park at New London.

A camp for children not yet having graduated from the eighth grade will be held July 14-17 at Lake Sarah in Polk county. A Farmers Union women's camp will be held July 19-23 at the same site. Pre-registration is requested ten days before all camp dates.

Some Employees Not Required To Have Tax Held

Arthur C. Roemer, commissioner of taxation, announced that certain employees are not required to have Minnesota income tax withheld from their wages. These employees, including students working for the summer, retired persons and other part-time workers, may be entitled to exemption from Minnesota income tax withholding due to changes made by the 1971 Legislature.

Employees who qualify are those who had no Minnesota income tax liability last year and anticipate none this year. An employee may claim this exemption by certifying in writing to his employer as to his exemption from Minnesota withholding.

This provision of the Minnesota income tax law is similar to a provision of the federal law, therefore, employees may use the federal withholding exemption certificate, Form W-4E, to claim the exemption for both Minnesota and federal withholding tax. The employee, in completing the federal form for Minnesota, should consider the differences between the federal and Minnesota income tax return filing requirements.

Roemer advised that the 1971 legislature changed the Minnesota individual income tax filing requirements to:

(1) Unmarried and your gross income is in excess of $1,000.

(2) Married and the combined gross income of you and your spouse is in excess of $1,800;

(3) Unmarried and 65 or over or blind and your gross income is in excess of $1,900.

(4) Married and one spouse 65 or over and your combined gross income is in excess of $2,400;

(5) Married and both 65 or over and your combined gross income is in excess of $2,900.

(6) Married and one spouse is blind and your gross income is in excess of $2,500.

(7) Married and both spouses are blind and your combined gross income is in excess of $3,100.

Nelson Sons On Leave Here

Bruce and Brian Nelson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nelson of rural Thief River Falls, are on leave after completing U.S. Navy basic training at the San Diego recruit training center.

After leave, Bruce will report to the fire control technician school at Vallejo, Calif., while Brian will attend one of the aviation specialty training schools at the naval air training command center at Memphis, Tenn. The brothers are 1969 graduates of Warren high school.

Safety Factor Of Studded Tires Refuted By Dep't.

Minnesota highway department today announced that although it is recognized that studded tires produce serious wear on highway surfaces, it is frequently asserted that the added safety they provide warrants their continued use.

In response to this assertion it is felt significant to mention that although certain safety studies have indicated that studded tires are effective to some degree under certain conditions on glare ice, there has been no conclusive study to demonstrate that they are effective under actual overall winter traffic conditions on the highway, either in preventing accidents or reducing the severity of the collision damage.

Only 1.1 per cent of the day miles between November 1 and March 30 were involved with ice conditions as reported by the province of Ontario, whose total mileage of trunk highways and climatic conditions are almost identical to Minnesota.

The one test which most closely approximated highway conditions, the Ontario provincial police test, produced conclusions indicating that continuous use of studded tires in slushy, loose snow as well as wet and dry pavement conditions were in fact less effective than unstudded tires. While it is generally believed that studs may be beneficial on glare ice, it has also been demonstrated by these tests that on bare wet or dry pavements stopping distances are greater for studs than for plain tires.

On April 30, 1971, studded tires became illegal in Ontario. This decision was made by 17 out of 19 ministers of the Provincial Cabinet and was based on the observation that studded tire wear creates extreme safety hazards on the pavement surface.

Pavement wear in some ruts was close to half an inch deep, about half of the maximum wear that could be tolerated before resurfacing; pavement lane lines became obliterated within a short time after studded tire use was permitted; hydroplaning skidding hazards were caused by standing water in the troughs worn by studded tires; water freezing in both tire troughs presented a skid hazard; lurching and side sway took place when automobiles traveling at high speed "left the grooved stud tracks"; motorists straddled the ruts resulting in crowding of adjacent lanes; and the skid-resistant surface finish, though impervious to damage by use of normal rubber tires with salt and sand, chipped away rapidly under the onslaught of tungstencarbide studs. In addition to this there is the added environmental hazard of increased noise caused by use of the studs.

The Ontario highway patrol refused to use studs because of hazardous driving caused with their loss of traction on both wet and dry pavements and the severe skidding that took place on turns when they were in hot pursuit of speeding vehicles. For this same reason of safety hazards the Minnesota state highway patrol has not used studded tires.

12 Per Cent Of Commercial Buses Fail Inspection

During 1970, bureau of motor carrier safety inspectors checked 5,902 buses engaged in interstate transportation of passengers and ordered 12 per cent of them out of service because of hazardous defects.

In a tabulation of the buses inspected, 74 per cent had defects which were to be corrected within 15 days, 14 per cent had no defects, and 12 per cent were taken out of service on the spot.

Of the total vehicles checked, 65 per cent were regularly scheduled carriers and 35 per cent were chartered buses. Overall, the chartered buses had more defects but had fewer ordered out of service for hazardous faults.

The inspections were stepped up during 1970 following a number of severe crashes involving buses in interstate operation. Vehicles were not chosen on a selective basis, but were inspected at terminals, at resort areas, and at various points of interest where chartered buses parked.

Of the buses removed from service, 52 per cent had faulty brakes and 12 per cent had defective exhaust systems. Other significant faults where wheel and tire damage and lighting defects.

In Minnesota, department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said, state inspections are made of passenger cars on a spot basis and all school buses by the highway patrol. In some counties, including Ramsey, inspections are made by the sheriff departments.

Trucks are also inspected by the highway patrol at weigh stations.

Granum's, Inc. Is Dissolved

Grand Forks Surplus Outlet, owned by Granum's, Inc., has liquidated its stock at 502 DeMers avenue in Grand Forks, N.D., and the corporation has been dissolved.

Granum's, Inc., was formed in April of 1952 and dissolved as of May 20 this year. Henry Granum is retiring, Oscar Granum has announced no immediate plans and Gilbert Granum is going into business for himself. The business property has been purchased by the Urban Renewal authority.

"It isn't so astonishing the number of things that I can remember, as the number of things I can remember that aren't so." —Mark Twain

They Remember

In spite of the designation of Memorial Day and the sacrifices made by our nation's men in uniform, who remembers our war dead?

At least two Thief River Falls men have not forgotten, nor have they failed in their self accepted duties to help others remember. Rudy Levorson and Hjalmer Rafteseth have spent several days each year for more than 25 years to decorate the graves of servicemen in Thief River Falls and other area cemeteries.

This year Rudy and Hjalmer visited nearly 30 cemeteries and placed United States flags and poppies on about 400 graves. They began their work early Friday morning and had their route and timing planned to provide for completion of the job by Memorial Day. Their tour took them 12 miles west of St. Hilaire, a number of miles southeast of Thief River Falls and north into Marshall county.

In these days when so much is taken for granted by so many, when the walls of our country are being torn down by those who live under its shelter of freedom, when dissenters ridicule the cause of men who made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields, it is good to know that someone keeps remembering. And their work in remembrance serves as a reminder to all who see the red, white and blue banners waving over the graves of departed comrades.

Not very many people have paused to say thank-you to the two men in the past—not very many at all. And it's not that they expect thanks for their efforts. But after the years of service given, it is time that a community thank-you is in order.

Thank-you, Rudy and Hjalmer, for your labors, for your time, and most of all, for remembering.

Everybody Blames The Grocer

The following editorial appeared recently in the Anoka County Union:

One of the facts of life is that in this age of inflation and ever increasing costs of living, there always has to be a scapegoat, someone to blame for soaring prices of all commodities...Food prices have gone up, but the average shopper doesn't seem to realize that food purchased for consumption in the home actually makes up but a small portion of the weekly bill at your friendly grocery store...Stop and think, some time how much maid service you can buy at the grocery store and what a large part of the grocery dollar is expended for the many convenience foods on the grocery store shelves...These foods range from bakery bread, mixes, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables to instant mashed potatoes and a complete frozen dinner ready to heat and serve..

What the housewife is paying for when she buys these kinds of foods, in addition to the food itself, is the labor, processing and packaging that makes these convenience food items all but ready for the table...Preparation, transfer to the cooking stage, smaller storage space, availability, quality, are some of the features of convenience foods that are demanded by shoppers, but which add to the cost of the items...Research has proved that whether a houswife prepares a complete meal from ready-to-serve foods or uses some partially prepared foods, she's saving herself time and effort...But someone has to pay for this maid service and the only way it can be passed on is to include it in the food price...This could be saved if we want to go back 40 or 50 years to when most food preparation was done in the home, but we don't believe anyone wants to do that...

Incentive Important—

The following editorial appeared recently in the Marshall Messenger:

American industry is being pushed to stop its pollution of the environment, and progress is being made in some areas. Automobile manufacturers, for example, are improving the internal combustion system in cars, trucks and buses. Other industries also are beginning to make some progress also.

The expense involved in pollution abatement has become part of the cost of doing business for these industries. As one of the costs, it is added to the price of finished products, so that the consumer ultimately pays the bill. There probably is no other way the system could work.

But in the field of agricultural pollution, the consumer pays no part of the farmer's additional costs. The cattle feeder with a pollution-free operation receives no more for his beef than a neighbor who may be letting the spring runoff flush his manure from his feedlot.

It is patently unfair. And this situation will do little to encourage farmers to make investments in pollution control structures.

If the American people are truly interested in a rapid cleanup of feedlot pollution they should support a system in which the livestock feeder benefits directly from his pollution control efforts.

One way this "carrot and the stick" philosophy might work is to pay farmers a premium at the marketplace for livestock fed in "approved" feedlots. A half-cent a pound premium certainly would encourage the cattle feeder to invest in a pollution abatement system.

Right now money may not be the main stumbling block for farmers interested in feedlot projects. Jerry Simpson says the Soil Conservation Service doesn't have enough manpower to do the engineering work for a massive, area-wide program.

But private industry may get into the business if the American people insist on faster progress in the field of pollution, and in this case money will become an important key.

At any rate, the incentive method is more compatible with our system and certainly would be more palatable to farmers.

Cabin Fever

Winter confinement is still fresh in the minds of most northern Minnesota residents, and this list of descriptions for cabin fever which has been making the rounds of area newspapers should still be pertinent.

Cabin Fever is talking back at the daytime television programs.

Cabin Fever is greeting your husband each and every nite with the same words: "Let's eat out!"

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

"There are no great men, only great challenges that ordinary men are forced by circumstances to meet."

Those words spoken by Admiral William F. Halsey could very well be applied to members of the Minnesota Legislature.

The regular session that just ended was in many respects a very difficult one, but when you consider everything, I believe it was a good session. More bills were considered by this session than any previous one, and many of the bills that were considered were extremely controversial.

A record number of people attended committee hearings, and I believe the correspondence that was received during this session was far greater than any other session.

Of course, the major shortcoming of this session was the inability to agree on a tax bill and that is why we are now in a special session.

The governor called the legislature into special session on Tuesday for the purpose of reaching an agreement on taxes for the coming biennium. There are three major tax proposals before the legislature for its consideration. The governor's plan, the House version, and the Value Added Tax that is authored by Senator Blatz.

The governor's plan has been quite well explained in the media during recent months and I believe is quite well understood by most people.

The tax package that was passed by the House is what you might consider a conventional tax package with across the board increases in the income tax, a 1 per cent increase in the sales tax, increases in the corporate income tax rate, as well as increases in the beer and liquor and cigarette taxes. Gross earnings taxes were also increased as were the bank excise tax, insurance gross premiums and the taconite occupation tax. This plan comes about as close to achieving a real balance for the whole economy by spreading the increase over all business, corporate income, as well as individual income.

The Value Added Tax that is proposed by Senator Blatz is an entirely new concept and very few people understand the full impact of this tax on our economy. The Value Added Tax is levied at every stage of production, and that includes services—unless there is some provision in the bill that has escaped us which would exclude services such as doctors, lawyers, advertising, shoe repairing. In theory, the consumer should pay the total tax collected at all stages.

You see, every time some firm pays a tax, whether it be a plant, or a lawyer, or a doctor, or a shoemaker, or a retail store it has to add the cost of the tax to the costs it passes on to the consumer.

The Value Added Tax seems to have approval from Governor Anderson, who is on record in opposition to a 1 per cent hike in the sales tax. Of course, let's not kid ourselves, the Value Added Tax is a statewide sales tax—and it covers more than the present sales tax.

The Tax Committee of the House and Senate will hold extensive hearings on all three major tax proposals, and hopefully we will be able to work out a tax package that will be agreeable to everyone concerned in the very near future.

While we are in special session principally to pass a tax law, I believe that we should also concern ourselves with legislative reapportionment. If we are going to reapportion, we should be doing it during this special session. The reapportionment committee could just as well be working on it while the tax committees are working on tax bills. The House did pass a legislative reapportionment bill during the regular session, and the Senate is working on a reapportionment plan of their own. The leaders of the Senate and the House will determine what legislation will be considered during this session, and I understand it is the plan at this time to limit the consideration to tax appropriation and bills that passed both houses during the regular session and were in conference committee.

I also feel that legislative reapportionment should be added to this list so there would be no need for a special session later on to consider this problem.

Fur trading is Minnesota's oldest industry, and one of the oldest remnants of white civilization in Minnesota is the Connor fur trading post near Pine City.

Built in 1804 by Thomas Connor and a crew of two voyageurs, the post burned down after a year of good business and was nearly forgotten by the historians until 1964.

That summer a farmer named Joe Neubauer was cultivating his fields near Pine City when he turned up the remains of what appeared to be an extremely old building. Being an amateur archaeologist, he promptly reported the find to the Minnesota Historical society which, after seven summers of hard labor, has restored the old post in minute detail.

The large building is composed of six rooms, the most important being the store where Indians traded furs, wild game, rice and maple sugar in exchange for blankets, beads, kettles and other items.

Two rooms served as living quarters for Connor and his Chippewa wife. A workroom, a storeroom and living quarters for voyageurs completed the post, which is surrounded by a log stockade with bastions on the corners.

When visiting the post, it is easy to imagine that you have stepped into the past. Stroll along the bank of the Snake river and envision its occupants putting out fish nets or repairing birch bark canoes. Tour the rooms and picture the voyageurs warming themselves at the fireplaces on a cold winter evening more than 167 years ago.

To make the picture complete, the historians working at the post are costumed in authentic voyageur clothing and re-create for you the activities which transpired at the post in 1804.

The post is open daily except Mondays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through September. In October, it will be open from 1-6 p.m. on weekends. A small admission fee is charged and group tours may be arranged through the historical society (612-726-1171.)

The post is one of the state's newest attractions and this summer is the best time to see it.

notes from the governor

It long has been my conviction that nothing destroys the people's faith in their government as quickly as the belief, or even the suspicion, that a public official has placed his personal interest ahead of theirs.

It was for that reason that I urged the 1971 Legislature, in a special message, to undertake a series of reform in the area of ethics in government.

It is now demonstrably clear that the Republican-oriented House and Senate does not share the concerns held by myself and many others in the Minnesota DFL.

The 1971 casualty list of ethics in government and legislative reform proposals is a long one.

The casualties included party designation of legislative candidates, a code of ethics that [illegible] financial disclosure, a statutory code of ethics for officials in all three branches of government, a reduction in the size of the legislature, tougher controls on activities of lobbyists and disclosure of their financial expenditures.

On the plus side, it appears that a constitutional amendment providing for flexible, annual legislative sessions will be placed on the 1972 general election ballot.

In sum, the legislature's record in the ethics and legislative reform field was a sorry one in 1971.

And this at a time when the need to restore the people's faith in their democratic institutions is urgent.

The need will still be there in 1973. Let us all hope that the next legislature meets the challenge.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Editor,

As members of this year's sophomore class, we would like to express our views on the matter of moving the freshmen into Lincoln next year.

This year is our Diamond Jubilee, which signifies the progress of Thief River Falls. However, overcrowding our schools and thereby depriving children of a better education, is definitely not progress!

As a result of this overcrowding, certain classes will be dropped from the curriculum and valuable resource centers will be lost to us. In addition, it is probable that there will be a return to traditional scheduling.

Although this may not appear to be such a serious matter, in reality, it is quite serious.

Burdening the teachers in such a manner reduces the time they have to spend with students. Getting to know and understand these students so that they may be dealt with as individuals is a major factor in education.

Also, a large sum of money has been spent to place our high schools on the modular system so that our education processes might be improved. Doing away with the mod system would be a great waste of money.

As it stands now, all available space is being put to use. Even old Washington, which has been condemned, still provides valuable classroom space. Where will we find locker and classroom space for 300 more students? Does it sound reasonable to turn a principal's office into a classroom? Or to divide one room into four?

We sincerely hope that the school board will think seriously before rushing into a hasty decision which we will all later regret.

P.S. If a signature is necessary when publishing this letter, could you please sign it with "Concerned Members of the Student Body"? Thank you.

Happy Acres

May meeting of the Happy Acres 4-H club was called to order May 11 by vice president Nancy Finstad. Flag and 4-H pledges were said.

First on the agenda was a thank you note from Theresa Schindler for a rose while she was ill. A committee was set up to write thank you notes to the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Nordhagen for their help during our pick up day.

Old business included a leader's council report. Lynn Finstad was a winner of the citizenship shortcourse trip to Washington, D. C. Names of the camp councilors for Lake Sarah next summer were announced.

New business included a discussion of 4-H Sunday. Nothing was decided.

Members were reminded to help clean up the hall sometime in June and to start working on fair demonstrations.

Next month's meeting is to be held at the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge. Shelly Langlie, Karin Kruschke and JoAnn Johnson are to find drivers.

A meeting to work on projects was discussed and was to be held sometime in the future.

A basket social followed the meeting.

Steiner

Steiner 4-H met at Steiner hall on May 11. Roll call was taken and flag pledges were given. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Special business included the presentation of Rural Life Sunday on May 16, and a ball game will follow. Dairy Day will be held June 8. Mrs. T. Stark was presented with a bouquet of long stem roses as a token of the club members' appreciation for her work directing the 4-H play.

The program included songs sung by the members. Connie Hillyer gave her talk on her 4-H trip to Washington, D. C. Terry Lubitz gave a demonstration on food. Cheryl Olsan gave a demonstration on gardening followed by Kathy Hillyer who gave her demonstration on soil conservation.

Lunch was served by the Raymond Rausch and Dennis Pederson families.

Kathy Muzzy, reporter

Silverton

Silverton 4-H met at the town hall on May 6. The meeting was called to order by Daryl Myers. Flag pledges were said, followed by roll call. The secretary's report was read by JoDee Nelson and treasurer's report was given by Linnae Hanson. New business was the conservation camp and dairy day.

Melodee Rupprecht was in charge of the program. Songs were sung by the 4-H members. Linnae Hanson gave a demonstration on making pop-overs using a blender. Ricky Peterson read a poem on pollution. A poem entitled "On The Month of May" was read by [illegible] Helt gave a project report on a beef steer and Mrs. Silas Hanson talked on a fire safety project. The group voted in favor of this.

Lunch was served by the Donald Rupprecht family.

Movie

On May 12, the meeting was held at the Grand Plain town hall. Sherry Nelson, acting president, called the meeting to order. Flag pledges were given. Roll call was given by naming favorite flower. Secretary's report was given by Mike Philipp and accepted. No treasurer's report was available.

Tool kits were discussed; the order has been delayed, but should arrive soon. Leaders will decide on the time to plant the flower bed and call members to help. The trip to Morden was discussed and it was decided expenses could get too costly so the trip was canceled. Meeting was adjourned.

Demonstration was given by Scott Nelson on "How to Make a Light Bulb". Mike Philipp had several contests on identifying vegetable seeds, finding hidden things used in gardening, and finding hidden vegetables in sentences. Games were played and lunch served.

Admission Limit Cuts Enrollment At University

University of Minnesota has set undergraduate admission limits for this fall which will result in enrollments in the various colleges either equal to or lower than their enrollments last fall.

The limits were set following an analysis of "the effect of projected budget limitations on undergraduate enrollments," according to a statement issued by Theodore Kellogg, director of admission and records.

The statement went on to say that the office of admissions has again begun to notify applicants whether or not they have been accepted, after a two-week hold on such actions pending the analysis of legislative budget cuts in certain areas.

Applications for the college of liberal arts (CLA) and most other colleges "will continue to be accepted until target enrollments are forecast on the basis of applications on hand," said the statement.

It noted, however, that no more applications will be accepted for the college of home economics at the freshman level, and that the college of education will continue an earlier policy not to accept fall-quarter applications in certain fields. (These are elementary education, and secondary-education majors in English, language arts, modern languages, speech, social studies and math.)

Some home economics freshmen whose applications are in process will be put in a "pending" category and admitted if space becomes available.

"As necessary," the statement said, "enrollments will be reduced both through applying more stringent academic standards for continuation to students new in school, and by reducing the number of new admissions." The latter will be emphasized.

Enrollment in CLA will be reduced by 500 from last year (when 17,254 were registered, or more than one-third of all university students).

Was MiSCCA Theme Together We Walk

"Together We Walk," was the theme of the annual meeting of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, (MiSCCA). It paid tribute to United Funds for 10 years of cooperation and progress.

"The joining of MiSCCA and the United way is one of the most successful mergers," said Allan W. Moore, Minneapolis area United Fund past president, when he addressed the recent event.

The following highlights just some of the major progress during the last ten years:

—Camp Courage, Minnesota's only residential camp for the physically handicapped, blind and children with speech and hearing handicaps, at Maple Lake, provided outdoor experiences for 815 handicapped children and adults. In 1960, there were 460 campers, and no provision for training children with speech and hearing handicaps existed.

—Expanded programs in the nine rehabilitation centers and sheltered workshops which are MiSCCA affiliates served 6,188 persons in 1970, over twice as many as ten years ago when there were seven affiliates.

—Day camps in 13 communities servired 395 youngsters, compared with only 12 at the one camp in 1960. Instructional swim programs in five communities served 104 children, compared with 42 in 1960.

—Curative workshop, which merged with MiSCCA in 1968, provided comprehensive therapy programs for 735 persons, including 30 pupils in its pre-school program and four children who are both deaf and blind. Consultant work was begun on a pilot basis with 13 day activity centers for the retarded.

—Minnesota Homecrafters, merged with MiSCCA in December, 1969, reorganized to train more persons, set up an additional office in Fergus Falls, and increased sales of merchandise from homebound clients by 65 per cent.

—A pilot program is expanding craft training and merchandising for the aging who live at home or in nursing homes.

—Equipment loan was revised to individualize loan of such items as wheelchairs, walkers and hydraulic lifts to assist 1,075 handicapped Minnesotans to function in their maximum capacity.

—In another program to expand the horizons of the severely handicapped, Handi-Ham System of Minnesota, Inc., became a MiSCCA affiliate, holding two training sessions in amateur radio operation at Camp Courage.

—Special grants totaling $16,522 were made to affiliates for a recreation program at the Cedar Valley rehabilitation workshop, Austin; medical consultation for the rehabilitation center and workshop of St. Paul; land for a new workshop building for West Central Industries, Willmar, and an incentive grant to begin operation of opportunity training center in St. Cloud. MiSCCA also assumed partial support of the Minnesota Wheelchair Sportsmen's club, helping to form a new interstate conference for wheelchair basketball.

—More than $156,000 worth of contracts were awarded to Minnesota sheltered workshops through the contract procurement service, begun in 1968.

—Minnesota expanded its nationwide leadership in amending local building codes to eliminate architectural barriers which limit the mobility of the handicapped and elderly.

—A special committee began extensive study on areas of greatest need in the next decade and how they can best be met. One early indication points to eventual establishment of a satellite of Camp Courage in northern Minnesota to better serve campers from the Iron Range and Red River Valley areas.

United Funds provide over one-half of MiSCCA's operating budget. Only in non-United Fund areas MiSCCA volunteers carry on a crippled children's appeal. MiSCCA is not a part of the Easter Seal society.

Copies of the complete ten-year report are available upon request from MiSCCA, 2004 Lyndale So., Mpls., 55405.

Driver License Laws To Change On January 1st

Three amendments to the driver license laws just passed by the Legislature will go into effect next January 1, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today. These are: Visual test for all drivers upon renewal of the driver license, color photos on all new and renewed licenses, and color photo identification cards for those who do not now have or do not physically qualify for a driver license.

Examination upon renewal is one of the federal highway safety standards the state has not been able to meet until this time. Under the new law, renewal of the driver license by mail will be out—drivers will have to come to the examining stations for their eye test. Those who prefer can have their eyes examined by their own doctor and submit his report in lieu of the state test.

All tests for those renewing will be the same as those new administered to new applicants. Driver examiners will use the telebinocular, which tests for distant vision, depth perception and color blindness. "We estimate, from experience in other states, that at least 80 per cent of those whose eyes do not measure up can have them satisfactorily corrected with spectacles," Hoaglund said.

Also starting next January 1, color photos will be taken of all applicants for initial and renewal licenses. The photos will be taken at all of the examining stations in the state. The film will then be mailed to St. Paul where it will be processed, made a part of a tamper-proof, embossed, plasticized card, and mailed directly to the applicant. Color photos will also be taken for those who do not have a driver license, but have need for an identification card.

Another major change has been approved which will establish a classified driver license. In effect, this will be a license issued to an individual for the type of vehicle he drives. There will be three classes: (C) for those who drive automobiles and light vehicles; (B) for larger trucks and buses; and (A) which is unlimited for all sizes of vehicle. When this license goes into effect sometime during 1972, chauffeur licenses will be discontinued and school bus drivers will have an endorsement to their classified driver license.

Senior Citizens Meet At Roseau

More than 500 people attended the fourth annual senior citizen festival held in the Roseau high school auditorium last Saturday, including senior citizens from Florida, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, and North Dakota.

More than 70 people in the over-80 age group were registered, and at least four people 90 years of age or more attended.

Arrangements for the festival were directed by Northwest Community Action through senior citizen centers located at Badger, Baudette, Greenbush, Grygla, Hallock, Karlstad, Lake Bronson, Lancaster, Middle River, Roseau, and Williams.

The Roseau high school band provided music during the morning, with bingo and card games also being featured. Lunch was served by the Wannaska church group. A. J. Kramer of Roseau served as master of ceremonies of the afternoon program, which featured a number of musical offerings.

Special awards were given to Mr and Mrs Philip Von Wald of Grygla, who have been married 63 years and to Mrs. William Zavoral of Grygla for having the most grandchildren, a total of 44. Mrs. Elizabeth Lusignan of Greenbush won the special award for the person having the most number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She has 64

Referendum On Wool And Lambs Slated June 7-18

Ballots for voting in the June 7-18 referendum on extending the wool and lamb market promotion program are being mailed to all known wool producers in Marshall county according to Marcel Dohl, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) committee.

The vote will determine whether producers will continue their support for the wool sales promotion program, but it will not affect present wool payment legislation.

Under the new agreement, the U.S. department of agriculture and the American Sheep Producers council (ASPC) would set up payment deductions of up to one and one-half cents a pound on wool marketed during 1971-73 and seven and one-half cents a hundredweight on the unshorn lambs marketed. Funds collected would be used by the ASPC to continue a program of advertising, sales promotion and related activities for wool and lamb.

Similar agreement was approved by 79.9 per cent of the wool producers voting in a 1966 referendum.

Anyone who has owned sheep, six months old or older, for 30 consecutive days during 1970, may vote in the two-week referendum.

Approval of two-thirds of the total number of producers voting nationally, or of producers having two-thirds of the total volume of wool production represented in the referendum, must be obtained before the agreement can go into effect.

Ballots may be mailed or brought to the Marshall county ASCS office beginning June 7. Anyone who believes he's eligible to vote but has not received a ballot by June 5, should get in touch with the county ASCS office. To be counted, ballots must reach the county ASCS office before close of business Friday, June 18.

Ready Car For Summer Travel, Expert Advises

"Prudent motorists have their cars checked every fall in preparation for winter driving, but few realize that a spring check may be just as important, Minnesota Department of Public Safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

"We all don't realize how much Minnesota winters take out of a car, especially in the areas of lubrication, battery and cables, tires and alignment, and cooling system.

The winter's slush, salt and dirt are tough on joints and moving parts. They should be checked out in the spring. Also, your automatic transmission should be topped off with clean fluid.

Batteries also take a beating during the cold months, with the below-freezing temperatures and inconvenience of tending to them outside or in a cold garage. Now's the time to check the cables and clean the corrosion off the terminals.

The tires that saw you through the winter may not carry you at high speeds during the summer. This also is the time to check steering alignment. It could be off from winter ruts, spring breakup chuckholes and other hard knocks that come with winter driving.

If you got through the winter with a tight, top performing cooling system—good. But don't depend on a full summer of good operation too. The system should be flushed now as well as in the fall, and fill with anti-freeze for summer driving. It will pay off in better cooling.

Other things should be included in the check, too—such as brakes, shock absorbers, positive crankcase ventilation, carburetor, ignition system, windshield wipers and muffler.

"A breakdown during the winter is inconvenient because of the weather, but a summer breakdown could catch you on a vacation trip hundreds of miles from home."

Margaret Wurst Graduates From St. Catherine's

Margaret Wurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wurst of Thief River Falls, was among 286 seniors graduating from the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul last Sunday. She received a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale was the main commencement speaker. The graduation ceremony was held, for the first time, in the O'Shaughnessy auditorium of the college's new fine arts center.

Ag Commissioner Asks Inspection Of Insecticides

Reporting no serious current insect problems in Minnesota, according to latest surveys by the Minnesota department of agriculture and cooperating agencies, Commissioner Jon Wefald today urged consumers to closely inspect carryover pesticide stocks for illegal items.

"If you have pesticides purchased prior to July 1, 1970, these may contain one or more of the chemicals virtually banned for home and garden use because of hazard to the environment. It is illegal to use seven specific pesticides with a permit," he warned.

Commissioner Wefald also warned Minnesotans currently starting the seasonal war against fruit insect and disease problems that improper use of even approved pesticides may do more harm than good. He said improper pesticide applications to fruits may destroy bees required for pollination, or contaminate the fruit.

Principal current problems are apple scab, cedar-apple rust, plum curculio, codling moth and apple maggot on fruit trees, mites in strawberries, and an indicated heavy infestation of wood ticks that are a nuisance to humans, pets and livestock.

A lower than usual infestation of mosquitoes is indicated at this time, due to low temperatures and moisture supplies deterring significantly large hatches of the small but potent stingers.

Commissioner Wefald reminded municipalities and other local governmental pest control agencies that all 1971 control programs must be submitted to his office for legal authorization.

He urged all pesticide users to "read the label and completely follow all of the instructions and warnings. Any departure from these instructions may be harmful to you, the plant you are trying to protect, and to the ecology."

The seven restricted pesticides and the chemical names to look for on the labels are:

"Dichloro diphenyl trichloroethane, or trichloro-bis-(4-chlorophenyl) ethane, DDT;

"Dichloro diphenyl dichloroethane, or 2,2 bis-(p-chlorophenyl 1, 1-dichloroethane,

DDD, or TDE;

"Dieldrin, or hexachloroepoxyoctahydro-endo, exo-dimethane-naphthalene and containing HEOD as a principal constituent;

"Endrin, or hexachloroepoxyoctahydro-endo, endo-dimethano-naphthalene

"Hepatachlor, or 1,4,5,6,7,8 8a-heptachloro-3a,4,7,7a tetrahydro-4,7-endo-methanolndane

"Lindane, or at least 99 per cent of the gamma isomer of benzene hexachloride.

"Aldrin, or HHDN, or hexachlorohexahydro-endo, exo-dimethanona-phthalene."

Public Relations Account Given To Duluth Firm

J.F.P. & Associates, Inc., Duluth advertising and public relations agency, has been awarded the public relations account for the Minnesota department of economic development, Acting Commissioner Thomas T. Feeney has announced.

Feeney said the contract with J.F.P. & Associates is in line with a suggestion by Gov. Wendell Anderson that state publicity accounts be awarded to Minnesota agencies. In the past, a New York agency has handled the public relations for the department.

J.F.P. & Associates will develop and execute a public relations program which will promote tourism and industrial development on a statewide and national basis.

"There are many advantages to having an agency from within the state do the job. The account will be handled by people who know the state, understand our people and have the pride and determination to make it move ahead economically," Feeney said.

J.F.P. & Associates will share the job of promoting the state with Chuck Ruhr Associates Advertising, Inc., Minneapolis advertising agency. Ruhr has been awarded the department's advertising account. The total public relations, advertising and promotion budget for the department of economic development is in excess of $400,000 annually.

The two agencies will carry out a program to create a favorable image for the state, its people, natural resources, tourist and vacation attractions, and its business, industrial and cultural opportunities.

The state will be given national publicity on television, radio, newspapers, magazines and periodicals. Brochures and other mailing pieces will be developed.

Presentations will be made, with the aid of department officials, to executives, trade associations, editorial and writers' associations and other groups where great interest can be developed in promotion of the state's economic, physical and cultural attractions.

Writers, editors and photographers will be encouraged to visit the state and aid in the preparation of articles and photographs.

Slow down and live.

Good Wheat Market Prospect In Europe

Quality of American-grown wheat and American 'competitiveness in the marketplace are major factors in the near-record U.S. wheat sales to Europe this marketing year.

So states Alvin Payne, Minnesota farm program official, after reviewing a report by Carroll G. Brunthaver, U.S. department of agriculture official who recently headed a five-man wheat team on a two-week European trip to review export market conditions and look at wheat trade prospects for next year.

The team found that Western Europe is expected to import about 160 million bushels of U.S. wheat during the marketing year which ends June 30—more than twice the average of the preceding five years and close to a record level.

Western Europe's wheat intake will account for about one-third of the total commercial exports of U.S. wheat for the 1971 marketing year, Payne said.

Prospects for the next marketing year also are bright even though the total European wheat imports, including shipments from the United States, likely will be somewhat less than the current season.

Next year's wheat shipments to Europe cannot be expected to top this year's, since indications are for an increased European crop. "Even so, our European wheat trade is expected to be well above the average of recent years." Payne said.

He also said that the wheat trade team reported a continued and fairly stable demand for high-quality wheats such as U.S. hard red winter and hard red spring can be expected. European processors need high-quality imports to blend with local European wheats in order to produce satisfactory bakery flours.

Payne, who is chairman of the Minnesota agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) committee, said, "I made special note that Mr. Brunthaver and his team emphasized that to keep and expand this big European market, American wheat must keep a competitive position in the world market. High-quality wheat can be bought elsewhere—from Australia, for instance. And Russia has been offering more and more wheat for sale. Canadian wheat prices have had a series of price reductions recently.

"So we have a lot of competition. But our wheat offerings compare advantageously, both in quality and quantity. Brunthaver's team reported that European buyers and users are generally satisfied that values of U.S. wheats in the European market have been responsive to changes in world market conditions and yet have generally succeeded in maintaining the necessary relationship with competing wheat to assure a stable or somewhat growing U.S. share of the market," Payne added.

The wheat team was jointly sponsored by the U.S. department of agriculture and Great Plains Wheat, Inc. They encountered numerous views and discussions concerning the effects of European variable import levy systems and met briefly on these and other [illegible] government officials at appropriate points during their tour.

The team found a widely-held view that in addition to the basic effect which the levy systems have upon the relationship between local European wheat and wheat from overseas sources, Europe's levy systems may also at times have an effect upon the competitive relationship between imported wheats which could tend to negate a price or other merchandising advantage. The team reported that their contacts had been virtually unanimous in suggesting that the U.S. therefore maintain close study of the operation of the various levy systems.

Student Social Security Rules Are Announced

Students between 18 and 22 who get monthly social security [illegible] if they do not plan to return to school this fall. Students who expect to earn over $1,680 this year must also stop their benefits according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security.

Students who return to school within four months may continue to get their benefits over the summer months. It is the student who does not plan to return to school within four months who needs to give notice.

Anyone expecting to earn over $1,680 should given an estimate of this year's earnings.

A student beneficiary who marries must notify of the date of his marriage. Student benefits are not payable starting with the month of marriage.

Those needing to stop their payments may give notice by telephoning the Grand Forks social security office. Anyone on the Crookston or Thief River Falls exchange may telephone the social security office toll free by dialing the operator and asking for Zenith 8450. Those preferring to send their stop-payment cards to the Grand Forks office by mail may do so.

Living Learning Center At U of M Assists Students

by Joan Friedman
University News Service

"We see ourselves as a launching pad for experimental education projects."

Jeffrey Johnson was describing the living learning center (LLC), a part of university college at the University of Minnesota. "The center helps students plan and carry out off-campus living-learning projects," says Johnson, who is LLC program director.

The LLC, which began in fall of 1969, is headquartered in a large, airy room with a fireplace and an exposed-beam ceiling in the university YMCA building near the Twin Cities campus. Colored flags hang from the ceiling, the furniture is painted in bright colors, and two doves coo in the middle of the room. They were a gift from the staff to Tom Walz, director of the center.

[illegible] projects that require considerable amounts of off-campus study and experience. Its goal is to merge traditional classroom learning with more experiential (or experience-derived) types of learning.

"Projects are developed by individual students or groups of students, individual faculty members or groups. Community people can also suggest and participate in programs," Johnson said in a recent interview.

The center's programs have involved students in community live-in projects, travel projects, curriculum research and development, special community service, and exchange programs with other colleges and universities.

Honduras, Guatemala

During spring-quarter break, Director Walz and 25 students were in Washington, D.C., studying the politics of social welfare.

Living-Learning

Winter quarter found students in Honduras conducting a survey of prisons, welfare organizations and universities. Others were investigating international communications. Students were also working on projects in Guatemala and Mexico. Most pay all their own expenses for such travels, while a few obtain loans from the office of student financial aid.

"All the students had to develop their own curriculums, all are receiving credit for their work," said Johnson. Arranging for credit takes up much of the staff's time, since all credits for the projects are obtained through negotiation and consultation with the appropriate departments and instructors at the university.

"We hope we can improve the credit mechanism," said Johnson, "That would enable us to have more time to advise students."

Students engage in a wide variety of service-oriented projects. This quarter they are working on the model cities project, in urban education and in head start, for preschool children.

Half-Way Houses

They are tutoring Mexican-American families in their homes, from first-grade level through adult education, and they are working on a community workshop helping VISTA set up art programs for children, high school students and adults.

Other projects include creating workshops for the aged, working in half-way houses for reformatory parolees, and initiating and coordinating programs in teen drop-in centers and community recreation centers.

One student is a high school special projects coordinator developing after-school projects for students. Another is working as a recreation director for mentally and emotionally disturbed adults. And another is a student ombudsman in a Minneapolis inner-city high school, his job is to act a liaison between the student government and the faculty.

One of the most ambitious programs of all may be the school without walls, a free school for junior and senior high school truants, dropouts and others who cannot bear classrooms. Students from the living-learning center work on a one-to-one basis in an attempt to help the students develop their own curriculum and a chance for academic and social success.

Involvement, Not TV Lectures

"The living-learning center offers students something different from large classes and television lectures," Johnson said. "Students need to feel competent, and too often the traditional class fills them with words and concepts that they only vaguely understand. They have no experience to relate those words to."

"The center tries to give them that experience—and integrate it with the conceptual basis of higher education," said Walz.

This year 450 to 500 students are involved in LLC-related projects; most are liberal arts freshmen and seniors. "We get the freshmen because they are more open and questioning," said Johnson. "They are not entrenched in a major and are still looking around for options.

"The seniors want to do one fun thing before they graduate."

"We tend to get the brighter students and the more alienated students—the ones who want something more than the traditional university classes," he added.

"We wanted the center to be small and serve no more than a couple of hundred students each year," said Johnson, "but the demand has been exceedingly great and it is difficult to say no."

The plan is that as student involvement grows, individual university departments and colleges will create their own living-learning centers.

"If we do our job well," said Johnson, "we'll be out of a job."

Army Is Largest US Institution For Education

If asked to name the largest educational institution in the world, many people might select the University of California with its many branches, or possibly one of the larger state universities throughout the country.

According to army Recruiting Sergeant Ron Anderson in Thief River Falls, however, the U.S. army today ranks as the largest educational institution in the world.

In addition to the students completing army service schools throughout the country, there are thousands of army men and women who further their education through other army programs. For example, the U.S. Armed Forces Institute (USAFI), which allows students to gain high school and college credits through correspondence courses; army education centers located at military installations which allow students to attend high school and college classes at army expense; a tuition allowance program which allows military personnel to attend classes at civilian colleges and universities, with 75 per cent of the educational costs paid for by the army, and many other programs which allow military personnel to continue their education while in the service.

Another educational benefit allows individuals completing their military service to attend school while receiving financial assistance under the provisions of the GI bill.

The high cost of education today often stops many qualified young men and women from continuing in the field of their choice. For more information on how the army can help individuals continue their education, contact Army Recruiting Sergeant Ronald Anderson at 109 East 2nd Street in Thief River Falls, or call him (collect) at 681-1154.

FRUGAL AND FRENCH—Coq au Vin, the internationally-loved French chicken with wine dish, self bastes in its own sauce in new Cooking Magic Bag preparation method.

A new, no clean up method for cooking a famous old French recipe—and hundreds of other dishes—is available now to American cooks. The following recipe for Coq au Vin, France's savory chicken with wine, uses Cooking Magic Bags, the new nylon bags for roasting, boiling, freezing and reheating all kinds of foods.

Available in three sizes, Cooking Magic Bags allow meats and vegetables to self-baste right in the bag for greater tenderness—with no pan or oven to clean. The main dish, classic and economical, is a complete meal served with just salad, bread and wine.

Coq au Vin

[illegible] chicken quartered
Flour
12 small white onions, peeled
6 slices bacon, diced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf
½ lb. small whole mushrooms
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup dry red wine
¼ cup brandy

Preheat oven to 350°F. Dredge chicken pieces with flour. Place chicken in a 12 x 18" Cooking Magic Bag. Place bag in a large baking pan. Add remaining ingredients. Secure end of bag with twister tie; puncture three small holes in top of bag. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 1½ hours. 4 servings.

Changes Made In Fairgrounds For Minnesota Fair

A soaring new entryway at the fairgrounds' main gate will welcome visitors to the 1971 Minnesota State Fair, August 28 through September 6.

The gate will provide six [illegible] and will facilitate traffic control, provide shelter for personnel and support a sign. It is the first permanent gate at East Commonwealth and Snelling avenues, considered the front door of the exposition and the largest in volume and size at the fairgrounds.

Just inside the gateway is the impressive new creative activities building. Another major fair improvement, the structure was built on the site of the old home activities building, which came into existence in 1904. Successively called the manufacturer's building, women's building and home activities building, it finally was razed after the 1970 state fair. The home activities department now will be known as the creative activities department.

Another addition is the administration park band shelter. Uniquely designed, the structure is 46 feet high at the peak of its 6,400-square-feet roof. The stage is 56x24 feet, fronting dressing rooms and public restrooms. The open-air pavilion was built to accommodate a host of musical talent presented free of charge daily during fair week.

Another major construction project is the extensive landscaping being done in the area formerly known as conservation park. In conjunction with a change by the state of Minnesota, the fair's complex will now be known as the department of natural resources.

In addition, fair-goers looking for something new will find a Chinese welcome arch in machinery park. Presented to the fair by the Minneapolis Aquatennial association and the Chinese-American community, the arch will stand at the entrance to the park across Cosgrove street from the 4-H building.

VFW Convention Is Next Month At Bemidji

More than 3,000 delegates are expected to attend the Veterans of Foreign Wars state convention to be held in Bemidji June 16-19, according to Chet Oman, public relations chairman for the convention committee.

Highlights will include a visit to the convention by H. R. Rainwater, VFW national commander, and Mary Cottone, national auxiliary president. Minnesota Governor Wendell Anderson will address the convention at 10:30 a.m. June 17.

Other events will include a memorial service and the "Pageant of the Drums" and giant street parade Saturday, June 19. About 300 units will participate in the parade.

Teachers Retire At Newfolden

Etsine Roering and Emma Haagenson, instructors in the Marshall County Central school in Newfolden, are retiring this spring after a combined total of 68 years of teaching.

Mrs. Haagenson has spent her 30 years as instructor in schools in Marshall county, 15 of them in the Newfolden elementary school. Mrs. Roering has taught 27 of her 38 years in the Newfolden system, several of which she has also been elementary school principal.

The Marshall County Central Education association, at the annual spring banquet, honored these women. Gifts were awarded by the president, Richard Erickson, and a short program was presented.

Authorities Warn Against Imported Candy Love Beads

State and federal authorities today sharpened warnings to candy dealers and parents in Minnesota after a crash inspection program Thursday confirmed wide distribution of poisonous imported "Candy Love Beads" throughout Minnesota.

Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald, spokesman for the Minnesota department of agriculture and federal food and drug administration (FDA) inspection team, warned that the poisoned candy has been widely sold in several hundred—possibly several thousand—Minnesota retail stores.

"What makes it particularly dangerous is that it is a popular 10-cent item that appeals to youngsters and to parents who want to 'bring something home for the kids,' because it is candy, low cost, or themed for the 'now generation'," Commissioner Wefald said.

Regional FDA Assistant Director Henry Roberts said analysis of the edible medallion attached to the "Candy Love (or Luv) Beads" revealed a poisonous cadmium content of 1,000 parts per million, an amount capable of causing serious illness.

Fifteen children in other states stricken by the deadly candy suffered varying symptoms, ranging from severe stomach ache to actual unconsciousness within an hour after eating the medallion.

Commissioner Wefald said dealer compliance with the immediate removal order has been excellent, but warned that the problem is far from solved.

Chain and system operations like Woolworths, Ben Franklin, Snyder Drug and others immediately removed the poisonous candy products from their shelves when the initial recall was issued on May 7 by the New Jersey importer and the FDA.

The recall is not so simple in the thousands of independent retail stores that sell candy, including neighborhood grocery stores, service stations, taverns, and others, Commissioner Wefald pointed out. Individual jobbers each distribute to upwards of 1,000 such accounts.

Inspectors on Thursday found stocks of the candy item in stores throughout the metropolitan area, Stillwater, Willmar, Alexandria, Montevideo and Rochester.

Alerted by a broadcast warning, a Richfield housewife actually snatched the poisonous beads out of the mouths of two of her children, called and later turned the beads over to state inspectors.

Commissioner Wefald urged parents to inventory home candy stocks for the beads, which they may have purchased anytime during the past 18 months the product has been distributed in the United States.

"Destroy any candy love beads you find that were made in Hong Kong and bear the label identifying the Ce De Candy Co. of Union, New Jersey or Ritz Plastics Co. of Hong Kong, or unlabeled open candy bead necklaces that have an edible candy medallion measuring approximately one and a half inches in diameter and a quarter inch thick, bearing a 'mod slogan,'" Commissioner Wefald urged.

No reports have reached the Minnesota Department of Agriculture confirming any cases of child illness or serious injury attributable to the poisonous candy. However, Commissioner Wefald noted his is primarily an enforcement and consumer protection agency, and that unusual illness problems normally are reported by local health authorities to the Minnesota Department of Health.

Engineer Corps Will Regulate Waste Discharge

Colonel Charles I. McGinnis, St. Paul district engineer, announced today that the district is inaugurating a program to regulate the discharge of wastes into navigable waters and their tributaries.

"Applications," Colonel McGinnis said, "for waste discharges already taking place must be filed by July 1, 1971." "In addition, after Nov. 1, 1971, applications to initiate new discharges into navigable waters or their tributaries must be filed 120 days before the discharges are scheduled to commence," Colonel McGinnis added.

This week over 700 potential dischargers, mostly in Minnesota, will be receiving instructions on how to apply for a permit. It is not known how many firms will eventually be affected. Discharges from municipal [illegible] included in the program.

The permit undertaking marks the start of a coordinated program of water quality enforcement under the refuse act of 1899. The "refuse act", which is Section 13 of the rivers and harbors act of 1899, prohibits discharges, except from public streets and sewers in liquid form, into any navigable waters of the United States or their tributaries without a permit issued by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The new regulations, which were published on April 7, 1971, in the "Federal Register", were drawn up in coordination with the environmental protection agency, the council on environmental quality, the departments of the interior, commerce and justice.

Applications for discharge permits will be reviewed by state authorities and the U.S. environmental protection agency, and these agencies must certify as to compliance with applicable water quality standards before a permit will be issued by the corps. Reviews will also be made [illegible] and commerce.

Applicants will be requested to furnish information which will identify the characteristics of the discharge or deposit, and to identify monitoring devices and procedures which they are using or propose to use. Public notices will be issued concerning the nature and location of each proposed or existing discharge.

Permit application forms and applicable regulations are available from the Corps of Engineers, St. Paul District, 1210 U.S. Post Office and Custom House, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, ATTENTION: Mr. F. J. Ryder, Chief, Permits and Statistics Branch.

Euarctos Americanus

"Found in great quantities throughout the North American continent—more than 250,000 roam the continental United States and probably twice that many inhabit the forests of Canada—this is the black bear, a longtime favorite of big game hunters.

The name black bear is really misleading, for the species may be anything but black. He may be found sporting a pelt of gray-black, blue-gray, cinnamon or even white. The glacier "black" bear, Euarctos Emmonsii, has a coat ranging from pale gray to Maltese-blue and is, in fact, called "blue bear" by some of the natives who have encountered it among the coastal glaciers of Alaska.

"The black bear is basically anti-social and, except for mating time, is seldom seen in the company of another bruin. It is inclined to be a vegetarian but will swiftly turn carnivorous should circumstances warrant it. Its normal diet includes grass, fruit, berries, carrion, fish and insects.

"One of the great ironies of nature is the fact that this burly beast, which can weigh up to 600 pounds and is at least five feet long, falls easy victim to the puny porcupine. While engaged in a fight, the porcupine's sharp quills become imbedded in the bear's tongue and mouth, resulting in a slow death.

"At the first sign of frost, the black bear gorges himself and prepares to hibernate from late fall through spring. After his final repast, he retires to his lair, which is usually a cave, a clump of brush or a tree hollow. It is during this hibernation period that the female bear gives birth to her cubs. The gestation period is seven months and the cubs weigh half a pound at birth and five pounds when they emerge from the lair in the spring.

"When going after bear, there are three things you should hunt with—a reliable firearm (a Winchester Model 70 in 308 Win caliber is recommended), a mounted scope sight and extreme caution. This latter element is vital, especially when approaching a downed bear. For if he is only dazed and there is still life in him, you don't ever want to get within reach of his huge paws... unless you happen to be a porcupine."

University of North Dakota won NCAA Ice Hockey Championships in 1959 and 1963.

Changes Noted In Minn. Fishing During 10 Years

Some significant changes have occurred in Minnesota fishing during the past 10 years, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Take trout fishing, for example. Chuck Burrows, fisheries research supervisor, said the Department's program of reclaiming small northern lakes overrun with stunted pan fish and converting them to trout fishing has shifted a large portion of the stream trout fishing into lakes.

"These reclaimed lakes are providing some of the best trout fishing in the Lake States area for trout one pound and larger," he said.

"By the use of fish toxicants, we eliminate all the competing fish species so that the stocked trout often show a remarkable growth rate compared to those in streams," he explained.

He said a similar program in southern Minnesota has converted several lakes from rough fish to good bass and panfish waters, but he added that it is too early to tell how long it will take for carp to get back into the lakes making re-treatment with toxicants necessary.

The recovery of the Lake Superior lake trout population has been one of the brightest spots in the Minnesota fishing picture in recent years, Burrows said.

A massive effort by states, provinces and the federal government has brought the lamprey under control and together with the stocking of millions of yearling size lake trout, brought the trout population back to pre-lamprey population levels.

"Considerable sport fishing has developed on lake trout but the bulk of it seems to be confined to Wisconsin waters," said Burrows. "I feel that there are some opportunities for lake trout fishing along our North Shore that aren't really being exploited by anglers."

Meanwhile, the northern pike fishing on Minnesota lakes continues good and the outlook for this species is the brightest of all.

Burrows said the Department's program of acquiring natural northern pike spawning areas adjacent to lakes and protecting and managing them is paying big dividends.

He also credited the northern pike winter rescue program which saves up to 500,000 young northerns from potential winter kill lakes each year. The fish are taken from the "freeze out" lakes and transferred to deeper lakes where they can survive.

There has been little apparent change in the walleye fishing except for a slight decline in the average size of the fish taken. Burrows said this was due to heavier fishing pressure and taking of younger age fish.

Black And Yellow Spots On Sports Fish Harmless

Minnesota fishermen may think that the small black spots and yellow grubs often found on perch, pike, sunfish, bass, trout and rock bass ruin the fish or render them dangerous to eat.

Both the spots and grubs are caused by parasites that can't infect man. The defects can be trimmed out of the fish and cooking kills the parasites completely, according to a University of Minnesota veterinarian, Dr. Henry Griffiths, who specializes in the study of parasites in animals.

The black spots are not parasites, but a pigment which the fish produces around the parasites.

The life cycle of the parasite which causes fish to produce the black spots begins in the intestine of the kingfisher where a fluke lives and lays its egg. The egg exits via droppings and hatches to a baby fluke which swims around seeking a certain kind of snail which it enters. In the snail, the fluke multiplies and after a few weeks leaves to attack and pentrate the skin of fish. Some infected fish are eaten by the kingfisher and the life cycle is completed.

The yellow grubs found in fish are also the young stage of a fluke parasite.

The life cycle of this fluke begins in the mouth of the blue heron where it lives and lays its egg. The egg exits through the mouth or droppings, hatches to a baby fluke and seeks out a ram's horn type snail which the baby fluke penetrates. Within the snail, the fluke multiplies, then comes out of the snail and penetrates under the skin of the fish. When the fish is caught and eaten by the heron, the fluke move up to the heron's mouth and the cycle is completed.

Smokey The Bear At Work In Minn.

A state tree planting crew in the Tower district of northern St. Louis county was surprised one morning recently to find the tarp covering their trees pulled back and one bundle of trees missing.

Investigation of the site by the planting foreman later in the day disclosed the bundle of trees lying about 75 yards from the place where it had been taken.

Tracks and marks on the bundle plainly indicated that a bear had carried the trees away.

State foresters suggested that the bear was probably the famous "Smokey" who had happened along and decided to help plant the area, but gave up when he couldn't locate the planting tool.

"Dairy Day at the Met". June 27, 1971

HARMON KILLEBREW stretches for a refreshing glass of milk from Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Gayle Krogstad of Ada, Minnesota. "Dairy Day at the Met" is one of the highlights during the month-long "June is Dairy Month" promotion. Water Safety Courses Offered By Red Cross

Americans will be taking to the water by the millions again this summer, which will necessitate a need for an increased number of skilled water and boating instructors. The American National Red Cross will again offer an extensive program of instructor and leadership training this year.

Five aquatic schools and one small craft school will be conducted throughout the Midwest during the summer months with emphasis on training Red Cross first aid, water safety and small craft instructors. The training is available to both experienced and prospective instructors. Enrollees must be 17 years of age or older, medically approved as physically fit and competent swimmers.

The curriculum in the 10-day aquatic schools will include basic courses in swimming, lifesaving, small craft and first aid. Leadership training in the organization of camp, community and swimming pool aquatic programs is also provided. Some of these schools offer elective courses in swimming for the handicapped, instructor courses in small craft, or competitive swimming to currently authorized water safety instructors.

There will be special sections in the aquatic schools for training Red Cross first aid instructors—no swimming is required for those students.

Locations and dates for the 1971 aquatic schools are: Camp Limberlost, LaGrange, Ind., June 6-16, Lake of the Woods camp, Decatur, Mich., June 11-12, Buena Vista college, Storm Lake, Ia., June 14-24, Camp Chi, Lake Delton, Wis., June 14-24, Camp Thunderbird, Bemidji, August 21-31.

The small craft school is scheduled for Camp Nicolet, Eagle River, Wis., June 7-17. The school offers Red Cross instructor training in boating, sailing or canoeing.

Outstanding volunteer aquatic and safety experts make up the faculty of each school. There is no charge for instruction; the students pay only for room, meals and individual supplies. Additional information and application forms may be obtained from the Chapter of the American Red Cross, or by writing to the American National Red Cross, Northwest Division, 11 Bell Place, Minneapolis, Minnesota, 55403.

Delay In Mowing Aids Pheasants

State agencies and organizations involved in land use in Minnesota are cooperating on a program to delay mowing along roadside ditches, the Department of Natural Resources reported this week.

Robert Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources, said the importance of roadsides as nesting areas grows each year with the steady decline in acreages of small grain fields and other grassy cover in the pheasant range.

"Each year more of these sites are disappearing as cropping practices switch from small grains to row crop which offer no nesting cover," he said.

Agencies and organizations that will be cooperating this year include: Minnesota Highway Department, Minnesota Association of Counties, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil and Water Conservation Districts, Future Farmer of America Chapters and 4-H Clubs.

"By agreeing to delay mowing until late July," said Herbst, "cooperators can make a substantial contribution to the state's wildlife resources."

Safety Council Gives Ideas On Water Rescues

Minnesota safety council points out that each year many boaters, water skiers, swimmers and fishermen needlessly drown in full view of people in boats or on shore.

These bystanders have the means to save drowning victims, they simply don't know what to do.

Someone in the water needs help. There's no lifesaving device around. What do you do?

The safety council offers these suggestions:

Don't jump in after the person—unless you've been trained in lifesaving.

Use something at hand that will serve as an emergency buoyant device. It could be a thermos jug, a capped gas can, a plastic cooler or the spare tire in your car trunk. If it's a container, empty the contents, reseal and toss it within reach of the person who's in trouble.

Even mounted on the heavy steel wheel, your spare tire is buoyant enough to support four or five people. It's too heavy to be thrown, so swim and push the tire in front of you. Keep it between you and the drowning victim to prevent his panicky clutching you or pushing you under. When he has a hold on the tire and is calm, paddle to shore.

If you're close to the victim, extending an oar, a branch or a water ski could be enough to pull him to shore.

Ask Farm Youth To Salvage Eggs

Minnesota's farm youth have again been asked by the Department of Natural Resources to salvage eggs from pheasant nests destroyed during mowing operations.

Dave Vesall, supervisor of game, said farm youth can make a real contribution toward local pheasant populations by salvaging and hatching eggs from destroyed nests.

Last year, 4-H and FFA members in addition to other farm youth managed to save a considerable number of eggs which were later hatched out and the pheasants released.

Vesall said studies show that 25 per cent of Minnesota's pheasants nest in alfalfa but production from these nests is nearly zero. The reason is that about one-third of the hens nesting there are killed or injured and nearly all of the nests are destroyed when the alfalfa is mowed.

He warned that eggs should only be taken from nests which have been destroyed or the hen killed, other nests should not be touched. Eggs must be picked up and placed in an incubator as soon as possible.

Those wishing more information on the project should contact game managers of the Division of Game and Fish or the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, division of game and fish, 390 Centennial Building, St. Paul, 55101.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank all those who visited me and sent cards and gifts while I was a patient at Deaconess hospital and NW hospital. Special thanks to Drs. Berg, and Culmers and Frank Harger and all the nurses for the wonderful care received. God bless you all. Myrle Mullen. 1143c

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our sincere thanks to our friends, neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during the loss of our beloved husband, father and son. Special thanks to the Rev. Fathers Paul Cardin, Keough Painode and Daniel Noah for their comforting words to Father Henry Carriere for the comforting funeral service. The Knights of Columbus Council 4619 for reciting the rosary, to the pallbearers, usher and to the ladies of the church who furnished and served the lunch. Thanks to Mrs. Steven Sundberg and the Brooks choir for the music; thanks to all those who brought food and helped with the work at home, also those who sent Mass offerings. Your acts of kindness were deeply appreciated. Mrs. Theodore Jaeger and children, Mrs. Helen Jaeger. 2144c

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to Stanley Ranum and his Construction crew, Russell Nelson, neighbors, friends and Relatives who put in our crops, also to Rev. Stoffel and Rev. Berger for their visits. Doctors and nurses for their care, those who visited, sent flowers, cards and letters while Mr. Jarshaw was hospitalized. Your kindness will always be remembered. Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Jarshaw. 1143p

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks to friends, neighbors and relatives for cards, letters, flowers, gifts and visits while I was a patient in Northwestern hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Scheuneman and Dr. Bray, also to the nurses and nurses aids for their kind and loving care. Special thanks to Pastor and Mrs. Stoffel and to Pastor Berger for their visits and prayers. Your kindness will always be remembered and may God's richest blessings be upon you all. Sincerely, Mrs. Jorgen Austad. 1143p

In Memoriam

How happy we are at our babies first cry
When he is brought into the world
But we know not what his future will be
Only God in our Heaven knows!
Dearest Monti, you were our first born son,
We recall many happy hours and years ....
But we knew not of the clouds that would darken our skies
Or the shedding of many tears.
If we could but hear your footsteps once more
See your smile or your laughing
brown eyes
How you suffered, dear Monti
Before God called you home
To his Kingdom in the skies!
Your memories grow dearer
With each passing year
And we treasure each one with our love,
But the day will soon come
When we're with you again
When we meet in the Heaven's above!!!

In loving memory of our dearest son, and brother Monti, who passed away May 24, 1965. Sadly missed by his mom and dad, Bennie and DeLores Miramontes, sisters BaniLe, Monica, and Anita, and brothers Vince and Paul. 1143c

Thinclads Win Region 8 Track Championship

Lincoln high school head track coach Jim Sims summed up yesterday's region eight track meet by saying the title of a popular teen-age song, "When You're Hot, You're Hot."

The Prowlers were hot yesterday as they won their first region eight track and field crown since 1962 with 37 points to runner-up Crookston's 33.

Thief River Falls runners broke four school records, tied another and set a new region record in the sprint medley relay in scoring 36 of their 37 points. Shot putter Rande Smith was a pleasant surprise in the field competition with a fifth place finish and a point.

The sprint medley relay team of Rob Swenson, Mike Fitzgerald, Steve Beich and Don Reierson set a new region eight mark in the mile event with a winning time of 3:44.8, shattering the old mark of 3:50.4.

Other school records broken included Mike Fitzgerald's 52.1 in the 440, Paul Battleson's 1:59.5 in the 880, Jon Folkedahl's 10:37 in the two mile, and the 880-yard relay team tied the Lincoln high school mark of 1:35.5.

The sprint medley and the 880 relay team (Beich, Jon Markstrom, Jon Wangberg and Markee Hanson) will advance into next week's state meet on the University of Minnesota track. Also advancing into the state competition will be Markee Hanson with a 10.4 first-place in the 100-yard dash and second-place finishers Mike Fitzgerald in the 440, Jon Wangberg, 20.8 in the 180-yard low hurdles, Battleson in the 880, and Swenson with a 10.5 in the 100.

Other Prowlers who placed in the region eight meet and scored valuable points were Kim Murphy with a third in the mile (4:40.1), Smith in the shot with a heave of 43', and Jon Folkedahl, fifth in the two-mile. Tim Strand also broke the old two-mile record with a 10:40 in the event.

Battleson, the team's captain, broke the old region record of 2:01.1 in the 880 but was edged by Les Bly of McIntosh by two-tenth's of a second for the blue ribbon.

Sims and assistants Marv Walter and Quent Jones had nothing but praise for the squad, saying the boys gave a full 100 per cent during the meet.

TRACK THOUGHTS—The region eight meet had a few hurdles to clear yesterday before the action got under way.

A vast majority of the coaches assumed the meet was to begin with the preliminary events at 10 a.m. and left from their home towns at early hours in the morning only to arrive at 8 a.m. and find out the meet manager had scheduled the meet for a 1:15 p.m. start.

The high school coaches themselves laid the chalk on the field and collected enough hurdles and forced the meet manager to cancel the preliminary events and go with straight finals after many arguments.

JON MARKSTROM passes the baton to teammate Jon Wangberg in the third leg of the 880-yard relay in yesterday's region eight track meet at Bemidji. A pair of Walker runners also prepare for a hand-off in the event won by the Prowlers in a time of 1:35.5, tieing the school record. The 880 relay team will advance to next week's state meet at Memorial field in Minneapolis. Other members of the relay squad are Steve Beich and Markee Hanson.

A CLOSE RACE to the finish developed in the 880-yard relay event in yesterday's region eight meet. The Prowlers' Markee Hanson (left) was able to pull away from a Fosston opponent on the straight-away although the two runners are neck and neck at this point. Five individuals will advance into next week's state meet along with two relay teams for the Prowlers.

Prowlers Top Goodridge 16-1

Thief River Falls withstood three errors in the first inning Thursday night as the Prowlers opened their District 31 action with a 16-1 rout of Goodridge on the fairgrounds diamond.

Oslo overcame a 7-1 deficit in the opening game to post a 9-8 win over Alvarado and advance into next week's semi-final play at Thief River Falls.

Prowler pitcher Dale Hanson didn't allow a hit until the third inning but two Thief River errors in the first put Goodridge runners on first and third with no outs.

Huskie coach Gary Monson called for a delayed double steal but Prowler second baseman Brian Peterson nailed Grant Lillevold at home with Terry Wiseth going to second on the play.

A fly ball to left resulted in the second Goodridge out but an error at short put runners on first and third before Hanson retired the side on a ground ball to second.

The Prowlers jumped out to a 9-0 lead in the first inning on four hits, four walks and an error.

Rob Almquist and Brian Peterson walked and Tom Hanson reached base on an attempted play at second to load the bases with no outs. Catcher Ordean Peterson cracked a single to right to drive in two runs and put runners at second and third with no outs.

Junior Tom Wurst made his starting debut in right field for the Prowlers after sitting out all season with an injury suffered during the hockey season but struck out before Mike Hamerlinck walked to load the bases once again.

Tom Hanson scored from third on a wild pitch and Dale Hanson followed with a double to center for two more runs and a 5-0 lead.

Goodridge changed pitchers with Aldon Hyland replacing Glenn Nesland who struck out the first batter he faced before giving up a single to Kim Johnson for a 6-0 contest.

Prowler coach Ralph Skay started Johnson at short in place of injured Mike Hamilton and Johnson responded with three hits in three trips to the plate with four runs-batted-in.

Almquist drew his second walk of the inning, putting runners on first and second with two outs, before captain Brian Peterson cleared the bases with a long home run over the center-field scoreboard 344 feet away.

Dale Hanson struck out the side in the Goodridge half of the second inning before the Prowlers scored five more times in their half of the inning.

Wurst walked and went to second on Hamerlinck's single to left and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. A pop fly to the pitcher accounted for the first Prowler out before Wurst scored from third on a wild pitch for a 10-0 ball game.

Jerry Morben walked and Hamerlinck scored on a delayed double steal before Kim Johnson drove in Morben from second with a single to left.
